SOVIET DUMPING HITS EUROPEAN MARKETS; SEEN AS 'RUIN' POLICY

Score of Staples Sold 10 to 30 Per Cent Under World Price, Belying Economic Motive.

SHARP PRACTICES CHARGED

QUOTA PLAN UP IN BRITAIN

Widespread concern over Russian dumping, comprising a score of the world's leading staple products as well as grain, arouses a belief in Europe that the Soviet Government has embarked on a deliberate policy to ruin capitalist markets.

Russian goods are sold from 10 per cent to 30 per cent below world prices, though a cut of 1 per cent would insure their sale. Moscow admits dumping, saying money must be obtained at any price to finance the five-year plan.

In England the Conservative party has evolved a plan for wheat purchases on a quota basis, 25 per cent to be home-grown at a guaranteed minimum price, 66 per cent to be imported from the Dominions and only 9 per cent allotted to all other countries. This would greatly reduce purchases from the United States.

The British Empire Conference, beginning Wednesday, will have before it several proposals for Empire tariffs against the outside world, with free trade within the Empire.

SOVIET'S TRADE PRACTICES.

By KENDALL FOSS.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

HAMBURG, Sept. 28.—Not only wheat but practically every leading agricultural and mineral product is feeling or is going to feel sharply the effects of Russian dumping. Fruits, meats, hides, timber, wood pulp, petroleum, sausage casing—a big industry—manganese and dairy products are among the staples which have been attacked recently or are being squeezed today by Soviet exports with their unique price scales.

Every apple, log of wood, bushel of grain and gallon of oil sold by Russia to the European market means one less unit sold from American supplies. The quality of these Soviet exports generally is good and often is described as excellent.

It is well known that shading the price of good quality raw materials by 1 per cent generally suffices to get the business. Soviet quotations on the above-named products range from 10 to 30 per cent below current prices, and the current prices which the Russians are hammering are not high.

Hamburg Base of Operations.

Hamburg, the largest seaport in Continental Europe, is the base of a greater part of the Russian operations. Business men interested in exports and imports, many of whom are Americans, are looking glum. They are wondering, too, what it is all about, being puzzled by the drastic cuts.

This dumping is not the result of overproduction. The present situation in the sausage casings market illustrates this. Some months ago North and South American beef middles fetched around $1.25 per set, a figure permitting a fair profit. Today the price is around 60 cents. The Russians have come here with excellent casings, 20 per cent lower prices and rebates of 5 to 10 per cent for large orders. Furthermore, the buyer of Russian casings is protected by a clause guaranteeing that the delivery of futures will be made at the price Russians are then quoting if it is lower than the agreed-upon price.

But, and here is what puzzles the men engaged in the trade, the stock of Russian casings now at Hamburg is almost exhausted. Other dealers, most of whom are Americans, are getting a breathing spell. There are just enough Russian sales under way to keep prices down about where they are. It was not overproduction which forced the Russians to sell so cheaply. There must be some other and apparently non-economic cause for this peculiar manner of doing business.

For other products there is the same story. If the market in one kind of fruit can be ruined it is tantamount to ruining that for others. If apples are extraordinarily cheap, the consumer concentrates on this fruit and neglects others. The Russians concentrated on apples, some moderate ones and some from the Crimea of excellent quality, as good as any seen in Hamburg. Oregon apples could not touch the prices the Russians were asking. As a result the Russians increased their exportation of apples to Germany from 4,354

Vote Communist' Painted on Fifth Av. Church; Vandals Also Deface Walks in Central Park

An inscription reading "Vote Communist," was lettered crudely with red roofing paint on the Ninetieth Street stone wall of the Church of the Heavenly Rest, Fifth Avenue and Ninetieth Street, some time early yesterday morning by several men and women, who painted similar signs on the east walks in Central Park. After the discovery of the signs a general alarm was broadcast to east side police precincts by Inspector Arthur J. Dodd of Police Headquarters.

The defacement of the Church of the Heavenly Rest, which is one of the finest examples of church architecture constructed in recent years, was discovered by John Hutchinson, assistant sexton. He notified the police.

The sign was painted between buttresses on the side of the church around the corner of the entrance and was in full view of passers-by on Fifth Avenue and Ninetieth Street. Beneath the crude lettering, which detectives said apparently had been done in a hurry, was painted a sign resembling a sickle crossed with a hammer, which is the symbol of the Communist party.

The detectives learned that an automobile carrying several men and women had been parked at the corner some time after midnight Sunday, but no witnesses of the defacement could be found. A few fingerprints were obtained by the detectives, who pointed out that it would be difficult to remove the red paint from the stone.

Shortly after the discovery of the lettering on the church, a policeman reported that similar signs had been painted on the walk near the conservatory lake in Central Park, along the east drive near Seventy-fourth Street, at the entrances at Seventy-second and Seventy-ninth Streets and the steps off Seventy-sixth Street.

Headquarters of the Communist party at Union Square were closed last night and no comment could be obtained.

SAYS WILBUR YIELDS TO OIL LAND GRABS

"$40,000,000,000 AT STAKE"

He Charges Oil Companies Are Seeking Titles by Fraud in Rich Colorado Shale Field.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28.—Charging that the Department of the Interior has failed to protect properly vast oil shale reserves on the public domain in Western Colorado from efforts by large oil interests to obtain titles to them "by fraud and failure to comply with the requirements of the United States mining laws," Ralph S. Kelley, in a letter sent tonight to Secretary Wilbur, has resigned as Chief of Field Division of the General Land Office at Denver.

Secretary Wilbur said tonight he had not received Mr. Kelley's letter. For that reason he would not comment on the allegations.

Mr. Kelley contended that the value of the oil that might be recovered from the Colorado shale oil lands in question is in excess of $40,000,000,000, and charged in his letter that the department had granted "concession after concession" to "the Colorado oil interests," not because they were rightfully entitled to such consideration, but purely and simply as conciliatory measures because of great political and other pressure brought to bear upon the Secretary of the Interior.

Kelley's Letter to Wilbur.

Mr. Kelley made public his letter to the Secretary, as follows:

Washington, D. C.,
Hon. Ray Lyman Wilbur,
Secretary of the Interior,
Washington, D. C.
My dear Mr. Secretary:

For more than twenty-five years I have been connected with the Department of the Interior engaged in field work, and for the past six years as Chief of Field Division of the United States General Land Office, with headquarters at Denver, Col. I have had direct charge of important activities of oil companies engaged in systematic efforts to obtain title by violation of the United States mining laws to an immense oil field upon the public lands of the United States in Colorado.

The public may not know that there is situated upon the public domain in Western Colorado an immense oil reserve embracing an area of approximately 800,000 acres, in which the oil occurs in a rock called shale.

The amount of commercially recoverable oil in this field is so stupendous as to be almost unbelievable. According to conservative estimates of the United States Geological Survey, and other authorities, this oil field contains more than 40,000,000,000 barrels of petroleum, of a potential value, even at the present low price of crude oil at around $1 a barrel, in excess of $40,000,000,000, equal to about one-tenth of the entire wealth of the United States.

Charges Pressure Is Brought.

This is the huge prize to which the large oil interests are endeavoring to secure titles by fraud and failure to comply with the requirements of the United States mining laws. These oil interests are thoroughly organized and act concertedly in bringing pressure to bear upon the Department of the Interior to induce it to give them these valuable oil lands, but to which they are not rightfully entitled.

Among those in this combination are several of the very concerns whose fraudulent practices have so recently been exposed in the investigations and trials of former Secretary of the Interior Albert B. Fall, Harry F. Sinclair and others.

Although during the past five years my office has submitted to

LINKS TAX REFUNDS AND CAMPAIGN GIFTS

Garner Lists Some Republican Donors of $10,000 Connected With Companies Benefiting.

NAMES 8 WHO GAVE $5,000

Refunds Mentioned Reach $18,000,000, but Democrat Holds Total Is $100,000,000.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28.—Representative John N. Garner, ranking minority member of the Ways and Means Committee, made public today a list of several men contributing $10,000 each to the Congressional campaign expenses of the Republican party who, he said, had received heavy personal tax refunds or were connected as officers, directors or otherwise with corporations that have received such refunds within the last few years. The same held true, he said, of several others whose contributions were $5,000.

Backing up his assertion, Mr. Garner made public a list of tax refunds in excess of $18,000,000, adding that a more thorough investigation would show that the total refunded to individuals or corporations with which the contributors in the $10,000 and $5,000 classifications were connected was greatly in excess of $100,000,000.

Mr. Garner said that his investigations indicated a close bond of sympathy between the corporations that had received the refunds and the Republican national organization. He added that, while it might be a mere coincidence, he attached significance to the fact that the contributors had been beneficiaries "of the extremely liberal policy of the United States Treasury with respect to tax refunds, credits and abatements."

Points to Choice of Lucas.

"Another significant fact in this connection," he said, "is that after Claudius Huston faded from the picture and Senator Fess was appointed Republican national chairman, Robert H. Lucas resigned his position as Commissioner of the Bureau of Internal Revenue and on Aug. 7 assumed the duties of chief executive director of the Republican national organization. It was this bureau over which Mr. Lucas presided that handled these refunds, credits and abatements, which in recent years have averaged over $100,000,000 annually."

In the list of prominent men who gave $10,000 each "to aid the Republicans in their effort to retain control of the House and Senate," only two States, New York and Ohio, and only three cities, New York, Cleveland and Canton, were represented, Mr. Garner said. Practically the same thing was true, he added, in the list of thirteen who contributed $5,000 each; all were residents of New York, Cleveland and Canton, with the single exception of Theodore Gary of Missouri.

Among those named by Mr. Garner were John D. Rockefeller and John D. Rockefellar Jr., Jeremiah Milbank and the Van Sweringen brothers of Cleveland.

Lists $10,000 Contributors.

"A very incomplete investigation, covering tax refunds received by companies or corporations in which the seventeen $10,000 contributors to the Republican campaign fund are interested, reveals the following:

JEREMIAH MILBANK, New York—Director Chase National Bank, refunded $41,239 in 1928; director Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, $32,012 in 1929 and $771,848 in 1930; son of Joseph Milbank, whose estate was granted refund of $46,344 in 1929.

HE WON WEALTH IN MINING

A Friend of Labor, He Had Wide Interests in Industry—Leaders in Many Fields Pay Tribute.

Daniel Guggenheim, capitalist and philanthropist, donor of the $2,500,000 Daniel Guggenheim Fund for the Promotion of Aeronautics and developer of mining and other industrial interests in many parts of the world, died suddenly of heart disease yesterday morning at Hempstead House, his country home, near Port Washington, L. I. He was 74 years old.

With Mr. Guggenheim when he died were his wife and son, Harry F. Guggenheim, Ambassador to Cuba; his daughter, Mrs. Roger W. Straus, and her husband. Another son, Colonel M. Robert Guggenheim, was on duty with the War Department in Washington and was summoned by telegraph.

Mr. Guggenheim had been in unsatisfactory health since his return from Europe on Sept. 15. He had spent three months abroad, part of the time in Carlsbad and part of it visiting friends in Scotland. He was compelled to take to his bed last Friday, but he did not appear to be seriously ill and sat up in his room much of the time. He was stricken at 11 o'clock yesterday morning.

Funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at Temple Emanu-El, Fifth Avenue and Sixty-fifth Street, of which Mr. Guggenheim was a trustee.

Former Senator Simon Guggenheim, a brother, is expected to arrive from Europe tomorrow morning on the Ile de France. S. R. Guggenheim, also a brother, is now at Port Washington with the family, but Murry Guggenheim is in Europe.

A Life of Usefulness.

The name of Daniel Guggenheim was written large in the romance of American mining and his interests in the field of minerals were virtually world-wide. His was a career of success upon success, but outstanding achievements failed to mar the man; they served to stimulate his humanity.

The exact total of his philanthropies may never be told, for he gave quietly and liberally. He was a patron of the arts and was intensely fond of music and of flowers. Now and then his gifts found their way into print—when some one inadvertently violated Mr. Guggenheim's desire for anonymity—as when he joined his brother Murry in providing a fund for free concerts in the Mall of Central Park, and lately when his desire to promote aviation and his gifts to the Daniel Guggenheim Fund for the Promotion of Aeronautics made publicity unavoidable. Usually, however, he was successful in cloaking his good deeds.

The stern set of principles of conduct in all things, the heritage which Meyer Guggenheim, founder of the family fortunes, passed on to his seven sons—Isaac, Daniel, Murry, Solomon, Simon, William and Benjamin—guided Daniel Guggenheim, as it has his brothers, throughout life. There were times, perhaps, when closed eyes might have meant additional millions, but his eyes were never closed in the midst of his great enterprises. They were open to the welfare of his associates and of his employes. He was a convinced supporter of the principle that an employer is morally responsible for

Cardinal Ends Fire Scare By His Calmness in Church

The calmness of Cardinal Hayes and the soothing speech of the Very Rev. Romano Simoni, provincial, stilled the nervousness of timid women in the Italian Church of Our Lady of Pity, 276 East 151st Street, the Bronx, when smoke filled the edifice at the dedication service there yesterday morning. Cardinal Hayes had just blessed the church.

Father Simoni interrupted his sermon when the noisy arrival of fire apparatus increased the nervousness of the women. As they left their pews and started toward the door he assured them in Italian that there was no danger; that the fire was not in the church. Cardinal Hayes, sitting calm and unmoved, helped to restore quiet.

The fire was in a woodshed at 277 East 150th Street, in the rear of the new church. Firemen put it out in a short time, the service continuing as they fought it.

BARNES SURVEY FINDS SOME BUSINESS GAIN

STEEL TRADE IMPROVING

Trend of Industry and Trade in Eight Months of Present Year Is Summarized.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28.—The status of general business conditions during the first eight months of 1930 was set forth in a report issued today by Julius H. Barnes, chairman of the National Business Survey Conference, formed at the suggestion of President Hoover after his consultation with business leaders last December.

Small gains are shown in a few lines, while the report generally testifies to the results of depression in many industries. Easier credit conditions, which have been cited in statements by the Federal Reserve Board, are noted, while, as a result of the reduced stock market trading, savings bank deposits and bond investments show increases.

The statement was issued without analytical comment, the introduction reading:

"This statement summarizes reports which have been received directly from the different fields of business enterprise, largely through national trade associations. The purpose of the summary is to make available to all business men the salient facts appearing in the detailed reports. In some highly organized industries these reports indicate conditions as of the middle or first weeks of September. In other cases exact information extends only through August, and business men should allow for this in such cases."

While construction work up to Sept. 19 showed declines of more than $1,000,000,000 under the same period last year, partially offset by public works and utilities construction, which increased $147,000,000, the structural steel business was said to be brisk in New York and vicinity, and apparently better than last year in the Middle West. A "decided improvement was reported for September."

Car loadings were reported to have reached their lowest point in the week ended Aug. 9, with a 7 per cent increase between that date and Sept. 13. Orders for new cars and locomotives outstanding on Aug. 1 were less than last year, but the first seven months of the year saw considerably more new rolling stock placed in service than in the same period last year.

Four Policemen Burned as Launch Blows Up; Citizens Save Victims, Felled Amid Flames

Four policemen of the Marine Division were burned severely last night in an explosion on Patrol Boat 3, a 36-foot gasoline launch, at the foot of Pilot Street, City Island. Two of the men were hurled into the Sound amid flaming oil, but managed to reach the pier. The others, knocked unconscious on the deck of the burning craft, were saved by City Island residents. All are in Fordham Hospital.

Sergeant Frederick Baer, 39 years old, of 1,971 Merry Avenue, the Bronx, was in charge of the boat. The other members of the crew were Patrolmen Francis Brennan, 27, of 2,390 Davidson Avenue; John Deegan, 32, of 58-11 Fifty-eighth Place, Maspeth, Queens; Thomas McKeever, 36, of 514 West 213th Street, Inwood. All were burned on the arms, face, hands and body, but were expected to recover.

Just before dark Sergeant Baer ordered McKeever to start the motor for the early evening cruise in the vicinity of Hart's Island and Eastchester Island. McKeever walked to the stern and turned the motor over a few times, only to have it backfire. Deegan went back to help him, and just as he reached the motor pit there was another backfire, followed by a deafening explosion.

A sheet of flame enveloped the craft as Deegan and McKeever went hurtling into Long Island Sound and the concussion floored the other men on the deck up in the bow. When the island residents reached the pier, Deegan and McKeever were swimming through burning oil that had been spattered all around the boat. They got through and were lifted to safety. The sergeant and Brennan were dragged from the deck.

Police Emergency Squad 10 and an engine company arrived a few minutes later. Under the supervision of Battalion Chief John O'Keefe, the fire on the launch was extinguished quickly. The flames did not reach any of the expensive yachts and speedboats which were clustered around it. Inspector John J. Hennessy ordered an investigation into the accident.

ROOSEVELT DEMANDS TAMMANY TESTIFY, IN LETTER TO WALKER SCORING IMMUNITY; MAYOR TO TELL DISTRICT CHIEFS TO DO SO

DEMOCRATS CONVENE TODAY

TO RENOMINATE TREMAINE

By W. A. WARN.

SYRACUSE, Sept. 28.—Preceded by news that he had promptly taken up the challenge of his Republican opponent, Charles H. Tuttle, to show himself "bigger than Tammany," Governor Roosevelt arrived this evening and took personal charge of the convention preliminaries. There is no doubt as to who is "boss" of this convention.

Soon after his arrival the Governor went into conference in his suite in the Onondaga Hotel with the most prominent of the leaders already here. When the council ended at a late hour it was stated that the renomination of Controller Morris S. Tremaine had virtually been decided on. Cuthbert W. Pound, Associate Judge of the Court of Appeals, already renominated by the Republicans, will receive a renomination from the Democrats also, leaving only the nomination for Attorney General unsettled.

Whether M. William Bray, the State chairman, is to be re-elected when the new State Committee meets tomorrow forenoon to organize, prior to the opening session of the convention is undecided.

After the other conferees had departed Chairman Bray remained closeted with Governor Roosevelt and Lieut. Gov. Lehman. James J. Farley, Secretary of the State Committee is the only one who, so far, has appeared as an aspirant for the chairmanship in case Mr. Bray, as some of the leaders urge, should be dropped. The decision will rest with the Governor.

The prohibition plank will come in for final discussion at conferences today.

Governor Roosevelt's letter to Mayor Walker, urging the latter to use his influence with Tammany district leaders holding office who have shown unwillingness to waive immunity and testify before the grand jury investigating the Ewald case, to the end that they may voluntarily sign a waiver and frankly answer all questions put to them, caused a stir among the leaders here.

Letter to Walker Approved.

Generally speaking, the reaction of the up-State chieftains was that the Governor had acted with commendable promptitude and courage and with wise defensive strategy.

Mr. Tuttle's speech of acceptance left little doubt in the minds of the Democratic leaders that their opponents will make it the main effort of their campaign to show that in the face of the Tuttle disclosures in New York City the Governor remained complacent and subservient to Tammany Hall and its allies in other New York City counties.

Early in the Summer when the Democratic State Committee met to issue its official call for the convention there was no leader of any prominence who did not believe that Governor Roosevelt and the rest of the ticket would win in a walk. The change since then, due to the disclosures affecting the New York City Administration, the nomination of Mr. Tuttle and the adoption of a plank calling for repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment by the Republicans, is marked. Tonight leaders of prominence freely admit for private consumption that they are confronted with a stiff fight, even though they still insist they will be winners.

Confer on Platform.

Prior to the Governor's arrival pow-wows over the platform had been in progress more or less all day at the suite of Mr. Curry. Edward S. Dore, chairman of the Tammany law committee, has functioned as head of the special committee appointed last June to draft the tenta-

Text of Roosevelt Letter

Hon. James J. Walker,
Mayor of New York, City Hall,
New York City.
My dear Mr. Mayor:

The press yesterday and today prints the information that a number of employes of the New York City government have declined to waive immunity when called before the special grand jury sitting under Justice McCook.

Whether they are within their legal rights in so doing is not the question. Their action as government servants is contrary to sound public policy.

I am asking, therefore, that you advise these gentlemen of this letter, and further, that you will suggest to them that they return before the special grand jury and voluntarily offer to waive immunity. They should freely answer all questions relating to their official acts.

The scope of the questions is governed by the provisions of law applicable thereto. What I ask is that pleading of immunity by public officers in regard to public acts shall cease.

Very sincerely yours,
FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT.

'MANDATE' RESENTED BY SOME DELEGATES

But Tammany Leaders View It as Necessary Tactics to Meet Tuttle Onslaught.

PUTS GRAFT ISSUE TO FORE

Curry and McCooey Said to Have Known About Letter Before It Was Sent.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Sept. 28.—Governor Roosevelt's letter to Mayor Walker suggesting that the Tammany leaders who are public officials voluntarily waive immunity and testify in the grand jury investigation in New York City had something of the effect of a bombshell among the delegates who arrived here tonight for the Democratic State Convention tomorrow.

Some resentment was expressed among the rank and file of the Tammany organization, but none to speak of among the leaders, who accepted the Governor's letter as part of the necessary tactics to meet the onslaught of Charles H. Tuttle, Republican nominee for Governor. There is excellent reason to believe that John F. Curry, leader of Tammany, and John F. McCooey, Brooklyn leader, had knowledge of Governor Roosevelt's letter before it was made public.

Governor Roosevelt on his arrival declined to discuss his letter to Mayor Walker. It was learned that the Governor's purpose in making public the letter at his home in Hyde Park was to avoid the appearance of having written it after a conference with Mr. Curry, Mr. McCooey and the other party leaders here. It also was learned that the immunity plank proposed for the Democratic State platform, which proposes legislation to oust public officials who refuse to testify in investigations, was written three weeks ago, long before Mr. Curry set the example of refusing to waive immunity, which was followed by nearly a dozen Tammany Assembly District leaders.

Leaders Withhold Comment.

Most of the Tammany district leaders affected by the Governor's letter refused to comment upon it. Charles L. Kohler, Director of the Budget and leader of the Tenth Assembly District, who refused to sign a waiver of immunity the same day that Mr. Curry did, declined to comment on the letter until he had read it in its entirety. Mr. Kohler said he was here as a delegate to the convention and did not care to discuss what he would do until he knew just what the Governor desired.

County Clerk Daniel E. Finn of the First District was more communicative. "I am entirely willing to waive immunity and to answer any question regarding my official acts," Mr. Finn said. "Of course, any public official should be willing to answer questions about the conduct of his office. If he is not willing, he has no right to be an official.

"I was not called before the grand jury to be questioned about my of-

BALKY OFFICIALS WARNED

GOVERNOR CRITICIZES TODD

Blames Him for Report on Widening of Investigation—Acts Today on Scope.

Governor Roosevelt announced yesterday that he had asked Mayor Walker to "suggest" to the Tammany leaders who hold city jobs—which means virtually all of them—that they go voluntarily before the grand jury investigating the buying of judgeships, offer to waive immunity and answer freely any questions relating to their official acts.

The refusal of Tammany officials, who took their cue from John F. Curry, Tammany leader, to waive immunity was criticized by the Governor. "Whether they are within their legal rights in so doing is not the question," he said in a letter to the Mayor. "Their action as government servants is contrary to sound public policy."

When the text of the Governor's letter was read to Mayor Walker over the telephone by THE NEW YORK TIMES, he declared himself "in agreement with the purpose of it." Then he added:

"His suggestion will be carried out promptly."

Tuttle Is Silent.

Charles H. Tuttle, the Republican nominee for Governor, who in accepting his nomination last week challenged Governor Roosevelt to break the Tammany silence on the traffic in appointments to city posts, declined to comment when informed of Mr. Roosevelt's action.

It was Mr. Tuttle who, as United States Attorney, developed most of the evidence which led the Governor to supersede District Attorney Crain and call a special grand jury after the county grand jury failed to vote indictments in connection with former Magistrate George F. Ewald's alleged payment of $10,000 to Martin J. Healy, Tammany leader of the Nineteenth District at the time of the former's appointment to the bench. The extraordinary grand jury indicted Ewald, Healy, Thomas T. Tommaney and Mrs. Bertha E. Ewald, the former magistrate's wife, four days after it came into being.

Since the indictments were returned the grand jury, in accordance with the charge of Justice McCook, has continued its inquiry to determine whether Ewald's alleged bribe was paid to Healy in accordance with a system governing appointments by the Tammany administration. To that end subpoenaes were issued for the leaders of all the twenty-three Assembly Districts. Four appeared before Mr. Curry stalked out of the grand jury room indignantly declaring he was "insulted" because Hiram C. Todd, the special prosecutor representing Attorney General Hamilton Ward, had asked him to waive immunity.

Seventeen leaders who followed refused, one after another, to sign waivers. Fourteen who remained to be called were expected to follow the lead of Mr. Curry with the exception of Nathan Burkan, leader of the Seventeenth, who, it is said, has had nothing to do with recommending candidates for the bench.

Governor Roosevelt, who made public the letter before leaving Hyde Park for Syracuse, where the Democratic convention opens today, did not deny published reports that he was considering the advisability of convening extraordinary grand juries in the Bronx and Brooklyn as well as Manhattan. Instead, he acknowledged the receipt of a letter from Justice McCook enclosing an anonymous communication containing "rumors relating to the alleged sale of a judicial position in Bronx County." Some time today, he said, he would "announce action on these letters."

Some surprise was noted in political circles at the fact that Governor Roosevelt made public the text of his letter, which was mailed from his home at Hyde Park late Saturday night, before the Mayor had received it, especially since the Governor has stated publicly that any letters addressed to him and made public before their receipt by him would be consigned to the waste basket in the Executive mansion.

It was suggested that the Governor was anxious that the contents of the letter become public before the extraordinary grand jury, which is said to be incensed over the defiance of the Tammany leaders, convenes this morning to ask further instructions from Justice McCook. At that time, when Special Prosecutor Todd will ask also that Mrs. Martin J. Healy, wife of the indicted district leader, be directed to testify before the grand jury or be held in contempt, the grand jurors are expected to have something to say about the haste with which the Tammany leaders availed themselves of constitutional immunity.

Mayor Had Planned Action.

It was reported also in political circles that Governor Roosevelt in demanding action by Mayor Walker had in effect taken the words out of the Mayor's mouth. Mr. Walker, it was said, had planned to do the thing Governor Roosevelt demanded as soon as he had completed a personal investigation he had under way.

Last Wednesday, it was recalled, he drew a distinction between the case of a city official who declined to answer specific questions on the ground that to do so might incriminate and degrade him and that of an officeholder who stood upon his constitutional rights and refused to waive immunity before a grand jury conducting a John Doe inquiry. At that time the Mayor intimated that he would look into each case of a refusal to waive immunity and decide what action to take.

Indications last night were that the Governor's move, if it was designed to forestall a critical report by the grand jury today, is doomed to failure. It was said authoritatively last night that whatever action the grand jury had determined upon would be carried out, regardless of the prospect that the leaders who once refused to accept the special prosecutor's terms might be prevailed upon to change their minds.

Nearly all the district chieftains of Tammany Hall hold high official positions, or have done so in the recent past. They are:

FIRST DISTRICT—Daniel E. Finn, County Clerk; David Mahoney, Alderman.

THIRD DISTRICT—Charles W. Culkin, former Sheriff; William L. Kavanagh, Deputy Commissioner of Department of Water Supply, Gas and Electricity; Charles Hussey, Deputy Clerk of City Court.

FOURTH DISTRICT—Edward J. Ahearn, no job.

ELEVENTH DISTRICT—James J. Hines, no job.

SEVENTEENTH District—Nathan Burkan, no job; William Solomon, Alderman.

EIGHTEENTH DISTRICT—John J. Dietz, Commissioner of Water Supply, Gas and Electricity; H. Warren Hubbard, Commissioner of Public Works for Manhattan.

TWENTY-THIRD DISTRICT — John Mara, Second Deputy Commissioner of the Department of Plant and Structures.

Of these, Mara, Cruise, Keating, and Farley have testified before the grand jury after waiving immunity. Those who have refused and have therefore been excused from testifying, in addition to Mr. Curry, who retained his leadership of the Fifth District upon being elected to the post formerly held by George W. Olvany are Cosgrove, Kenneally, Neal, Hubbard, Dietz, Perry, Lazarus, Kavanagh, Hines, Finn, Goldenkranz, McKeever, McCue, McCormick, Kohler and Healy.

Report Stirs Governor.

At the same time he made public the letter to Mayor Walker, the Governor released a telegram addressed to Justice McCook, relative to the publication of the report that he was considering extending the Attorney General's inquiry to the Bronx and Brooklyn. In it he accused Special Prosecutor Todd of sponsoring the story and said it was "an obvious scheme to embarrass me."

Mr. Todd, at the Sleepy Hollow Country Club, where he spent Sunday afternoon, promptly declared that the "Governor is under a misapprehension," and denied that he had been connected in any way with the publication of the report. Later he sent a telegram to Mr. Roosevelt again denying that the report emanated from him and asking the Governor in future to communicate directly with him when he wishes to "obtain correct information as to what I am doing in the public service."

The report that Governor Roosevelt was planning a broader inquiry into judicial scandals, especially relative to charges of office-buying in counties other than Manhattan, has been current for the past week. It was known that the Governor had sought advice on what steps to take and that it had been proposed to him that it would be wise to authorize inquiries by the Attorney General in other counties. When Mr. Todd was asked about the report on Saturday he replied that he had no knowledge of what the Governor planned to do.

The Governor's Telegram.

The Governor's telegram to Justice McCook was addressed to him at Niantic, Conn., where he spent the week-end. It follows:

Honorable Philip McCook,
Niantic, Conn.

On Friday I received a personal letter from you enclosing a copy of an anonymous communication received by you at your home in New York. This unsigned letter contained rumors relating to the alleged sale of a judicial position in Bronx County. On Saturday I was asked by the press to comment on a story which originated from the lips of Mr. Hiram C. Todd, the Special Assistant Attorney General in the Ewald case. This story from Mr. Todd was to the effect that I had received charges involving judicial officers in the Bronx and in Brooklyn, and that I was expected to summon special grand juries in those counties.

This action on the part of Mr. Todd was an abuse of his authority, a violation of legal ethics and a deliberate breach of the confidence imposed in him by you, in whose hands alone the matter was vested. It was also a deliberate discourtesy to me as Governor of the State, and an obvious scheme to embarrass me. It was, in addition, an untruth for the reason that the only communication received by me has been the aforesaid personal letter from you with its unsigned enclosure.

I will announce action on these letters on Monday.

I am sorry to have to send you this telegram, but it is necessary in view of the unwarranted and extraordinary action of Mr. Todd.

FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT.

Todd Replies to Governor.

Hon. Franklin D. Roosevelt,
Governor,
Albany, N. Y.

A representative of a New York newspaper has just read to me a telegram you sent to Justice McCook for publication and in which you charge me with assuming to say that you had received charges as to judicial offices in the counties of Kings and the Bronx and that you intend to convene special grand juries in those two counties.

You are mistaken. I never made such a statement nor anything like it and I resent your unfair and unwarranted criticism. The fact that you have furnished the press with copies of your telegram to Justice McCook without first giving me an opportunity to deny your statement prompts me to request you in the future to do me the courtesy of communicating with me directly or through the Attorney General when you wish to obtain correct information as to what I am doing in the public service.

I am giving a copy of this telegram to the press so, if not too late, it may be published together with yours to Justice McCook.

HIRAM C. TODD.

Seabury Inquiry Opens Today.

With important developments expected today from the Governor, the Mayor and the grand jury, Samuel Seabury, the referee appointed by the Appellate Division to investigate magistrates and magistrates' courts in Manhattan and the Bronx, is scheduled to hold the first session of his hearings in the County Court Building. At that time he will issue instructions to Isidor Kresel, the counsel he has appointed with the approval of local bar associations to gather evidence and define the scope of the investigation.

Mr. Kresel already has said that the inquiry would be worthless unless it went into the question of whether magistrates bought and paid for their appointments. The inquiry is expected to last for several months. Some hearings will be closed, but Mr. Kresel has promised that every charge of office-buying that is supported by valid evidence will be aired in open hearings.

Smith's Assembly Gavel Returned After 17 Years

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Sept. 28.—The gavel which Alfred E. Smith last wielded as Speaker of the Assembly in Albany was returned to him tonight after it had been held as a souvenir in Queens for seventeen years.

At the end of the 1913 session, the last over which the former Governor presided as Speaker, several Queens members of the House played a practical joke on him on the final night by secreting the gavel. Since that time it remained in the possession of Carl Berger, then State committeeman.

A month ago Mr. Berger died. Alfred J. Kennedy, as public administrator of Queens, took official cognizance of the gavel. Tonight Mr. Kennedy and Park Commissioner Albert C. Benninger of Queens, both of whom were in the Assembly in 1913, returned the gavel to the former Governor.

Gov. Roosevelt Will Go on Stump in "Talkie" To Reach All Parts of State in Campaign

SYRACUSE, Sept. 28.—Governor Roosevelt will go on the stump for re-election the day after he is renominated at the Democratic State Convention here, but in a talking picture.

While Mr. Roosevelt plans to busy himself at Albany working on the budget for several weeks before plunging into his speaking campaign, the State committee has prepared a series of talking pictures which will be sent on the road on Wednesday.

The "talkies" comprise short "shots" of the Governor and of Lieut. Gov. Herbert H. Lehman, also to be renominated; former Governor Alfred E. Smith, Senator Robert F. Wagner and others discussing State problems and their relation to the current campaign.

The pictures will be shown in halls and in the open from the "talkie trucks," which have become a feature of political campaigning in the past few years. In this way, Democratic leaders hope to reach the electorate in many areas which the candidates themselves cannot cover.

In many instances, local meetings are being arranged for open-air display with screens set up in a park or square, where local candidates on the Democratic ticket offer a personal appeal.

A preview of the pictures has been arranged for the benefit of the subjects and the campaign strategists at a Syracuse theatre during the convention, and some of the talkie trucks will start out from Albany Wednesday morning to hold meetings in near-by counties during the afternoon and evening.

The talking motion pictures will be featured at more than 200 meetings in the most intensive campaign ever attempted up-State, according to the publicity bureau of the Democratic State committee. The showings will be in many towns where no Democratic meetings have ever before been held, and the fact that the campaign is to get under way the day following the State convention is also an innovation.

EWALD AGAIN FACES QUERIES ON CRATER

Grand Jury Begins Third Week of Inquiry Today as Clues Fail in Hunt for Jurist.

DEPOSIT BOX UP AGAIN

The county grand jury investigating the disappearance of Supreme Court Justice Joseph F. Crater will begin today the third week of its inquiry. During the week District Attorney Crain is expected to call former Magistrate George F. Ewald for questioning concerning his acquaintance with Crater, and more than a score of other witnesses probably will testify concerning various phases of the missing jurist's life.

The police and other investigating agencies continued their search yesterday without a definite clue, although reports were still being received from Nova Scotia and New Brunswick telling of men resembling Justice Crater who had been seen in those places.

All the investigations into the Crater case admittedly are reaching the "last-ditch" stage, but Mr. Crain indicated Saturday his inquiry would not be terminated until all witnesses who might throw any light on the mystery had been examined.

Detectives Edward Fitzgerald and Martin Owens, who returned from the Crater Summer home at Belgrade Lakes last week, will appear today before the grand jury to tell what they learned from the wife of the missing jurist.

Maine highway police, acting under orders of Frank E. Southard, Kennebec County attorney, attempted to question Mrs. Crater last week, but were told she was too ill for interviewing. Mr. Southard is expected to return to Augusta today, and any further effort to continue the Maine investigation will depend, it was said, on Mr. Crain's desires. The Kennebec County grand jury will convene a week from tomorrow, but in the absence of Mr. Southard officials in Augusta could not say last night whether Mrs. Crater would be summoned to appear before it.

District Attorney Crain also expects to hear from Mrs. Crater this week in reply to his request to her asking for power of attorney to open the Crater safe deposit box in the Empire Safe Deposit Company. Mr. Crain has declared that he will take the matter into the courts if she refuses authorization. The District Attorney believes that the box may contain valuable papers or some information which might bear on the jurist's disappearance. Mr. Crain also hopes to learn the name of Justice Crater's broker.

Other evidence which Mr. Crain is expected to submit to the grand jury today or tomorrow will include the statements of "Sally Ritz," show girl acquaintance of the jurist, and her father and mother, which are being forwarded by mail from Youngstown, Ohio.

No action had been taken yesterday on a suggestion made late last week that an examination of the sewers of Manhattan be made on the possibility that Justice Crater was murdered and his body thrown into a sewer.

Another phase of the Crater search was instituted yesterday when the Laundry Board of Trade planned to distribute to 1,500 laundries in the eastern part of Canada, in New York and New England, circulars describing the laundry mark on Judge Crater's clothes and requesting notification if the mark was seen.

The mark, distinctive of a private laundry, consists of an "A" and an "L" run together as in a monogram with the crossbar of the "A" intersecting the upright of the "L." Beneath the mark is the figure "331."

BANGOR, Me., Sept. 28 (AP).—Mrs. Pearl Thompson, teacher at Mattanawcook, saw Justice Joseph F. Crater, missing New York jurist, a few days ago, Lieutenant Colby Wardwell of the State highway police said tonight.

Crater, missing since Aug. 6, was recognized by Mrs. Thompson as he left the Lincoln House at Lincoln, Lieutenant Wardwell said. He said she was doubly positive when photographs of him were shown to her.

Sergeant Frank Hall, also of the State police, informed Lieutenant Wardwell that the handwriting on the hotel register made by the guest believed to have been Crater closely resembled that of the missing justice.

Attempts to trace the mysterious hotel guest after his departure were without avail, Lieutenant Wardwell said.

TUTTLE TRIES TODAY TO PACIFY DRY WING

CHASE CHARGES BETRAYAL

Faced with the necessity of reducing to a minimum the expected defection of the ardent drys from the Republican banner in the coming campaign, Charles H. Tuttle, the party's nominee for Governor, will confer this evening with State Chairman William J. Maier. Mr. Maier, at Mr. Tuttle's request, is taking personal charge of the campaign. He is due in the city late this afternoon.

Beyond admitting that the conference will take place, Mr. Tuttle declined yesterday to discuss politics in any way, even as to what subject he will pick for his opening campaign address tomorrow night in Brooklyn.

That the dryest of the dry leaders are not willing to follow the lead of Assemblyman Edward B. Jenks, hitherto regarded as a bone-dry, in endorsing the Tuttle candidacy, was revealed yesterday by attacks from Canon William Sheafe Chase of Brooklyn and the Rev. A. D. Batchelor, metropolitan superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League, upon that candidacy, as well as that of Governor Roosevelt, who will be renominated on a repeal platform at the Syracuse convention of the Democratic party.

Dr. Chase, in a lengthy statement bitterly attacking both parties for betraying the people and their national party platforms, sounded the call for drys to support an independent ticket, which, he said, will be put in the field within the next week or ten days.

His statement read:

"The party leaders of both State parties have repudiated their national party promises to enforce the Eighteenth Amendment and have seceded from their parties. They have betrayed the members of their parties whom they are under obligation to represent. They seek to hide their rebellion against the flag and the Constitution by pretending to conduct an orderly campaign for the repeal, or amendment, of the Eighteenth Amendment.

"They have demonstrated their insincerity because they have refused to discharge their constitutional duty by enacting a State prohibition enforcement act. The New York State dry forces urge those members of both parties who believe in defending the Constitution as it is to rally against the alliance between organized crime and self-seeking unscrupulous politics and organize to elect independent candidates hostile to the two wet tickets.

"Mr. Tuttle and Governor Roosevelt, though nominally supporting the Eighteenth Amendment, have both declined to assist in the enactment of a law against racketeers, gangsters, graft and speakeasies. The time has arrived when a new political party should be inaugurated. The people are being betrayed by party leaders, who are not working for the success of their party tickets but to retain their leadership in the party because of the emoluments which their positions bring them."

A statement similar in character was made by Dr. Batchelor in a sermon yesterday morning at the First Methodist Episcopal Church of Flushing, Queens. Dr. Batchelor said:

"The wet plank (in the Republican platform) is an effort to force out of the party a large block of dry voters. The drys in New York have not bolted, but prefer to stand with President Hoover and the platform of their party. It is the New York wet voters who have bolted, by adopting the wet issue of the Democratic party. They cannot win on that score with the drys holding the balance of power."

At the conference today a plan of campaign to keep prohibition out as an issue between the Republicans and Democrats and keep in the foreground the issue of "Tammany corruption" will be sought.

The Republican leaders recognize, it was asserted yesterday, that they are bound to lose votes in the bone-dry up-State communities, much the same as James W. Wadsworth did in his 1926 campaign for re-election to the United States Senate.

However, the hope this year is that the drys may reconsider and fail to nominate a third candidate, as they did against Wadsworth. Even if a dry candidate is nominated, the maximum he could hope to poll is 100,000 votes, it was said. The Republican leaders believe that with the Tammany issue acting as an effective weapon they can cut down to the bone the usual heavy Democratic plurality in New York City sufficiently to win, for the first time since the Presidential year of 1920.

Mr. Tuttle spent another quiet day yesterday, attending church in the morning, at St. Luke's Protestant Episcopal Church, 141st Street and Convent Avenue, together with his wife and his son, Henry Crosswell Tuttle. The nominee and his family walked to church from their home at 339 Convent Avenue, two blocks north of the church.

Dr. W. T. Walsh, the rector, took for his sermon the seventh verse of the tenth chapter of Matthew: "As ye go, preach, saying the Kingdom of God is at hand." Following the service, Mr. Tuttle greeted friends outside the church and then posed with Mrs. Tuttle for photographers.

He played tennis in the afternoon, as is his custom on Sundays.

WALDMAN ATTACKS TWO MAJOR PARTIES

CALLS TUTTLE EVASIVE

Louis Waldman, Socialist candidate for Governor, opened his campaign yesterday afternoon at a ratification meeting that filled Town Hall 123 West Forty-third Street, and applauded every attack that he and other Socialist candidates made on Governor Roosevelt, Tammany Hall, Mayor Walker and the Republican party.

Mr. Waldman characterized Governor Roosevelt as a dependent and ally of Tammany and asserted that Charles H. Tuttle, Republican nominee for Governor, was planning a campaign on the single issue of corruption to conceal more effectually the "intellectual and political bankruptcy of the Republican party."

Former Judge Jacob Panken attacked Mayor Walker on the ground that he was subservient to John F. Curry, leader of Tammany. He pilloried Mr. Curry and other Tammany leaders for refusing to waive immunity before the grand jury.

Norman Thomas, Socialist candidate for the House of Representatives from the Sixth District, Brooklyn, centred his attack largely on the nomination of Borough President Julius Miller of Manhattan for the Supreme Court to succeed Justice Crater.

Heywood Broun, running on the Socialist ticket for Congress in the Seventeenth District, Manhattan, said at the numerous street meetings he had addressed he had not found more than three persons in any crowd who professed the belief that there was no graft in Tammany.

Morris Hillquit was chairman of the meeting, and August Claessens conducted the collection for the campaign chest, which netted $511.65.

While attacking Democratic and Republican leadership in New York State, Mr. Waldman discussed the major demands of the Socialist party—unemployment relief, public development and distribution of electric current and honest government. He asserted that "Presidential ambitions" had forced Governor Roosevelt to make a "show of liberalism." He charged, however, that the Governor had "made the highest office of the State an adjunct of that crooked and corrupt organization, Tammany Hall." He further asserted that Governor Roosevelt had turned against his "political friend and maker, Alfred E. Smith, to give aid and comfort to the worst elements of Tammany Hall."

Derides 'Insulted' Tammany Leaders.

Mr. Waldman then drew a picture of the Democratic State convention at Syracuse today, saying:

"As Governor Roosevelt's name is mentioned, the army of the 'insulted' Tammany leaders will rise to their feet in resounding cheers. Curry, Healy, Kenneally, Hubbard, Hines & Co., those sensitive Tammany souls who are outraged by the simple request that they waive immunity when testifying about their official acts before a special grand jury created by the Governor, will be present to hold up Mr. Roosevelt's hands while he renews his pious promises of clean government.

"Let us now turn for a minute to the Republican party. The Republican convention just ended justifies the impression that it was a gathering of delegates representing special privilege. For a responsible political party seeking to dislodge a Tammany Governor with their own candidate, the platform adopted is the most vague, indefinite and meaningless statement which even that party has for a long time produced. All the leaders of the party were present. Their failure to present a constructive program must be written down as the intellectual and political bankruptcy of their party.

"On the matter of prohibition, with which the Governor, if elected, would have nothing to do, since he cannot either initiate modification of the Eighteenth Amendment or do anything else about it, Mr. Tuttle took a good deal of time for a deliberate statement of his position. He insisted that the platform plank conform. He failed to do as much for the things that matter in the State of New York and which a Governor would be called upon to deal with.

"The next Legislature will have before it the report of the St. Lawrence Water Power Commission. The platform gives no hint as to what Mr. Tuttle and his legislative colleagues would do about it."

Urges Idleness Insurance.

Advocating unemployment insurance, Mr. Waldman asserted that the United States was twenty years behind Great Britain and thirty years behind Germany in making provision for the unemployed. He asserted that Governor Roosevelt, regardless of what he may say, has done nothing for the unemployed.

"Does the Mayor take his leadership and advice from John F. Curry on the question as to whether or not his commissioners are justified in refusing to sign waivers of immunity?" asked former Judge Panken.

"Let him say whether Curry advised him not to ask for the resignation of his commissioners. If no such advice had been given, why has he not asked for the resignation of the commissioners who have the administration of the city government in their hands? No man who is afraid to tell what he knows under oath without any strings attached is deserving of public confidence. Resign.

"Yes, it may be funny. We have a wisecracking Mayor, but it is a tragedy to the city."

Endorsement of the candidacy for Congress of Norman Thomas was announced yesterday by the League for Independent Political Action. A statement signed by Howard Y. Williams, executive secretary of the league, said: "The league is not a Socialist organization, but in conformity with the league's program of trying to elect a group of third party Congressmen to Washington for the purpose of giving national stimulus to a new political movement, it will help elect Norman Thomas to Congress."

Syracuse Backer Asserts 18,000 Signed Petitions for Dry.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Sept. 28 (AP).—Henry Castor of Albany, secretary of the Republican Club for Law Enforcement, announced here tonight that petitions bearing 18,000 signatures designating Professor Robert P. Carroll of the Syracuse University faculty as the Gubernatorial candidate of the "law preservation party" would be filed with the Secretary of State at Albany on Oct. 4 or 6.

DEMOCRATS OPEN CONVENTION TODAY

By W. A. WARN.

tive platform. He presided over the conferences today.

Aided by Senator Wagner and others, he began putting the finishing touches to the document after it had been read to an assembly of leaders.

Samuel I. Roseman, legal adviser to the Governor, had been grappling with the prohibition plank all day, following talks with the Governor over the telephone last evening, and it was an outtsanding topic at the conference in the Governor's suite.

This plank will call for straight repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment. That much has been definitely decided. To what extent the declaration will reflect the views expressed by Governor Roosevelt in a recent letter to Senator Wagner in which he advocated substitution in the Federal Constitution of provisions to block the return of the saloon and to protect dry States from importation of intoxicants from wet States is not known.

Many of the conferees believe the Democratic plank should be more extreme than the Republican and refrain from following the course of the latter in recommending the substitution of more regulatory provisions in the Federal Constitution in place of the Eighteenth Amendment.

The consensus of opinion among those Democrats advocating repeal without qualifications is that the convention should heed the traditional party doctrine of State rights and leave it to the States to enact regulatory legislation to prevent the return of the saloon. This is somewhat in accord with the repeal plank proposed by Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler in advance of the Republican State Convention.

Decision Rests With Governor

There will be no departure, however, from the Governor's program, as defined in his letter to Senator Wagner, except with his consent. There is reason to believe that he regards the repeal pledge as the essential part of the plank and will not be found too tenaciously opposed to the proposed modification.

At the same time he believes that, as a matter of comity, the party in this State should not be entirely oblivious of the feelings of the dry Democrats in Southern and Western States. In writing his letter to Senator Wagner, the Governor also had in mind to prepare the way for a cohesive stand among Democrats in Congress, where any move to initiate reconsideration of the Eighteenth Amendment must begin.

The Governor admitted tonight that the precautionary measures he advocated in his letter had relation to a situation that cannot arise in the immediate future.

With the opening session of the convention scheduled for 11 A. M. tomorrow, no agreement has been reached as yet on a candidate for Attorney General.

John J. Bennett of Brooklyn, past State commander of the American Legion, still leads the aspirants for the nomination for Attorney General, but there is a long list of deserving Democrats from other parts of the State who have an eye on this place.

The list includes Frank J. Gregg, former Corporation Counsel of this city; George Van Schaick, prominent in Monroe County; David Lea of Broome and William Herndeen of Chemung.

George H. Kennedy and Philip A. Sullivan of Erie and Sanford T. Church of Orleans, the two last named having served as Supreme Court Justices under appointment from the Governor, and Norman D. Fish, a former county judge of Niagara County, who also served under appointment, are among those to be brought forward by the Western leaders for consideration should the attorney generalship go to that section of the State and the controllership to Brooklyn.

Ovation for the Governor

Governor Roosevelt received an ovation when he arrived this evening, accompanied by his mother, Mrs. James Roosevelt; John W. Davis, Democratic nominee for President in 1924 and prospective permanent chairman of the convention; D. Basil O'Connor, the Governor's law partner; Miss Marguerite Le Hand, Mr. Roosevelt's personal secretary, and Miss Nancy Cook of Dutchess County, who has been prominent in the women's division of the party. Miss Cook is a delegate from Dutchess and Miss Le Hand an alternate. The Governor's wife arrived on a later train.

The lobby of the hotel was crowded with delegates who had arrived on afternoon trains. They rushed to the entrance and applauded the Chief Executive as he made his way to the elevator.

Leaders at the Conference.

Mr. Davis, Mr. Curry, Mr. McCooey, Mr. O'Connor, State Chairman Bray, James J. Farley, secretary of the State Committee, and Harlan W. Rippey, leader of Monroe County, were at the conference with the Governor when it opened. Later former Governor Smith, Senator Wagner and Norman E. Mack, National Committeeman, who had attended a dinner at the home of William H. Kelley, Onondaga leader, as well as Mr. Kelley himself joined the conferees.

The Manhattan and Brooklyn delegates arrived this evening on special trains, with such a big crowd of unofficial companions that it was necessary to run the special in three sections. Many delegates have motored from New York.

ficial acts. We were called there in a John Doe proceeding and not on the Ewald case. I stood on my constitutional rights on advice of counsel."

Martin G. McCue, leader of the Twelfth Assembly District and Chief Clerk of the Surrogate's Court, said he was willing to answer questions not only about his official conduct but about his private life. "I have always been willing to answer any question," Mr. McCue said. "However, the proceeding in which I was asked to testify is a partisan political inquiry, as indicated by questions which I am informed were asked other witnesses."

Mr. Curry declined to comment. "That is correspondence between the Governor and the Mayor," he said when shown a copy of the Governor's letter. "That calls for no comment from me."

Dock Commissioner Michael Cosgrove, leader of the Sixteenth Assembly District, and H. Warren Hubbard, Commissioner of Public Works and leader of the Eighteenth Assembly District, also declined to discuss the letter.

One effect of the Governor's letter was to put the Tammany "graft" issue raised by Mr. Tuttle into the position of the chief topic of conversation among the arriving delegates and to cause speculation as to how much Mr. Tuttle's attack would hurt Governor Roosevelt and the rest of the State ticket in New York City on election day.

The prevailing opinion was that the letter, which has almost the force of a mandate, probably would lessen the prospective damage to the Democratic candidates. For that reason, there was much less resentment expressed over the letter than might be expected, for the New York City Democrats realize the necessity of supporting Governor Roosevelt to the limit of every possible vote and to prevent the election of Mr. Tuttle, if for no other reason than self-preservation.

How far the Tammany district leaders affected will comply with Governor Roosevelt's suggestion that they return voluntarily to the grand jury and offer to waive immunity in preparation to testifying could not be learned and probably has not been decided. Mr. Curry, who holds no public office, is not affected, and such leaders as Mr. Finn and Mr. McCue, who hold county and not city offices, cannot be directed to testify by the Mayor.

Judging from the talk of those leaders who did not wish to be quoted, it is likely that the Tammany leaders may express willingness to answer any questions regarding their official acts but will continue to refuse to answer if the questions concern their acts as party leaders.

HOLZWORTH TO RUN AS AN INDEPENDENT

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Sept. 28.—John M. Holzworth, who was defeated for the Republican nomination for Representative from the Twenty-fifth District by a vote of approximately 11,800 to 9,000, announced today that he would run for Congress as an independent candidate. His decision, according to the announcement, was caused by his discovery of what he described as widespread irregularities in the primary election. He has already turned over charges of irregularities to the District Attorney.

"I shall carry my campaign direct to every voter in the district," Mr. Holzworth said. "I am not making deals and lining up gangs. My platform is simple, clear and unmistakable. I refuse to straddle anything to woo favor."

MOSCOW, Sept. 28.—Russia's Communist leaders profess to see surprising contradictions in the European attitude toward this country nowadays. On the one hand it is written and stated, and in many countries believed, that the Soviet five-year plan is an imposture or a Utopian dream, doomed to failure. On the other hand Soviet "dumping," not only of raw materials but of manufactured goods, is regarded as a deadly menace to the hard-pressed business industry of the Western world.

It is asserted here that no one apparently seems to realize that Soviet exportation is an integral part of the five-year plan, and that if it is developing enough success to frighten the Western business men this proves the five-year plan is being carried out successfully.

The question remains whether the West is correct in its fear of Soviet exports. At present the latter consist largely of raw materials—oil, lumber, coal, grain and the like—with a comparatively small amount of manufactured goods sent to neighboring Eastern States, such as Mongolia, Chinese Turkestan, Afghanistan, North Persia and East Turkey, which are cut off by transport difficulties from the world market.

Ready to Sell at Cut Price.

It is an unquestioned fact that the Soviet, in order to sell its goods abroad, is willing to accept less than the market price. Hence the accusation of dumping, to which the Bolsheviki reply that they would rather keep at home the materials which are exported, but are forced to sell them anyhow by the "financial blockade."

"If," they say, "we could get loans or long-term credits on the usual terms we would export less. As it is, we are depriving ourselves and tightening our own belts to provide ourselves with the foreign machines and technical assistance required for our industrial reorganization."

The accusation that the Soviet is dumping deliberately with the intention of depressing world prices in order to provoke economic slumps and subsequent political uprisings the Bolsheviki dismiss as childish. Every nickel more on the world price of a bushel of wheat or a ton of coal or a standard of timber eases their purchase of foreign machinery. Whatever may be their plans for the distant future, this will remain true for the next ten years or more, until the Russian industrial reconstruction is completed.

The trouble is that world prices—or at any rate, European prices—in these commodities have already fallen to or below the cost of production, and the fact that the Soviet is willing to cut its rates still further and deliver large quantities as well is just about the last straw for Western producers. In other words, when the whole world is suffering from overproduction and low prices, the Soviet bursts in with goods which it is prepared to sell and must sell at any price.

Nowhere is this better illustrated than in grain. Official estimates place the Russian cereal crop at 90,000,000 tons, whereas the internal need of the country in previous years has been not more than 80,000,000 tons. Of the 90,000,000 total, wheat can be reckoned upon as making up about three-tenths, or, say, 25,000,000 to 27,000,000 tons.

The Russian masses for the most part are unaccustomed to consuming wheat, which is grown mostly in Northern Caucasia, Southern Ukrainia and in other regions most suitable for exporting this grain. One might deduce, therefore, that the Soviet could export this year some 10,000,000 tons of grain, of which half or more would be wheat. But it is not so simple as that.

With all exportation under State control, grain must first of all be mobilized by the State, or "collected," as the Russians call it. While the State farms were fairly well provided with threshing and storage facilities, the collective farms and individual peasants were notably lacking in the same this year, and there will be much waste.

Last year, on a crop 15 or 20 per cent smaller, the State "collected" with some difficulty 14,000,000 tons. After repaying what had been borrowed the previous year from the reserve grain fund and supplying its own needs, the Soviet had about 1,000,000 tons to export, of which 600,000 was exported up to the end of June.

State grain collections are not going too well this year, but it is likely the State will be able to mobilize from 18,000,000 to 20,000,000 tons, which would leave an export margin of 6,000,000 to 8,000,000 tons, of which at least half would be wheat.

Last June, when the harvest was still uncertain but the prospects looked good, your correspondent was informed that the Soviet hoped to export 3,000,000 to 5,0000,000 tons of grain in the coming year. Taking into consideration the waste through lack of storage and other facilities and the difficulties of collection and transport, it is improbable that this figure will be materially increased.

The officials concerned do not know, or will not say—they probably do not know—but the writer is inclined to set 6,000,000 tons as the ultimate limit of Soviet grain exports this year, of which wheat may reach 3,000,000 or a trifle more. The exact figures will depend not only on State collections but on how the grain winters this year and the Spring prospects for the next harvest.

French Deputy Sees Need to Check Manipulation of Grain Prices.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Sept. 28.—Adrien Darias, a member of the Chamber of Deputies and a former Minister of Agriculture, speaking at a banquet of farmers at Alencon, urged the need of reform in world commercial exchanges in order to check the dealings of grain speculators. The latter, he said, should be compelled to prove they really possess grain or are millers.

"There is an urgent need to put a stop to the dealings of certain speculators," he declared. "No one should be allowed to purchase for future delivery unless he can prove he really intends to stock the grain in a warehouse or is a miller. There is a need for ridding the farmer of the speculator who merely gambles and thereby is the cause of the unsteadiness of prices."

PLAN BRITISH QUOTA ON WHEAT IMPORTS

BIG CUT IN OUR EXPORTS

Argentina Also Would Suffer—Scheme Depends on Conservatives Regaining Power.

By CHARLES A. SELDEN.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Sept. 28.—Plans for a wheat quota purchasing system, to which Conservative leaders have committed themselves as their party's project for improving Britain's commercial and agricultural situation, have been sufficiently worked out by Stanley Baldwin's committee of economic experts for the details now to be known.

There is no comfort in them for the grain growers of the United States, Argentina and other wheat-producing countries. If the Conservatives regain control of the government and are able to get parliamentary sanction for their quota system, the foreign countries which now supply about half the wheat used in the United Kingdom will not be permitted to supply more than 10 per cent.

The total wheat imports of this country last year were 5,589,000 tons. The amount grown in England and Wales was 1,281,000 tons. Of the imports 2,007,000 tons came from the British dominions and 3,582,000 from foreign countries. The United States furnished 1,113,297 tons of these imports, Argentina 2,268,923 tons and all other foreign countries only 199,780 tons.

Russia did not figure in the situation last year, as she may intend to do in the future, according to the very disturbing evidence she has furnished recently in the British wheat market, and evidently the advocates of the quota plan had not taken that country into account when Neville Chamberlain, chairman of the Conservative party, made the first general statement of the new party policy a week ago. However, if the plan should be adopted and proved workable, Russia, as well as the United States and Argentina, would find her wheat crops practically barred from the Liverpool and London grain markets.

As far as the result of keeping out foreign grain is concerned, it is difficult for a layman to see any real difference between a prohibitive tariff on wheat, the quota system advocated by the Conservatives, and the government import boards for the while advocating the quota as a means of helping the British farmer and increasing trade with the dominions, can still declare they will never consent to put a tariff on food bulk purchase of grain which some members of the present Labor Government want to establish. But there is at least a difference in name, and Messrs. Baldwin and Chamberlain, products, thereby pleasing the industrial North and the agricultural South.

The experts who have been working out the details of the plan would drastically revise last year's import statistics, given above. They would change the present system gradually to give the British farmers an opportunity to get their land back to wheat growing, but the goal which it is hoped to reach three or four years hence would have about 25 per cent of the wheat consumed in the British Isles grown in England and Wales. Sixty-six per cent would come from Canada and Australia, leaving a balance of 9 per cent to be provided by imports from foreign countries to keep alive the fiction of free trade in food.

It is significant that the only foreign country specifically mentioned as a future beneficiary of the new system is Argentina. With all her present trade relations with that country and the vast amount of British capital invested there, and especially in view of the recent change in the Argentine Government, Britain is very wary about saying or doing anything to offend that country. On the other hand, the resentment here over the new United States tariff makes British politicians disinclined to go out of their way to promise future economic benefits to America.

The Conservatives would put their plan into effect by having Parliament create a statutory commission charged with fixing the quota. This probably would be done each September, when, after determining the country's needs in wheat a year in advance, the commission would arbitrarily determine where the wheat was to come from and in what proportions. These percentages having been fixed, the execution of the plan would be turned over to the milling interests, who would be compelled to buy accordingly in the home, empire and foreign markets.

The phase of the plan intended to win the support of British farmers is Mr. Baldwin's proposal that the government guarantee a minimum price for home-grown wheat at which it could be grown in England. The millers would have to purchase the home quota amount at this guaranteed price and then receive from the government a rebate of the difference between that and the world price.

ACTS TO AID HER FARMERS.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PERTH, Australia, Sept. 28.—Proposals to relieve the immediate financial difficulties of Western Australian wheat growers have been submitted to the State Government and involve special legislation for the appointment of a board to represent associated banks to control and distribute the crop so as to enable growers to maintain themselves until the 1931 season.

If the State Government approves the scheme, the Federal Government will be asked to suspend the provisions of the Federal bankruptcy act and enable the board to take over from private trustees estates now assigned them.

SMOKE SCREEN HIDES BATTERY FROM 'ENEMY'

Lower New York—the Aquarium, Wall Street and all—was protected from another mythical enemy yesterday morning. The saviors were members of the Army Air Corps and the means a smoke screen which billowed and eddied around the skyscrapers from the height of about 1,000 feet. The demonstration was to show the world how the city could be protected without inconvenience to itself.

The experiment started at Mitchel Field when four smokeships, piloted by Lieutenants T. O. Graff, R. C. Hood, M. S. Hollidge and E. L. Tucker, took off a little before 9 o'clock and headed for Manhattan. The squadron flew in echelon, the planes stepped up one above the other from seventy-five to about 500 feet above the water. A number of planes bearing photographers accompanied them.

At a given signal, the formation dove in the general direction of the Aquarium. The smoke screen was laid down and in less than two minutes it had formed a billowing crescent around the tip of lower New York. From the Aquarium the planes rounded the Battery and went up the East River. For five minutes or so the skyline was hidden from the South—the direction from which a lurking, if mythical, enemy was about to shell Broadway.

The screen was composed of what the army calls "EM" smoke—a harmless substance which, when it reached the water's edge, was so completely dissipated that it interfered in no way with the usual light Sunday morning harbor traffic. Once the screen was completed, the formation of planes flew in the rear of the curtain, and then came diving through it for the benefit of the photographic record.

Before the exhibition the Army Air Corps maintained the utmost secrecy in order to maintain actual wartime conditions. The operation was under the direction of Colonel Ira Longanecker of the corps, and the smoke combat unit came from Langley Field and Edgewood Arsenal. Five planes and double that number of fliers and technicians took part.

The affair was recorded by Paramount News.

DENIES SOVIET SEEKS TO CAUSE WHEAT PANIC

For more than three hours yesterday afternoon 2,000 enthusiastic Communists listened to several speakers laud the Soviet Union and denounce the Hamilton Fish Congressional committee at a meeting of their organization held at the Star Casino, 107th Street and Park Avenue. The meeting adopted one resolution that embodied a declaration condemning "the war to end war" as useless and another that decried unemployment.

The first speaker, Dr. M. J. Olgin, editor of The Freiheit, vehemently attacked the Fish committee. He ridiculed the thought that the Soviet was trying to create a panic in wheat and emphasized that the fall in the price of this commodity would mean cheaper bread for the poor.

Dr. E. Reed Mitchell, who recently returned to this country after a three-year stay in Soviet Russia, attacked what she called "the plan of Wall Street" to create an economic blockade of Russia. She declared that there was plenty of food for all and that the Russian militarism was not directed against other nations, but was solely for defense.

Professor Robert I. Carey, who toured Russia with a delegation during the Summer, declared that conditions there were far better than he had expected.

SOVIET DUMPING HITS EUROPEAN MARKETS

By KENDALL FOSS.

tons in the period between September, 1928, and April, 1929, to 7,097 tons for the 1929-1930 period.

In 1920 Russia exported approximately 750,000 tons of sawn lumber. This year 1,000,000 tons is out or coming out. One large German dealer, who formerly drew his supplies from Sweden and Finland, now handles only Russian timber. The Soviets are calling the tune and he can either comply or go out of business. He recently was instructed to sell 30 per cent more than last year. He was told the prices did not matter.

Chief Timber Exporter.

Russia is the largest exporter of timber to Europe and makes a great effort to hold the business and increase sales at the expense of United States, Canadian and Scandinavian lumber. It is said the Russians make a practice of settling claims for below specification deliveries at once, avoiding lengthy litigation and loss of business. But it costs money. The lumber is mostly pine and fir, with some redwood, and all of it is well adapted to European needs.

Lately the Soviets have begun concentrating on plywood, having noticed the growing demand in this field. It is described as of good quality, mostly of alder and birch. The prices in recent sales were about $5 per ton lower than normal levels. Sales to the United States were given in 1929 as approximately 20,000 tons, but cutting in on American export possibilities is naturally a more serious matter.

American oil men at Hamburg are practically idle. They cannot get business even at a small loss. Not so long ago a Pennsylvania cylinder oil sold here at $15 per 100 kilos; the Russians produced a cylinder oil of nearly double viscosity which they offered at $6. The Pennsylvania producers came down and the Russians ceased selling, but there is a loss involved on every kilogram of Pennsylvania oil sold at this price.

One Russian Deal.

One of the most amazing stunts the Russians have indulged in was the closing of a contract with one of the four large German importers of oils for exclusive deliveries. Then, by dint of favorable prices, they obtained exclusive contracts with the remaining three. Then, not content with the size of the business, the Russians went into the retail trade and sold the oils direct even lower than they were quoting to the aforementioned dealers, and the dealers were stuck with supplies they could not get rid of.

Until the present the Russians have not started slashing gasoline prices, which are fixed by agreement throughout Germany. The Russians are not party to the agreement, but they are playing along with the others for the time being.

Reliable figures on the grain shipments estimate that about 1,000,000 tons have been shipped since July, of which some 600,000 were wheat, 300,000 barley and the remainder rye, oats and corn. The same source anticipates a further 2,500,000 tons of grain within the next three months, of which 50 or 60 per cent is expected to be wheat, almost all coming from Black Sea and Sea of Azov ports. The chartered tonnage at present is set at 550,000 tons, of which 100,000 is German.

Explanation Doubted.

Naturally, this is destructive of capitalism in its essence and, there seems to be small doubt, in its intent as well. The familiar explanation that Russia desires credits abroad with which to buy machinery does not explain the excessively sharp price cuts. Quick sales for cash do not require even a 10 per cent slash, let alone 20 or 30 per cent.

Of course the Soviet possesses a practically inexhaustible supply of some raw products, such as oil and timber, and can afford to give up as much as it wishes in order to attain a given amount of foreign credits. This may explain to some extent the enthusiasm for selling at any price, it is felt among some of Hamburg's leading foreign importers. Labor in Russia is cheap and the printing of rubles inexpensive. Nevertheless, when all allowance possible has been made, the conviction remains that there must be more than economic reasons behind the policy.

The Russians who are carrying out these business transactions are skilled traders of a shrewdness and keenness which command the great admiration of those who come up against them. And they enjoy the backing of a business enterprise, the Soviet Government, which outdoes in size anything the world has ever seen. The Soviet can afford to take a heavy and sustained loss in one commodity while promoting another. Each commodity is as big and powerful as many of the huge trusts whose power is often believed to be dangerous. Yet each is only a detail in the national economy.

See Cooperation Needed.

Some quarters are convinced that the only possible means of combating these methods is by international cooperation. These quarters are hoping against hope that it may be possible for the nations to reach an understanding before it is too late.

Yet a leading Hamburg shipper, when asked why he had chartered ships to the Soviet if he thought the grain shipments would be devastating to the markets to which they were destined replied, "If we don't, Britain will. Why shouldn't we try to get as much of the business that is going on as we can?" Again the Russians are playing off one nation against another and meanwhile calling the tune.

One of Hamburg's best-informed figures believes that if the traders of the world united and agreed to meet the Russian prices, whatever they were, and share the losses equally, it would only take two or three years of effort to break the movement and teach the Soviet the necessity of playing according to the rules. But who is going to start the movement? Germany not long ago went on record quite definitely that she does not want to initiate a boycott or embargo movement. Yet there are not a few German business leaders who feel certain Germany would be glad to fall in line should some other leading industrial nation start the campaign.

11 COUNTRIES LISTED IN TARIFF REPRISALS

FIVE GENERAL REVISIONS

Canada, Cuba, Spain, Australia and New Zealand Acts Cited by Foreign Policy Association.

OUR IMPORTS ALSO ARE CUT

Value Is Reported Halved in Ten Chief Items From Seven Nations, Hitting Back at Our Law.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28.—Eleven countries have either revised their tariffs during the first nine months of 1930 in such a way as to discourage imports from the United States or have increased, or threatened to increase, their duties on commodities imported from this country, according to data gathered by the Foreign Policy Association, which today issued a report reviewing the effect of the Hawley-Smoot tariff law on American foreign trade relations.

The countries which have made extensive tariff revisions are listed as Canada, Cuba, Spain, Australia and New Zealand. Those which have increased specific duties, or have threatened to do so, are given as France, Italy, Switzerland, Mexico, Uruguay and Argentina.

The report, prepared by Lawrence Mann, with the aid of the research staff of the association, analyzes the extent to which foreign countries have resorted to measures of retaliation and the proportion of trade from those countries affected by the American rates.

Among measures cited as most seriously affecting American exports are the following:

CANADA—General tariff revision adopted by the Canadian Parliament May 28, with increased rates and with countervailing duties on a large number of agricultural commodities exported by the United States to Canada. The effect of these countervailing duties is to increase the Canadian duty to the rate any country of origin imposes on imports from Canada, providing that rate is higher than the Canadian.

CUBA—Presidential decrees of Jan. 27, May 17 and May 30, increasing the duties on certain agricultural commodities imported from the United States, including dairy products, live stock, fresh meats, eggs, fish and canned meat, as well as unbleached cotton fabrics and cotton knit goods.

AUSTRALIA—General tariff revision of April 4, supplemented on June 20 by additional increases on a large number of commodities, including rice, piece goods, agricultural implements, printing machines, office appliances, refrigerators, radios, rubber tires, paper and automobile parts. Resolution introduced in June provided for an increase of 20 per cent in the duty on logs and sawed timber from Oregon.

NEW ZEALAND—Tariff revision of July increasing duties on a long list of imports from foreign countries and increasing the preferential rate on 158 items purchased from Great Britain. The United States, which ranks second to Great Britain as a source of New Zealand's imports, is affected by the new schedule more seriously than any other foreign country.

SPAIN—Royal decree of July 23 raising customs duties on automobiles, sewing machines, bicycles, motorcycles, pneumatic tires, razor blades, paints, silks, hams and other articles, many of which are imported primarily from the United States. Increase in tax on non-European automobiles.

FRANCE—Act of April 18 changing tariff on automobiles from a value to a weight basis, with the result that rates on American makes are increased by almost 50 per cent. Value of American automobile exports to France in 1929 was $12,138,000. French trade associations have demanded an end of the most-favored-nation treatment for the United States.

ITALY—Decree of June 30 raising duties on imported automobiles by amounts varying from 100 to 167 per cent. Value of American automobile exports to Italy in 1929 was $2,013,000. Threats of reprisals have been made by trade groups.

ARGENTINA—Appointment of a committee of customs appraisers May 5 to draw up a new tariff. The Argentine custom law empowers the President to increase existing duties on products from countries which do not grant most-favored-nation treatment to, or which discriminate against Argentine products. Threats of reprisals have been made by trade associations and chambers of commerce.

While recognizing the possible influence of other factors, the report states that in a majority of cases changes in rates have been made by those countries most seriously affected by the American tariff.

An analysis based on import statistics of the United States Tariff Commission, the report continues, indicates that more than half the value of the leading imports from seven of the eleven foreign countries which have taken, or threaten to take, reprisals against the United States are affected by increased duties, as well as a substantial proportion of the imports from three of the other countries.

The proportion of the ten leading imports affected by increased American duties, in the case of the eleven countries, is given in the following table, with the values expressed in the terms of thousands of dollars:

Country of Origin	Val. of Ten Leading Exports to U.S.	Val. of Trade Affected by Our Tariff Inc.	P.C.
Uruguay	9,975	8,343	84
Italy	57,152	39,938	70
Spain	19,955	13,065	65
Switzerland	18,896	11,645	62
Australia	33,949	18,851	56
New Zealand	11,551	4,004	35

the Interior Department a large number of exhaustive reports, showing in great detail the activities of these large oil companies, yet I can scarcely recall an instance during that period that the demands of the oil men have not received favorable consideration by the Secretary of the Interior, nor instances in which the rights of the public have been upheld.

Concession after concession has been granted the Colorado oil applicants, not because they were rightfully entitled to such consideration, but purely and simply as conciliatory measures because of great political or other pressure brought to bear upon the Secretary.

My continued protests urging that the interests of the American people in this great oil field should receive protection have been ignored or overruled.

Asserts Public Is Unprotected.

I had high hopes that your administration of the affairs of the Interior Department would result in such a change of policy that the rights of both public and private interests in this oil field would receive equal consideration, but I regret to say that, so far as I can observe, attempts to placate and appease the oil interests at the expense of the rights of the public have been as noticeable since March 4, 1929, as theretofore.

Few conciliatory acts of the office of the Secretary of the Interior have gone so far as to grant all that the oil interests want, but each recession has been followed by another and then another until, eventually, the entire distance has been traversed and the public left holding the bag.

In my opinion the adjustment of the titles of these oil lands in such manner that the rights of the public therein shall receive adequate protection transcends in importance any other matters pending before the Interior Department for many years.

In the face of discouragement due to continued non-cooperation and active opposition on the part of the Secretary of the Interior in the work of my office, we have nevertheless carried on, but I now see that our efforts have been and will continue to be wasted unless public opinion can be focused upon the practices by means of which the titles to billions of dollars of Colorado oil property have already wrongfully passed out of the hands of the government to those who wish to exploit them for their own private gain.

Very respectfully,
(Signed) RALPH S. KELLEY.
Ambassador Hotel.

Complained of Kelley in July.

DENVER, Sept. 28 (AP).—Ralph S. Kelley's resignation as head of the Denver office of the Federal Land Board comes two months after the first rumblings were heard here of a controversy over the management of the office.

Kelley was summoned to Washington on July 23 last to explain his administration of land office affairs. The summons, it was said, was prompted by attorneys representing oil shale claimants, who asserted they had not received fair treatment at Kelley's hands.

Kelley denied there was a rift with his superiors in Washington, and although he admitted occasional criticism of policies of the Department of the Interior, he said "there was nothing unusual in that."

GUGGENHEIM DEEDS WIDELY EULOGIZED

Leaders in Varied Fields Pay Tribute to the Capitalist's Notable Qualities.

HIS PUBLIC SPIRIT PRAISED

News of the death of Daniel Guggenheim elicited expressions of regret and of tribute to his many qualities from leaders in varied fields last night.

Public officials, financiers and leaders in the industrial world in which he was so dominant a figure joined in praising his public spirit, farsightedness and generosity. Leaders in aviation particularly, which Mr. Guggenheim had assisted both with money and his personal attention, said that in his death aviation had lost one of the greatest friends it had ever had.

Among those who paid tribute to Mr. Guggenheim yesterday were:

Thomas W. Lamont, partner in J. P. Morgan & Co.—The American world of industry and finance has lost an outstanding figure in the death of Daniel Guggenheim. No one could be associated with him without realizing that he had a constructive mind of great penetration and force. Joined to this was a character of high purpose and integrity. In his chosen field of metallurgy and mining, Mr. Guggenheim was always in the forefront, and to all his widespread interests he brought the benefit of scientific methods. Thus, much of our modern practice in the treatment of metals may be ascribed to the ingenuity and courage of himself and his associates. His contribution to the modern world of industry is a notable one; and his kindliness and charm won for him a host of loyal friends.

Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd—Daniel Guggenheim built solidly for the future of all flying. His keen mind showed him what aviation lacked above all things—sound and thorough research—and in his generosity he made that possible. I think I am safe in saying that he has done more than any other layman to make aviation safe for all. Through his endowments and the Guggenheim schools at various institutions of learning he created a system of sound training in a new profession. I am glad that he was able to live to see the progress that it has made and I am most deeply grieved to hear of his passing. His work will live as long as man flies.

F. Trubee Davison, Assistant Secretary of War for Aeronautics—Daniel Guggenheim was not only a world figure in business and industry, but he was unique for the tremendous interest he took in the advance of aviation and especially safe aviation. Under the auspices of the fund that he established most important strides were made toward the attainment of a safe plane, and under the sponsorship of Mr. Guggenheim fog, the airman's greatest enemy, was conquered. Mr. Guggenheim, I believe, made the greatest individual contribution to the advancement of safe aviation.

Frank H. Russell, Vice President of the Curtiss-Wright Corporation—He was one of the best friends aviation ever had. He envisioned from the layman's point of view what aviation needed most and set to work himself to supply that need. From the Guggenheim schools of aeronautics are coming the engineers who in the future will make flying safe for and available to all.

F. B. Rentschler, President of the Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce of America and of the United Aircraft and Transport Corporation—Daniel Guggenheim had in aviation as in other things a keen perception of aeronautical needs. In endowing engineering schools he went to the fundamentals of the problem that flying faced and always must face. He knew that all aeronautical development must come through engineering and the whole world is today and will continue to be the beneficiary of his pioneering. Mr. Guggenheim left to others the work of educating pilots and he, as the proponent of aeronautical education, paved the way for safe flying for all. His name is uniquely bound to constructive aviation both now and in the future.

Dr. Elmer Ellsworth Brown, Chancellor of New York University, at which the first school of aeronautics was established with funds provided by Mr. Guggenheim—Daniel Guggenheim was beloved and honored not only for his great achievements in the world of industry and commerce and for his large benefactions, but still more for the personal qualities revealed to those who came into close contact with him. His clear conceptions of a situation with which he had to do were expressed in singularly appropriate and illuminating language. His benevolent gifts were considered with care and insight. The story of his provision for the furtherance of commercial aviation, beginning with the founding of the Daniel Guggenheim School of Aeronautics at New York University and followed by the establishment of the Fund for the Promotion of Aeronautics, was marked throughout with large sagacity and patriotic purpose.

Samuel Untermyer—The city loses one of its most public-spirited citizens; I lose a dear friend. He will be long remembered for his many charities, but no one will ever know how much unrevealed good he did. I am shocked and grief-stricken at his unexpected death. He was a fine type of American citizen and had a positive genius for big, constructive business.

Edwin Franko Goldman, Conductor of the Central Park Public Band Concerts—In the belief that it would bring happiness to a great public too poor to pay for music, Daniel Guggenheim, with his brother, Murry, and their wives, have underwritten for the past seven years the series of concerts which I conduct in Central Park, and which they have spread even wider by radio since broadcasting began. The manner of Daniel Guggenheim's philanthropy is shown by the way he approached me with his offer to underwrite these concerts after I had for the previous six years been raising the money myself from a list of contributors which included the Guggenheims. He said he wanted to relieve me of the financial burden, so that I might devote myself solely to the music. I thanked him for his generosity, but he said: "No, it is I who owe you thanks; for you do the work and all I do is to sign my name to a check." Such an attitude was an inspiration to me and to any one else who administered the benefactions which he spread without prejudice as to cause, class or race. In his death the American public has lost one of its greatest benefactors.

Dr. Karl T. Compton, President, Massachusetts Institute of Technology—The science of aeronautics has lost its greatest patron. Daniel Guggenheim has for a number of years past been the outstanding patron of aviation in America. He has had wisdom to see beyond the popular interest and fads of the day and to devote his attention and fortune to the development of a sound, scientific basis for aviation as a coming great industry. The Massachusetts Institute of Technology is particularly indebted to him because of his gift to the institute of its great aeronautical engineering laboratory. In his death the science of aeronautics has lost its greatest patron. In the name of the institute I express our greatest sorrow at his death.

Senor Don Carlos G. Davila, Ambassador of Chile, Washington—I had the honor and the inspiration of Mr. Guggenheim's friendship. He was always in my mind when I spoke of the great leaders of America, because he typified the best, for his extraordinary spirit of enterprise, for his goodness of heart, for his fair conception of social solidarity, for the tender greatness of his soul. The largest industries of Chile, nitrate and copper, owed to him their best days of prosperity. His progressive conception of philanthropy contributed to placing the national aeronautics of my country in the position of brilliant development in which it is found today.

Major Clarence M. Young, Assistant Secretary for Aeronautics, Department of Commerce, Washington—Aviation has lost one of its most able and worthy supporters, one who has contributed in a most comprehensive way, both financially and otherwise, to the advancement of the art and science of flying.

David S. Ingalls, Assistant Secretary of the Navy, in Charge of Naval Aeronautics—I am terribly sorry to hear of the death of Mr. Guggenheim. It is a loss to the country of one of our outstanding citizens whose patriotism has been very evident.

Rear Admiral William A. Moffett, Chief of the Bureau of Naval Aeronautics—Mr. Guggenheim's death is a great loss. He had done much for aviation. His contributions, especially his foundation of the Guggenheim Fund, have made its advancement much more rapid than otherwise would have been possible.

The board of trustees of Congregation Emanu-El declared that "the valuable, devoted and conscientious service" which Mr. Guggenheim rendered for many years, in the firm conviction that Judaism had a great function to perform in the world, would be sadly missed. Individually and collectively, the board said, "they would miss his pleasing personality, his sage counsel and his splendid spirit of cooperation."

978 REGISTER AT BARNARD.

Members of College Faculty Return From Fellowships Abroad.

Barnard College has enrolled 978 young women this year, the registrar's office announced yesterday. Several professors who were absent last year on sabbatical leaves and fellowships have returned to the faculty. Dean Virginia C. Gildersleeve has returned from several months of travel in Europe. Professor William Haller of the department of English, and Professor Peter M. Riccio of the department of Italian, who have been doing research work abroad on grants from the Council for Research in the Humanities, also have returned.

Others back at Barnard include Professor Marie Reimer of the department of chemistry, who has been doing research work in Java; Thomas P. Peardon of the history department, who has held the Cutting Fellowship in England for the last year; Mrs. May Morris Seals, instructor in English, who has spent the last two years at Pembroke College; Miss Louise Gode of the German department; Miss Grace Springer Forbes, instructor in zoology, and Mrs. Elizabeth Faulkner Baker, assistant professor of economics.

School of Social Work Opens Today

The Training School for Jewish Social Work, organized in 1925 as a national school for social workers of the Jewish faith, will open for its sixth year today. According to Maurice J. Karpf, the director, it will have the largest class in its history. The school was organized by the National Conference of Jewish Social Service and is supported by the Nathan Hofheimer Foundation, the New York Foundation and twenty of the largest federations of Jewish charities in the country.

the well-being of his workers. His views, in this respect, as he once expressed them, were:

"I favor labor unions, because unionism sometimes helps the workers in disputes with capital and capital sometimes gets very arbitrary. Capital is becoming more humane. In addition we are getting better laws. Only when the Federal and State Governments take up the matter of the unemployed and the care of the unfit will conditions improve. This may sound socialistic, but these are my views."

Began Work in Switzerland.

Daniel Guggenheim was born on July 9, 1856, in Philadelphia. His father had settled there in 1848 on arrival from Switzerland, where the family for years had been engaged in the textile industry. A firm dealing in laces was established in Philadelphia, and it prospered. Young Daniel went through the Philadelphia Public Schools and was 17 years old and in the Philadelphia High School when his father decided to send him to Switzerland to finish his education and to begin to get a training in business. He worked as buyer for a Swiss firm from 1873 to 1884.

In the meantime, however, his father had, almost by accident, interested himself in mining. A friend named Graham was a financial factor in a mine at Pueblo, Col., and he wrote to Meyer Guggenheim suggesting that he take a share in the property. Although somewhat lukewarm about the project, the elder Guggenheim sent one of his sons out to Colorado to investigate. His report was glowing, and the name of Guggenheim became associated with mines.

Soon the holdings were extended and smelters were purchased and enlarged. Finally the Guggenheim enterprises became so large and so important that Meyer Guggenheim called his sons in, the entire family devoting all its energy to the one line. Each of the sons was thoroughly grounded in the business, and when the enterprises were soundly established the elder Guggenheim retired. He died in 1905.

Daniel Guggenheim was distinguished for the labor, talent and vision which he brought to the various undertakings, which were to be extended to Alaska, Mexico, South America and Africa, not only for the development of copper holdings but also in forestry, diamonds, gold, railroads, banks and nitrate.

Was Progressive in Business.

Progressive personally, he was progressive in business, and his belief that new processes would be devised to reduce costs and increase production led him to support the most ambitious undertakings. They included the acquisition of copper holdings on a mountain top in Alaska in a region so remote that a railroad had to be built over a moving glacier before the mine could be worked. This mine is now operated by the Kennecott Copper Company.

Another copper property was bought 9,500 feet above sea level on a mountain top in Chile, where the difficulties were so great that a new process of treating ore had to be devised, and water was carried forty-five miles and power eighty-five miles to the mine so this work could be done. The Guggenheim company invested $50,000,000 in the Chile Copper Company before dividends were paid, but the property now has assets of $200,000,000 and is rated one of the lowest-cost copper producers in the world.

Such initiative, enterprise and vision caused the Guggenheim interests to spend as much as $500,000 annually for the mere examination of mining properties. It made them recognize the possibility of metallurgical improvements in the nitrate industry in Chile. Under the direction of Daniel Guggenheim the corporation perfected a new process for nitrate treatment and acquired large holdings in the nitrate field.

He led in the development of tin in Bolivia, and with Thomas Fortune Ryan, at the invitation of King Leopold of Belgium, developed mining and forestry in the Congo, where alluvial diamonds were mined. These diamond fields and those in Angola, also owned by the Guggenheims, form the third largest diamond producing area. Mr. Guggenheim's services in the development of the Congo won for him in 1919 the decoration of a Commander of the Order of the Crown of Belgium.

One of many undertakings of the Guggenheim brothers, for which Daniel Guggenheim received much credit, was the merging of their corporation into the American Smelting and Refining Company, one of the world's largest producers of metals, of which he was either president or chairman of the board of directors for nearly twenty years. According to reports at the time of this merger, this brought the Guggenheim brothers $90,000,000 for only a fraction of their holdings.

Many Business Connections.

During his active career he was connected with many business organizations. They included American Smelting and Refining, American Smelters Securities Company, Garfield Smelting Company, Guggenheim Exploration Company, Yukon Gold Company, Chile Copper Company, Chile Exploration Company, Mexican Union Railroad Company, Guaranty Trust Company, National Bank of Commerce, American Surety Company, Utah Copper Company and Nevada Northern Railway Company.

He withdrew from his companies gradually, turning over his affairs to his son, Harry F. Guggenheim, taking the helm again during the war so that both his sons and his son-in-law, who had enlisted immediately, could serve their country. He took a leading part in stimulating production and cooperated with the War Industries Board to fix the price of copper, in order to prevent high prices and profiteering. During this period he was also active in Red Cross work.

Wielding a family power comparable only to that of the house of Rothschild, the Guggenheim brothers decreed that no outside investor who joined in any of their enterprises should lose a cent. This creed, written out of the teachings of their father, was exemplified in 1906, when the firm paid up $1,500,000 losses incurred by those who joined them in underwriting Canadian mines. This incident, which was a nine-day wonder in Wall Street, was treated in a matter-of-fact way by the brothers.

After the death of his brother Benjamin, who died in the Titanic disaster, and the death of Isaac Guggenheim, who died in Southampton, England, in 1922, of heart exhaustion following a stroke of paralysis, Daniel Guggenheim withdrew to a large extent from active direction of his manifold interests.

It was in 1915, when the United States Commission on Industrial Relations was investigating the labor situation in this country, that Mr. Guggenheim's ardent devotion to the welfare of his workers became publicly known. He, in company with other large employers of labor, was examined on the status of the workers in the vast Guggenheim chain of plants. He said then, with an earnestness that left no doubt of his profound convictions, that if the Guggenheim interests ever failed to adopt a remedial suggestion for the betterment of employes' conditions "I would quit."

An Ardent Humanitarian.

"The directors are absolutely responsible," he said. "When any unsatisfactory condition arose we endeavored to make improvements. We found that many things ought to have been done long before, and I told my associates that we ought to go much further, both from a humanitarian and a business standpoint. In all States where compensation laws have been passed and where we have plants, we have adopted them because we believe in them. We never opposed their enactment, nor that of any legislation."

He was asked, provided that evidence convinced him that his employes needed more money or better conditions, if he would help them.

"I would bring the matter to the attention of the executive committee and make such recommendations as would relieve that situation, and if my suggestions were not carried out I would quit."

When he was asked about labor unions and expressed his support of them, he added:

"Labor has a perfect right to organize, and we have never tried to stop our men from forming unions, nor do we object to organizers, if they carry on their work outside our grounds. No man is discriminated against because he joins a union.

"I don't think there can be too much legislation along humanitarian lines. Surely no man who has been successful can be happy when he realizes the condition of the workers. We must see that the worker not only gets sufficient wages, but also that he gets some of the comforts and the luxuries of life. I have always felt that way. I believe in the democratization of industry.

"Philanthropy must be democratized. The State must raise the money by taxing the large estates when those who have them die. The evil of private benevolence is that you pauperize people. Men and women don't want charity. They are human beings, not dogs, and what they want is a chance to work. Of course, much good is being done for the present through philanthropic foundations.

"There is another thing. We must teach people how to save. The great majority of working men and women don't know how to save. It is a difficult thing to learn. I believe, therefore, in profit-sharing schemes and in holding up bonuses until the end of the year, because the larger the amount received at one time the more likely people are to hang on to it. We would be better off if more people would save their money. That would improve the unrest among workers, because just as soon as a man has anything he begins to change. The greater part of the working people are thriftless."

Devoted to Art.

Mr. Guggenheim married on July 22, 1884, Miss Florence Schloss. Two sons, Lieut. Col. M. Robert Guggenheim, U. S. A., and Harry Frank Guggenheim, and a daughter, Miss Gladys Eleanor Guggenheim, were born. Miss Guggenheim in 1914 was married to Roger W. Straus, son of Oscar S. Straus, formerly Ambassador to Turkey.

Mr. Guggenheim many years ago built a magnificent Summer home at Elberon, N. J., naming it Firenze, after his wife, and in 1917 he bought Hempstead House, the palatial estate of Howard Gould near Port Washington. It was at these places that the other side of Mr. Guggenheim's character, his devotion to art, had full play. The house was filled with objects of art from the four quarters of the world, while the conservatories, to which he gave personal attention, were famous for their orchids, rare plants and flowers of exotic variety. In his picture galleries were masterpieces by Corot, Daubigny, Isabey, Tryon and Jakob Maris. Also there was Homer Martin's celebrated "Westchester Hills." Mr. Guggenheim was a patron of the late Louis Loeb and presented that artist's painting, "The Temple of the Winds," to the Metropolitan Museum of Art.

Mr. Guggenheim was a confirmed operagoer and was interested in many symphony concerts. One phase of music that appealed especially to him was the movement to increase the popular appreciation of the classics of music. His public spirit also made him a liberal donor to philanthropic, educational and charitable institutions.

The public spirit of Mr. Guggenheim was shown in 1924 when he and Mrs. Guggenheim caused to be incorporated the Daniel and Florence Guggenheim Foundation, composed of themselves and their children, to promote "through charitable and benevolent activities the well-being of mankind throughout the world." This foundation was heavily endowed.

Aeronautics School Created.

In 1925 Mr. Guggenheim gave $500,000 to establish a school of aeronautics in the College of Engineering at New York University. He believed that aviation could be made a public utility giving vital service to the nation's business and economic welfare as well as to its defense. In accepting the gift Chancellor Brown of New York University wrote that it contained "possibilities of immense benefits to mankind, opening the door to careers which promise to benefit our people no less than the accomplishments of other branches of science and engineering."

He established in 1926 the Daniel Guggenheim Fund for the Promotion of Aeronautics. He gave $2,500,000 for this to promote aeronautical education, extension of fundamental aeronautical science and the development of commercial aircraft as an aid to business. The trustees of the fund are men distinguished in aviation, engineering, law and business, who with Mr. Guggenheim were convinced that the primary need in aviation was the promotion of safety, and voted in the Spring of 1927 prizes aggregating $150,000 in a safe aircraft competition. One of the most important contributions of the fund was a grant totaling $908,000 for the promotion of aeronautical education in several American universities and colleges.

In 1927 the fund also made a loan to one of the contract air mail companies to finance an experimental passenger air route. It has cooperated with various Government and other agencies in the study of phenomena affecting flying and the perfection of instruments to aid it. It financed in 1926 a country-wide tour by the Byrd North Pole plane to focus attention on the need of developing aircraft and establishing municipal airports.

When Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh returned from Paris he made a tour of the entire country under the auspices of the fund to increase popular interest in aviation, and after his return he joined the organization as an adviser and was made a trustee.

In July, 1930, Mr. Guggenheim announced a contribution of $100,000 to aid in carrying on experiments conducted for several years by Professor Robert H. Goddard of Clark University, Worcester, Mass., to develop rockets for exploration of the atmosphere at extreme altitudes. Mr. Guggenheim believed that the data obtained in this manner would be of great value to aviation and to radio communication.

Earlier in the year the trustees of the fund announced a grant of $300,000 to the Georgia Institute of Technology for the establishment of an aeronautical engineering centre in the South.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Sept. 28.—The death of Daniel Guggenheim, owing to the lateness of the hour the news was received in London, will not be known to British flying men until tomorrow, but late editions of the newspapers for circulation at breakfast time carry striking tributes to the man who, The Daily Express says, scorned gold for copper.

The history of the Guggenheim family and its millions is retold as a romance and inspiration, and Daniel Guggenheim's generous gifts in the interests of aviation are held to have been of inestimable value in the development of safer flying.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

SANTIAGO, Chile, Sept. 28.—As no evening newspapers were published here today, the public was not informed of the death of Daniel Guggenheim. The morning newspapers, however, review the outstanding incidents in his interesting career, expressing sorrow at his sudden end.

Scientists Tell How To Live Longer

Ignorance and apathy are among the principal enemies to a long and healthy life. According to the latest census reports, at least 1,236,949 deaths occur annually in the United States Registration Area. This Registration Area covers about 91.3% of our population. The following outstanding chronic diseases which contributed to more than one-half of this death rate are peculiarly the result of ignorance and apathy:

	Deaths
Heart and Circulation	240,412
Cancer	103,578
Kidney Disease	103,304
Apoplexy	90,316
Tuberculosis	87,567
Diabetes	18,937

These figures are for the year 1927, the latest available. The annual loss in the entire population from these chronic diseases, which often persist for years without manifesting their presence, is about 700,000. Nearly every leading authority in the medical world and specialists in the above diseases agree that the most essential factor in the prevention and control of these diseases is the periodic health examination.

In this connection, a leading heart specialist said: "Former heart patients are not the only people who require an annual physical inventory. Every person—child or adult—should have an annual audit of health made. The busier a man is the more he needs it. The older he grows the more he needs it. Disease is often so sneaking in approach and so underhand in attack that it is the height of folly to wait until one falls sick before seeing a doctor. This is the day of prevention."

To those who are skeptical as to the value of such examinations the experience of the Life Extension Institute is the best answer. Statistical studies made on large groups of people examined by the Institute show that on the third annual examination 50% of the impairments noted on the first examination had been corrected. At ages 50 to 60 a reduction in the death rate of 53% was effected. At all ages there was a reduction of 18% to 23% in representative groups. Among those with serious impairments there was a reduction in the death rate of 53% among large groups studied.

The Discovery Of Good Health

One of the valuable results of such examinations is the discovery of good health and the elimination of needless worry over imaginary afflictions. In one large business concern where several hundred people were examined by the Institute, the management said that the whole procedure was justified by the rescue of one important employee from a state of mental and physical depression into which he had fallen without any apparent cause. The man discovered he was healthy. The result was a benefit not only to the one man, but to the whole office.

Since the Life Extension Institute was organized about 340 different financial, industrial and social organizations have subscribed to its services for the benefit of their employees. Forty-one life insurance companies extend these services to their policyholders and many thousands of men and women subscribe to either the Institute's Standard Health Examination or Unlimited Examination every year.

How to Live Long —And Keep Well

If you will send in the coupon below, the Life Extension Institute will send you further information about the value of periodic health examinations and also interesting free reprints on correct personal hygiene and the prevention of disease, including the free reprints "How to Live Long," "Hygiene at Middle Life" and "How to Keep Well." Your inquiry will involve no obligation of any kind.

These life extension examinations are available everywhere, as the Institute has medical examiners in all the principal cities and towns in the United States and Canada, and in several foreign countries. There are special departments for women and children at the Institute's Home Office, with both men and women examining physicians in attendance.

The Institute renders no treatment, performs no operations, but makes a scientific survey of your whole life and body to determine the need for medical treatment, for correction of defects, or better regulation of the ways of living. Everyone should be examined annually, either by the family physician, through the Life Extension Institute, or by any other accredited scientific agency. Use the coupon below.

SAY REVOLT IS UNDER WAY

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MADRID, Sept. 28.—An orderly crowd of 20,000 persons jamming the Madrid bull ring today at a national republican meeting heard eight of Spain's leading advocates of a republic insist that Spain is now living through a revolutionary period, that King Alfonso is trying vainly to sustain the monarchy and that a revolutionary blow is the only means by which his alleged absolutism can be ended, since the King blocks peaceful methods. Several thousand more were turned away.

Allowed to speak for the first time in seven years, all of the orators adopted an optimistic tone, urging the cooperation of the republican parties to bring a republic soon.

Although the hot sun beat on them and the speakers excited them, the audience, mainly laborers and middle class workers, showed excellent discipline, limiting their demonstrations to frequent handclapping. They obeyed instructions from the tribune instantly and even drowned out several attempts at cheering by hissing.

While the tone of all the addresses was somewhat violent, it was remarked that the meeting was held with Premier Berenguer's express permission and that the republicans have shown surprisingly little courage in recent months.

Guards lined nearby streets and a military company was kept in reserve out of sight near the bull ring. In the course of the meeting a military airplane passed overhead.

Speakers From Provinces.

The accents of the Northern Province of Galicia and the Southern province of Andalusia, as well as the Eastern seaport of Valencia, were heard as provincial speakers asserted that their districts were "solidly against the King."

Surprisingly enough, it was Alcala Zamora, introduced as the chief of the Right Wing Republicans, who made the strongest address, making it clear that Republicans would not treat with Santiago Alba and the Liberals in the formation of a government. Señor Alba announced after an interview with the King that he wished cooperation.

Señor Zamora said:

"The Liberal Monarchial leaders signed a pact at Hendaye, France, last week. To Alfonso it must have seemed uncomfortably close to Bayonne. [It was at Bayonne, France, that Napoleon forced one of the Spanish Kings to abdicate.] The Crown is the most illegitimate thing in Spain today, since it is unconstitutional. It is a weak government that must resort to force and expel its enemies as Senor Berenguer's did—Macia, the Catalan leader, was sent to France only yesterday.

Marcellino Domingo, who demands, perhaps, more attention than any one else on the platform stated:

"In 1917 the revolution began. The country found the State was not answering the problems of our time. We need now only a definite act to impose a republic and our glorious history shows we can be a great democracy.

"The autocracy opposes us. Revolution is our duty. Spain must reorganize her economic forces to complete her historical destiny, the people must be considered as assets, not liabilities, as now. The monarchy has lived outside the law, and a government like it cannot now exist in Europe. There are no great men like Maura and others to save the monarchy in times of disquietude as in the past. No hysteria but a sense of discipline and duty is necessary. We must change a seventeenth century country to a twentieth century State."

There is much conjecture as to how the uncensored press will handle the speeches tomorrow. Broadcasting was prohibited today.

25 Strike Leaders Arrested.

SANTIAGO DE COMPOSTELLA, Sept. 28 (AP).—About twenty-five leaders of a general strike called here last week were arrested today and the civil authorities prophesied speedy end of the labor agitation.

IRIGOYEN HELD TOO ILL TO BE ABOARD CRUISER

Had Serious Heart Attack Friday —Government Promises All Aid to Ex-President.

BUENOS AIRES, Sept. 28 (AP).—Former President Hipolito Irigoyen, who is a prisoner aboard the cruiser General Belgrano, anchored in the outer roads of the port, suffered a serious heart attack during the night of Sept. 26.

His doctors today reported that he was in a state of prostration and that his mental condition was bad. He is threatened now with an attack of uricemia. Dr. Meabe, the ex-President's personal physician, who has been with him ever since his government was overthrown by the successful coup of General Uriburu, found his condition serious after the attack and asked for a consultation with Dr. José Landa.

Dr. Landa visited Señor Irigoyen yesterday morning and found him so sick that he advised the government to have him brought ashore for adequate treatment. The ex-President's pulse had dropped to 55, and once to 50.

The Minister of the Interior announced this morning that the government would give Señor Irigoyen all the assistance necessary. The fallen President has been reported ill ever since he fled from Buenos Aires to La Plata, where his sickness forced his confinement to bed in the infantry barracks. From there he was transferred to the cruiser.

The Provisional Government today decided to bring Señor Irigoyen ashore from the cruiser, but did not announce when the transfer would be made. The ex-President will probably be brought to a hospital in Buenos Aires.

Chile to Revise Constitution For Parliamentary System

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

SANTIAGO, Chile, Sept. 28.—The Chilean Congress will be dissolved soon and popular elections held in accordance with a bill to be presented by the Chief Executive in a few days calling for revision of the Constitution to empower the President to dissolve Congress when the interests of the country are held to require such action.

After the recent attempt to start a revolution at Concepcion, this information, which has been confirmed in government circles, is now the topic of the day, since it is expected Congress will be dissolved and new members elected before the end of the year.

MISHAP SILENCES RADIO.

Columbia Broadcasting Halted Five Hours When Current Fails.

A burned-out cable beneath Jamaica Bay in the feed lines of the Long Island Light and Power Company, which supplies electric current to the transmitting station of WABC of the Columbia Broadcasting Company in Cross Bay Boulevard, Far Rockaway, caused more than five hours' interruption in the latter company's radio broadcasting programs last night.

The trouble developed shortly after 6:30 P. M., when power weakened and failed. The Columbia engineers began an immediate check of their apparatus but could find no trouble there. They communicated with officials of the electric company, who traced the difficulty to the power lines.

Engineers found it impossible to repair the cable last night, but when the Knickerbocker Broadcasting Company learned of the Columbia's predicament it volunteered the use of Station WPCH at Edgewater, N. J., and broadcasting was resumed.

To Open Course on Visual Teaching

The American Museum of Natural History will open a course to teachers in New York City schools Thursday on the types of apparatus for use in visual instruction. The course will consist of a series of demonstrations with individual laboratory work in which the members of the class will learn how to make use of the apparatus for classroom work. Lecturers will include Curator George H. Sherwood; L. Wales Holden, in charge of projection; Mrs. Grace Fisher Ramsay and Dr. Clyde Fisher.

REPUBLICANS PLAN RADIO CAMPAIGN

Program of Nation-Wide Broadcast Speeches Is Arranged for Coming Month.

NEW YORK ISSUE STRESSED

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28.—The Republican party will engage in an intensive radio broadcasting campaign in the interest of electing its candidates for Congress and State offices and to counteract the attacks which are being made on the Hoover Administration by Democratic critics.

Men high in the party ranks, including two members of President Hoover's Cabinet, will deliver six speeches, three of them over the National Broadcasting System and the other three over the Columbia Broadcasting System. In each instance there will be a nation-wide hook-up.

Senator James E. Watson of Indiana, floor leader of the Senate, will lead off on Oct. 2 with "Intimate Sketches of Democratic Contortionists" as his subject. The title itself indicates that the Republicans have determined to hit hard at their adversaries.

Speaking from New York on Oct. 20, Emory A. Buckner, former Federal Attorney for the Southern District of New York, will cover "Tammany Corruption." The broadcasting of this address from one end of the country to the other shows that the Republican National Committee hopes to help its candidates for Senator, Representative, Governor and other offices in many States by stressing the evidence of trading in judgeships in New York City against the Democrats.

The Democrats will also have an intensive broadcasting program which will include addresses already delivered by party orators. For the present the Democrats are confining their national appeal chiefly to statements issued through the National Committee.

The day's output came from Senator Tydings of Maryland. He contended that five Republican Senators who were not candidates for another term were actuated in retiring from politics by the feeling "that the old band wagon is so loaded down with unfulfilled pledges, business depression and unemployment that they just have not the heart to get aboard for fear the venerable old vehicle will fall to pieces on Nov. 4 next."

The retiring Senators named by Mr. Tydings are Edge of New Jersey, now Ambassador to France; Sackett of Kentucky, now Ambassador to Germany; Gillett of Massachusetts, Goff of West Virginia and Phipps of Colorado.

The hope of Democratic leaders that the party will get control of the House as a result of the November elections is taking on a confident aspect.

At the outset of campaign activities it was conceded by many Republicans that their party was likely to lose seats as a consequence of the tendency of the electorate in off years to be less friendly toward the party in power in Washington, but they are contending that only from fifteen to twenty seats in the House now held by Republicans will go to the Democrats. The Democrats must capture fifty-three present Republican seats in order to get a majority of one in the lower body of Congress.

According to their own statements, leading Democrats will be satisfied if they capture the House alone, leaving the Republicans in control of the Senate.

It will be a merely nominal control, as even with the present Republican majority of sixteen the coalition of Democrats and insurgent Republicans is able frequently to overturn measures sponsored by the administration and with a reduction in the Republican ranks the coalition will be much stronger in the next Congress.

CAPITAL CATHEDRAL RECEIVED $7,000,000

Bishop Freeman, on Anniversary Eve, Tells 7-Year Total Toward Goal of $35,000,000.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28.—The Right Rev. James E. Freeman declared today on the eve of the seventh anniversary of his consecration as Bishop of Washington that national interest in the building of Washington Cathedral was too widespread and intense to allow economic conditions to affect the steady pursuance of its construction.

"It is my privilege to announce that approximately $7,000,000, or an average of $1,000,000 a year, have been received during the last seven years for the cathedral enterprise on this matchless site," he said.

"Our task will not be finished and we shall not be true to our vision until a total of $35,000,000 has been raised for the completion and endowment of the noble cathedral and its associated buildings and agencies for Christian service."

AIR MAIL IS STOLEN.

Two Pouches Seized After Plane Lands at Kansas City.

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 28 (AP).—Two pouches of mail of undetermined value were stolen early this morning from a Chicago-Kansas City National Air Transport plane at the municipal airport here. One of the pouches was registered.

The bags, consigned to Kansas City, were stolen at about 1:45 A. M., while the plane, brought in by E. Matucha, Chicago pilot, was left unguarded momentarily in the transfer of other pouches by the three night employes of the airport.

INNER STRIFE RENDS ARABS IN PALESTINE

By JOSEPH M. LEVY.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

JERUSALEM, Sept. 28.—The unity in the Arab ranks, which after last year's riots took on the appearance of absolute solidarity, is now rapidly disappearing.

The Christian Arabs, who were the main factors in the Arab national movement, now meet only half-heartedly with their Moslem colleagues. This has been particularly apparent and most pronounced since the recent dispute at Haifa between the Moslem and Christian communities there over the proprietorship of an old cemetery. One Christian Arab newspaper editor was killed in the row which ensued at the cemetery between Moslems and Christians.

In Palestine Arab executive circles, where the Grand Mufti, Hadj Amin el Husseini, and his entourage are the leading spirits, there is also much trouble, as in the past few months a substantial opposition movement to the Mufti has arisen.

Besides dissension in matters of politics and policy, the Arab Executive has an additional troublesome factor with which to contend. Practically all the meetings and decisions of the Executive are strictly secret, but during the past two months a leak was discovered and it was found that the government secret service was fully aware of all the proceedings of the Executive.

This leakage even led to the indictment and conviction of Subhi El Kharada, office manager of the Arab executive. He was charged by the government with writing and disseminating seditious proclamations on behalf of the Executive, and in a trial before the District Commissioner here he was found guilty and sentenced to be banished to Safed, a city in Northern Palestine, where he must remain one year under police supervision.

The Arab Executive Friday night called a secret meeting of twenty-nine members chosen from the entire membership of forty-eight for the purpose of investigating who was responsible for revealing the Executive's secrets. Omar Saleh El Barghouti, one of the three Executive's secretaries, had been under suspension and was openly accused at the meeting by Mussa Kalim Pasha, president of the Executive.

Omar admitted showing the proclamations, for the writing of which Subhi El Khadra was indicted, to a Palestine police officer before they went to press, but contended he did it in good faith without any intention of divulging information, whereupon Sheik Abdul Khaber Muzafar, one of the leading Arab agitators, arose and said: "Then we have discovered the traitor!" The assembly applauded vociferously and Omar was asked to leave the room while the assembly decided what action to take regarding his conduct. After a short interval he was recalled and asked by the President to resign his post as secretary, to which he agreed.

The meeting then took up the business of choosing a new office manager and executive secretary. It was finally decided that Jamal el Husseini, the Grand Mufti's nephew, would replace Subhi as manager and Aouni Bey Abdul Hadi would be secretary instead of Omar. Some opposition was voiced against Aouni, who is a lawyer by profession, because he employs a Jewish clerk in his office, but the opposition was overruled by the majority.

REDS ATTACK POLICE IN PARIS, INJURING 19

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Sept. 28.—Electors of Belleville, a Parisian suburb, today managed to vote for the various candidates seeking to represent them in the Chamber of Deputies without any untoward incidents, but in the evening, after the polls had closed, the appearance in front of a café of police reinforcements who had been on duty throughout the day to preserve order in this ultra-radical stronghold was the signal for the liveliest free-for-all the French capital or its environs has seen since the Sacco-Vanzetti riots three years ago.

M. Thorez, the Communist candidate for the Chamber, had been haranguing almost 100 of his supporters in the café about the affront to his candidacy, which the presence of extra police reserves at the voting places symbolized, in his opinion, when a police lorry containing thirty-five uniformed policemen halted in front of the café on its way back to headquarters.

M. Thorez himself led an attack on their automobile. When the police descended from the van they met a shower of beer steins, wine bottles and "soucoupés," the saucers marked with the price of the drink they are placed under. Even a few siphons were brought into play.

Although outnumbered about three to one, the police answered the charge of the Communists and finally arrested ninety-five of their foes, including M. Thorez. Nineteen policemen received first-aid treatment, but only one was obliged to enter a hospital.

EARTHQUAKE IN ARGENTINA.

One Andean Village Reported Razed, Others Severely Damaged.

BUENOS AIRES, Sept. 28 (AP).—Fragmentary reports reaching Salta yesterday brought first news of an earthquake in the Andes Mountains last Tuesday in which several villages were either razed or severely damaged. At least one death occurred, that of a woman.

While only one shock was felt in Salta, about thirty-seven consecutive tremblers were experienced in the Calchaquies Valley. The villages of La Merced Montevideo, Poyogastilla, Lavima and San Carlos suffered serious damage, while Santa Rosa was said to have been razed.

The absence of telegraphic or telephone communication made it difficult to obtain accurate reports of the disaster. Relief has been dispatched to the region.

EQUALITY IS ISSUE FOR EMPIRE PARLEY

ECONOMIC 'CURES' OFFERED

New Zealand Premier Is Pleased by Melchett Project—Salvation Army Urges Migration of Jobless.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Sept. 28.—There is plenty of material on which the Prime Ministers of the British Empire attending the Imperial Conference can start work on Wednesday. Their chief problem is to find a practical application of the historic declaration of the last conference in 1926 that Britain and the dominions are "autonomous communities equal in status, in no way subordinate one to another in any aspect of their domestic or external affairs." They also hope to find ways and means of making the British Commonwealth pay its way without exposing the British taxpayer to too great risk.

Practically every organization, political, industrial and economic, in Britain, even including the Salvation Army, has come forward with what it believes to be a solution of this problem, and the digestion of these weighty memoranda is in itself a colossal task for the Prime Ministers and their staffs.

Prime Minister G. W. Forbes of New Zealand yesterday got through one proposal which bore the endorsement of Lord Melchett as president of the Empire Economic Union. Premier Forbes described this as "a good scheme and the first outline in black and white of the foundations of a trade agreement which might be concluded between the dominions and Britain."

One of Lord Melchett's suggestions regarding what could be done in paving the way toward the empire's fiscal unity which particularly appealed to Mr. Forbes, is that Britain should for a period of ten years put duties of three cents per pound on foreign butter and cheese, about $1.50 on foreign apples and a quarter of a cent on foreign mutton and beef. In return New Zealand would be asked to admit free of duty articles manufactured in Britain or give them a tariff preference of 20 per cent.

Lord Melchett says the members of his union do not visualize a Chinese wall around the empire which would entirely exclude foreign trade. On the other hand, he says they definitely hold the view that an "overwhelming case exists for the special stimulation of inter-imperial trade" and it is urged that each empire unit should pursue in its purchases a policy calculated to benefit other empire countries.

Lord Melchett's organization prefers the existing system of tariff preferences, although it is admitted that in a limited number of cases there may be definite advantages in a quota system. Wheat and sugar are specified as commodities to which the quota system is specially suitable.

Commissioner David C. Lamb of the Salvation Army frankly tells the Prime Ministers in a memorandum issued tonight that the present condition of affairs with thousands of able-bodied men and women unemployed in Britain and vast undeveloped rich areas overseas is a "danger and a scandal."

Commissioner Lamb suggests the appointment of an empire development board charged with the responsibility of planning and executing the transplantation of individuals, families and whole groups of British people. He points out that $5,000,000,000 has been expended on unemployment doles in the last decade with no material gain but a considerable moral, spiritual and physical loss, and therefore urges the spending of a like sum in the next ten years on some "constructive and productive adventure."

The MacDonald Cabinet, the first Labor Government to engage in an Imperial Conference, will round off the final plans on Tuesday. The British delegation was completed today with the return of Foreign Secretary Henderson from Geneva. Apart from the work of the conference the Ministers will have a busy time before Parliament opens on Oct. 28. Premier MacDonald, Secretary Henderson and others are scheduled to attend the Labor party conference opening at Llandudno, Wales, on Monday, when forty-five resolutions on unemployment will be discussed. Considerable restlessness is expected to be shown on other matters.

TARDIEU REPEATS SECURITY IS FIRST

Tells Farmers France Will Go On Working for Peace, but Resist Reversing Formula.

UPHOLDS VERSAILLES PACT

Says Nation Will Take Precautions Which Its Sovereignty Authorizes and Safety Demands.

By CARLISLE MacDONALD.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Sept. 28.—In a significant survey of French foreign policy notable for the complete absence of any direct reference to the proposed European federation, Premier Tardieu this afternoon emphatically asserted that France would continue to work for political and economic peace in Europe upon the basis of the trilogy of security, arbitration and disarmament.

He declared that with equal energy the nation would resist all attempts to reverse the order of these terms and although anticipating the development of contractual guarantees and sanctions would take those precautions which her sovereignty authorizes and her security demands.

Thus did Premier Tardieu summarize the foreign policy of France at a moment when the public opinion of France is beset by old fears and old preoccupations regarding the future of peace on the Continent. It was his first important speech since the adjournment of Parliament and his remarks were awaited with unusual interest.

Addresses Farmers.

The occasion for the discourse was the conclusion of agricultural week at Alençon, where hundreds of farmers and representatives of many thousands who could not be there were gathered together to hear the head of the government speak upon the farm problem. The Premier's decision to devote a large part of his speech to foreign affairs was understood to have been taken at the last moment and was inspired by the desire to clarify the French position in the present disquieting European situation.

After reviewing the government's agricultural program and all that is to be done to alleviate the difficulties of the farmers, Premier Tardieu cleverly associated the condition of the French farmer with the peace of Europe. To be prosperous, said the Premier, the peasantry requires two guarantees—peace at home and peace abroad.

"The foreign policy of France is not the outcome of individual or collective improvisations," M. Tardieu continued. "It was conceived and enforced by successive governments under the permanent control of Parliament, by which it was ratified in numerous important votes, and it constitutes a well-thought-out system which must at all times be inspired by events so that necessary alterations can be made. It should not, however, be used under any circumstances to further the selfish views of political parties or personal quarrels.

Reiterates Formula.

"France — unanimous France—wishes peace and works to organize it both politically and economically throughout the world and especially in Europe. This work France intends to continue. France finds today as it did yesterday that the basis of such organization rests in the formula of security, arbitration and disarmament.

"Is it necessary to recall that within the sacred limits of security, arbitration and disarmament no country has within the last ten years reduced with as much sincerity as France its land, naval and air armaments—that no country has by its acts demonstrated more than France its will for moral appeasement and conciliation?

"If, however, France has gathered the impression that her efforts have not been reciprocated, she nevertheless noted the result and took it into account. Without regret and without fear she maintains her sangfroid and amid the blind and weak commentaries of unreasonable alarmists she remains calm, firm and vigilant.

"Our government is conscious, however, of having overlooked nothing which our calmness suggests or requires. It is the faithful defender of the treaties which are the foundation of the peace and in the service of which the government has manifested once more the unity of its policy and the favor with which it is received. As the interpreter of the will of the country, the government affirms that it would be both imprudent and a mistake to hide from foreigners by the fierceness of our political controversies the true image of peaceful France—a France sure of its strength and its right.

The Usual Conclusion.

"And thus you see me return to my usual conclusion, and if I always repeat the same thing it is because it is always the same thing. In the present condition of the world Frenchmen should recognize that there are some big problems to be solved by our country, problems of which the solution is a common necessity for all.

"How insignificant our internecine disputes appear alongside this common necessity! In serving this great cause, how much one would like to forget that which divides and mention only that which makes for union. No other than the eminent head of the State, Gaston Doumergue, speaking the other day to former soldiers, gave them this good advice: 'We cannot love all the peoples without loving our own countrymen as well.'

"What the President of the Republic said to the former combatants I say today to the farmers of France. Have for your aim the common interest. The motive power should be love of your country and readiness to work. And what a beautiful future such a method would insure!"

The first part of the Premier's speech was taken up with the agricultural crisis and the success of the government in preventing the accumulation of stocks, suppressing frauds, encouraging exportation, regulating deliveries, developing agricultural credits and cooperation, facilitating the preservation of the harvests and regulating the influx of foreign farm labor.

Work for Agriculture.

"We have also stimulated agricultural teaching," said M. Tardieu. "We have bettered the conditions of rural life regarding communications, transport, telephones and the distribution of electric power. All that is still going on because nothing is ever finished, but much has nevertheless been achieved."

Speaking of the future M. Tardieu said the chief enemy to be overcome was the capricious variation of prices. There was but one means of eliminating this evil, the Premier went on to say, and that was by a vast organization to regulate the entire agricultural activity of the country.

"The studies of our best experts and the recent international agricultural conference at Warsaw show the agricultural world favors the creation of regulating bodies," M. Tardieu concluded. "Applied to our country, such a system could assure control of the exportation and importation of all products essential to the agriculture of the mother country and North Africa. Representatives of the producers, traders, millers and consumers should participate under the liberal direction of the government."

Considerable importance also attached to a speech by Alexandre Millerand, former President and recognized leader of the conservatives, at the same agricultural rally. Turning to M. Tardieu, who was seated next to him, M. Millerand made a moving plea for national unity, realism and energy instead of party politics that only divide.

"You, André Tardieu, by your realism, have deserved and conquered the popularity of this country, which is over saturated with words," M. Millerand said. "You have spoken the language of the chief and France has understood it and acclaimed you. This country—have no doubt about it—appreciates and fully approves the new language you use. In it the younger generation recognizes the sound and accent of the modern policy which they had hoped for following the events that upset the world."

BRANDS 'VENUS' FORGERY.

Austrian Expert Says Wisternitz Statue Was Carved Four Years Ago.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

VIENNA, Sept. 28.—Dr. Josef Bayer, director of the Vienna Natural History Museum, after an examination of the statuette called the "Venus of Wisternitz," has pronounced it a forgery.

"Herr Millender, the owner of a statuette in ivory, apparently a work of the Stone Age, sent it to me for examination and I instantly pronounced it a forgery," Dr. Bayer declared. "Recently his representative sent me a second statue of this type, which Herr Millender wanted to sell to an American for a price higher than that of the most expensive Rubens.

"The would-be purchaser was wise enough to insist that experts guarantee it was 20,000 years old. It was submitted to me for examination and I have come to the conclusion that it was carved four years ago from a fossilized mammoth tusk by a skilled person familiar with diluvial art."

NAMED TO PROSECUTE ELECTION FRAUD HERE

Harold Riegelman Will Direct Drive Against "Colonization" and Coercion.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Sept. 28.—Harold Riegelman is to have charge of the prosecution of election frauds in New York City, it was announced today at the office of Attorney General Hamilton Ward.

Samuel A. Berger and Marshall Snyder will act with Mr. Riegelman, Mr. Berger in New York County and Mr. Snyder in Kings County. Designations for the Bronx, Queens and Richmond will be made later.

It is proposed to make a drive against colonization of doubtful districts, the coercion of timid voters and imposition under the guise of instruction. This was decided at a conference in the office of the Attorney General recently.

Mr. Riegelman probably will have the cooperation of civic associations interested in maintaining an honest ballot. He will shortly issue a call for volunteers to supplement the staff furnished him by the State.

Mr. Riegelman has been Special Assistant Attorney General in charge of constitutional cases in the Federal and State courts and was counsel to the State commission on revision of the tenement house law. He has been a State Veterans' Relief Commissioner since 1922. His campaign will be conducted from his office in the Graybar Building in New York City.

IN THE DRAPERY SHOP
Hand-Blocked Drapery Satin
as a wedding gift to Marie Antoinette

IT is one of the finest things in the collection of magnificent drapery fabrics which has just arrived . . . rare silks and velvets from the age-old looms of France and Italy.

All the beauty and romance of the tragic queen seem caught and held captive in the glorious lengths of this gleaming satin. Garlands of delicately tinted field and garden flowers catch up the sheaves of slender water leaves, of sea-like blue green, within which are set enchanting scenes suggestive of the pleasure loving spirit of the young queen. The temple of love, symbols of the Muses, bright birds escaping their open cages and a pheasant rising from her grassy nest, of such engaging delicacy against the limpid light and shadow of the radiant antique-ivory satin.

The Pattern is an Eighteen-foot Repeat

It was destined to adorn the great windows of the queen's apartments at Fontainebleau. The first reproduction was made for the Paris Exposition in 1889. After that the wooden blocks from which this was hand-blocked, so faithfully carrying the secret of the superb beauty of the original hangings, were tucked away and forgotten. They came to light after the War. Some of the blocks had been sadly damaged by a Big Bertha shell. These fine old blocks were restored especially for Wanamaker's, who now enjoy the world rights to this rare Louis XVI design. But having the blocks and the color secret for our own it was still necessary to find a fabric wide enough to carry the design. We ordered the all-silk satin, 66 inches wide from Lyons where the first fabric had its origin . . . a texture of unspeakable richness, a perfect background for the exquisite pattern.

It took eight months to loom and hand-block the 120 yards which are now available in the Drapery Shop and which offer such a wealth of feeling to any interior of Louis XVI inspiration.

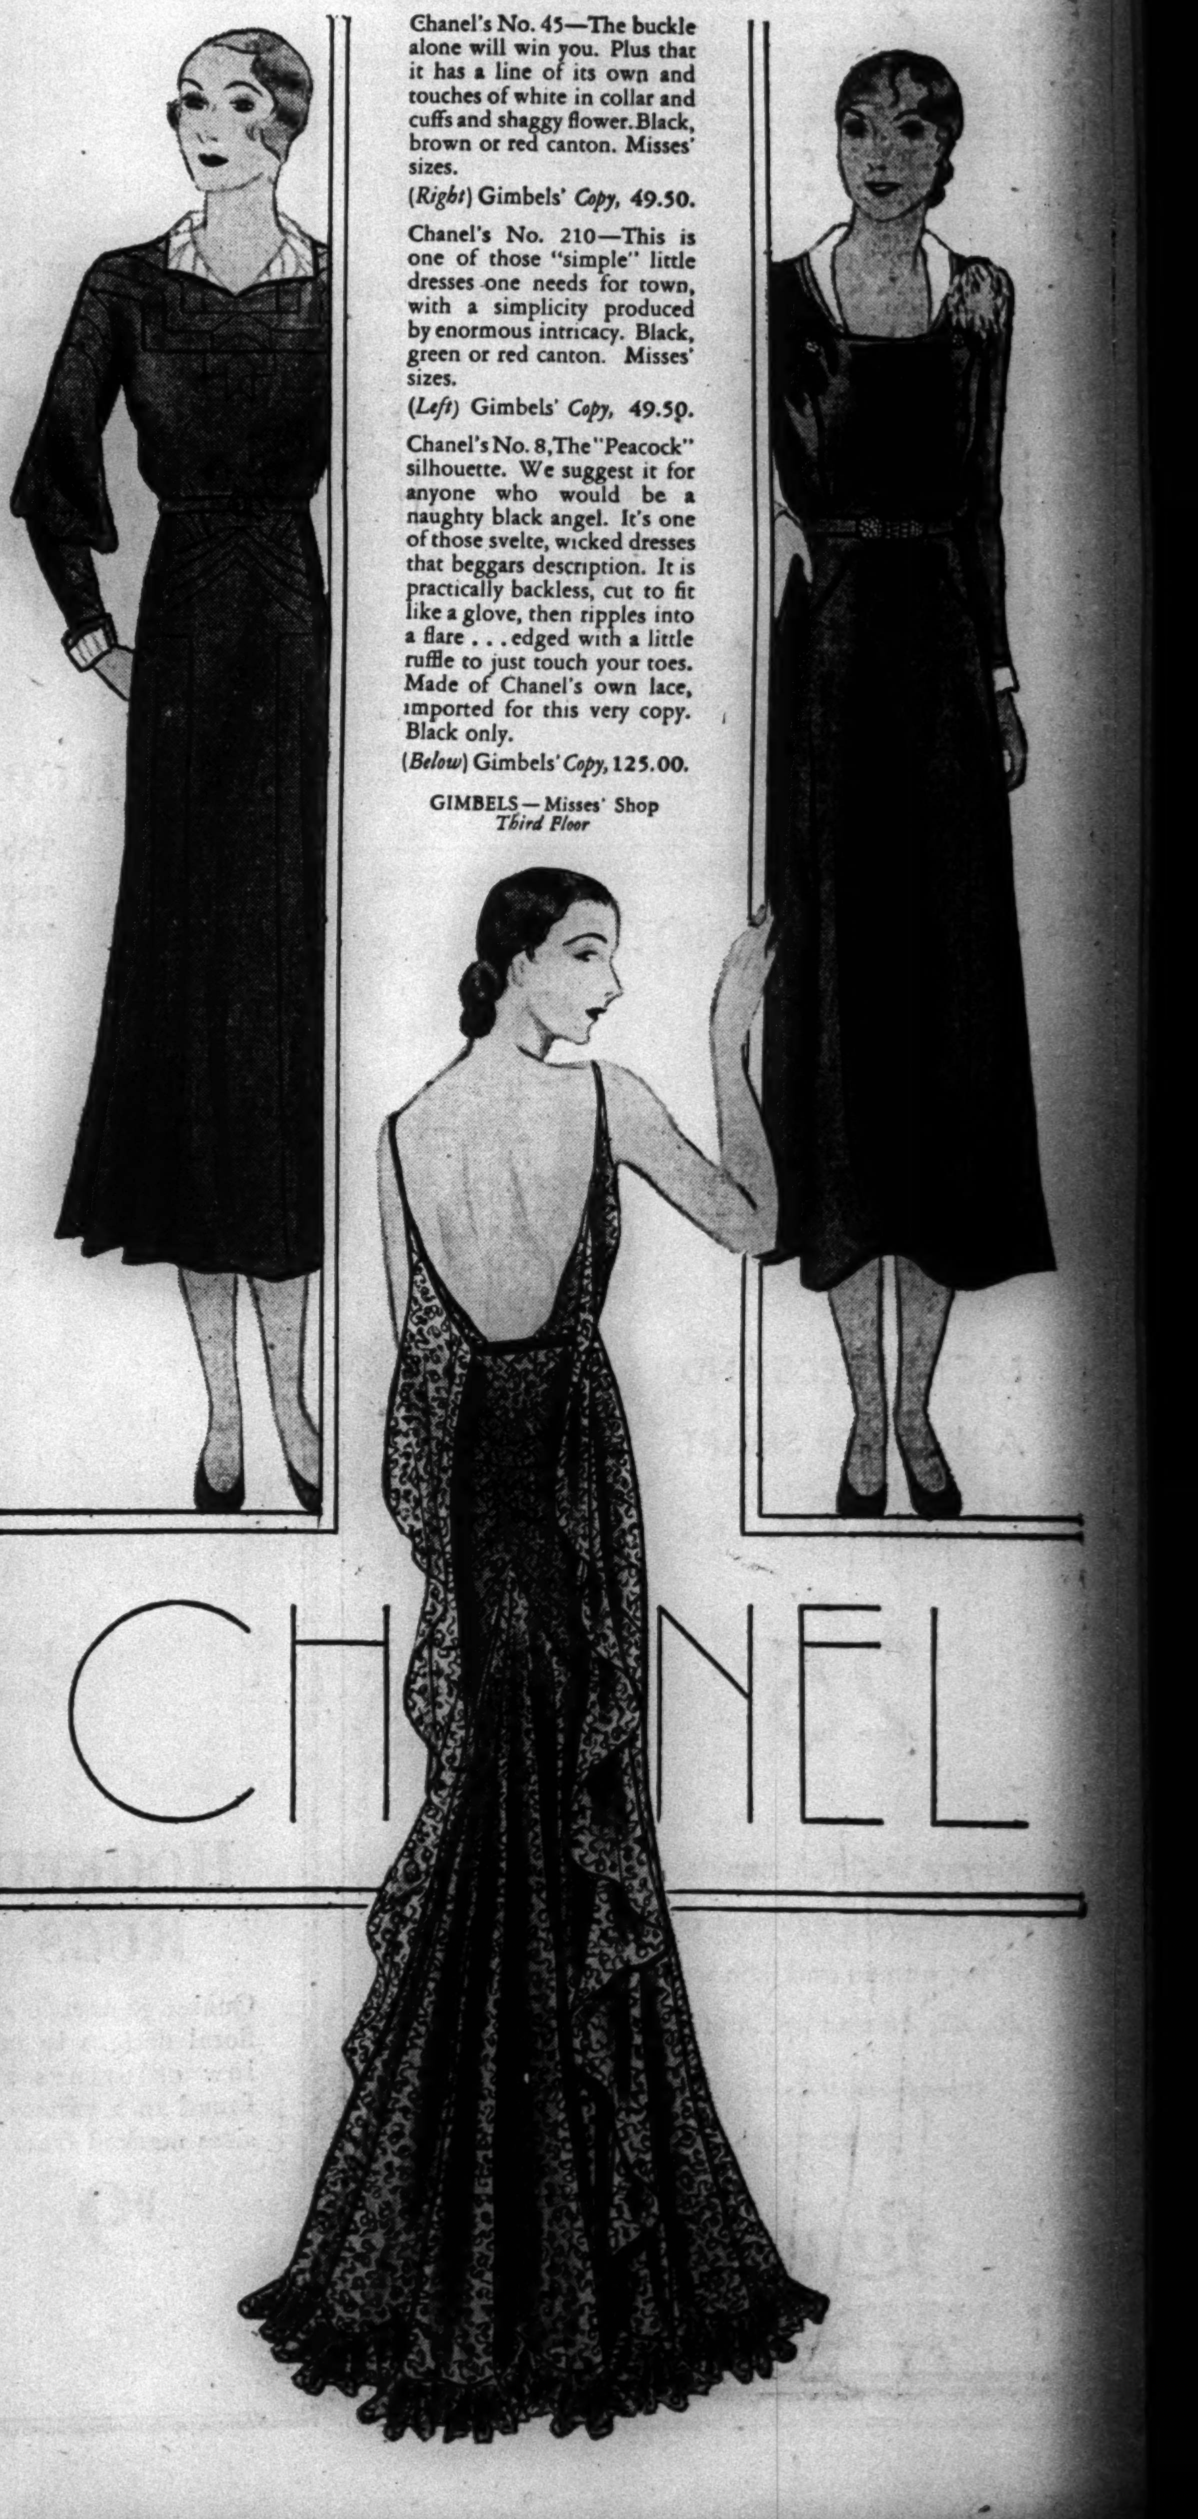
Who Can Be Happy Without a
CHANEL?

No feminine creature who cares about clothes, is our answer. Season after season, the women who set fashion, go to her for their clothes. Because there is no one in Paris who can surpass Chanel at making clothes with just that intangible something that is so devastatingly chic. Season after season, the women who follow fashion, snap up the good copies as soon as they are out. These three copies of three famous dresses are just out, and made so exactly like the originals that Chanel, herself, would be put to it to tell the difference. You'll find them in Gimbels' Misses' Shop.



Chanel's No. 45—The buckle alone will win you. Plus that it has a line of its own and touches of white in collar and cuffs and shaggy flower. Black, brown or red canton. Misses' sizes.
(Right) Gimbels' Copy, 49.50.

Chanel's No. 8, The "Peacock" silhouette. We suggest it for anyone who would be a naughty black angel. It's one of those svelte, wicked dresses that beggars description. It is practically backless, cut to fit like a glove, then ripples into a flare . . . edged with a little ruffle to just touch your toes. Made of Chanel's own lace, imported for this very copy. Black only.

BRIAND AND CURTIUS SEEK CLOSER BOND

LOSS OF STRESEMANN FELT

HAVE LONG TALK TOGETHER

Geneva Meetings Are Expected to Result in Alliance Like That Formed in 1924.

By CLARENCE K. STREIT.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

GENEVA, Sept. 28.—The uneasy situation caused by the German elections and subsequent statements by Adolf Hitler, Fascist chief, are beginning to promise to have much the same effect, a drawing closer together of the Foreign Ministers of Germany and France, as in the similar situation resulting from the German elections in 1924.

Then, when the prospects looked in many respects as black as now, Foreign Ministers Briand and Stresemann, each feeling the need of the mutual support that comes from mutual understanding, began forming a close personal friendship that led to Germany's entry into the League of Nations, the Locarno treaties, the Dawes plan and the whole Franco-German policy of reconciliation.

Dr. Stresemann is gone now, and though his successor, Dr. Julius Curtius, stands for the Stresemann policies, he has not had time to develop the same personal element in his relations with M. Briand. One gets the strong impression in some German and French circles here that both Dr. Curtius and M. Briand now feel the lack of that mutual personal understanding and intend to lose no time in developing it.

Curtius and Briand Confer.

Dr. Curtius had a long talk here yesterday with M. Briand about the whole European situation, and in German quarters it was said tonight that the two Foreign Ministers plan to have several more such intimate conversations before the Assembly ends next Friday. The impression is given that their aim is not to settle detailed questions but to discuss general policies in the same way Dr. Stresemann and M. Briand began with the same object.

Dr. Curtius and M. Briand each feels his personal position is weakened at home and each apparently wants to fortify that position and the policy it represents by reaching a personal understanding. Thereby each will know what the other intends to do in the next few months and can depend on him to do it. If the two do develop the same confidence in each other that M. Briand and Dr. Stresemann did—and since they are building on that friendship it should be easier than in 1924—each obviously would have a great advantage when he returns to domestic politics, having the certainty of holding an ace in the hole in a game full of uncertainty for the others.

The parallel of the situation in 1924 with that of today now strikes observers here. Then the German elections resulted in the Socialists dropping from 172 to 100 seats, while the Communists leaped from fifteen to sixty-two, and the Nationalists—as great a source of European anxiety then as the Hitlerites now—jumped from sixty-five to ninety-six. The 1924 election brought forty gloomy comments from President Poincairé and from French and other newspapers almost the same as now. The anxiety was increased in 1925, when Marshal von Hindenburg was elected President of Germany. Yet when Dr. Stresemann and M. Briand, stimulated by the gloom, began working together they were able to bring the governments presided over by Marshal von Hindenburg and Raymond Poincairé to Locarno.

The German elections, it is pointed out, were only one element in a bad European situation then as now. In 1920 the French evacuated the Ruhr, as they now have evacuated the Rhine. In 1924 reparations were unsettled and the financial situation in France, Germany and elsewhere was unstable; now the world is in the grip of an economic depression.

In 1924 M. Briand anl Dr. Stresemann needed in the midst of the prevailing uncertainty to know what each was going to do about reparations, German entry into the League and Rhineland evacuation. Now that is all water under the bridge, but Dr. Curtius and M. Briand do not know what each is going to do to keep the psychological and material achievements that have been gained and what policy they are going to follow in the big conferences on disarmament and on concerted European economic action here in November as well as in the coming series of meetings on European federation.

The are not likely to have a chance to see each other again before the January meeting of the League Council. If they are going to reach an understanding and hold up each other's hands against revived nationalism on both sides of the Rhine they have only a few days in which to do it, but they have started. If M. Briand is no longer strengthened by having a Left majority behind him in Paris his personal prestige, on the other hand, is far greater. If Dr. Curtiss is a new man, Dr. Stresemann was new in 1924.

The obstacles do not appear to observers here to be greater than those of 1924 and the outside forces tending to create a Briand-Curtius friendship appear to be as strong as those that brought M. Briand and Dr. Stresemann together. M. Briand and Dr. Stresemann had reached a point where the former's affectionate tribute to the latter a few days ago in Geneva could bring tears to the eyes of not a few hearers who had seen that friendship change the face of Europe.

DOLORES DEL RIO BETTER.

Doctor Now Reveals Actress Was for a Time Near Death.

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 28 (AP).—Dolores Del Rio, Mexican film star, it was revealed by her physician, Dr. E. C. Fishbaugh, today, is recovering after six weeks of illness in the course of which she was several times near to death.

Although it was announced several weeks ago that Miss Del Rio had been stricken, studio officials denied she was in a critical condition. Her marriage to Cedric Gibbons, film art director, took place in Santa Barbara shortly before she became ill. It had been necessary to keep the alarming nature of her sickness from her as worry might have proved fatal, Dr. Fishbaugh said.

Dr. Fishbaugh said the actress had a temperature of 105 degrees for a time, but was now safely on the road to recovery. More than a month must elapse before she will be allowed to leave her home, he said.

CALL HARKNESS GIFT THE PILGRIM TRUST

NATION'S STAMINA LAUDED

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Sept. 28.—Former Premier Stanley Baldwin, in a letter to The London Times, reveals that a charity fund recently given to Great Britain by Edward Stephen Harkness, American railway magnate and philanthropist, will be known as the Pilgrim Trust and that Mr. Harkness has given the trustees complete discretion as to the use of the fund for any purpose covered by the legal word "charitable," which Mr. Baldwin points out is a term of wide interpretation.

The gift, the amount of which is not yet disclosed, was prompted, says Mr. Baldwin, by the manner in which Britain incurred and bore the burdens of the World War and the preamble to the trust deed reads:

"Whereas it is acknowledged by all that Britain in the war spent her resources freely in common cause and in years since peace has sustained honorably and without complaint a burden which has gravely increased the difficulties of life for her people; and

"Whereas by the bounty of Providence America has of late enjoyed an ample measure of prosperity, and the donor himself has been blessed with worldly means; and

"Whereas the donor feels himself bound by many ties of affection to the land from which he draws his descent; and

"Whereas it seems to him that it is right for a private American citizen to show his admiration for what Britain has done by a gift to be used for some of her more pressing needs; and

"Whereas he is in hopes that such a gift wisely applied may assist, not only in tiding over the present time of difficulty but in promoting future well-being"—

As trustees Mr. Harkness has appointed Stanley Baldwin, Lord MacMillan, Sir James Colquhoun Irvine, Sir Josiah Stamp and John Buchan. Mr. Baldwin's letter concluded:

"We are confident that this splendid benefaction, inspired by such a purpose, will be received with the warmest gratitude by our countrymen."

The London Times will say editorially tomorrow:

"It cannot be easy to find a collective voice to express authentically the spontaneity and warmth of the myriad of individual responses to the announcement, but Mr. Baldwin's concluding assurance can be taken literally."

St. Andrew's University at Edinburgh, THE TIMES recalls, includes Mr. Harkness among its chief benefactors; Oxford has proofs of his good-will through Lincoln College and through a preservation trust, and the Shakespeare Memorial Theatre will embody it no less. Many British citizens have been beneficiaries of the Commonwealth Fund founded by Mr. Harkness's mother to give selected men and women from Britain and the Dominions opportunity for two years of contact with life in the United States in its universities.

Quits Yugoslavian Cabinet.

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia, Sept. 28 (AP).—The resignation of Dr. Anton Koroshetz from the Cabinet, in which he occupied the post of Minister of Forests and Mines, was officially announced today. Impaired health was given as the cause. Douchan Tsernetzban of Drave Province was appointed to the vacant portfolio.

CONQUEST OF RUSSIA ONE AIM OF HITLER

SCOUTS PEACEFUL REVISION

Holds France Must Be Settled With Sooner or Later in "Last Fight to the Finish."

BERLIN, Sept. 28 (AP).—Inasmuch as the victory of Adolf Hitler's Fascist party in the recent elections has not been followed by a specific description of the "third Reich" he hopes to create on the ruins of the present republic, many Germans are consulting Herr Hitler's book, "My Fight," for further light on the party's aims.

The book, known as "the German Fascist Bible," has done little to clear up Herr Hitler's general statement of internal political aims before the Supreme Court at Leipzig on Thursday. On the subject of the Fascist foreign policy, however, it is specific enough.

Fascist Germany's foreign policy, Herr Hitler proclaims in the book, will aim at nothing less than the conquest of Russia, which he describes as a vast territory of untold wealth, utterly demoralized by Bolshevism, and awaiting some one to come in and really organize and govern.

"Must Have More Room."

Herr Hitler does not try to justify this policy of conquest on the ground of making Russia safe for religion or capitalism or anything else recently believed endangered there. It is reason enough, he states, that Germany must widen her frontiers or perish. He says that Germany, cramped within her present boundaries and without colonial outlets, simply must have more room.

"Just as our forefathers did not get the land we live on as a gift from Heaven but had to fight for it, just so will the land which means life for our people not come through an act of grace, but only by the might of our victorious sword," he writes.

Herr Hitler seems amused at those Germans who hope by peaceful negotiation to regain Germany's 1914 boundaries.

"Only childishly naïve minds can entertain the thought that they can accomplish the correction of the Versailles Treaty by sneaking, begging methods," he writes. "However, the boundaries of 1914 mean absolutely nothing to the future of Germany. In those boundaries lies neither safeguards for the past nor strength for the future."

The Fascist leader likewise scoffs at the cry for a new German fleet and the return of lost colonies. Decidedly disagreeing with the former Kaiser's old slogan, "Germany's future is in her fleet," he says the trouble with the old régime was that it ran after a dream of colonies and sea power.

Settling With France.

Herr Hitler believes Fascist Germany must move only in directions which do not clash with those of powers whose post-war interests naturally are moving them in the direction of a German alliance, namely, Italy and England. He says France, "the natural enemy," will have to be dealt with sooner or later, but that Fascism must put an end to the German urge southward and westward and turn the nation's gaze "toward the land in the east."

Concerning the necessity of really "settling with France sooner or later," Herr Hitler writes:

"So long as the everlasting conflict between Germany and France is carried on only in the form of German defense against French aggression it never will be decided. Germany will lose from century to century one position after another.

"Only when this is fully realized in Germany and the German nation's will to live no longer is nullified in mere passive defense but gathers itself together for a definitely active settlement with France and with the most far-reaching German aims throws itself into a last fight to the finish—only then will it be possible to call a halt to the everlasting, and in itself so fruitless, struggle between ourselves and France.

"Always, of course, on the supposition that Germany views in the destruction of France only a means to providing at last in another direction the expansion possible for our nation."

The excerpts from Herr Hitler's book were drawn from the 1930 edition. The book itself was first published in 1926.

HENRY FORD IMPRESSES OBERAMMERGAU FOLK

Villagers Throng About Noted Visitor—He Is Deeply Moved on Seeing Passion Play.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

OBERAMMERGAU, Germany, Sept. 28.—Henry Ford and his party attended the last presentation of the Passion Play today, sitting through the eight-hour unfolding of the story of the Saviour from His entry into Jerusalem to the resurrection, and following the English-German texts closely. At the close Mr. Ford declared the presentation exceeded all his expectations and evoked his highest admiration. He was particularly impressed with the fact that the villagers had done it all without any outside help.

After the performance the party dined with Anton Lang, a former Christus of the Passion Play and present prologue reader, whom several of them had met in America.

Mr. Ford arrived here yesterday afternoon and took lodgings with that branch of the many-sided Lang family which maintains a wood carving and book shop in the village market place. He visited Anton Lang after luncheon, stopping for tea. Afterward Anton Lang escorted the motor car manufacturer through the village, pointing out places of interest and presenting him to several of the leading players, including those in the rôles of Saint Peter, Saint John and Mary Magdalene, with all of whom Mr. Ford conversed briefly in German.

Mr. Ford's progress was followed by a throng of wide-eyed villagers, far more impressed than they could have been by royalty, and by an army of professional and amateur photographers. When he had seen the sights, he returned to his quarters and found that the Mayor's committee bearing the massive village golden book, in which they desired Mr. Ford to inscribe his name. This he did gladly.

Mr. Ford and his party will motor to Nurenberg tomorrow.

There will now be no more performances of the Passion Play here until 1940.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MELBOURNE, Sept. 28.—The Labor Government received a setback in the State Parliament today by the election at Hawthorn, a residential suburb of Melbourne, of a Nationalist candidate, Councilor Gray, who defeated a Laborite, Mr. Hulz, by 12,430 votes to 7,116.

In the previous election Sir William McPherson, Nationalist, who has retired, polled 10,978 votes to Mr. Hulz's 9,614.

Exceptional interest was shown by the fact that more than 90 per cent of the electorate voted and the Labor defeat was equally pronounced in Labor's own stronghold.

The Nationalists assert the result will stem the tide of pessimism and mark the beginning of new era. A feature of the election was the work of speakers belonging to the newly formed "Young Nationalist Party," who will be thrown into the forthcoming New South Wales elections to assist T. R. Bavin, the Nationalist Premier there.

SUICIDE OF ENGINEER LAID TO ERROR IN BID

Norton-Griffiths Said to Have Feared Egypt Would Cancel $10,000,000 Contract.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Sept. 28.—Behind the suicide of Sir John Norton-Griffiths at Alexandria Saturday lies a story of this world-famous engineer's fear that there had been a miscalculation in the $10,000,000 Assuan dam contract which would injure his professional reputation. Friends here say Sir John was distracted by the knowledge that the contract might be taken out of his hands by the Egyptian Government and that he might be held responsible for a difference of $1,500,000 between his estimate and the next tender.

His body, a bullet wound in the head, was found in a boat just twenty-four hours before the arrival of Sir Murdoch MacDonald, consulting engineer to the Egyptian Government, who, when informed the Norton-Griffiths Company had suspended work, rushed out to Egypt in an endeavor to avert the national catastrophe which might occur from drought if the dam were not raised the necessary four and one-half feet by February.

The Norton-Griffiths bid on the Assuan project is said to have allowed for ordinary steel when the rustless kind was wanted. Sir John is understood a few weeks ago to have borrowed $150,000 from the National Bank of Egypt, which was pressing for repayment. Friends here during the past week had been making desperate efforts to save the situation for him.

It is understood the Egyptian Government will call for fresh tenders and the heightening of the dam will be resumed before the end of the year.

THE days of Sammy the Spendthrift Scion, scattering his patrimony through four gilded college years, is only a fancy in the minds of our grandfathers now.

Almost a majority of these young men are partially self-supporting today. At Columbia, for example, approximately 60% of the undergraduates are earning part or all of their expenses.

The Sackville $37.50, besides representing the utmost value for the dollar, is particularly indigenous to the college scene. It's not fancy. It has an informal masculine air about it. It will wear like you want it to, and can stand the none too meticulous care you give it.

LIFE

Inasmuch as most New Yorkers are expected to pull up stakes and try a different apartment almost every October, we always conspire here at Macy's to help the change of scene along materially.

Even though you're not moving we have designs on you. We want to help everybody get a new lease on life, a new outlook, pleasanter surroundings. That's one of the reasons why the prices of our housewares and rugs and silverware and china are made particularly tempting in this month of migration. The other reason is we like to be busy. We like a large volume of business better even than moonlight on the Chrysler Building, and there's nothing that stimulates volume quite so much as low prices.

The clothing trade favors adding another month to the calendar! Then, maybe, there'd be a more rational change of seasons; useless trying to persuade men to put on heavier clothes just because it's the first month of Autumn.

But men accustomed to allowing a month for made-to-order clothes to be made, and who are inclined to economize, might profitably examine the best of our suits and topcoats.

EMPIRE FREE TRADE SEEN AS WORLD AID

LIKENS IT TO OUR PLAN

J. R. Remer Says We Could Not Have Become Great Without Our Free Trade Within Country.

Lord Beaverbrook's crusade to enclose the entire British Empire within a carefully constructed tariff wall, after the manner of the United States, was authoritatively explained to the English-speaking world yesterday in a radio broadcast from London by his chief lieutenant, John Rumney Remer, Conservative member of Parliament. It was heard in this country through WABC and other stations of the Columbia network.

Mr. Remer said that Lord Beaverbrook was the founder of the Empire Crusade and chief advocate of the policy known as empire free trade, which is now attracting considerable attention in England. Because of illness he was unable to make the address himself.

"I want to tell you on Lord Beaverbrook's behalf," Mr. Remer said, "and in the words which I know he will approve, what the policy of empire free trade is and what benefit it is to the British Empire and to the English-speaking world."

The empire free trade which has given this policy its name, according to the explanation, would be carried on by the protected British industries within a tariff wall enclosing one-fourth of the populace and one-fourth of the territory of the world.

Likens It to Our System.

"It has been said that the policy of empire free trade is hostile to the United States of America and may lead to a great trade war between us," Mr. Remer said. "Healthy competition has existed in the past and will exist to the end of time. It is under this system of free trade within the economic empire of the United States, that the thirteen colonies developed into the mighty power which is now the pride of the American nation.

"The term empire free trade, which was never heard of a year ago, now reigns throughout the British Empire," Mr. Remer continued. "The empire crusade is continually drawing the attention of our own people to the example of the United States.

"There is every variety of soil and climate in the United States. Its districts are separated from one another by many thousands of miles. If one asks how it it is that all these resources have been so successfully developed, the answer surely is that there is complete free trade within the political boundaries of the United States, while there is a carefully constructed tariff wall along these boundaries to protect and safeguard the economic life of the people within them.

"The only difference between the United States, on the one hand, and the British Empire, on the other, is that the United States forms one continental area while the British Empire is a number of separate units divided from one another by the seven seas. If the people of the British Empire once set their feet in the road so successfully traveled by the people of the United States, however, the seven seas which no longer divide us, will no more retard their progress than the prairies and the mountains and the rivers in your country.

"Empire free trade aims not at the destruction of our competitors but the restoration of our own prosperity, not only in these islands but wherever the Union Jack is unfurled, and the protection of the standard of living of all British citizens against devastating competition.

Would Benefit the World.

"Visualize for one moment what the British Empire is—one-fourth of the territory of the whole world and one-fourth of the peoples of the whole world. I need not say that our proposals are exclusively aimed at the development of the great economic resources which are the heritage of the people of the British Empire.

"We cannot develop this heritage in the way we propose without benefiting the rest of the world equally with ourselves. Here again I call attention to the American example. Who does not see that unless the thirteen States of 1784 had come together in economic unity, the United States in the last half century could not have contributed as it has done to the wealth and prosperity of the whole world; and if we succeed in our policy, the result will be the same.

"The first step to be taken is that Great Britain and the lands of the British Empire should declare her intention of empire free trade. If and when she does this, the advantage of the dominions coming into the system of their own free will will be sure."

ADVERTISING FIRMS MERGE.

McCann-Erickson, Inc., Head Optimistic Over Space Buying Trend.

Newspaper advertising is an excellent barometer for forecasting business conditions and the barometer now indicates that clearer weather is ahead, in the opinion of H. K. McCann who yesterday announced the merger of two important advertising agencies—the H. K. McCann Companyand the Erickson Company. Details of the merger have been completed and after tomorrow, Mr. McCann said, the companies will be known as McCann-Erickson, Inc.

Mr. McCann will be president of the new company which, in volume of advertising handled, will rank among the first five or six advertising agencies in America. A. W. Erickson, founder and president of the Erickson Company, will be chairman of the board of the new organization, which will have headquarters at 285 Madison Avenue.

"The appropriations of the clients of McCann-Erickson, Inc., for the first six months in 1931," Mr. McCann said, "show a definite increase in newspaper advertising over the amount of newspaper space contracted for by those same advertisers in the last six months of this year. If the rise or fall of the volume of newspaper advertising parallels or precedes the rise or fall of prosperity—and I believe that this is the case—then we may confidently expect improved business conditions early next year. Inventories and market analyses made by and for our clients show that stocks of merchandise are low, which is a healthy condition. Complete recovery probably cannot be expected for a year or more, I believe."

SAYS PRISONS HERE NEED MORE KEEPERS

CAUSE FOR IDLENESS ALSO

Staffs Are Too Small to Spare Guards for Working Prisoners, He Says—Social-Service Plan Lauded.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Sept. 28.—Additional officers are needed in the various institutions under the Department of Correction in New York City, Philip G. Roosa, chief clerk, has reported to the Commission of Correction, which has approved the report. An inspection of these institutions revealed that they are undermanned, he said.

No baseball games have been permitted at the New York County penitentiary since Aug. 5, when a fight started among the 1,000 inmates, he reported. Many of the prisoners are unemployed, he noted, and said that it would be possible to employ more of the men outside if more officers were available. Eighteen more keepers are needed at once, Mr. Roosa stated.

The officials were making the best possible use of an ancient plant, part of which is more than a century old, he found. The old shop building, fifty-five years old, is unfit for the housing of prisoners, he said.

There is "danger of prisoners rushing the single officer now in the dormitories," he declared in referring to the Reformatory prison on Hart's Island. He stated that a great deal of work could be done on the island, pointing to the Old Men's Home, which was constructed by inmates, as an example of what can be done with prison labor.

"Good roads are needed," he said, "and much work could be done on the sea wall, but the management is doing all it can with the number of officers assigned to the institution. There are not enough keepers at present properly to man the dormitories at night, so that assigning more officers to day gangs is out of the question. At least fifteen more keepers are needed here."

Attention is also called to the grave danger of fire at the municipal farm at Riker's Island, where the new penitentiary is to be constructed, adding that precautions have been taken as far as possible.

"There is one officer on duty in each dormitory at night," he said. "This is not enough, but it is all that can be spared, because of the limited number of officers assigned to the island. There are only sixty-two keepers for duty; there should be at least eighty-two to properly man the premises. At least two officers should be assigned to each dormitory at night.

"During the fiscal year ended June 30 there were 1,443 admissions—547 transferred from the penitentiary and 896 from the workhouse."

"Several organizations," said the report, "are cooperating with the bureau, among them being the Association for Improving the Condition of the Poor, the Charity Organization Society, the Catholic Charities, the Jewish Board of Guardians, Women's Prison Association and the Girls' Service Club. The Social Service Exchange has promised to clear all cases referred to them.

"Much has been accomplished, such as obtaining former positions from inmates' employers; husbands, children and relatives have been located and clothing, personal property and household goods have been recovered or cared for. Girls were deported after contact had been made with families and reports of home conditions obtained from reliable sources. A monthly report is made to the Commissioner of Correction. It is most desirable that the activities of this bureau be extended."

This institution, constructed in 1852, is the receiving prison for all women sentenced to terms of more than five days, including those committed under both definite and indefinite sentences and those committed to the penitentiary.

CRIME RISE THIS YEAR SHOWN IN 772 CITIES

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28 (AP).—An upward climb in the volume of crime, from murder to petty theft, was shown yesterday in the first bulletin of a crime survey covering 772 cities in forty-four States, supervised by J. Edgar Hoover, chief of the Department of Justice Bureau of Investigation.

The bulletin covers in statistical form all "offenses known to police" from January to August and showed an upward trend in almost every type of crime.

The increase of criminal activity for August was listed by the Hoover bulletin as "slightly less than 10 per cent" over July figures previously tabulated by the International Association of Chiefs of Police.

No returns for New York City and only partial returns for Chicago were listed in the August report. With these cities eliminated, Detroit was shown to lead in the volume of crime, with 2,280 reported offenses. Los Angeles was next, with 2,183; Cleveland, third, with 1,645; San Francisco, fourth, with 1,503; St. Louis, fifth, with 1,323; Philadelphia, sixth, with 1,243, and Newark, seventh, with 1,117.

The partial figures for Chicago showed thirty-nine murders had been reported there last month, or three times as many as were known to have occurred in any other of the major cities. A total of thirteen murders was reported for Philadelphia, with Detroit and Cincinnati having eleven each.

Mail Pilot Sets a Record.

Flying a Boeing mail plane with 1,300 pounds of letters aboard, Clarence Hudson, pilot for the National Air Transport, Inc., set a record yesterday morning for the hop over the Alleghanies from Cleveland to Newark. He made the trip in two hours and forty-five minutes, cutting six minutes from the record set a week ago by Dean Smith.

UNTERMYER INSISTS ON METZ RESIGNING

6TH AV. LINE HEARING TODAY

Company to Contend Subway Can Be Built if Elevated Remains—Bankruptcy Threat Expected.

In pursuance of a Transit Commission program, which calls for aggressive action by public directors on the Interborough board to bring the company into line with pending rapid transit unification plans, Samuel Untermyer, special counsel, again has called upon Herman A. Metz to resign, leaving the way clear for the commission to name a successor. The commission also is seeking to replace Abel E. Blackmar, another of the three public directors. Thus far Mr. Metz has declined to give up his post.

Frank P. Walsh, chairman of Mayor Walker's commission on taxicabs, who was elected recently to a three-year term as a public director of the Interborough, is expected to confer with Transit Commission officials today, in preparation for the first meeting of the company's new board of directors tomorrow. Whether he will take action at that meeting to set in motion the machinery for Interborough participation in transit unity conferences may be decided today.

Mr. Untermyer repeated his demand for Mr. Metz's resignation in a letter answering a communication in which Mr. Metz had asserted that he had taken the matter of his resignation up with the old board of directors and had been advised unanimously that he could continue properly to represent both the company and the public.

"Of course, the Interborough interests are, as you say, unanimous in wanting you to remain, and for the very reason that the commission wants you to resign—that you have been representing the interests of the company contrary to those of the city," Mr. Untermyer wrote.

"The city has lost confidence in you as its representative. It wants and is entitled to have, as its three directors, representatives of its own selection whom it believes to be in sympathy with its policies. It is for the commission and not for you to decide who those representatives shall be, and it owes you no excuse or apology for its decision. You insist on remaining against its protest.

"The responsibility rests with you alone of standing in the way of the city exercising its free choice of a representative. It seems impossible to make you realize that you are no longer wanted.

"If the Interborough wants you, as it doubtless does or ought to, as one of its representatives, that is its affair. But please make room for a city representative in your place without further quibbling or delay."

The Interborough will continue today, at the Transit Commission's public hearing on the proposed immediate removal of the Sixth Avenue elevated line, to present engineering evidence to show that the city's new Sixth Avenue subway can be built safely and economically with the overhead structure in place.

Later in the week financial officers of the company are expected to give testimony bearing on the probability that early removal of the elevated line would tend to force the company into bankruptcy.

FEDERATION TO OPEN CHARITY DRIVE OCT. 19

Hotel Dinner to Mark Start of $2,221,000 Campaign to Aid Jewish Groups.

The 1930 campaign of the Federation for the Support of Jewish Philanthropic Societies would be opened formally the evening of Oct. 19 with a dinner at the Hotel Commodore, it was announced yesterday by Dudley D. Sicher, the president. The drive will have for its objective the raising of $2,221,000 in this city for the maintenance of the ninety-one social agencies making up the federation. This sum represents the deficit in a budget of $5,499,000, the remainder having been obtained already in the form of annual recurrent subscriptions and donations.

Mortimer L. Schiff will be chairman of the dinner committee, and 451 leaders of philanthropic, business and professional groups of New York will serve with him.

Mexican Budget Cut $12,320,000 in Plans; Ortiz Rubio Studies It Before Leaving on Tour

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 28.—As President Ortiz Rubio will leave the capital tomorrow for a tour of Northern Mexico to last until mid-October, Minister of Finance Montes de Oca is submitting to him this evening details of the budget expenditures of the various departments for 1931. Subject to Presidental approval, the figures will go to the Chamber of Deputies for detailed discussion.

The President has promised the Deputies that they will have the budget figures before Oct. 10. Hence today, although Sunday, is being made a working day for the Chief Executive.

The figures which President Ortiz Rubio probably will approve have been prepared by Señor Montes de Oca on the basis of the strictest economy. The estimated expenditures by the Minister of War and Marine for the coming year are placed at 65,000,000 pesos [$30,875,000, the Mexican peso being quoted at about 47.5 cents], against 79,000,000 for 1930, while the Department of Agriculture's expenses are put at 18,000,000 pesos for 1931, a decrease of 5,000,000 as compared with 1930. The Ministry of Finance, however, shows an increase of 4,000,000 pesos for 1931.

Strong efforts have been made to reduce next year's expenditures in order to insure Mexico's ability to comply with the recently closed international agreement for renewal of payments on Mexico's foreign debt. That calls for $15,000,000 in 1931.

CHARGES CENSUS PADDING.

Asbury Park Investigator Reports 8,000 Suspicious Names.

Special to The New York Times.

ASBURY PARK, N. J., Sept. 28.—Gerald Ryan, operative of the Department of Commerce Bureau of Census, Brooklyn division in New York, told newspaper men today that an investigation he had just finished in Asbury Park disclosed between 8,000 and 9,000 suspicious names in the census tabulation.

The investigation was conducted after a dispute over census figures between this city and Long Branch. Mr. Ryan's findings have been turned over to the Department of Justice. Mr. Ryan refused to reveal the names of the alleged padders here, but declared that the department was more concerned with apprehension of "the higher-ups" than with enumerators responsible.

The Ideal of a Craftsman

In every age men have striven with untiring patience for the achievement of an ideal. The name "STRADIVARIUS" on a violin immortalizes a master craftsman who lived true to his ideals.

Making a cigar of the finest quality was the ideal upon which in 1874, at Manchester, N. H., Roger G. Sullivan—starting with one cigar maker—founded 7-20-4. Today because of its ideal quality, 7-20-4 has grown to the largest hand-made cigar industry in the World.

Quality workmanship and the finest tobaccos are traditional with 7-20-4. The unswerving tenet of its founder—to keep faith with the public—has remained unchanged for over half a century. It is this firm principle which today refuses to alter that method of manufacture which has made 7-20-4 Cigar—FAMOUS FOR ITS CHOICE QUALITY.

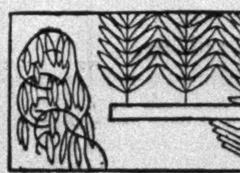
If you want the beauty that only health can give—

Change Your Intestinal Flora!



The intestinal flora are the plant organism which inhabit the intestinal tract. They are of two types — putrefactive and acidophilus. Healthy intestinal functioning is promoted by a preponderance of the friendly Acidophilus type.

ROUGE and powder and creams do help some, and besides there is the joy of using them—to which any woman is entitled!

But Ninon de Lanclos herself could not have been beautiful if she lacked a healthy colon and the habit of prompt and regular elimination.

Delayed elimination robs the eye of its fire, the cheek of its radiance, draws down the expressive corners of the mouth—in short, a beauty robber.

A Healthy Intestinal Tract Is Beauty's Supreme Reliance!

And so doctors often advise that one "change the intestinal flora." This means, drive out the unfavorable organisms that flourish in the colon, and replace them with those highly favorable organisms, the acidophilus bacilli.

Bacilli of some sort normally flourish in the intestinal tract of everybody. The kind of bacilli you harbor depends almost wholly on what you eat. None are favorable except the acidophilus type.

These are the organisms that appeared in your intestinal tract soon after you were born. They are favorable to intestinal health. They throve on your diet of milk, nature's most nearly perfect food.

But as time went on you changed your diet, from foods that favored Acidophilus to foods that favored putrefactive bacteria. These latter finally drove out the friendly Acidophilus, and there you are.

Reverse the Situation!

Borden's milkman brings it to you fresh every morning. Phone Walker 7300 (Borden's main office) or any Borden's branch.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28.—The text of the survey of business conditions in the United States during the first eight months of 1930, as reported by the National Survey Conference follows:

Short-Term Credit.

The decrease in money rates has continued during the Summer months and into September. Short-term funds are now available in the open market at lower rates than have prevailed in several years. The rates charged customers by leading banks throughout the country have also continued their gradual decline, and now are lower than at any time since 1927.

Borrowings by member banks from the Federal Reserve banks, now almost negligible, are at the lowest point in the post-war period, and are confined almost to country member banks. The volume of available short-term credit is accordingly large and amply sufficient to meet the needs of business at reasonable rates.

Long-Term Credit.

Total capital issues, aside from refunding issues, totaled $5,600,000,000 in the first eight months of 1930. This total was about 35 per cent less than the figure for the corresponding period of 1929. Bond issues, however, exceeded those in the first eight months of last year by 50 per cent, while new stock issues were materially less. Total capital issues, aside from refunding issues, were the smallest in August, 1930, of any month this year, being about one-fourth as large as issues in July.

If not only refunding issues but issues of investment trusts and the like are eliminated from the figures, the capital issues this year in eight months were within 1.9 per cent of corresponding flotations in the first eight months of 1929.

A feature was the amount of new capital obtained by railroads and public utilities, the total for the first eight months of 1930 being $2,680,000,000, a record figure for this period for these enterprises and $900,000,000 over the amount obtained in the first eight months of 1929 and $1,346,000 in excess of the amount obtained in the corresponding part of 1928.

Another feature is the amount obtained from loans by municipalities, States, &c., the amount being $941,000,000 for the eight months, or $114,000,000 more than during the corresponding part of 1929; the total for the eight months of this year seems to have been exceeded only in one earlier year, 1927, for a similar period. Still another feature was the amount obtained from foreign governments through loans here, the figure being for the first eight months of 1930 the sum of $411,000,000, to be compared with $57,000,000 in the corresponding portion of 1929.

During the first three weeks of September, 1930, new bond issues have been put on the market at an average rate of $92,000,000 a week, this average being comparable with the weekly average in September, 1929, of $87,000,000. The weekly average in September, 1928, was $92,800,000.

Inventories of securities are reported by dealers to be below the average. Savings and investment funds, which in large measure will go into capital issues, are increasing.

The supply of first mortgage money for new loans is reported to be adequate at the present time to meet the requirements of nearly all sections, with some localities reporting a supply somewhat in excess of normal. Prevailing rates of interest on both city and farm properties range from 5½ to 6 per cent. A decreasing number of foreclosures and delinquencies is reported by banks and mortgage companies. Some sections report noticeable improvement in activity in city and farm real estate markets, and occupancy figures for both city and farm real estate show a steady improvement.

Savings.

Available reports indicate that the gradual upward tendency in savings deposits, which has been apparent in recent months for the country as a whole, still continues.

In August deposits in savings banks of New York State increased $20,000,000; deposits in these banks rose by $103,000,000 during the first eight months of 1930, whereas during the corresponding portion of 1929 they decreased by $75,000,000.

Building and Loan Associations.

Reports from building and loan associations in twenty-four States, through their national association, indicate uneven but improved conditions. There are communities with a surplus of funds, little demand for loans, and normal withdrawals. In other sections there are some withdrawals, slow collections and reports of some foreclosures.

Generally, reports suggest a conservative attitude on the part of associations with respect to new commitments and a desire to care for all legitimate demands for the higher types of loans.

Bank Debits.

Bank debits to individual accounts, of course, in 1930 have been below those for 1929. If debits in New York City are omitted from the calculation by reason of fluctuations in the amounts of financial transactions recorded in debits there, debits throughout the country declined 9 per cent in August from the figure for July.

Such debits outside of New York City in August this year were 24 per cent below the figure for August, 1929, and 13 per cent below the figure for August, 1928. For the week ended Sept. 17 debits, including New York City increased 16 per cent over the preceding week.

Instalment Financing.

The finance companies, reporting through their national organizations, state that, while the volume of instalment financing is less than it was last year, instalment financing has well withstood the business depression. It is again reported that there has been no material increase in delinquencies and repossessions.

Credits and Collections (Retail).

Reports of the National Retail Credit Association for stores in eleven large and widely separated cities indicate there were decreased credit sales and collections during July and August. In September increases have been reported in some important centres.

Small-Loan Companies.

Companies making small loans report a considerable increase in demand for small loan credit during the last quarter. During the same period there was a slight increase in the delinquencies of loan payments, this increase being ascribed by the companies to employment conditions.

Life Insurance.

New life insurance purchased during August was less by 8.7 per cent than in August of 1929. Beginning with May, such sales this year have each month been less than in the corresponding month of 1929, but the total for the first eight months of this year remains slightly over the total for the first eight months of 1929.

New ordinary life insurance purchased during the first eight months of this year stood at $6,006,000,000, as against $5,939,000,000 in the corresponding part of last year. New industrial insurance during the first eight months of this year totaled $1,959,000,000, as against $1,953,000,000 in the corresponding part of 1929. New group insurance for the first eight months of 1930 was $732,000,000, having been $758,000,000 in the first eight months of last year.

Life insurance companies which have 79 per cent of mortgage loans made by all United States legal reserve life insurance companies increased their mortgage loans by $41,000,000 during July and August. At the end of August they had outstanding $1,526,000,000 on farm properties and $4,428,000,000 on other properties.

Casualty Insurance.

Fire Insurance.

The same group of fire companies reporting earlier states that premium income for August was 11.06 per cent lower than for August, 1929, and cancellations for August of this year were approximately the same as for August last year.

Construction Industries.

For the period ended with Sept. 19, construction of public works and utilities exceeded the volume in the same part of last year by $147,000,000, non-residential building this year was less in volume by $341,000,000, and residential building was less by $698,000,000.

Total building contracts for all classes this year through Sept. 19 were $3,574,000,000, to be compared with $4,467,000,000 in the corresponding part of 1929 and $5,125,000,000 in this part of 1928. The greatest decrease has been in residential building; in this form of construction there have been indications of a moderate revival within the last few weeks, particularly in detached one and two family houses.

August permits for additions, alterations and repairs in 297 cities showed a decrease in value of approximately 24 per cent of the value in July. The value in July was 5 per cent over the value in June.

Awards for concrete paving in August totaled 15,567,000 square yards, as compared with 11,968,000 in August, 1929. During the first eight months of this year such awards have exceeded the volume in the corresponding part of 1929 by 7.2 per cent. At the beginning of September, contracts awaiting award totaled 11,309,000 square yards, or 19 per cent more than the corresponding figure on Sept. 1, 1929.

During August the cement industry operated at 81 per cent of capacity, including two new plants and extensions and improvements at old plants this year. As usual, August production and shipments of cement reached the high point of the year. August shipments of sand, gravel and crushed stone were approximately 10 per cent below such shipments in August of last year, but were slightly in excess of July, 1930.

In structural steel, business has been reported as fairly brisk in New York and vicinity, and in the Middle West appears to have been over last year. A decided improvement in September is reported, with a good volume of new orders reported as in prospect.

A survey covering the United States indicated that the steel construction business to Sept. 18 has this year practically kept up to the tonnage in the comparable part of 1929. Returns to date for this survey indicate shipments of structural steel this year have at least been equal to shipments in the same part of last year, and that new orders booked have been from 25 to 40 per cent below the bookings of 1929.

Sales of roofing and structural slate in August were 25 per cent over sales in July, although still 50 per cent below sales in August, 1929.

The flat glass industry reports an improvement in August shipments, although the level was still below last year, plate-glass shipments being 36 per cent under August, 1929.

The common brick industry reports that the seasonal improvement of August is continuing in September. In face brick production and stocks have shown little change during the Summer; operation was at less than 40 per cent of capacity and stocks were 12 per cent below the low point of 1929.

The lime industry shows a gradual upward trend, with shipments in the first half of September 24 per cent below September shipments last year, as against shipments in August 32 per cent below August last year. A September improvement was apparent in all three classes of lime, chemical, agricultural and building.

In plumbing and heating supplies the volume of business to date this year is 60 per cent under the volume in the corresponding part of 1929 and 20 per cent under the volume in 1928, the business being affected by the decrease in residential construction. Inventories of distributers are reported as small.

Increasing curtailment in the lumber industry occurred during the Summer, with production about 35 per cent under the level of 1929, but production and shipments in August were practically in balance. August sales to retail distributers showed no change from July. Stocks of retail dealers and industrial stocks showed further decreases in July.

Prices for building material held almost unchanged in September, as compared with prices in August. There was a slight gain in the price of crushed stone, lumber and hollow tile, but for all other materials was unchanged. Lumber was the only building material showing an increase in price for September this year over the price for September, 1929.

A nation-wide survey indicates there was a decrease in residential vacancies over the country in August as compared with July. Factory vacancies were reported to be getting close to normal in the country as a whole. Less than a normal demand for space in office buildings has been reported in most of the cities during the last three months.

Real Estate.

Motion-Picture Industry.

Reports from several of the leading factors in the motion-picture industry indicate business in July and August was substantially in advance of business in those months of 1929.

Railroads.

Capital expenditures by Class I railroads during the first six months of 1930 for equipment, roadway and structures, totaled $468,000,000. This compares with the estimate of $490,000,000 made last December and is 33.8 per cent over such expenditures during the first six months of 1929. The carryover of unexpended authorizations on July 1, 1930, was $667,000,000.

Car loadings for the seven weeks ended Sept. 13 were 16.3 per cent below those for the corresponding seven weeks of 1929. For the first thirty weeks of the year to the beginning of this seven weeks' period the decrease below 1919 was 10.1 per cent. L. c. l. loadings were 9.9 per cent off during these seven weeks and 5.5 per cent during the preceding thirty weeks.

Total car loadings this year reached their Summer low point in the week ended with Aug. 9. Thereafter to the week ended with Sept. 13 they increased 7 per cent, or somewhat more proportionately than in the corresponding part of last year and apparently by a full seasonal proportion. For the same period this year the increase in loadings of l. c. l. freight was proportionately the same as in both of the two earlier years.

On Aug. 1 the railroads had on order 19,627 new freight cars, against 36,335 in 1929, but had placed in service during the first seven months 55,660, as compared to 42,552 in those months of 1929. Locomotives on order on Aug. 1 were 296, compared with 410 in 1929, while in the first seven months of this year 434 were placed in service as compared with 371 for the similar period in 1929.

Total employes July 15 on Class I railroads were 1,532,000. This is the lowest figure since July, 1922, at the time of the shopmen's strike.

Electric Railways.

Figures as yet incomplete suggest a decline in street railway traffic in August compared with August, 1929, of 10.75 per cent, the largest decline for any month this year.

The construction program of street railways has been reduced approximately 6 per cent below the estimate of last December. Reductions were stated to be due in part to delays in negotiations for new franchises and questions about rates, and in part to decreases in traffic. The proposed program of construction is more than half completed and, except in a few instances, reports indicate that the year's program will be carried out.

Bus Lines.

Except in the case of some local lines primarily serving industrial districts, reports indicate bus transportation in August was over August last year. Beginning in April, business has picked up steadily.

Companies operating buses are carrying out their construction programs. Extensive garage and improved terminal facilities are under construction at many places. Deliveries of new equipment are running close to deliveries in 1929.

Shipbuilding.

On Sept. 24 the value of unfinished contracts of shipyards for construction of merchant vessels was about $83,000,000. During the last two months contracts were let for vessels aggregating 114,000 gross tons to cost $41,908,000. There are now being built or under contract 336,000 tons of merchant ships.

Employment in shipyards has still further increased, with approximately 26,500 persons now on payrolls. Of this number about 20,000 are employed in the construction of new merchant vessels and approximately 6,500 are employed in the construction of naval vessels and in repair work.

Shipping.

The number of vessels in foreign trade entering United States ports in August was about 2½ per cent less than in July, and the tonnage of their cargo was about 4 per cent less. Clearances of vessels in foreign trade during August were less than 1 per cent below clearances for July in number of vessels and 10 per cent over July in the tonnage of cargo carried.

Telegraph and Cables.

Transatlantic cable business continutes to be off about 4 per cent from last year. South American business shows improvement.

Telephone.

Growth in new telephone installations was reported as interrupted during the Summer, but has resumed in September. Current reports indicate that the volume of long-distance business in September will equal the volume in the month of September, 1929.

Construction expenditures by the Bell system during August were nearly equal to those for August, 1929, and during the first eight months of 1930 they were 10 per cent in excess of the first eight months, 1929.

Radio.

Reports from the radio trade from all parts of the country indicate that the radio business and tube business are on the up grade. Manufacturers are now generally making shipments of the new models of radio receivers and distributers and dealers are reported as more optimistic as the merchandise begins to move to the public.

Postal Receipts.

July receipts at fifty important postoffices were 7.9 per cent below July, 1929, and in August were 11.5 per cent below August, 1929. Receipts at postoffices in fifty other centres classified as industrial, however, were in July and August 1 per cent and 5 per cent below receipts in the corresponding months of last year.

Electric Power.

Reports indicate that the program of construction by electric power companies will exceed the estimate made last December. New construction for the year is now expected to approximate $1,000,000,000. Since Jan. 1 the new power plant generating capacity already placed in operation aggregates over 1,000,000 horsepower, and 10,000 circuit miles of new transmission lines have been constructed.

In the first six months of 1930 output of electric energy was 1.46 per cent above output in the first half of 1929 and 14.2 per cent over the figure for the corresponding part of 1928, although the sale of current to industrial concerns was 2.2 per cent below the figure for 1929, but 10.3 per cent above the figure for 1928. Domestic sales, however, in the first half of 1930 were 14 per cent over the figure for 1929 and 30 per cent over 1928.

Output in August, 1930, was 2.9 per cent below output in the corresponding month of 1929, although 7 per cent over the figure for 1928. During the first two weeks of September output continued to have approximately the same relation as in August to output in September of the two earlier years.

Gas.

Statistics for the gas industry indicate that sales of manufactured and natural gas in August were 2½ per cent in the case of manufactured gas and 10 per cent in the case of natural gas below sales in August of last year.

There was increased activity in pipe line construction for long-distance transmission of natural gas. Demand for new pipe resulted in pipe manufacturers being booked for the rest of the year.

Gasoline.

The consumption of gasoline has increased this year at a rate over last year which is substantially normal, according to experience over recent years. Stocks of gasoline have declined, reaching the lowest point for the year in September, although then still 19 per cent over the figure for mid-September last year. Consumption of crude oil by refineries is reported to be about 10 per cent less than for this period last year, and stocks of crude oil are reported as practically unchanged.

Coal.

Anthracite shipments in August, the last month of "Summer discounts," increased 11 per cent over July and were 6 per cent over August, 1929.

Weekly production of bituminous coal, at mid-September, continues below the weekly production at the corresponding parts of 1929 and 1928, but since the first week in August the increase in production this year has been fully seasonal.

Metals.

In August of this year, production of copper and zinc was 30 per pent below the rate for August, 1929. Stocks have shown further increases. Shipments of lead in August rose 5 per cent over July shipments, with little change in production. There was a slight recovery in the price of silver from the low point of a few months ago.

Iron and Steel Industries.

Pig iron production for the first eight months of 1930 was 23,489,000 tons, 19 per cent under the same period of 1929 and 4.8 per cent under the same period of 1928. Reports to the middle of September indicate tendencies toward increased activity.

Output of steel ingots in August was 5.5 per cent higher than in July, this being the first increase since February. For the first eight months of 1930 ingot production was 23 per cent less than in the same period of 1929 and 8.3 per cent less than in the same part of 1928.

Tin plate mills were operating at about 70 per cent of capacity; it is estimated that tin plate output in 1930 will equal 90 per cent of the record output in 1929.

Gray iron foundries report production in August at 62.8 per cent of the average monthly rate over three years. There was a decline of approximately 1 per cent from July. New business in August was reported at 56 per cent normal, in contrast with 54 per cent in July and 122 per cent in August, 1929. Unfilled orders were 48 per cent of normal in August, as against 32.7 per cent in July and 88 per cent in August, 1929.

Automobiles.

August motor vehicle production in the United States and Canada was 232,838 units, or 54.6 per cent under August, 1929. August production was the lowest month since last December.

Production during the first eight months of 1930 totaled 2,835,000 units, or 36.2 per cent below production in the corresponding months of 1929, the record year. The average monthly production during the first eight months of 1930 has been slightly less than the average during the corresponding months of 1928. Manufacturers are reported as keeping production within actual retail demand.

Registration of new passenger cars during the first seven months of 1930 was 23 per cent less than in the corresponding part of last year. Stocks of new cars on Aug. 1 were computed at 342,000, or 31 per cent below such stocks on Aug. 1, 1929. Sales of used cars are reported to have continued in sufficient quantity to reduce used car stocks to a normal basis for this time of year.

Production and registration of trucks in 1930 have compared more favorably with figures for 1929 than production and registration of passenger cars.

Sales of American automobiles outside the United States, including exports, foreign assemblies and Canadian production, totaled 420,000 units during the first seven months of the year, a decrease of 41 per cent below such sales in the first seven months of 1929.

Aeronautics.

Production of engines for commercial and military aircraft showed about the same relations to figures for 1929. Commercial air transport this year has showed no slowing up from the figures for 1929, the peak year. During the first six months twenty-nine major air transport lines reported slightly more than half the total mileage for the twelve months of 1929, also slightly more than half the amount of active 1929 mail, and more than 75 per cent of the number of 1929 passengers.

Automobile Tires.

Preliminary figures for August show production of automobile casings at 3,302,000, an increase of 1.8 per cent over July. In both July and August, the peak season for the sale of tires, unit volume was below the average of the past three years for the same period. Inventories at the end of August were less by 9.1 per cent than at the end of July. Production and inventory figures are 75 per cent complete. The tire price index for August was the same as for July.

Machinery.

The machine tool industry operated in August at approximately 60 per cent of capacity, with a material increase in inquiries reported. In July the index of orders was 91.1 and in August it was 113.8. August cancellations at 1 per cent of new orders were somewhat less than usual. August shipments had an index number of 119.6, or 6.6 per cent below July, the lowest point for the year. The index of unfilled orders at 222.6, a decrease of 61 per cent since January, represented between five and six weeks of production at the August rate of activity.

Heavy machinery builders report activities at approximately 70 per cent of capacity, a figure which remained constant during July and August. Sales of mechanical stokers in August were approximately 23 per cent under such sales in July, and sales for the first eight months of this year were about 30 per cent under those for the first eight months of 1929.

Manufacturers of dairy and ice-cream machinery and supplies report August business in machinery was 11 per cent below July and in small equipment 22 per cent. August business in supply items was equal to such business in July. As contrasted with August, 1929, machinery business was up 8 per cent, supplies were up 13 per cent and small equipment was down 16 per cent.

Farm Implements.

In agricultural implements Fall production schedules were being established with some difficulty. The industry is operating at approximately 50 per cent of capacity. August is normally the lowest month of the year's activity in this industry.

Hardware.

Reports indicate an improvement in demand for hardware, but comprehensive statistics are not yet available to show whether the improvement is more than seasonal.

Operations in the making of fittings increased somewhat in August over July, and the improvement is reported as having held in September, but without the improvement reflecting the full normal seasonal increase. The price structure is described as holding up well in comparison with its course in earlier periods of business recession.

Manufacturers of builders' supplies and small tools report a slight improvement in business since the middle of August.

Chemicals.

The chemical industry advanced during August and early September. Withdrawals of chemicals under existing contracts have increased considerably since the first of September.

Demand against contracts for heavy chemicals improved during September, and shipments are reported as fair. It is stated low prices have stimulated a buying movement, with gain in domestic and export demand.

Fertilizer sales in the South for the nine months of December to August this year were 99.3 per cent of such sales in the corresponding part of last year and 99 per cent of sales in the nine months of 1928. For August, however, such sales were 78 per cent of those for August, 1929.

Electrical Manufactures.

The electrical equipment industry reports a considerable falling off in business during the Summer months, with activity in August for the first time this year under activity in the corresponding month of 1928.

Leather and Leather Products.

Shoe manufacturing in August was reported as in a favorable position, with operations in the industry as a whole close to normal. In New England shoe manufacturing has shown a gradual improvement since June. Reports to date suggest that activities in September in the industry as a whole will exceed those for August. Stocks of retailers are reported to be lower than at any earlier time.

The leather industry is described as having operated about 10 per cent under the level for 1929. Improvement in shoe manufacturing and the leather industry generally had led to price advances in raw materials.

Printing and Publishing.

Book and job printing as a whole has throughout the year maintained activities comparing favorably with activities in the corresponding part of 1929, although in August activities were about 3 per cent under August, 1929.

Newspaper printing, which as a whole has maintained its activities approximately at the level of 1929, was likewise a little less active in August of this year than in August of last year.

Paper and Pulp.

Reports on production of wood pulp and paper indicate that production, which in the early part of the year compared favorably with production the year before, receded in July but showed some improvement in August. Stocks of pulp and paper have been kept down and are reported as considerably below stocks in this season last year.

Advertising.

Expenditures for magazine advertising during the first nine months of 1930 have been approximately 5 per cent more than in the corresponding part of 1929. Such expenditures for September were about 5 per cent less than for September, 1929.

Expenditures for radio advertising in the first eight months of 1930 were 32 per cent over such expenditures in the first eight months of 1929. The percentage of increase in August of this year over August of last year was likewise 32 per cent.

Newspaper advertising measured by lineage was during the first eight months of 1930 approximately 10 per cent under such advertising in the first eight months of 1929. In August, 1930, the decline was 18 per cent under August, 1929.

Textiles.

In the textile industry generally there are reports of sounder conditions, with less inclination to accept unprofitable business to keep mills running. In August there was in the whole industry an increase of about 3 per cent over activities in July.

In cotton manufacturing, sales in August were at the rate of 107.6 per cent of production in August, and shipments were at the rate of 105.7 per cent of August production. Stocks of cotton goods at the end of August, while 21 per cent in excess of such stocks the year before, were 4 per cent less than at the beginning of 1930. Present stocks in excess of orders are less than four weeks of production at the August rate. A seasonal improvement was reported at the beginning of August, and indications were it was continuing in September.

In production of silk goods there was an increase in August over July, the takings of raw silk by the mills being 4.5 per cent over July and much larger than in June, although still 30 per cent under August, 1929. During the first eight months of 1930 raw silk takings were 15 per cent under takings in the corresponding part of 1929.

Imports of raw silk in August were 8.7 per cent over July imports, August normally being a period of increasing imports; the increase this year is described as less than seasonal. Cumulative stocks of finished goods are described as a problem, in conjunction with low prices, but some slight increases in wholesale prices of broad silks have recently been reported.

In August there was an increase of 11 per cent in billings of woolen goods over July and a 14 per cent decline in stocks. August billings throughout the entire industry exceeded production by 15 per cent. Production was 4.5 per cent less in August than in July.

Manufacturers of men's clothing report for August an increase of 22 per cent in production over July, the August figures being 24 per cent under August, 1929. In boys' clothing there was an increase in production in August of 86 per cent over July, but the figure was still 25 per cent under August, 1929. These August increases are described as seasonal.

In men's furnishings and shirts there is reported a substantial reduction during the last sixty days in the amount of distressed merchandise. Nineteen-thirty sales to date are reported as substantially below sales in the corresponding part of 1929, with production at a low rate.

Makers of carpets, rugs and other floor coverings report that 90 per cent of their orders now call for delivery within thirty days. The carpet and rug industry is operating at 35 to 40 per cent of normal. Prices for hard surface floor coverings have been reduced approximately 10 per cent within the last two weeks.

The laundry industry reports a canvass indicating August business approximately 5 per cent under August, 1929. Dyeing and cleaning activities are reported as between 8 and 10 per cent below 1929 in gross business, with marked increase in September over August.

Food Products.

Shipments of fruits and vegetables in August were maintained at about the level of August, 1929. Prices were slightly higher than in July, but lower than in August, 1929. With the exception of white and sweet potatoes, important fruit and vegetable crops remaining to be harvested are larger than last year.

Consumer outlay for pork, beef and veal in August was 3 per cent higher than in July, but 21 per cent below August, 1929. Pork prices were 7 per cent below August last year, and consumption 4 per cent below. Beef and veal prices were 34 per cent below prices in August last year, and consumption 4 per cent below. Activities in slaughtering and meat packing in August were about 4 per cent below July, and were the same margin under August, 1929. Reports indicate higher activities in September than in August.

In August egg receipts were off, both in quantity and quality, and a heavy out-of-storage movement resulted. On Sept. 1, however, storage stocks were larger than last year. Prices show recent advances.

August weather conditions were unfavorable to market milk production. Prices moved upward in response in some regions. Butter production was less by 9 per cent than in August, 1929, and storage stocks were reduced slightly on Sept. 1, being 15 per cent below stocks at the corresponding date of last year. Prices advanced and are now within 7 cents of prices in September, 1929.

Oleomargarine production during the first seven months of 1930 averaged about 2,000,000 pounds a month under 1929.

In baking there was somewhat less activity in August than in July. August this year being about 6 per cent under August last year.

Sales of flour from July 1 to Sept. 13 were somewhat less than last year, but shipments have been only slightly less. An increase in hand-to-mouth buying of flour is given as an explanation. Activities in flour milling seasonally increased in August over July.

In confectionery manufacture there was increase in activity in August over July, but activities were approximately 13 per cent under August, 1929. The industry reports it is reaching its period of greatest sales with moderate inventories and low raw material costs.

Supplies of canning fruits and vegetables in general are adequate. In California they are larger than last year.

Wholesale food prices as a group were at the middle of September approximately 3 per cent over average prices during August and about 13 per cent under prices during September, 1929.

In the glass container industry new orders for bottles for food packing during first eight months this year were 4.2 per cent under corresponding part of 1929 and stocks increased by 4 per cent. Seasonal demand is reported as normal in September, without drought apparently affecting food packing in glass.

Retail and Wholesale Trade.

Calculated upon a daily average basis, department store sales in August were 8 per cent less than in August, 1929. For the first eight months of 1930 the decline was 6 per cent as compared with the first eight months of 1929. These percentages are computed in volume of dollar business, without any adjustment for decline in prices.

Hotel and Restaurant Business.

Hotel business in August was 14 per cent below August, 1929. Reports received for September indicate about the same percentage of decrease as in August. A national survey of the restaurant business indicates a volume for the first half of September slightly above the volume in September last year, with an increase in the number of customers around 3 per cent. In the number of customers there was a decrease in August of this year as compared with August last year.

Foreign Trade.

The value of exports in August was 11.5 per cent over the value in July, but 21.3 per cent below the value for August, 1929. The value of exports for the first eight months of 1930 was 22 per cent below the value for the corresponding part of 1929.

The value of imports in August was smaller by less than 1 per cent than the value in July, and 41.2 per cent below the value for August, 1929. The value of imports in the first eight months of 1930 was 28 per cent below 1929 figures.

World Business Conditions.

Of the seventeen countries covered by this survey seven show indications of improvement in some lines. These seven are the United Kingdom, Italy, Netherlands, Belgium, Norway, Japan and Canada.

United Kingdom.

Improvement is apparent in some lines, but business conditions in general continue discouraging. Chemicals slightly improved. Petroleum imports and sales good. Exports of electrical equipment well maintained. Automobiles more active. Curtailment of cotton yarn production improving market position. Demand for piece goods fair.

Raw wool prices slowly improving. Scottish linoleum industry better. Rayon improving as are hides and leather. Tobacco and food stuffs fair to good. Coal seasonally depressed. Engineering trades rather quiet. Iron and steel depressed with some increased inquiries at end of August. Non-ferrous metals inactive; paper quiet. August exports decline 32 per cent; imports 21 per cent; re-exports, 30 per cent.

France.

Recession of business accentuated in August, with decline in car loadings, railway receipts and foreign trade, and curtailment of industrial expansion. Building trades active. Coal and iron and steel better than June. Electrical and machinery industries maintained activity. Textile production curtailed with serious labor disputes. Automobile registrations below last year. Shoes inactive. Short crops forecast. Index wholesale and retail prices higher.

Germany.

Industrial activity lessened. Exports of manufactures well maintained. No improvement in steel machinery and coal. Relinquishment of price control by steel cartel expected to reduce domestic price. Exports off 14 per cent, imports 26 per cent in July as compared with last year.

Italy.

Seasonal business backward. Iron and steel production below last year. Shipbuilding, cement, phosphates, rayon, paper and electricity above. Textiles quiet. Short crops affect canning industry. Exports for August 21 per cent below 1929; imports 32 per cent.

Belguim.

Netherlands.

Depression continues, with hopeful tone for improvement. Shoe, margarine and cereal industries well maintained; metal, textile and lumber industries unsatisfactory. Latest figures available show exports 19 per cent and imports 12 per cent below last year.

Norway.

Business situation generally satisfactory with foreign trade fairly well maintained on old contracts. Curtailment of production expected in paper, lumber and electro-chemical industries. Exports increased 18 per cent, imports declined 8 per cent.

Sweden.

Spain.

Czechoslovakia.

Brazil.

Conditions unchanged, improvements expected from coffee loan have not yet materialized. Purchasing power curtailed by low coffee prices. Payment for renewal of contract by British-operated Sao Paulo Railway expected to aid government finances.

Cuba.

No improvement in economic situation, which is at lowest point in years. Business slow in all lines, especially retail trade.

Canada.

Business in Eastern Canada is marked by increased optimism; manufacturing and retail trade slightly improved, wholesale unchanged. In Prairie Provinces low grain prices cause curtailment of credit, resulting in partial stagnation of trade and some decline in manufacturing. Retail trade increased in British Columbia. Crop prospects generally good.

Australia.

All branches of trade show decreases from last year. Government announced new taxes and economies to balance budget. Building declines. Bank clearings below normal. Metal trades generally depressed in spite of increase in pig iron and steel. Textile, heavy machinery, hardware, lumber and chemicals dull. Some improvement in shoes and leather. Agricultural prospects favorable. Exports for June 21 per cent above last year; imports 50 per cent below.

Japan.

A slight improvement in business activity and foreign trade is noted, although further restrictions have been announced in production of rayon, cement and cotton. Rice crop 5 per cent above normal.

China.

Depression in Shanghai sector continues, but with some factors becoming more favorable. Foreign trade hampered by depreciation of silver. Trade in Manchuria more stable. Bean and wheat crops 30 per cent below 1929.

India.

Depression throughout country due to low prices, world-wide depression and boycott. Bumper jute crop selling at low prices. Some improvement in shellac, tea, linseed and wheat. Crop prospects favorable.

HOOVER VISITS CAMP; FINDS SON IMPROVED

REFRESHED FOR BUSY WEEK

He Will Return to Desk Today for Two Days Prior to Trips to Philadelphia and Cleveland.

Special to The New York Times.

LURAY, Va., Sept. 28.—President Hoover went to his Rapidan camp today to get a few hours' out-of-door exercise and recreation before starting out on his speaking tour Wednesday and to visit with his son, Herbert Jr., who is under treatment at the mountain lodge for a tubercular infection.

The President was held at his desk too late yesterday to depart for the Rapidan. He was finishing the speech he is to deliver at the American Bankers' Association convention in Cleveland Thursday.

President Hoover today took a number of guests. Practically all of them are personal friends of the Hoovers, however, and were said to have gone there only to enjoy the day's outing. Among them were Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Merritt of California, Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Miller, Dr. and Mrs. Vernon Kellogg and Mr. and Mrs. Ernest I. Lewis, all of Washington, and the President's personal physician, Captain Joel T. Boone.

The main part of the party left the White House at 10:45 this morning. They arrived at 2 P. M. and were greated by Mrs. Hoover, who preceded them on Saturday.

The entire party will leave for Washington soon after sunup tomorrow.

The President was in good spirits today and took full advantage of the few hours afforded for out-of-door recreation. He hiked about the camp and rested on the porches of the camp cabins in preference to sitting before the roaring log fires, which some of the visitors found more comfortable on the cool day.

Mr. and Mrs. Hoover both were understood to be pleased over the progress of their son. He has gained some weight during his three weeks' stay at the camp, but he will have to remain there for several weeks yet, according to Dr. Boone. It is probable that he will remain at the Presidential camp until forced to leave by severe cold weather.

Mrs. Hoover will leave some time tomorrow for Indianapolis to attend a meeting of the National Council of Girl Scouts, of which she is honorary national chairman. She will join the Presidential party in Cleveland Wednesday.

The President will spend tomorrow and Tuesday at work at the White House and Wednesday will go to Philadelphia to witness the first game of the world's baseball series. He will proceed to Cleveland from Philadelphia Wednesday night.

Spanish Royalty Noted in Yachting.

Special Correspondence, THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MADRID, Sept. 17.—Yachting continues to be the major sport of the Spanish royal family, although its members indulge in practically every other Summer sport, including tennis and swimming. Hardly a day goes by but what the Madrid press publishes accounts of some yacht race in which King Alfonso participated. Several members of the family, including Queen Victoria, now own eight or ten meter sailing craft.

SOME BUSINESS GAIN SHOWN BY SURVEY

tures in the first eight months of this year were reported by the Bell System to have been 10 per cent greater than in the same period last year. The telegraph companies reported business in that period to be less than in 1929 but greater than in 1928.

Automobile producers, who in August turned out 54.6 per cent less than in the same month last year and less than in any month since December, were reported to be holding output to actual retail demand. Production in the first eight months of 1930 was placed at 36.2 per cent less than in the same period last year, when a new record for the industry was made.

From the textile industries were received "reports of sounder conditions, with less inclination to accept unprofitable business to keep mills running," the statement adding that August business increased by 3 per cent over that of July.

While retail and wholesale merchandise sales were reported to have shown some increases in September over August, business for the first eight months of 1930 in retail lines in department stores was placed at 6 per cent less than the comparative period in 1929, based on dollar business "without any adjustment for decline in prices."

Foreign business generally also showed the results of depression, but "indications of improvement in some lines" were said to have been found in the United Kingdom, Italy, the Netherlands, Belgium, Norway, Japan and China.

Members of Survey Committee.

This committee was assisted by an advisory committee of 140 members, chosen from all lines of business, industry and finance.

SOME PROMISE IS SEEN IN BUSINESS OUTLOOK

Seasonal upturns in some branches of business activity have been noted in the last few weeks, according to the current issue of The Guaranty Survey, published by the Guaranty Trust Company of New York. In most cases, the survey continues, these represented a belated start, since the Autumn revival generally begins in August.

"Thus far," the survey says, "there is no clear indication whether the slight advances in industrial operations and trade volumes have any significance beyond the usual stimulus provided by the advent of the Autumn season and the movement of the crops. It is evident, however, that they have resulted in a more cheerful business sentiment, which is in itself no small influence in the right direction.

"It is recognized, of course, that some of the basic conditions necessary to immediate business recovery are still lacking. Commodity prices, particularly prices of farm products, have declined further. Wheat at Chicago has reached the almost unprecedented low level of 76 cents a bushel. The stock market has not yet displayed any sustained strength, nor has the volume of bank credit given any clear sign of increasing demand for funds for commercial purposes. These conditions, however, have existed for some time and are now accepted as inevitable features of the major depression through which the world's commerce is passing. Business men are in a mood to derive encouragement from any improvement in the outlook, and improvement is visible in certain directions.

"The trend of commodity prices, for example, in the last two months has been in marked contrast to the swift and steady drop that had been under way for about a year. The index of the Guaranty Trust Company indicates that only a slight recession occurred during the month ended Sept. 15. Acute weakness has given way to comparative stability.

"The preliminary report of the Department of Commerce on foreign trade last month is, under the circumstances, distinctly favorable. The export surplus was the largest for any August since 1921."

KLEIN TELLS GAIN IN PUBLIC WORKS

$1,110,000,000 for Construction, Against $875,000,000 in 1929 Period.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28.—A gain of more than $400,000,000 was registered during the first six months of the present year over the corresponding period of 1929 in public works and utilities construction by national, State and municipal governments and utilities companies, Dr. Julius Klein, Assistant Secretary of Commerce, said tonight in a radio talk on the special drive to accelerate nation-wide operation of construction that followed the business conferences held here last Winter at President Hoover's suggestion.

"In 1930," said Dr. Klein, "contracts reported for leading classes of public works and public utilities totalel about $1,110,000,000, as compared with $875,000,000 in the similar period of 1929.

"Let's break down the six months 1930 figures and see the classes of public works to which that money was devoted. Highways formed the largest item, accounting for more than $360,000,000. The expenditure for educational buildings reached nearly $200,000,000. Pipe lines to the value of $105,000,000 ,comes next. There's $130,000,00 for railway construction (including railroad bridges) and $85,00,000 for other bridges.

"Public buildings utilized more than $62,000,000 of the public funds in the first half of 1930. Sewerage systems accounted for $50,000,000 and waterfront developments for $42,000,000. Smaller amounts went into water supply systems, lighting systems, parks and park buildings and the construction of incinerators."

Parker with the Senate committee investigating the Bureau of Internal Revenue, and which was made part of the record of the investigation, the following statement appears: "We call your attention to the fact that Ernst & Ernst have handled cases involving many millions in taxes before the bureau, and if the above charges are proved, it will be very reasonable to conclude that large sums have been lost to the government through sharp practices in cases where such practices could not well be discovered."

Those Who Contributed $5,000.

HARVEY FIRESTONE, Canton—President and director of the Firestone Rubber Company, which has been granted refunds, credits or abatements aggregating $2,960,000.

WILLIAM ZIEGLER, New York—Chairman of the executive committee and director of the American Maize Products Company, which was granted refund of $92,311 in 1930.

SIDNEY Z. MITCHELL, New York—Chairman of board of American Gas and Electric Company, which was refunded $131,540 in 1927; also director in Alabama Power Company of Muscle Shoals fame.

WALTER A. ALDRIDGE, New York—Member of advisory committee, Bankers Trust Company, which secured refund of $26,036 in 1927.

Attacks Treasury Department.

The Treasury Department was assailed by Representative Garner for a settlement last year with the United States Steel Corporation of a protested tax assessment. He alleged that the government had sustained a loss of at least $9,000,000 and possibly $26,000,000.

"What proportion of these claims for tax refunds would have been collectible if the treasury had adopted a policy of opposing the granting of such claims without a decision of the courts is, of course, merely a matter of conjecture," he said.

"However, the decision handed down by the United States Court of Claims on April 7 in the Packard Motor Car Company case shows conclusively that the loss sustained by the government as a result of its failure to secure a court decision in the United States Steel case was at least $9,000,000. To what extent these contributers to the Republican campaign fund have been the beneficiaries of this hesitancy on the part of the Treasury Department to secure court decisions on all major cases could not be ascertained without a thorough investigation."

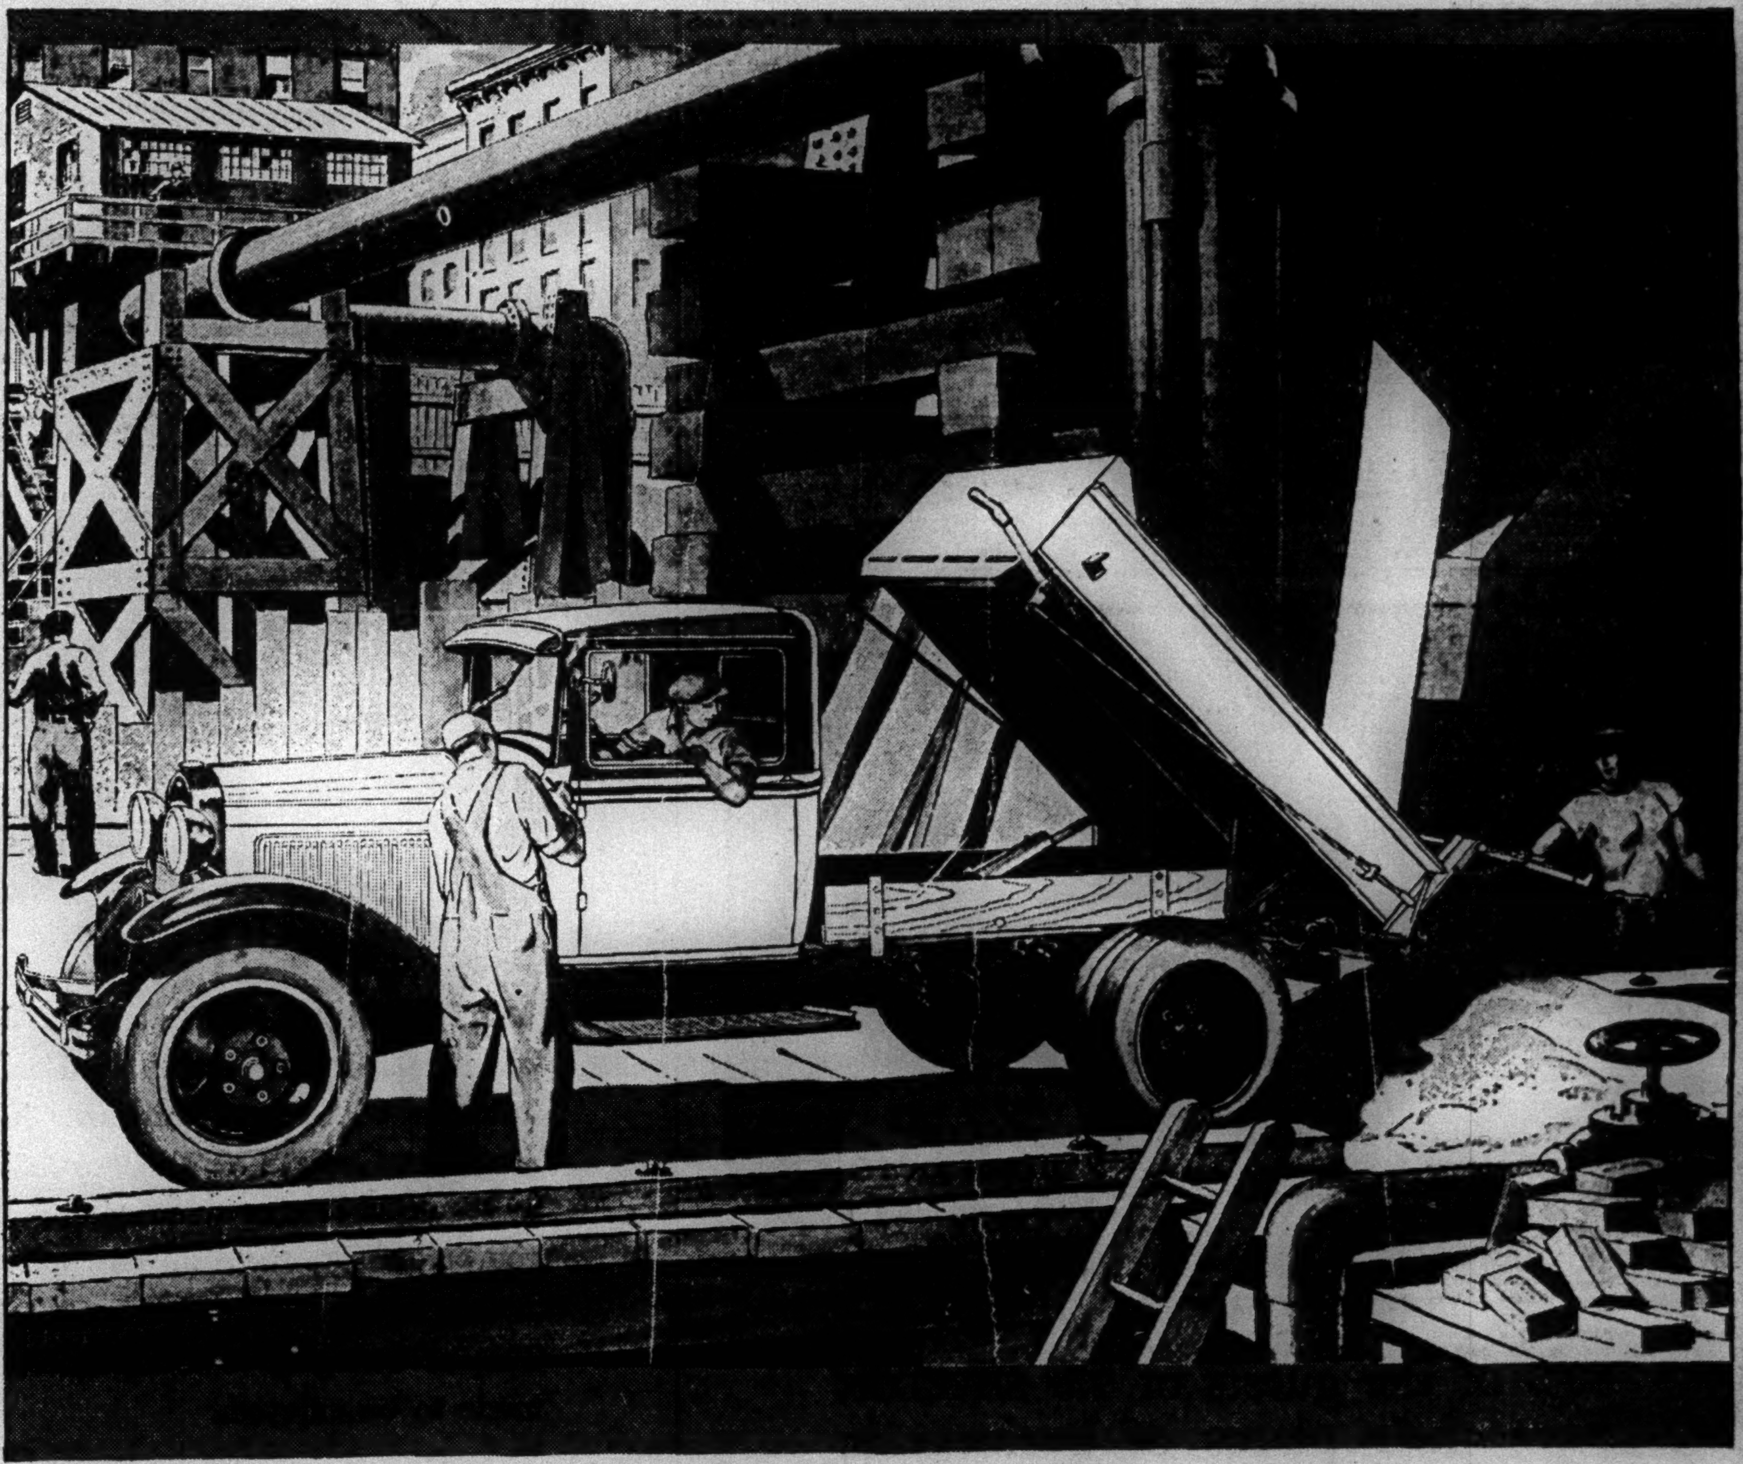
The Ford Truck has rugged strength



THE strength and reliability of the Ford 1½-ton truck are well indicated by the excellent service it is giving in a large number of widely different businesses. Under the varying requirements the Ford truck is called upon to meet, its performance is uniformly good, and marked by a high degree of economy.

Perhaps no other service imposes greater demands on the strength, power, and endurance of a chassis than haulage of materials in dump bodies. In this, as in other fields, the Ford truck has proved its mettle.

In order, therefore, to make available trucks of this type at economical prices, the Ford Motor Company has added a series of five dump bodies to the present standard line.

These include light and heavy hydraulic, and gravity and hand-hoist dump bodies, and a body with mechanical power-hoist This provides a wide range of selection, as to price and hoisting method. With the Ford chassis, these bodies form units of high value, embodying the reliability, economy, long life, and strength which characterize Ford products.

In addition, there is a wide variety of body-types available on both the 131½-inch and 157-inch wheelbase chassis, including the standard stake, platform, and panel bodies. Both open and closed cabs can be supplied, and dual rear wheels are available at small additional cost.

HIT AID TO GRAPE GROWERS

Attack Looms on Farm Board Loans—Republican Trend Toward Modification Is Seen.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28.—While prohibition leaders were not inclined to take public issue with the statement made yesterday by Prohibition Commissioner Woodcock that home brewing is virtually beyond the reach of the Federal authorities, it was apparent from what some of them said today that they refuse to accept any interpretation holding that the manufacture of home brew is not against the Federal law. To place such an interpretation on Colonel Woodcock's announcement is to err, they said.

Moreover, according to the dry chieftains, citizens who accept the statement of the prohibition commissioner as giving them the right to make wines and beers for home use are likely to run counter to the law in States where local enforcement statutes prohibit the manufacture and possession of intoxicants, no matter where they are made. It was pointed out in this connection that such State laws are being enforced and the position of the Federal Government as set forth by Mr. Woodcock will not serve to give immunity to home brewers.

Hold Volstead Act Bans Home Brew.

The Volstead act itself does not permit home brewings, according to the drys. They contend that the manufacture of intoxicants in any place, the home not excepted, is contrary to the Federal statutes.

The Woodcock statement is interpreted here as having a wider significance that appears on its face. It is being construed as another step in the direction of an ultimate acceptance by the Federal government that complete prohibition is unenforceable as a national measure.

From what was learned today in dry circles, it was gathered that, although no decision has been reached as to whether there should be any authorized comment on the part of prohibition organizations concerning the Federal policy announced by Commissioner Woodcock, it is likely that some of these organizations will soon take the position that the government, through the Federal Farm Board, is engaged in encouraging the making of intoxicants through financing a new cooperative which is about to put on the market a grape juice concentrate.

Fruit Industries, Inc., was organized recently for the purpose of marketing by-products of the grape and other fruits, and it has received various loans from the Farm Board.

Fear Easier Wine Making.

The loans are understood to aggregate $3,800,000 and are secured by what amounts to a mortgage on the commodities concerned. There is a report that an advertising campaign in behalf of the grape concentrate will be inaugurated shortly.

The financing of the fruit cooperative by the Farm Board, however, is in the interest of the fruit-growing industry as a whole and does not confine itself to aiding grape producers.

Commissioner Woodcock's statement of yesterday is regarded by observers here as having considerable importance of a political character. It has served to give emphasis to speculation as to whether the Republican party expects to meet the prohibition repeal demand of the dominant leadership of the Democratic party by liberalizing or modifying its position without going to the length of advocating repeal.

Modification Policy Suggested.

This speculation embraces the question of whether the Republican party as a national entity is getting ready to make concessions to wet sentiment within the party as manifested notably in New York and New Jersey.

Interlaced with this appearance of growing party wetness is the evidence of the difficulties of Federal prohibition enforcement, which may be stressed by the President's Law Enforcement Commission in the report it is expected to make just before Congress reconvenes in December.

Out of this speculation has grown the suggestion that the Republican party as a national organization may come around to supporting a policy of modification. That it is not yet ready to follow the Democratic trend toward repeal is generally believed.

The whole situation creates an unusual political atmosphere for the reception of the final report of the Law Enforcement Commission, whenever it makes public its findings.

Drys Here Agree on the Law.

Officials of the Anti-Saloon League and the Women's Christian Temperance Union here asserted yesterday that there was "nothing new" in the ruling Saturday by Amos W. Woodcock, Prohibition Commissioner, that the manufacture of wine and beer in the home without sale or intent of sale was immune from prosecution.

Mrs. D. Leigh Colvin, New York State president of the W. C. T. U., agreed with Mrs. Boole that the commissioner's ruling was merely an interpretation of the law, but said she was afraid his statement might have the efect of encouraging people to make intoxicating liquor in their homes.

URGES VOTES FOR WETS.

Mrs. Sabin on Radio Says Citizens Must Oust Political Hypocrites.

Citizens were urged to vote only for wet candidates in order to unseat legislators who "vote dry and drink wet" by Mrs. Charles H. Sabin yesterday in an address broadcast from Station WJZ. She said that the prohibition laws "were written for weaklings and derelicts."

Mrs. Sabin stressed the significance of many men and women joining groups such as the Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform, of which she is the chairman, and said those persons "now realize that under prohibition intemperance is increasing; that children, far from growing up in surroundings cleaner, more spiritual, happier and more wholesome than before, are growing up in conditions worse than ever before in our history, in communities where they see lawlessness rampant, hypocrisy enthroned and contempt for our Constitution encouraged."

Joining such organizations, however, she held to be of no avail "until these men and women pledge themselves to vote only for candidates who favor a change in the prohibition law."

BANKERS TO DEBATE BRANCH PROBLEMS

CLEVELAND EXPECTS 6,000

CLEVELAND, Sept. 28.—As bankers from all over the country gather here for the annual convention of the American Bankers' Association, which begins tomorrow, it becomes evident that the question of branch banking will once again overshadow all others in the discussions.

On this occasion, however, there is every prospect that the issue will be squarely met and that the association will reverse its long-maintained stand in opposition to the extension of national branch banking.

During the year since the association side-stepped the question at its San Francisco convention, an intensive study of branch banking has been undertaken by the association's economic policy commission. The results of this research will be placed before the bankers at their first general session, next Tuesday, by Rudolph S. Hecht, chairman of the commission.

It is the understanding of informed bankers here that Mr. Hecht in his address will call upon the bankers of the country to take a definite and constructive stand upon the problem in the light of the striking spread of branch and group banking revealed by the commission's studies.

The resolutions committee is expected to present a motion endorsing the limited extension of national branch banking, along lines which will not work to the detriment of State banks.

Opposition to such a move is still strong, but important bankers here are convinced that a positive attitude can be adopted without danger of a rupture within the ranks.

So far as can be learned, the association is not prepared to endorse the suggestion of Controller of the Currency Pole, who has advocated national branch banking within "trade areas."

It is thought likely that Mr. Hecht in his address will call attention to a number of serious defects in the branch system of banking and will urge the need for measures to safeguard the interests of non-branch banks. He is expected to point out, however, that the sweep of economic developments in this country has made it inevitable that the banking methods of the country should undergo important changes.

Attendance at the convention is expected to be unusually large. Up to a late hour more than 3,500 delegates had registered at convention headquarters, and additional registrations are expected to raise the total to about 6,000. In large measure the heavy attendance is ascribed to the fact that President Hoover will address the bankers at their concluding session on Thursday night.

The President's address, which is to be broadcast over a nation-wide radio network, will be delivered at the Cleveland Auditorium at 8:30 P. M.

THE PLAY

By J. BROOKS ATKINSON.

Eliminating the Cumbersome Male.

NINE TILL SIX, a play in three acts, by Aimee and Philip Stuart. Staged by Auriol Lee; settings by Rollo Wayne; produced by Lee Shubert. At the Ritz Theatre.

What every one feared has finally happened. They have eliminated man altogether from a drama, "Nine Till Six," which was recited in soprano tones at the Ritz Saturday evening. Not from the story, however, for the mannequins and milliners of Aimée and Philip Stuart's drama talk of their boy friends with becoming resignation, and the petty thievery in Mrs. Pembroke's dressmaking shop has sex appeal for its motive. But not a male strides the boards, fluttering feminine hearts with every footstep, and not a single bass voice rumbles through these acrimonious workrooms. Since the men were left to themselves in "Journey's End," and to some good purpose, it is only fair and proper to leave the women to themselves in "Nine Till Six."

Yet it is easy to see that leaving them to themselves leaves them at a disadvantage. Their sweet soprano voices are mostly choked with acid, and their smiles sting like poison. Mrs. Pembroke, the mother of three, speaks and behaves with beautiful forbearance. But her daughter, an unloved business woman, draws blood whenever she opens her mouth; and the backstairs conversation of the models and apprentices is graciously gory. Being under the necessity of appearing civil, these women cannot be uncivil without resort to the polished fang and the cushioned claw. Probably a male will not be pardoned for considering them a collection of venomous harpies, too candidly drawn for pleasure.

"Nine Till Six" refers to the hours during which Mrs. Pembroke's employes work in her Regent Street millinery and dressmaking shop. What little story there is concerns the discovery of the thief who has been taking dresses and blouses out of stock. In the last act the thief confesses and is forgiven. For once vindictiveness gives way to charity. Such is the pathos of the concluding scene that on Saturday evening the house, luxuriating on easy emotion, was dissolved in universal tears.

But the thievery in Mrs. Pembroke's shop is really incidental to miniature characterizations, to a description of working conditions in such an organization, to an object lesson in the futility of mixing girls of high and low social station and to a highly practical speech in defense of shopkeeping capitalism. The characterizations are best. While the normal hair-pulling social intercourse of a dressmaking establishment is going on, the authors illuminate their characterizations with a good deal of comprehensive understanding. The working woman who successfully combines business and domestic life; the married woman who works for pocket money; the young girls who work to escape the monotony of staying at home; the embittered and the pious spinsters—all these types Mr. and Mrs. Stuart have described at full length, suggesting enough of their home life and prospects to make the portrait complete. Most of it is specifically English, but much of it applies to working women anywhere in industrial civilization.

Auriol Lee, who has directed the performance splendidly, plays the part of Mrs. Pembroke with dignity and exactitude. A cast composed exclusively of English actresses mixes accents amusingly as the millinery and dressmaking staff. As Gracie Abbot, Prunella Page has the pleasantest of junior rôles to play; she acts it modestly and sweetly. Stunning dresses, smart hats and engaging articles of lingerie promenade through the drama imposingly. When the talk is too malicious it is a relief to ogle the vestments of an exclusive dressmaking shop. They have color and vitality. But from "Nine Till Six" the women have little except hatred and boredom together. After six, presumably, the men reappear. It is a mistake to exclude them even by day, but doubtless one should not say so.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

Two openings are on tonight's Broadway schedule. A pair of Molnar plays, "One, Two, Three" and "The Violet," will be presented at Henry Miller's Theatre, and "Mrs. Moonlight," Benn W. Levy's play, will have its première at the Charles Hopkins.

John Henry Mears is returning to theatrical production with "The Queen at Home," a comedy by Shirley Warde and Vivian Cosby, which was announced for production late last season by Paul Moss. The play will go into rehearsal next Monday and open in Great Neck on Oct. 25.

"The Man, Holland," is now the title of the play in which Paul Muni will be starred. It was tried out as "The Man Saul" and then announced as "Twice Born." The Broadway opening date is Oct. 22.

Lionel Pape has been engaged for the Thompson Buchanan play, "As Good as New," which Charles Dillingham is producing. Other members of the cast will be Otto Kruger, Vivienne Osborne and Marjorie Gateson.

Borrah Minevitch, who has appeared in several musical shows, announces a production called "Aw, Nuts." He says it will open on Broadway the week of Nov. 3.

Marion Harris will enter the cast of "The Second Little Show" at the Royale Theatre tonight. She will sing a group of new songs.

Leslie Banks and Isabel Jeans, who are to appear here under Shubert management in "The Man in Possession," will arrive from London this week. Mr. Banks is on the Olympic, due tomorrow, while Miss Jeans is on the Europa, which will dock Wednesday.

The play first called "Not Yet" and now "The Stork Is Dead" is planning to come to Broadway during the week of Oct. 13 after a week in Paterson. The piece is said to derive from the Viennese.

"The Bridge of Sighs," a play about the criminal courts which Leo S. Friedman is producing, will go in rehearsal today under the direction of E. J. Blunkall and open at the Boulevard Theatre, Jackson Heights, on Oct. 20. In the cast will be Edwin Redding, Sylvia Manners and Michael Rosenberg.

Among the new shows opening out of town tonight are "Elizabeth, the Queen," "Girl Crazy" and "Three's a Crowd," all in Philadelphia; "Everybody's Secret" in Baltimore, "When Hell Froze" in Boston and "Hello, Paris," in Newark. The Lenore Ulric play, "Pagan Lady," presented last week in Washington, will also be in Newark this week.

That's the way to cover distance inexpensively, at about a cent a mile —or less! For a quarter you can call places about 25 miles away; for 45 cents, 50 miles or so—and to points farther off, even less per mile. Besides being inexpensive, the telephone takes you wherever you want to go—quickly. You get the information you want, finish your business, in minutes instead of hours or days.

You can take personal trips from the comfort of your easy chair and add hours to your day, by telephoning. It's always at your service—day or night—in fair or stormy weather.

"EFFICIENCY"

* * * I am deeply interested in the average sales of The New York Times for the past six months, both weekday and Sunday editions, and also the records of the advertising department. All of this must be very gratifying to the management and is a striking demonstration of the efficiency with which the publication is conducted.

HARD TIMES INDICATED BY SAVINGS OF SEAMEN

Welfare Society Reports Drop From $205,000 to $39,500 in 8 Years in Men's Deposits.

A study of conditions among merchant seamen made by the American Seamen's Friend Society shows that sailors now save less money than in recent years and that a larger proportion show an interest in religion and in books, according to the 102d annual report of the society, made public yesterday.

"Reduced funds in the seaman's pocket," says the report, "were never more in evidence than this year, when only $39,500 was deposited for safekeeping or sent home, compared with $205,000 eight years ago. Another indication of hard times for the seaman was the fact that 30,000 were given free meals or lodgings, compared with 7,000 in 1922. This year's figure is 10,000 more than last year. Other indications of the relief provided are shown by the fact that 980 seamen received comfort bags, 6,750 were helped to employment, 7,000 were visited in hospitals and 570 were received from the hospitals."

The report covered activities at the Sailor's Home and Institute on the North River front and also at the branch homes of the society in Gloucester, Newport News, Norfolk, New Orleans, Galveston and ports in South America, Japan, Europe and Canada. The aggregate attendance at all the homes in the year was 400,000, an increase of 82,000 over the total in 1922.

The lodging accommodations showed a greater proportional increase, the total of 118,000 representing an increase of 40,000 beds rented over the total in 1922. In the past year 450 loan libraries were placed aboard merchant ships or sent to lighthouses, as compared with 187 in 1922 and 325 a year ago. Thus far 30,040 libraries have been shipped and reshipped, making 707,914 volumes available to 611,770 seamen. Eighteen thousand seven hundred and fifty seamen attended religious services under the auspices of the society and agents of the society visited 5,400 ships.

PLAN NEWSPRINT AGENCY.

Canadian Companies Considering Joint Sales Office, It Is Said.

Special to The New York Times.

MONTREAL, Sept. 28.—Formation of a new sales agency which will act for certain Canadian newsprint manufacturers is mentioned here as a possible outcome of the week's development, and it is understood that current negotiations between some of the leaders in the industry who are now in New York have as their objective an important cooperative undertaking of this kind.

The Hearst contracts continue to be the principal topic of discussion, and it is stated that some of the contracts made by that publisher prior to the arrangement with Canada Power and Paper are not subject to cancellation "at will," as had been commonly supposed.

It is learned that the contracts which the St. Lawrence corporation holds with the Hearst interests through the corporation's subsidiaries, the Brompton and Lake St. John companies, are written with no provision for cancellation, that they still have several years to run, and that they amount to about 140,000 tons of newsprint per annum.

While in some quarters the opinion is still held that the resignation of Colonel J. H. Price as head of the Newsprint Institute of Canada will lead to a price war, others are of the opinion that the situation has taken on a more reassuring aspect over the week-end, although nothing of an official nature was given out.

Special to The New York Times.

About 3,000 persons, including several prominent clergymen, attended.

Special to The New York Times.

HAWTHORNE, N. Y., Sept. 28.—Cardinal Hayes of the Archdiocese of New York blessed and dedicated a convent and chapel at the Rosary Hill Home here this afternoon. Several hundred persons attended the ceremonies in the new chapel.

The Rosary Hill Home is a hospital for incurable cancer patients who are destitute. It was founded by Mother Alphonsa Lathrop, who had been Rose Hawthorne, a daughter of Nathaniel Hawthorne, the writer.

Muddled Merriment.

HER WEDDING NIGHT, with Clara Bow, Ralph Forbes, Charles Ruggles, Skeets Gallagher, Geneva Mitchell, Rosita Moreno, Natalie Kingston, Wilson Benge and Lillian Elliott, based on a stage comedy by the late Avery Hopwood, directed by Frank Tuttle; Boris Petroff's stage contribution, "Jewels," with Ross and Edwards and others. At the Times Square Paramount and the Brooklyn Paramount.

An audience that packed the Paramount yesterday afternoon was kept busy laughing at the farcical incidents in Clara Bow's latest talking picture, "Her Wedding Night," an adaptation of the late Avery Hopwood's stage comedy "Little Miss Bluebeard."

This hilarious contribution does not permit reasoning to interfere with its chances to arouse laughter. Persons dash in and out of rooms without ever taking time to think. If there is somebody in one room another character wants to find, he or she is bound not to see any more than the director, Frank Tuttle, wishes. It is a story that might be told in a quarter its present length or, if the fancy took a producer, it might be continued for days. Mr. Tuttle, however, rings down curtain on the hectic doings after a little more than an hour, and at this juncture one is assured that Norma Martin (Miss Bow), a motion picture star, and Larry Charters (Ralph Forbes), a music composer, are to enjoy a happy and peaceful existence, which one feels they have earned.

The funniest bits in this film are those in which Charles Ruggles figures. Mr. Ruggles, as Bertie Bird, appears to be desirous chiefly of having a good sleep, but, apparently, he is prevented from indulging in a snooze until the final fade-out. Bertie is therefore an unwilling participant in the exploits, but he has plenty of time reserved to show how comic he can be.

Norma Martin is supposed to be somewhat tired of the attentions of mere men. She is first seen in Paris, but soon she boards a train for the Italian Riviera. It happens that Larry Charters is on the same train with his friend, Bob Talmadge (Skeets Gallagher), who, to add to the muddle, is engaged to Norma's chum, Gloria Marshall. Charters is worried by the fair sex who want him to autograph copies of his songs. So, to please Charters, Bob poses as the song writer. He gives an interview on the train to a woman reporter and eventually gets left on the platform of a small town station. Norma also is in the same predicament. They ask about a hotel and are told that there is none in the place and they are told to put up at the Mayor's home.

The Mayor looks as if he had imbibed at least three bottles of Burgundy. His speech is thick; one is not sure whether he is talking Monegasque or Arabic. After a few peremptory questions, which they don't understand, Bob and Norma are asked to sign papers and a little later it dawns upon them that they are married, or to confuse matters still more, Norma and Larry are married, as Bob has signed the composer's name! Marriage by proxy is all the rage in this town.

Things might have been straightened out quite easily if Larry were not so popular with certain young women who have been told by him that they inspired his songs. For Norma evidently does not dislike Larry.

Miss Bow does fairly well as Norma. Mr. Forbes gives a sympathetic portrayal of Larry and Skeets Gallagher is capital as Bob Talmadge. Mr. Ruggles is worthy of a more rational part than the one he has here.

BRITTEN WARNS IN TALKIE.

NEWSREELS, a compilation of Fox Movietone and Hearst Metrotone Newsreels; shown continuously at the Embassy Newsreel Theatre.

Europe is today spending six million dollars a day preparing for future wars, to say nothing of the countless billions being expended on past wars, according to Representative Fred A. Britten of Illinois, who tells of armament conditions abroad in this week's newsreel at the Embassy.

"Central Europe is full of sore spots," he says. "The nations are playing with fireworks and dynamite and unless something is done about the revision of the Treaty of Versailles war will be imminent at any time."

Mr. Britten makes a plea, in view of this, for a navy "commensurate with our position" as a great commercial nation.

President Nicholas Murray Butler of Columbia University, speaking of the American Government's age in his greeting to George W. Russell, the Irish poet, known to his readers as AE, says:

"We feel very ancient, you know. We have been going on now for one hundred and thirty years—one hundred and forty years. There's no telling how old we'll begin to look pretty soon."

Mr. Russell asks a little later:

"Are you implying that there is no real difference between Democrat and Republican?"

"It would be getting me into a great deal of trouble if I answered that question," Mr. Butler replies.

Secretary of State Stimson, discussing America's diplomatic relations with the new government of Argentina, says:

"In reaching the conclusion to accord recognition to these three governments (Argentinian, Peruvian and Bolivian), the evidence has satisfied me that these provisional governments are de facto in control of their respective countries and that there is no active resistance to their rule."

Arthur Henderson, British Foreign Minister and envoy to the League of Nations, who at a recent session of the League demanded a world-wide disarmament conference," sends a greeting by Movietone.

Other Photoplays.

"Whoopee," an audible prismatic adaptation of the musical comedy of the same name, featuring Eddie Cantor, will be presented on Tuesday evening at the Rivoli Theatre.

"Perche No?" the Italian version of "The Lady Lies," with Maria Jacobi, is at the Fifty-fifth Street Playhouse.

The Eighth Street Playhouse is showing "So This Is London" today and tomorrow and "One Romantic Night" Wednesday and Thursday.

The Little Picture House is showing "Caught Short" today and "Let Us Be Gay" from tomorrow until Thursday.

New Theatre Called RKO Mayfair.

The RKO Mayfair is the name selected for the new motion picture theatre which occupies the site of the old Columbia Theatre, at Forty-seventh Street and Seventh Avenue. It is expected that the building will be ready for dedication the beginning of November. Besides all modern features this house will have a broadcasting studio on the roof. It will be the metropolitan headquarters for RKO Radio Pictures as well as the product of other studios affiliated with Radio-Keith-Orpheum.

GRACIE FIELDS MAKES HER AMERICAN DEBUT

That cherished old practice of extending vaudeville artists and hands across the sea is being revived, with music, this week at the Palace, where some enthusiastic billing proclaims the American début of Gracie Fields of the London music halls.

Her turn on variety's first stage arrives when such vaudeville colleagues as Clyde Cook, Dave Apollon, Barry and Whitlege and the virtually ubiquitous Ted Healy have been on and off, leaving for her that breathless spot that the profession knows as "next to closing." Introduced, finally, by Mr. Healy, who could wring a cheer in advance for any one, she starts with "Swinging in a Hammock," but happily deserts such tunes of the day for some character songs of her own. The latter, including a ballad of Punch and Judy and another one called "The Co-op Shop," are rendered with humor and the distinction of a personal style.

For the first time in what an errant memory would guess to be a year, Mr. Apollon comes back with his Philippine orchestra, his strenuous showmanship and Danzi Goodell, the shuffling eccentric dancer. In his absence, Mr. Apollon, who fears no spotlight, has lost a little of the Chauve-Souris quality that used to pervade his act and accent, and is now a full-fledged and articulate master of ceremonies, as willing as any one to bandy a wisecrack.

Mr. Healy returns with some new material and more that is old, and almost all of which is of the best order of fun-making. In the former class is the Healy dog that resolutely obeys no instructions; "La Belle Rose," a female impersonator from the night clubs, and two dancers, "Legs" and Bob White.

To comprise a full-length program there are also Clara Barry and Orval Whitlege, who insult each other with acid abandon; Clyde Cook, the film comedian, whose acrobatic dancing is not quite big time; Helen Yorke and Virginia Johnson, who "sing loud," and the Hungaria troupe of tumblers, one of whom achieves a startling effect of assurance by wearing a monocle despite all contortions.

MRS. FISKE IN PRINCETON.

Will Act "Mrs. Bumpstead-Leigh" at McCarter Theatre Wednesday.

Mrs. Fiske and the company which will appear with her in her repertory season will go today to Princeton, where they will open their engagements on Wednesday night at the McCarter Theatre in "Mrs. Bumpstead-Leigh." "Becky Sharp" will be presented on Thursday night and then the troupe will move to Wilmington, Del., where it will finish the week. Next week, in Atlantic City, "Ladies of the Jury" will be added to the repertory.

THE APPEAL TO THE GOVERNOR.

That Governor ROOSEVELT has been asked to broaden the official inquiry into judicial corruption in Greater New York is only a natural sequence of what has already been found out. The special Grand Jury, acting under instructions from Judge MCCOOK, has brought in several indictments, but does not yet know whether, under the terms of the Governor's designation, it can proceed further. In any case, its activities are limited to the County of New York. Complaints, with offers of proof, of similar bad conditions in the Bronx, in Queens, and in Brooklyn, have reached the prosecuting officers here. A part of the evidence may have been forwarded to Governor ROOSEVELT. At any rate, it is credibly reported that he is carefully studying the need of enlarging the scope and widening the territory of investigation in this city.

If the appeal to do so comes to him from responsible authorities, he ought not to hesitate to grant it. When the State finds it necessary to intervene in any locality where such vital matters affecting the integrity of the courts are agitated, it ought to mark out and pursue a policy of thorough. For Governor ROOSEVELT it might or might not be good political tactics to thrust his probe in deeper before the election. Opening the Socialist State campaign yesterday, Mr. LOUIS WALDMAN, candidate of his party for Governor, denounced Mr. ROOSEVELT as the dependent and ally of Tammany Hall. This charge the Governor may put aside as beneath him to answer, falsified as it is by his early anti-Tammany career at Albany and by his independence since he became Governor. His decision what to do in the present instance ought to be based on something higher than political considerations. Whatever obstacles there may be, whether arising in Tammany or anywhere else, to a complete uncovering of corruption and maladministration in the courts of this city ought to be impatiently swept aside. If the facts are as reported, Governor ROOSEVELT should so act as to make it clear that he is determined to have justice not only done but purified, even if the party heavens fall. Meanwhile, his demand that Tammany officials quit hiding behind their constitutional privilege not to incriminate themselves, is an earnest of his determination to do the right thing.

THE MAYOR'S NEW RITUAL.

Mr. CURRY must be pained at the marked want of coordination between the Mayor and himself in their views of moral delicacy. Mr. CURRY has set up a high standard, to which his district leaders conform. Such is their chastity of honor that it forbids them to sign a waiver of immunity. "In view of some recent occurrences," the Mayor, before swearing in a magistrate, asks him:

> Have you given or promised any one, directly or indirectly, any money or other consideration for acting in your recommendation for appointment or for any other assistance?

This is far more "insulting" and "political" than the merely routine signature which has so shocked the Tammany purists and driven them away from the extraordinary Grand Jury. "Recent occurrences" have only served to quicken their fantastic, their chivalrous devotion to perfect knighthood. In a naughty city they are idealists. The Mayor is content to be a practical man. Doubtless to emphasize his realist conception, he chooses to lay stress upon the intellectual rather than the moral deficiency inherent in giving or promising consideration for appointment to office:

> If you have promised anybody anything to help you in this appointment, you have not brains enough to be a magistrate. Buying office isn't necessary.

The Mayor might have taken higher ground, but that would have been superfluous. His abhorrence of the implications of "recent occurrences," of the barter and sale of offices, may be taken for granted. He was not addressing, save nominally, the new magistrate. He was speaking to Tammany officeseekers. He wished to convince them that, in spite of "recent occurrences," "buying office isn't necessary." That is perhaps a large assumption. So far as his knowledge goes and he is concerned, it is correct. But has it been necessary to buy office in the recent past? Or, rather, has office been bought? Naturally, nobody pays unless he has to.

There are strong suspicions and circumstantial evidence of such corrupt transactions. From the inquiry about one of these Mr. CURRY and his knightly followers have felt bound to abstain. Will the Mayor's less lofty attitude have any effect on the die-hards of Tammany virtue?

THE NATION'S SCHOOL BILL.

The survey of school costs made by the research division of the National Education Association presents statistics which show that in the country as a whole we are not spending an alarming percentage of our total national income for public education. The amount seems large in itself, $2,448,633,561, but is only 2.74 per cent of the nation's income. Nor does it seem enormous when put beside the expenditures for things that, for the most part, lie beyond the field of necessities. This comparison is not new. President ELIOT used often to make it. But with our immense growth in wealth, expenditure for public schools has not increased relatively at the same pace.

It is not urged that too much is spent for insurance or building or passenger automobiles or even for articles in the luxury class; but the question is asked whether such expenditures indicate that we invest more in the education of our children than we can afford. Our luxury bill amounts to nearly three times that for our schools. The tobacco bill alone ($2,141,220,000) is almost as large as the total for public education from kindergarten to university.

We can afford to do even more for education. The only doubt that should disturb us is whether the nation is getting its money's worth in the quality of the teaching. The people will not be parsimonious in support of the public school when they know that it is efficiently conducted. They will even make sacrifices beyond their taxes.

It is to be wished that the picture which Professor REISNER of Teachers College presents in his book on "The Evolution of the Common School" were true of every community:

> At present the wisdom and the planning of professionally trained men and women * * * are brought to bear upon the common school in its every aspect. * * * Security of tenure, more adequate financial reward and just promotion schedules are making the occupation of teaching more attractive and are influencing a constantly increasing number of persons to find in teaching not a stop-gap employment but a life profession. Finally, the standard of certification, the facilities for teacher training and the development of in-service opportunities for renewal and growth are steadily improving the quality and professional enthusiasm of the teachers.

A SLOGAN GONE WRONG.

Further study of the fall of the votes in the Reichstag election, wrote our Berlin correspondent yesterday, has established the conviction that of more than two million first voters the bulk marched straight into the Fascist or the Communist camp. It was once more a case of Youth responding to the call of bold aims and direct action. It is the view expressed in another section of yesterday's TIMES by EMIL LUDWIG, who reports that emotion and not reasoned opinion is the force that rallies the young men to the Fascist preachment. It must be not only the young men, but the young women too, and the women of maturer years who helped to provide the five million votes by which the poll of Sept. 14 surpassed all previous elections. The Hitler doctrine of Germany rehabilitated and liberated through blood and iron seems to have made a profound appeal to the women. In some election districts their Fascist ballots showed a twenty-fold increase over two years ago.

Of the many catch-phrases released by the World War few had a greater vogue for nearly a decade after the Armistice than the picturesque assertion that the crimes of the war and the peace treaties were the work of the Wicked Old Men. The undoing of said wrongs and the saving of the world must be the work of Youth. Often it was to be the joint work of Youth and of Woman, the two constructive forces in society, as against the normally destructive operations of crabbed, malicious, profit-hunting, war-making old men. Considering the pace of post-war thinking and feeling, the speed with which formulas succeeded each other in popular favor and had their brief hour, the tenacity of the Wicked Old Man stencil was truly remarkable. But even so mouth-filling a phrase had to bow before time—and events. By the middle of the decade the accumulating evidence from two quarters was creating difficulties for the Wicked Old Men and Generous Youth hypothesis. In Italy was established a régime totally opposed in aims to the progressive ideas entertained by the critics of the Wicked Old Men; and the Fascist régime was created and maintained by the enthusiasm of Italy's young men, and the battle hymn of fascism was "Giovinezza," "Youth." In Soviet Russia the aims pursued by Communism and Youth enjoyed approval in anti-Wicked Old Men circles. But the methods by which the Russian experiment was carried made it plain that ruthlessness and cruelty and violence were by no means a monopoly of Old Men.

Today the demonstration is worldwide. Youth is indeed Generous Youth in the sense that it will give itself to a cause freely where old men will be timid and prudential. But Youth will give itself with equal generosity to all causes, to war and to peace, to dictatorship and to democracy, to nationalism and to internationalism. University students are Fascist in Italy and Germany, Communist in Russia, Nationalist and Radical in France, Conservative and Laborite in England, Radical in Bolivia and Peru, Conservative in Argentina. The generous sympathies of youth can be mobilized for any purpose, though on the whole, youth will be for war rather than for peace, because youth is properly impatient and adventurous. In Europe today to the extent that one can speak in formula it is the young men who are threatening peace and the old men to whom we look for reassurance.

MR. DANIEL GUGGENHEIM.

A heavy loss to his troops of loving friends, and the disappearance of a figure of great power and responsibility in the financial world, where he was deeply respected, must be recorded in the death yesterday of Mr. DANIEL GUGGENHEIM. It is needless to make a list here of the many large enterprises with which his name was identified. They embraced interests in many lines of activity and in many countries. In them all, his marked business talent was over a long period of years successfully displayed, and his reputation as a far-sighted planner, a gifted organizer, and a company administrator whose methods were always sound and conservative while never failing in a progressive and humane attitude toward his great army of workers, became higher and more admired as time passed. Under his direction, laboratories for research were among the earliest established by any corporation, and it was owing to his persistence in encouraging scientific study and improved processes that some of his important ventures, like the restoration of the nitrate business in Chile, were possible and profitable. Throughout his long career, Mr. GUGGENHEIM'S name was the very synonym of fair dealing and large-mindedness. In any time of emergency or distress his public spirit could always be counted upon.

Some of the large and beneficent philanthropies in which he took pleasure are publicly known. Many of them are of the quiet kind in which he did not let his left hand know what his right hand did. The way in which his mind, even in later life, was always forward-looking was fully exemplified in the large gifts which he made, and the endowment which he financed, for the advancement of aviation. In that field alone his work was enough to signalize his name. But there was always something about Mr. GUGGENHEIM greater in his personality than in any particular thing which he did. He was a man of generous friendships. He warmed both hands at the fire of life. In public affairs he will be sorely missed and in private life sincerely mourned.

EXPLAINING BOBBY.

A former four-times amateur champion, Mr. JEROME TRAVERS, was asked at Merion on Saturday how he accounted for the extraordinary play throughout all this year of Mr. ROBERT T. JONES. After admitting that JONES today is much better than he himself was even at his best, Mr. TRAVERS remarked that BOBBY is the greatest golfer the world has ever seen because he combines in himself, to a degree attained by no one else, "skill, power, courage and brains." He might have added, we think, character. On top of all the qualities mentioned, there has been slowly imposed by BOBBY JONES a complete self-control, the work of conquering his own spirit, which is worth more to him than anything else when facing the slings and arrows of outrageous fortune on the links. But when all is said, no analysis can ever explain a genius. Perhaps it is simpler to let it go by saying that JONES is the greatest golfing genius known to the game.

Something may be said about his actual performance in his unprecedented winning of championships this year. His play has not been absolutely impeccable. It has had depths as well as heights. In the British amateur he three times escaped being beaten only by the narrowest margin. Yet his skill never failed him for more than a few holes, and he never had the divine despair which others feel when they see their lead slipping away unaccountably. If one thing can be said positively about his game, it is that he always played as well as he needed to in order to win. If a 68 is required to astonish and intimidate his competitors, he produces it as if by easy magic. When a 75 or 76 will suffice, he scores it with nonchalance. He might have had to fight harder in this year's American amateur had not the men who were expected to give him the sharpest contest—Dr. WILLING and Messrs. VON ELM, VOIGT and JOHNSTON—so early fallen by the way. After his first two rounds of medal play, in which he led the field, he simply romped away to what appeared to be an effortless victory.

Nevertheless, years of the most severe effort and the sternest self-discipline lay behind the unapproached record which BOBBY JONES made this year in winning all four of the greatest golf championships in the world.

VISITING NURSES.

In reporting the work of the Henry Street Settlement this year, the directors have separated the visiting nurses' activities from the rest of the program. There is so much of interest to varied sections of the whole community in the nurses' work that it deserves a book to itself. The very poor, who cannot afford to pay anything for service, receive the best care in all kinds of trouble and disease. Incipient mental cases with which the nurses have come in contact through visits to homes where there is sickness are now being cared for under the direction of a mental hygiene supervisor. In one district of the city, day and night service has been established for prospective mothers, and physicians and patients all over the city are asking for a similar arrangement. Training in the field of public health nursing is given to students, and graduates are in demand throughout the world.

Private physicians and hospitals have found the Henry Street nurses most helpful in follow-up work. They may be engaged by the hour by persons who require the service of a trained nurse for a short time each day or at any specified time. This arrangement is satisfactory to people who do not need nor want to pay for a nurse's full time. Hotel and apartment residents have been well pleased that such service is available. The charge is not high, though, of course, this is not charity work, and the best technical skill and experience are to be had. Hospitals like to send their patients home as soon as possible to release beds for new cases. They are satisfied to discharge diabetics, for example, if a Henry Street nurse continues the treatment. She supervises the diet and teaches the family and the patient how to prepare food. In surgical cases still requiring dressing, the nurse follows the instructions of the clinic doctor, and the patient is saved long trips to the hospital. Mothers are instructed while in the hospital about the care of their infants, and the nurse visits the home to see that her teachings are carried out and to continue instruction.

The intimate contacts between nurse and home have brought about a special relationship which makes the nurse an invaluable liaison officer. She often has occasion to notice and speak in a friendly way about a troublesome child. Perhaps he is mischievous and unmanageable, or failing in his school work, or unaccountably cross and sulky. When such youngsters are beyond the capacity of the parents to help, the nurse tactfully advises. More than a thousand cases requiring help on the mental and emotional side have been cared for by the visiting nurses during the last year. Sometimes the nurse herself is able to straighten out a tangle. In cases of mental deficiency, or in any that are too complicated for her to handle unassisted, she calls on the psychiatric clinics and the Henry Street supervisor. This part of her work is as important to the community as the treatment of illness and the health education she carries forward constantly.

MODERATING THE DIN.

The inhabitants of Sybaris dwelt in peace and luxury on the shores of the Gulf of Tarentum a thousand years or two before the malarial mosquito settled down there. The Romans thought them effeminate, and their civilization effete. They scoffed at the city's zoning regulations, and particularly at the ordinance prohibiting industrial noises in residential areas. Possibly having in mind this unusual sensitiveness to unseemly din, they invented the tale about a Sybarite who was unable to sleep because a petal was crumpled in his bed of rose leaves. The Sybarites may have been the first, but were certainly not the last, city-dwellers to yearn for peace and quiet. CARLYLE dreaded the sound of a cock-crow. SCHOPENHAUER was tortured by the crack of a carter's whip. HERBERT SPENCER used to plug his ears with wool and think great thoughts.

For all these and a wealth of other equally entrancing historical allusions the public is indebted to the Noise Abatement Commission, whose report was published yesterday. It is a handsome volume, illustrated with contemporary cartoons, and popularly edited—for no commission will ever be able to deaden the din without popular support. Noises are analyzed, hundreds of them; horns and brakes and cut-outs; doorman's whistles, turnstiles; pile-drivers, blasting and riveting; loud-speakers, late parties, barking dogs. The ashman is brought before the bar, and the peddler, and the chap who goes up in an airplane to cry his wares. Names like those of ALEXIS CARREL, FOSTER KENNEDY, BERNARD SACHS and FREDERICK TILNEY add a note of special authority to the findings on the medical side. Noise, these experts say, impairs hearing, interferes with human efficiency, puts an undue strain on the nervous system, robs men and women of sleep, hinders the normal development of children.

Already the commission has done something to curb the clangor. It has put an official muzzle on loud-speakers. It has prepared a charter amendment designed to simplify enforcement by authorizing a schedule of fixed fines for minor offenses, to be collected, on notice of violation and admission of guilt, by the City Chamberlain. It has secured promises of cooperation from harbor tugs and postoffice trucks. Under its auspices the Interborough has begun to install noiseless turnstiles, and the B. M. T. is following suit. Of course all this is only a beginning. The commission recommends, besides a noise squad, an "energetic "educational campaign to arouse "public consciousness to the evils "of noise and the advantages of "a quieter city." City dwellers can never look forward to a day—or even a night—when their streets will be as silent as the Antarctic wastes and a man can hear his own heart-beat. But they can, if they insist upon it, come to enjoy a far more peaceful lot than is theirs today.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Having It Both Ways.

Representative TILSON, leader of the Republican majority in the House, has a new theory about the cause of the great fall in prices. It was all due to our new tariff. To be sure, Mr. TILSON does not say exactly this. But he taunts the Democrats over the failure of their charge that the Hawley-Smoot bill would raise prices to consumers. Look about, he says triumphantly, and see how cheap everything is.

What we have seen, of course, has been a lowering of the price level all over the world. If our tariff caused this in the United States, did it also produce the same results in Europe and the Far East? Moreover, however the thing has worked in practice, the tariff was confessedly intended to raise prices. Economic forces too mighty for it have thus far prevented its operating in that way, but the design cannot be questioned.

Would Representative TILSON apply his new doctrine to the case of wheat? Did the increase of the duty up to 42 cents a bushel have the effect of reducing the price which American farmers get to less than 80 cents—a reduction of 30 or 40 per cent from the previous figure? As a matter of fact, economists all over the world recognize the great fall in prices as a marked hindrance, even if only temporary, to prosperity. If Mr. TILSON wishes to claim that misfortune for the American tariff, he is welcome to it. But probably the wheat farmers will wish to ask him a question or two.

Confusion in the Baker's Dozen.

Russian wheat released upon the head of the general reader something more than grave problems of international policy and foreign trade. The dispatches from the different grain markets soon broke out in a rash of weights and measures, some stirring dim memories of "tables" chanted in class, some utterly strange. Liverpool began talking in quarters of wheat and quartern loaves, France in metric tons and quintals—in the classroom it was always a quintal of salt fish—Germany in quintals, Zentner or double Zentner, Russia in tons and poods, not pounds.

It is to be expected of free and easy England that the quarter of wheat in which she reckons should be equal to 8 bushels, to 8¼ bushels, and occasionally to 9, 12 and more bushels. In weight the quarter of wheat is 400 pounds. One-quarter of what, to be 400 pounds? Reference to the Oxford Dictionary shows that originally it was one-fourth of a wey or load. Today it is one-fifth, presumably of a ton. It is a comfort to know that the quartern loaf is always four pounds.

We have our own short tons of 2,000 pounds and long tons of 2,240 pounds, neither of which coincides with the French metric ton of 1,000 kilograms or 2,204 pounds. A quintal in Europe is not one-fifth of a ton, as one might think by etymology, but either one-tenth of a ton (100 kilos), or one-twentieth of a ton, 100 pounds, a hundredweight. But there are some hundredweights which are more or less than a hundred pounds. It is a state of things that cannot entirely be blamed on the Soviet Government.

The Pope and Aviation.

A dispatch from Vatican City in a London newspaper presents more evidence that aviation has an earnest supporter in the Pope. He particularly recommends it to those who must journey long distances to Rome. When a Bishop from China reported conditions in his diocese the other day, he was perplexed to hear the Pope say: "We hope to see you again next year."

The prelate ventured to remark that the scene of his labors was on the other side of Asia, and that he could hardly be absent from them for months at a time the following year. His Holiness admitted the difficulty of transportation at this time, "but in another year," said he, "you will no doubt be able to fly most of the distance from China."

Poland is not far away, and Cardinal HLOND uses the airplane to make a quick visit to Rome. The first time he landed at the Littorio Airport some members of the Sacred College doubted the propriety of a Cardinal flying. But the Pope approved. He observed to the Primate of Poland that he regretted the Vatican State was too small for the laying out of an airport.

Crashing the Farm Gate.

British farmers have a fresh grievance. At sales of farm stock their hospitable habit has been to serve luncheon to all comers. But when as many as five or six hundred attend, the bill amounts to anything from $150 to $500. What began in prosperous times as a generous offer of a snack to a prospective buyer has become a burdensome expense to farmers.

Their chief complaint is that most of their luncheon guests come without the slightest idea of buying stock. An analysis made by the Cumberland and Westmoreland Farmers' Union shows that as a rule only 15 per cent of the guests prove to be actual buyers, 20 per cent are useful bidders, and 65 per cent are of no use at all to the sale. The farmers' wrath is excited by such episodes as that at a recent sale when some thirty workmen from a near-by plant cycled over, made a hearty lunch at the farmers' expense and rode back to work again.

In the future the man who goes to farm sales to eat but not to buy will find the gate closed in his face, unless he can develop a technique of bidding but not buying. A lunch which might cost the price of a horse or a cow could scarcely be a good bargain.

Soviet Punishments.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Those of us who are trying to understand and be sympathetic with the present Soviet Government find it difficult not to be aroused to bitter resentment against the wholesale executions that are taking place in Russia. The front-page notice in this morning's TIMES, stating that forty-eight members of a "secret counter-revolutionary society who were found guilty of seeking to starve the populace of the Soviet Union" were executed, seems to me to be a revelation of the grossest kind of cruelty and injustice. Surely there is some other way of treating miscreants besides the barbaric, uncivilized method of "wholesale murder by law."

Liberal Americans and people the world over should protest against the Soviet Union's action, assuring them that nothing will so antagonize thinking men and women throughout the world as these extreme punishments. Men can be easily removed from positions where they may do harm and can at the same time be made to produce. A country as much in need of labor as Russia claims to be might well have thought twice before executing forty-eight healthy human beings. Why not put them to work, under guard if necessary? Why not force them to labor and produce for the people of Russia? To have shot them all in cold blood not only places a stigma on the administrators of the Soviet Government, giving proof of a backward outlook, but as far as Russia herself is concerned is a sign of very poor economics!

THE HILLS OF HAMELIN.

Are wise and luminous to the core of them.
Their clefts still soul great dreams. And they are full
Of guarded truth that never man has sung,
And they are deep with many a battle fought
And won upon their tops. The enemy
Has fallen here. The moss has healed his hate.

Only things beautiful remain. Things gnarled
And twisted—knot-grass, rootwort, thyme—
Stretches of lichens, fernfrond, mignonette—
Oak, spruce, poplar and hemlock trees—
A mighty brotherhood of Druid blood.

Nourish things elemental, things broad-based
And wide, even as the girth of skies is wide,
And deep, even as the womb of hills is deep.

Who fly from arrows of the poisonous throng.
These birds, these trees are sweet with Holy Breath.

And he who comes to know and love these hills
Will find it well with him. And he who comes
And he who brings his joy finds deeper bliss,
And he who carries grief can lay it down,
A sacred offering.

PAN-AMERICANISM AGAIN.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Recent events in Latin America make timely and necessary special thoughtful consideration thereof by all men of affairs, and also by commercial, cultural and social organizations and business and banking companies interested in United States-Latin-American relations.

May I say that my views represent a perspective of the past three decades of Pan-Americanism, based upon thirty years' association with Latin-American governments and peoples? This period represents service as United States Minister to Argentina, Colombia and Panama and fourteen years as Director General of the Pan American Union, the official international organization of the twenty-one American republics, at Washington, during its constructive period from a little-known bureau into a world-recognized international office.

First—Today the United States is facing throughout Latin America the greatest opportunity and responsibility since it first sympathized with and supported the many movements for Latin-American independence. The peculiar political, economic and social situation throughout all Latin America now not only offers to the United States unprecedented and immeasurable opportunities for development of good-will, commerce and permanent understanding, but requires that the United States actually meet the responsibility expected by the Latin-American countries in an unselfish spirit, with practical action, not idle words.

Second—Recent events, particularly in Argentina, Peru and Bolivia, demonstrate that the people of the United States should stop patronizing Latin America by sarcastic comment on "revolutions" and "instability." Such a "holier-than-thou" attitude should be supplanted by a realization that revolutions like those in the countries named are inevitable and natural "evolutions" when economic and political conditions become intolerable. They express the inherent and patriotic desire of the people for representative and democratic government. They show stability of ideals and purpose, if not of immediate administration. They do not weaken respect for international obligations, but strengthen them.

Third—It is my confident belief that Latin America is right now successfully, although slowly, turning the corner in a world-wide economic depression and consequent political unrest. I hold that the ensuing two decades of 1930-50 will witness, from Mexico and Cuba south to Argentina and Chile, the most remarkable economic, political and social progress which the world has ever witnessed in a similar period outside of the United States.

Fourth—The government, people, business and cultural organizations of the United States should awaken to the fact that the chief characteristic of this new era is the new leadership, the new influence and the new power of the young throughout all Latin America. This youth movement begins with ambitious and patriotic students and reaches up through the younger element occupying positions in governmental offices, newspapers, business and banking houses and educational institutions. It is not only influencing but even shaping the internal and external policies of the governments to a degree never known before. For this reason the future of United States-Latin-American relations will largely depend on awakening the interest and cooperation of this powerful element in developing permanent United States-Latin-American good-will and commercial and cultural cooperation.

Fifth—May I take advantage of this opportunity afforded by THE NEW YORK TIMES to point out that there will soon be an ideal and auspicious occasion to inaugurate such a new movement to bring about permanent Pan-American good-will in the proposed visit this Autumn and Winter of Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh to the middle and southern countries of South America? There is no question that such a tour, even though planned for practical benefits to Pan-American aviation, will accomplish more for permanent Pan-American understanding than even the good-will tour of President Hoover. The unique personality of Colonel Lindbergh has an enormous appeal to the youth of Latin America, and he will probably receive greater popular acclaim in the countries visited than any other man in history.

Yacht Races Here and There.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In addition to presenting a loving cup to that fine sportsman, Sir Thomas Lipton, from many contributors, some of whom surely would have been pleased if he had won the America's Cup, I should like to suggest the following:

Let the America's Cup remain where it has been stored for three-quarters of a century. Let some one or some group of men put up a new cup to be sailed for first in British waters at such time as may be arranged. Whoever wins the races, let the next contest be in America whenever it is convenient to both parties. Let the third race, whoever wins, again be in England, the fourth in the United States, and so on. When one side has won the cup three times let it remain as permanent property in that country and another cup be set up.

In this way, whether or not one side wins all the time, both sides will have a little fun, which is hardly the case now. And if each side takes turns in crossing the ocean the contest will seem fairer.

Trusting that this suggestion from one who has never seen a race may nevertheless seem worthy of consideration by good sportsmen, I sign myself in other lines A Modest Sportswoman. ANNIE S. PECK.

USES NEW METHOD IN HEART RESEARCH

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 28.—A method of diagnosis of cardiovascular diseases which was described as opening "almost incalculable possibilities" in the early detection of pathological lesions of the heart and of the first onset of arterio-sclerosis was announced today by Dr. C. C. Wolferth, director of the Edward B. Robinette Foundation of the School of Medicine of the University of Pennsylvania.

The diagnostic method devised, Dr. Wolferth explained, consists in the use of the electrocardiograph for the recording of electrical disturbance in the heart muscles at the same time that X-ray photographs of the heart movements are being taken.

It was announced that the application of the same technique to the study of the aorta, the great artery leading from the heart, also had made it possible for the first time to obtain accurate direct photographic records of human pulse waves and thus study the very beginnings of arterio-sclerosis in the hitherto inaccessible aorta.

The new technique, Dr. Wolferth said, was developed in the course of a study being made of the nature of contraction of the heart muscle.

"A few years ago," Dr. Wolferth explained, "it was discovered that the contraction and relaxation process of any part of the border of the heart could be photographed by a special X-ray technique. Usefulness of this method was limited, however, by the fact that accurate timing of the movements with the electrical disturbances in the heart muscle which excite to contraction had not been perfected.

"That handicap has been overcome finally, and the electrocardiograph, an extremely delicate string galvanometer, can be successfully employed now to record the electrical disturbances in the heart at the same time that X-ray photographs of the movement of the heart are being taken.

Accuracy Is Increased.

"Through the new method, it is possible to accurately time any point on the curve of movement within approximately one-hundredth of a second of the corresponding event on the electrical curve of action.

"Thus a new field for research in diseases of the heart has been opened up. Material is being collected and analyzed as rapidly as possible. Already it has been found that certain types of valvular and muscular diseases of the heart cause characteristic alterations from the normal in the curves of contraction. The relationships between heart sounds and contraction may be clearly displayed and studied.

"By applying the same technique to the study of the aorta, the great artery leading from the heart, it has been possible also for the first time to obtain direct accurate photographic records of human pulse waves and thus to study the beginnings of arterio-sclerosis, or hardening of the arteries, in this highly important but inaccessible structure."

The foundation has been carrying on special studies of various social and economic groups in order to determine the normal heart, and one of the groups being studied at the present time consists of 150 executives of a great corporation.

Discussing these studies, together with other activities of the foundation, Dr. Wolferth declared that it "is curious that, although degenerative diseases of the heart and blood vessels comprise what is probably the most important problem facing the white race, no dependable information is available as to what percentage of people going about their daily work show evidence of these diseases. * * *

1,000 Students Were Studied.

"It therefore seemed of the utmost importance to study cross-sections of various social and economic groups by the most searching methods available. For the first group 1,000 university students were studied. At present, in cooperation with one of our colleagues in the medical clinic of the university hospital, a group of 150 executives of a great corporation is being studied. Much interest attaches to this group, since the men all carry heavy responsibilities, a factor which is thought to predispose to heart disease.

"It is too soon to speak of results, since thus far we do not have comparable groups of men occupying minor clerical positions, manual workers, men of leisure and others. We have been amazed, however, in the study of this group of executives to find how many highly intelligent men, who regarded themselves as perfectly well, exhibited clear-cut disease of the heart or blood vessels, or both."

LEGION MAY VISIT MEXICO.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 28.—President Ortiz Rubio was notified last night of the desire of the commander of the American Legion here, Wayne Davis, to bring as visitors to this city 20,000 war comrades after their convention, opening Oct. 1 in Boston. The visitors would come in special Pullman trains.

President Ortiz Rubio instructed Francisco Doria Paz, who presented Mr. Davis's request, to discuss with the railway authorities the feasibility of handling the traffic.

El Universal this morning says the absence of sufficient hotel accommodations in this city would necessitate the use of the Pullman cars as living quarters, strung out between the terminal station and outside stations, ranging over several miles.

NAVY FOR CZECHOSLOVAKIA.

First Craft Will Be a Cruiser of Monitor Type for Danube Service.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PRAGUE, Sept. 28.—Czechoslovakia, whose army already is one of the strongest in Southeastern Europe, has decided to lay the foundation for a navy and will build an armored cruiser of the Monitor type, fairly heavily gunned, but to ply not on the sea but on the Danube River.

According to the Abend Zeitung, it will be called the Masaryk and will be built by the Skoda works. The keel will be laid Oct. 15 at Yomorn.

JED HARRIS PLANS THEATRE SEAT FIGHT

TO USE 'OUTLAWED' AGENTS

Advance of 50 Cents Only to Be Charged for New Show in Spirited Campaign, It Is Said.

Jed Harris, one of the most prominent of the Broadway theatrical producers who have refused to become identified with the League of New York Theatres, announced yesterday that with his production of "Mr. Gilhooley," opening tomorrow night at the Broadhurst Theatre, he would begin a campaign of underselling the league's accredited brokers who are not permitted to handle his tickets.

Mr. Harris's plan calls for the allotment of part of his tickets to the agencies not recognized by the league and banded together to fight it. These agencies, in turn, have promised that they will charge no more than a 50-cent advance for the "Mr. Gilhooley" seats, whereas the league permits its brokers to exact an advance of seventy-five cents a ticket, plus tax, on the attractions in its houses.

Mr. Harris has been working on the details of the project for several weeks, during which there has been considerable Broadway speculation as to what disposition he would make of his seats. Final arrangements were completed at a meeting yesterday afternoon.

The names of the brokers who will handle the tickets were not given out, but the Harris statement said that "they would make themselves known." It is reported that they will cooperate with the producer through advertisements announcing their price war against the league. Besides selling seats at a limited advance through the agencies, Mr. Harris hopes to dispose of a large number of his tickets directly through the box office, and to that end has made arrangements that the brokers shall have only a moderate allotment. According to recent reports of the league, business at the box offices of all Broadway theatres has been stimulated considerably by its activities.

Although the Broadhurst Theatre, where "Mr. Gilhooley" will be presented, is not affiliated with the league, Mr. Harris has another production, "Uncle Vanya," in a league house, the Booth, where the play will end a return engagement on Saturday night.

An odd situation in the disposition of tickets for Hammerstein's, a league theatre, arose late last week. A reduction in prices from $6.60 to $5.50 for the best seats made it possible for some of the unrecognized agents, who obtained their seats through "diggers," to undersell considerably the accredited brokers, who had received their allotments for last week before the cut became effective, and accordingly were selling tickets at an advance of 79 cents, including the tax, over the printed box office price of $6.60. Hugh Grady, general manager for Arthur Hammerstein, said last night that all the tickets distributed to the agencies for this week were priced at $5.50, which would prevent any repetition of the incident.

Arthur Hopkins, Harlow D. Savage and John McBride, all officials of the league, are scheduled to appear in the West Side Court this morning to answer summonses obtained last week by Jack Pasternack, an unaccredited broker, who charges that the league violated a section of the penal law relating to restraint of trade.

REPORT HIGHER RATIO IN BONE CANCER 'CURE'

Surgeons at Chicago Conference Also Tell of Progress in Tissue Treatment.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Sept. 28.—An announcement that the treatment of bone sarcoma, or cancer of the bone, has attained a higher percentage of cures than ever before was made today by the committee on cancer research of the American College of Surgeons at its annual conference here.

The announcement was based on the definite results of extensive clinical research in which more than 1,200 cases were studied over a period of years, the committee reported. Its researches also have disclosed that much progress has been made in the treatment of carcinoma, the ordinary cancer of the tissues. Dr. Franklin H. Martin, director general of the American College of Surgeons, asserted that some very definite things of importance in the treatment of cancer would be reported to the annual clinical congress of the college in Philadelphia next month.

The cancer research committee in its announcements attributed the marked advancement in the treatment of cancer to a better earlier diagnosis and to a more satisfactory use of surgery, radium and X-ray in the treating of the patients.

Dr. Bowman C. Cromwell, director of clinical research of the College of Surgeons and registrar of the cancer research committee, made public the announcement in the form of a preliminary report that will be made at the clinical congress Oct. 13 to 17.

WALLACE STILL VERY ILL.

Ex-Envoy to France Has Complication of Diseases in Paris.

Professor Charles Laubry, who attended both Marshal Foch and former Premier Clemenceau in their last illnesses, is prescribing for him. Mr. Wallace has been suffering from bronchitis complicated by heart trouble.

Funeral Held for Morris Fatman.

Funeral services for Morris Fatman, president of the Raritan Woolen Mills, were held at 11 o'clock yesterday morning in the chapel of Temple Emanu-El, Fifth Avenue and Sixty-fifth Street. The Rev. Dr. H. G. Enelow officiated. There was a large attendance. Mr. Fatman, who died on Friday at Atlantic City in his seventy-third year, was a brother-in-law of Lieut. Gov. Herbert Lehman and the father-in-law of Henry Morgenthau Jr.

JAPANESE GROUP FINDS US FEARLESS IN TRADE

Visiting Industrialists Laud the American Leadership in Scientific Production.

Fearlessness toward foreign competition is a chief characteristic of many American industries, members of the delegation of Japanese industrialists touring the United States said last night as they prepared to leave this morning on their way home. The sixteen Japanese business and industrial leaders spent yesterday visiting key points in the city's transportation and industrial life under the auspices of the Taylor Society, which is sponsor for the delegation's visit to this country.

The delegation visited the new Hudson River bridge, the Pennsylvania terminal and Sunnyside plant, the Holland Tunnel, Hell Gate Bridge and the East River tunnels. Several of the engineers in the party made a particular study of the system of tunnels and Hell Gate Bridge, saying the principles of construction incorporated in them probably would find valuable application in Japan in the near future.

"Most American manufacturers are not a bit afraid of foreign competition," several of the Japanese remarked as they spoke of their reactions. "American industry is managed with such scientific excellence that it rightly feels it can always keep a jump ahead of competitors. Those American concerns which generally want a high tariff and protection are the ones that seem economically unjustified."

The Japanese said that everywhere leaders of American industry had welcomed them and had seemed "wholly unafraid" of having the visitors copy any ideas. They asserted that most progressive American organizations are marching ahead so rapidly that by the time present American methods were adopted abroad industry here would have accepted new and better systems.

The Japanese delegation will go to Philadelphia today and then will call at Washington, later heading for the Pacific Coast to embark on Oct. 18 for home.

The tour, organized by the Taylor Society, which is interested in the promotion of science in industrial management in the encouragement of international good-will, was organized as a return courtesy for the trip of American engineers through Japan during the World Engineering Congress last year.

HONOR JESUIT SAINTS AT AURIESVILLE SHRINE

AMSTERDAM, N. Y., Sept. 28.—A civic celebration in honor of the canonization of Saint Isaac Jogues and his missionary companions, Saints Rene Goupil and John de la Londe, was held at the shrine of North American martyrs in Auriesville today and was attended by several thousand persons. The program included the laying of the cornerstone for the new shrine coliseum.

Mayor John Boyd Thacher of Albany, acting as personal representative of Governor Roosevelt, who was unable to attend, presided. Speakers included Dr. John H. Finley, associate editor of THE NEW YORK TIMES, and W. Pierrepont White, Utica, historian and authority on early Mohawk Valley events.

Dr. Finley eulogized the martyred saints and said that twenty years ago in a lecture in Paris he anticipated their canonization.

Greetings of the Jesuit Order were extended by the Very Rev. Edward C. Phillips.

MUSICAL VIENNA HEARS AMERICANS

Miss Marjorie Meyer, Soprano, Wins Praise in Concert Opening Season There.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

VIENNA, Sept. 28.—It has fallen to the lot of an American composer-conductor and two American sopranos to open this year's concert season in Vienna. The first in order was Miss Marjorie Meyer of New York, who pleased a critical audience in the Konzerthaus with her rendition of songs from Handel, Anton Dvorak, Hans Pfitzner, Max von Schillings, Richard Trunk and Alexander Schwarz. One Viennese critic wrote:

"All her songs are thoroughly thought out musically and well studied and were welcome proofs of a voice that is not strong but is highly expressive, helped out by faultless declamation."

Wheeler Beckett, American composer, conducted the Vienna Symphony Orchestra through Beethoven's "Coriolan" overture and Debussy's "L'Après-Midi d'un Faune" and then directed the first performance in Vienna of two of his own compositions, "The Mystic Trumpeter," based on a poem by Walt Whitman, and a "Cinderella" overture.

The Viennese critics described his conducting as "precision without greatness; skill that cannot easily be put off its track." In "The Mystic Trumpeter" they found more than a trace of Wagner, but they liked the "Cinderella" overture.

Miss Margaret Halstead, daughter of Albert Halstead, American Consul General in London, received enthusiastic applause and many bouquets for her contribution as soloist in the rendition of "The Mystic Trumpeter."

Cabinet Crisis Looms in Ecuador.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

GUAYAQUIL, Ecuador, Sept. 28.—The resignation yesterday of the Minister of the Interior, Julio Moreno, was a result of questioning Friday by Congress regarding his attitude in requesting the resignation of Governor Seville of Ambato because he did not prevent the election of Senator Alfredo Coloma, an opposition member, who had moved an interpellation. The resignation of all other members of the Cabinet is rumored as imminent, creating a difficult situation for President Ayora.

GEN. W. P. BURNHAM DIES IN CALIFORNIA

HAD SERVED IN PORTO RICO

In March, 1915, He "Fired America's First Shot in World War" as Check on German Ship.

Special to The New York Times.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 28.—Major Gen. William P. Burnham, retired, who was commander of Fort McDowell and the Presidio here from 1919 to 1924, died at Letterman General Hospital late last night after an illness of several months.

General Burnham, who was 70, was retired in 1924 after more than forty years of service. During his long career he served as commander of the Eighty-second Division in France during the St. Mihiel offense and the battle of the Meuse-Argonne, was in charge of the American mission in Greece in 1919 and served in Porto Rico.

In March, 1915, General Burnham "fired America's first shot in the World War," while commanding an infantry regiment in San Juan, Porto Rico. The German supply ship, Odenwalko, was in the harbor preparing to make a run for the sea when General Burnham warned the commander that force would be used if he attempted to leave without proper authority. The German commander ignored the warning. When the ship headed for sea, the Americans under General Burnham's command fired a cannon ball across her bow, forcing her back to port.

He was decorated with the Order of the Bath by King George V, the Greek Military Medal of Honor and the French Croix de Guerre. He will be buried with military honors in the Arlington National Cemetery at Washington. His body will be sent East on Wednesday, accompanied by his widow, Mrs. Grace Meacham Burnham, a son and two daughters.

MORROW SCHOOL TO OPEN.

Special to The New York Times.

ENGLEWOOD, N. J., Sept. 28.—Mrs. Dwight W. Morrow will return from the West Coast several days ahead of the Ambassador to witness the opening exercises Tuesday of the Little School here, the long-dreamt-of educational venture of her daughter, Elizabeth. Mr. Morrow, who has expressed deep interest in his daughter's school, will be a visitor immediately upon his return toward the end of the week.

Miss Morrow's school will open with forty children, ranging in age from 18 months to 5½ years, and a faculty of five teachers from the Child Education Foundation in New York. Outdoor classrooms will be an important feature in the training of these pre-school children, Miss Morrow has announced.

Again Nominated on Lambs' Regular Ticket—Election Oct. 16.

A. O. Brown, who has served three terms in the past as shepherd of the Lambs Club, has again been nominated for that post on the Lambs' regular ticket, which was given out yesterday by the nominating committee. The election of officers will be held on Thursday, Oct. 16.

Others on the regular ticket are Otto Kruger for boy, Percival T. Moore for corresponding secretary, James J. Ryan for recording secretary, Robert L. Hague for treasurer and Hal Forde for librarian. Directors nominated for three years are Peter J. Brady, Thomas Meighan, John P. Ryan, Roger Pryor and Richie Ling.

'SUBURBAN NIGHTS' TO BEGIN

"Nine Till Six" to Start Its Performance at 7 o'Clock Saturday.

The recent suggestion of the Actors' Equity Association for "suburban nights" in the Broadway theatres will be put into effect by the Shuberts next Monday evening, when "Nine Till Six," which opened at the Ritz Theatre on Saturday night, will start its performance at 7 o'clock. Charles Hopkins has also announced a "suburban night" on Tuesday, Oct. 7, for his production of "Mrs. Moonlight," opening tonight.

MUSIC NOTES.

The Women's University Glee Club will hold its first rehearsal of the Fall today in Studio 200, Carnegie Hall, under its conductor, Gerald Reynolds. Places in the glee club are open to women who have spent one year or more at an accredited college or university.

The People's Chorus of New York, of which Lorenzo Camilieri is founder and leader, has engaged Morris W. Watkins as assistant conductor. Weekly singing meetings are held every Monday and Thursday evening at the High School of Commerce auditorium, 155 West Sixty-fifth Street, and every Tuesday evening at the Stuyvesant High School, 345 East Fifteenth Street. Men and women are eligible.

The Scarsdale Choral Society, a recently organized unit of the Westchester Festival Chorus, will hold its first rehearsal of the season tonight at the Scarsdale Women's Club. Gerard Duberta is conductor.

Other theatrical news is printed on Pages 17 and 19.

PRINCE LEOPOLD, FIELD MARSHAL, DIES

WARSAW CAPTURED BY HIM

6,000,000 Men Engaged in Campaign Leading to Its Fall — Bolshevist Peace Offer Made to Him.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MUNICH, Sept. 28.—Field Marshal Prince Leopold of Bavaria died here today in his eighty-fifth year of old age and incipient inflammation of the lungs.

He joined the Bavarian Army at the age of 18 in 1864, distinguished himself as commander of a Bavarian volunteer battery in the Franco-Prussian War, and thereafter rose steadily until he commanded the First Bavarian Army under the Reich. He became Field Marshal in 1905.

Prince Leopold participated in the World War on the east front, being in command at the capture of Warsaw in 1915. It was at his headquarters that peace negotiations with the Russians in 1917 were begun. Since the war he had been in retirement.

BERLIN, Sept. 28 (AP).—Prince Leopold was commander of the German Army in the east during the earlier stages of the war. He played an important part in the early German victories in Russia and Poland. It was even rumored at the time of the capture of Warsaw that he might be made King of Poland.

He was an uncle of ex-Crown Prince Rupprecht of Bavaria.

The capture of the Polish capital crowned one of the greatest military movements in the early stages of the war. The campaign was fought along a front stretching nearly a thousand miles from the Baltic to Rumania. About 6,000,000 men were engaged.

From May, 1915, to near the end of July, Prince Leopold's Bavarians hammered at the Russian armies, closing in against Warsaw along a line of 500 miles. The Russians, hampered by shortage of ammunition, were finally forced to retreat.

Prince Leopold was a member of the Wittelsbach family, the Bavarian royal house, to which belonged Ludwig II, patron of Wagner. Those members of the family who remained in Bavaria attended the celebration of Prince Leopold's golden wedding in April, 1923. His wife, Gisele, was an Austrian Archduchess.

NATHAN FALLEK.

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 28 (AP).—Nathan Fallek, electrical engineer and inventor, died on his sixty-sixth birthday on Friday. He had been ill for several months.

Born in London, Mr. Fallek was associated with Nicola Tesla and Thomas A. Edison when he came to the United States. His family said he brought the first armature to America to be placed in commercial use. He also was first to install electric lights on an ocean liner.

He was a member of the Royal College of Engineers, England, and held thirty-eight patents on inventions here and abroad. Recently he was credited with invention of a storage battery for flashlights.

DAVISON MOURNS DOUGHTY.

Assistant Secretary of War Pays Glowing Tribute to Leader.

Special to The New York Times.

OYSTER BAY, L. I., Sept. 28.—F. Trubee Davison, Assistant Secretary of War in charge of aviation, paid a glowing tribute at his home in Locust Valley today to the memory of G. Wilbur Doughty, Republican leader of Nassau County for the last twenty years, who died yesterday in a New York hospital.

"There never was a straighter shooter or a more able and inspiring leader than Wilbur Doughty," said Mr. Davison. "No one could know him without being filled with a real affection and a deep respect.

"It will be a long time before this or any other section of New York State will have a political leader more appreciative of his opportunities for service or more intelligent and courageous in directing the affairs of his county.

"The whole Davison family, among thousands of others, grieves very sincerely at his loss, because he was our friend."

Funeral services will be held at the Doughty home, 148 Morris Avenue, Inwood, at 2:30 P. M., tomorrow.

MRS. JOHN CLINTON GRAY.

Widow of New York Jurist Dies at Newport in Her 85th Year.

Special to The New York Times.

NEWPORT, R. I., Sept. 28.—Mrs. Grace Townsend Gray, widow of Judge John Clinton Gray of the New York Court of Appeals, died here this morning, in her eighty-fifth year.

Mrs. Gray was a daughter of William Hawkshurst and the former Sarah Townsend, and was born on Staten Island. She had been a Summer resident of Newport for many years, and was prominent socially. She left a son, Austen Gray, and four stepchildren, Mrs. R. Reynolds Hitt and Mrs. Thomas Witherspoon of Washington and Albert Z. Gray, John Clinton Gray and Henry G. Gray of New York.

Judge Gray died at Newport on June 28, 1915. Mrs. Gray was a member of the Colony Club of New York.

D. S. Williams.

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., Sept. 28 (AP).—D. S. Williams, for fifty years a leader in the business and financial life of this city, died at his home here today after a brief illness. Mr. Williams, with his brother, R. S. Williams, engaged in the wholesale grocery business here in 1870. Since 1910 he had been engaged in the same business under the firm name of Williams Brothers Company, in association with his sons, Gordon and Vaughan. He was one of the originators of the Wyoming Valley Trust Company and served as a director. He was born in Aberystwyth, South Wales, in 1850 and came to this country with his parents in 1868.

James J. Manning, Actor.

MADE FIRST RESCUE AT 14

He Received Order of St. Olaf of Sweden and Many Other High Honors for His Heroism.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 28.—Captain Hans D. Doxrud, who was formerly senior commander of the Red Star Line, which he left before the World War to join the Norwegian-American Line, of which he was vice president at his retirement in 1923, died here today of heart disease at his home, 5,421 Wynnfield Avenue. A widow, a son and three daughters survive.

Twenty years ago, when he was at the height of his career, Captain Doxrud was sometimes called the premier life-saver of the Atlantic. In his forty-odd years at sea he rescued 368 persons, often under circumstances requiring both heroism and skilful handling of his vessel.

The captain was born at Hammerfest, Norway, in 1853. Fourteen years later, when an apprentice, he leaped overboard in Cork Harbor and saved a man from drowning. At 24 he was master of the Norwegian bark Alert, which achieved two rescues in 1879, taking eighteen men off a waterlogged Italian bark and eight sufferers from yellow fever off a British brig. The ill men had been drifting helplessly on their ship. A gold medal and a pair of binoculars rewarded this feat.

The list of rescues is too long to be given in detail, but mention should be made of the two rescues involving American schooners that Captain Doxrud achieved when in command of the old Belgenland in 1897 while on the way from Philadelphia to Antwerp. He towed the Theodore Maxwell back to the Delaware after it had been dismasted off the Georgia Banks, continued on his voyage, and in mid-ocean picked up the crew of the foundered Theodore Dean. For these rescues President McKinley sent Captain Doxrud a gold watch and chain.

In October, 1895, when in command of the Pennland, Captain Doxrud came across the disabled Holland-America liner Obdam with a broken shaft twenty-five miles off Sable Island and towed it to Halifax. High seas were running and the tow lines parted twice. There were 118 passengers on the Obdam. In 1902 Captain Doxrud, then commanding the Noordland, took thirty-nine passengers off the British steamship Pretoria, on fire in the Atlantic, and then accompanied the Pretoria to this port, where she was beached.

In 1909 Captain Doxrud left the Kroonland and assumed command of the new Lapland, 18,000 tons, at that time the finest ship ever placed under the Red Star flag. Captain Doxrud received the decoration of the Order of St. Olaf from King Oscar of Sweden in 1904 for "his great services to humanity." He also held several medals from life-saving societies.

WILLIAM T. CARLETON.

ST. JOHN, N. B., Sept. 28 (Canadian Press).—William T. Carleton, one-time director of Broadway theatrical productions, died at the home of his sister here today after a long illness. He resided in New York for thirty-five years, and was director for Klaw & Erlanger at the New Amsterdam Theatre when "San Toy," "The Pink Lady" and other plays were produced.

The funeral services will be held Tuesday morning, with burial in St. John.

MRS. SARAH E. PRITCHARD.

BALTIMORE, Md., Sept. 28.—Mrs. Sarah Elizabeth Pritchard died this morning at her home in the Rochambeau Apartments. She was 89 years old and had been in ill health throughout the Summer.

She was the widow of Rear Admiral Arthur Pritchard, for many years a paymaster in the navy. At the time of the Spanish-American War he reentered the service and was promoted to the rank of Rear Admiral. He died fourteen years ago.

HENRY C. BUCHANAN, EDITOR, DIES AT 79

WAS LONG STATE LIBRARIAN

TRENTON, N. J., Sept. 28.—Former State Librarian Henry Clay Buchanan, father of Vice Chancellor Malcolm G. Buchanan and dean of New Jersey newspaper men, died at his home on Bellevue Avenue here today of heart disease at the age of 79. He retired from active work only a few weeks ago, after continuous service in the printing trade and as a news and editorial writer for more than sixty-six years.

Mr. Buchanan was one of the best-known men in the State, his career having brought him into contact with men and women in every walk of life. One of his hobbies was the Trenton Press Club, which he helped organize many years ago and of which he was president from its formation. He also was an ardent fisherman and for many Summers headed a group of newspaper men and lawyers in fishing in the lakes of Maine and Canada.

Born in Falls Township, Pa., Mr. Buchanan came to this city when 13 years old. Except for short periods in New York and Hartford, Conn., where he worked as a printer, he had lived here ever since.

He served for several terms as State librarian under appointment of various Republican Governors, and for many years was a member of the Trenton Board of Education.

His wife died a few months ago. Besides the vice chancellor, a son, James M. Buchanan of New York, and a daughter, Mary F. Buchanan of this city, survive.

MRS. ALEXANDER BROWN.

Prominent Society Woman of Baltimore and Newport Dies.

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, Sept. 28.—Mrs. Bessie Montague Brown, wife of Alexander Brown of Alexander Brown & Co., bankers, died last night at Mondawmin, her home.

Mrs. Brown had been ill at Newport, R. I., for several months. After her return here the middle of last week she suffered a relapse. Private funeral services will be held tomorrow.

Mrs. Brown during the '90s and the early part of this century was recognized as the leader of Baltimore society. She gave elaborate entertainments both here and in Newport.

Born here, the daughter of William I. Montague, member of a distinguished Virginia family, she married Mr. Brown in 1887. Besides her husband two daughters survive, Mrs. T. Suffern Tailer of New York and Newport and Mrs. Benjamin Howell Griswold Jr. of this city; also six grandchildren, Alexander Brown Griswold, Miss Carolyn H. Griswold, Benjamin H. Griswold 3d and Miss Betty Griswold of this city and T. Suffern Tailer and Mrs. Walter Gurnee Dyer of New York. There also is a great-grandchild, son of Mrs. Dyer.

NEWBURGH, N. Y., Sept. 28.—Funeral services were conducted here today by the Right Rev. R. W. Peach of the Reformed Episcopal Church of Philadelphia for Walter C. Anthony of this city, former District Attorney of Orange County, who died on Friday in his eighty-ninth year. Burial was in Fishkill.

Mr. Anthony practiced law for many years and had been District Attorney twice and a United States court referee in bankruptcy. He was counsel and a director of the Columbus Trust Company and belonged to the Newburgh Historical Society. Three children survive.

HOMER FARNHAM EMENS.

Former Scenic Artist of Metropolitan Opera House Is Buried.

Homer Farnham Emens, formerly scenic artist at the Metropolitan Opera House, was buried in Cypress Hills Cemetery, Queens, yesterday. He died of pneumonia on Sept. 15 in Monterey Hospital, Carmel, Cal., at the age of 68.

Mr. Emens was born in New York State and left here to make his home in California several years ago. In more than twenty years of his association with the Metropolitan Opera House he revised the old operatic settings, and many of his ideas were copied extensively in European opera houses.

Mr. Emens was also for years the scenic artist for the Frohman-Dillingham theatrical interests. He designed the original settings for "The Old Homestead" and seven other of Denman Thompson's plays. Just before the end of the World War Mr. Emens perfected a new system of camouflage for steamships and other craft for the Navy Department.

Miss Sarah Austin Dies at 95.

SEA CLIFF, L. I., Sept. 28.—Miss Sarah Austin, the oldest resident of this place, died today at the home of her sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Springstead. Miss Austin was 95 years old. She was born in London in 1836 and was brought to the United States by her parents when she was a girl of 12. Mrs. Springstead, who is 87, is the only survivor. Funeral services will be conducted here on Tuesday afternoon at the home.

HEAD OF DOMINICANS LAYS CHURCH STONE

The Most Rev. Martin Stanislaus Gillet of Rome, Italy, Master General of the Dominican Order of priests, laid the cornerstone yesterday afternoon of a new house of worship for the Dominican parish of St. Catherine of Sienna, at 409 East Sixty-eight Street, between First and York Avenues. The ceremony took place in the open. More than 1,000 persons witnessed it.

Father Gillet, a native of France, arrived here two weeks ago on a visitation of the Dominican houses in the United States, Canada and Central America.

The Rev. James Foster, pastor of the Church of St. Catherine of Sienna, in a brief address declared it was "a signal honor" to have the Master General officiate. The Very Rev. Raymond Meagher, provincial of the 700 Dominican priests this side of the Rocky Mountains, preached the sermon.

The visiting and resident Dominican fathers, in their garb of cream-colored wool and black, left the priory and walked in procession, attended by altar boys also in cream-colored robes, to an improvised altar in front of the partly-built church. A choir of girls in white were stationed on one side and about fifty of St. Catherine Boys' Brigade in khaki uniform were stationed on the other. In the street, forming a semicircle about a space in front of the altar kept clear by the police, were the parishioners.

Following the blessing and laying of the cornerstone by Father Gillet, Father Meagher delivered his sermon, in which he reviewed the thirty-five years' history of the parish. The benediction of the blessed sacrament by the Master General followed, during which the throng knelt in the street.

Buy Better Things

AMERICA is not a cheap nation. Our people are not shoddy people. The American standard of living is known the world over as better—better homes, better things to wear and to live with, better and cleaner foods, better education and amusements, better working conditions—above all: better wages.

We build up, not down. We move from one job to a better job, from one home to a better home—up and up, not down.

Now Let's Trade Up!

Cheapness is not economy . . . not thrift . . . not constructive. Cheapness in itself is destructive—it tears down. It cheapens the mind of the worker, his job in making a good product, his ambition. It cheapens the morale of business, of industry, of the people.

Full value for the price, yes! No waste, no graft, no exorbitant profits in an article from maker to consumer. But honest, genuine, full quality merchandise without skimp, or false-front or hidden defects—that's what the American people want.

"It's Better at Wanamaker's"

That's our policy. Instead of cheapening things we make them better. Instead of taking out value to meet a price we put in extra value. No baits, no false-front, no advertising misleading in its insinuations. Because "it's better at Wanamaker's"—it's cheaper—not cheap.

Trade Up—Not Down!

TAXI MEN TO FIGHT PLAN FOR MONOPOLY

Move Is Indicated to Combine Into Cooperative Bodies to Block Board's Proposal.

VIEWS ON REPORT DIVIDED

LEGAL QUESTION ARISES

Doubted Whether Home-Rule Law Gives Power to City to Set Up a Control Bureau.

A complete realignment of the taxicab industry, with individual and fleet operators combining in cooperative associations to combat any move to grant a franchise monopoly to a single large corporation, was forecast yesterday as the first and principal result of the recent report of Mayor Walker's Commission on Taxicabs.

Although public officials and taxicab operating heads declined generally to comment on the report pending study and analysis, the opinion was voiced that the enactment of legislation placing control of the industry in the hands of the Board of Transportation under a system of certificates of public convenience and necessity would be merely a stepping-stone to the single franchise monopoly which the report frankly and unreservedly urged as the only real solution of the problem.

The comments of officials and operators, who for the present declined to speak for publication, indicated that the commission's recommendations would not meet with unanimous approval. Independent and fleet operators announced that they would wage a finish fight against any move to create a taxicab monopoly. The operating chiefs of the larger companies, as well as the fleet and individual operators, expressed disappointment at the commission's finding that the present prevailing "15 and 5" rate ought not to be increased unless and until operation under the certificate plan had received a fair trial. Nor was there unanimity of opinion regarding the recommendation that the number of cabs should be limited.

Action by Mayor Expected Soon.

Although Mayor Walker declined to comment on the report until he had given it thorough study, it was learned that he contemplates definite action at the earliest possible date. Because of the unquestioned standing of Frank P. Walsh, chairman, and the other members of the commission and the exceptional thoroughness of their survey of the taxicab industry not only in New York City but throughout the country, it is believed that whatever legislation the Mayor recommends will follow substantially the lines recommended in the report.

It was learned yesterday that no legislation will be drawn up until important legal questions have been settled. The most important of them is the right of the city, by home rule legislation, to establish the Bureau of Taxicab Control recommended in the report. The commission itself, it is known, is not certain whether this can be legally done. Should the legality of such legislation be deemed doubtful, there will remain the necessity of seeking State legislation. In well-informed quarters it is not believed that the recent legislation vesting enlarged powers in the Board of Transportation will cover the establishment of an agency to regulate taxicabs on a public utility basis.

Fear Political Element.

Ever since Mayor Walker suggested, at a Board of Estimate meeting on Jan. 7, the possibility of a taxicab monopoly franchise as a means of turning about $10,000,000 a year into the city treasury, independent operators have kept in circulation the report that a political drive was on to turn the privilege over to some unnamed favored company. The personnel of the commission appointed to investigate the industry was generally regarded as a guarantee that political considerations would play no part in its findings. Throughout the industry yesterday it was felt that the report was entirely non-political, but in several instances fear was expressed that the political element might enter the situation, now that the commission has performed its function.

H. A. Inness Brown, editor of The Taxi Weekly, who was a leading witness during the commission's hearings, voiced this fear in a statement which, in general, praised the commission's findings and recommendations, but expressed disappointment at its failure to urge a higher rate.

"The taxicab industry has long been the butt of political ambition," he said. "It is probable that the present report will be viewed from a political angle. It will be unfortunate for the taxicab industry, and particularly for the public, if their report, which is the painstaking work of men of unquestioned integrity and independence in politics, is to be used by one side or the other to confuse the political situation so far as the cab industry is concerned.

The report was praised as a distinct accomplishment for protection of the public interest in a statement made by David A. Brown, banker, now heading the Keystone Transportation Corporation, which plans to put 1,200 taxicabs into operation soon. Declaring that the industry should undoubtedly be classed as a public utility, Mr. Brown asserted, however, that he was opposed to a single franchise monopoly and also to the proposed limitation of the number of cabs using the city streets.

"It is my opinion," he said, "that regulation such as would be exercised by a bureau of taxicab control, working under the Board of Transportation, would work out for the best interests of the public and would provide a better all-round service than could possibly come through monopolistic operation. The present development is one of large organizations, soundly financed, well managed by transportation experts and business executives, or cooperative systems, either of individual owners or so-called fleet owners. It is only a question of time when the entire taxicab industry will be in the hands of the large corporations or cooperative organizations, so that it will be a simple matter to exercise the control necessary in a city the size of New York."

Half of Miniature Golf Courses In the City to Close at 1 A. M.

Miniature golf courses will close at 1 A. M. instead of remaining open all night, it was agreed by about fifty owners—representing about half the courses of the city—at a meeting held yesterday at the Hotel Pennsylvania. The meeting was called by the National Tom Thumb Golf Association to agree on a policy before Friday's meeting of the Board of Aldermen, at which Aldermanic President McKee is expected to advocate an ordinance regulating closing hours for the courses.

The owners voted to fight any suggestion of an earlier closing hour, and also agreed that a $50 license fee would be reasonable. A petition, to be signed by miniature golf players, was prepared. Louis Szel, chairman of the meeting, said he expected 200,000 signatures by Friday.

HEARST, ON RADIO, SCORES FRENCH BAN

He Did Not Fight Expulsion Because He Did Not Wish to Magnify Incident.

STRESSES RIGHTS ABROAD

Scores Washington Officials Who Failed to Come to His Defense as an American.

William Randolph Hearst did nothing about his recent expulsion from France because he did not wish to magnify the incident and because he "had the simplicity to believe" that among the officials at Washington there might be one with "independence enough and backbone enough and American spirit enough" to defend the rights of citizens abroad.

The publisher made this explanation last night over a nation-wide hook-up of National Broadcasting Company radio stations—one that was carried to Europe by short-wave from Schenectady, Pittsburgh and Boston. After denying that the naval treaty documents of two years ago had been acquired by his papers through any underhanded means, Mr. Hearst passed to the matter of his silence.

Says Roosevelt Would Have Acted.

"I still think if Theodore Roosevelt had been alive," said Mr. Hearst, "or if Grover Cleveland had been alive, you would have heard little of W. R. Hearst, to be sure, for he is of no importance in this situation, but you would have heard much about the value and validity and inviolability of the American passport and of due and necessary respect for the rights and liberties of the American citizen."

Earlier in his address Mr. Hearst characterized the action of the French Government as showing "the petulance of a spoiled child."

Mr. Hearst said that the French Government "asserted" that the Anglo-French naval treaty was obtained by rifling government files; by bribery and corruption of public officials, and was published to injure France. But none of this happened to be so, he said. The treaty was rumored widely in diplomatic circles, he said, and when he heard of it he contended with "several distinguished Frenchmen influential in public affairs" that such a "secret treaty was not fair to America."

"I said that one of the great reasons which President Wilson had given for our entry into the World War was to end the evil of secret diplomacy, which had been the contributing cause of so many wars.

"Some of these distinguished Frenchmen were convinced of the justice of my statements, and the influence of these gentlemen, combined with the effort and activity of our Paris office, secured for us a copy of this treaty from a responsible government official.

"The moment we secured the treaty there was an end of secret diplomacy as far as that document was concerned, for the secret treaty became a public treaty as far as world publication could make it.

French Officials Angered.

"The French Government officials were very angry, and Mr. Delaplanque and Mr. de Noblet, through whom we received the treaty, were arrested by the French Government for conspiracy, and I was accused of complicity.

"I was not concerned about the charge of the French Government. I had done what I believed was for the best interests of my own country and my own people.

"Moreover, I did not think that I had done the French Government any harm, but, on the contrary, had done it a certain amount of good in preventing its return, in this instance at least, to the evil practice of secret diplomacy.

"Now, fellow-citizens, you may say to me: 'You certainly committed no crime nor misdemeanor nor offense as far as your own country was concerned, but did you not commit an offense according to the laws of France?' And I say in reply: 'I will leave the decision of that question in your hands, in view of the following facts:'

"Mr. Delaplanque and Mr. de Noblet, from whom our office received the treaty, were dragged before a French court by the French Government and prosecuted; and their own French court decided that they had committed no crime, no misdemeanor, no offense of any kind, and discharged them as innocent, and dismissed the case.

"Now, if the French gentlemen who gave us the treaty committed no offense, how could we Americans who received the treaty have committed an offense?

"And how could I be accused of complicity in an offense when the French courts decided that no offense have been committed?"

In introducing Mr. Hearst, Mr. Aylesworth spoke of him as "a great editor who fearlessly thinks, writes and publishes what he believes to be for the best interests of our people and our country."

COLONEL KILLS SELF AFTER HACKING WIFE

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28.—Lieut. Col. Richard B. Creecy of the Marine Corps committed suicide in a room at the Mayflower Hotel this morning after attempting to kill his wife, Mrs. Louise Reifsnider Creecy, with a small hatchet. The suicide and attempted murder were discovered late this afternoon when the door of the room was forced open after housemaids had tried for hours to get a response to their raps for entry.

Mrs. Creecy lay unconscious beside a bed. Three deep gashes, presumably made with a new hatchet found in the room, had been made in the back of her head. At the Emergency Hospital, where blood transfusions were tried, her condition was regarded as very serious. Her skull was fractured.

Known as Devoted Couple.

The police could find no motive for the tragedy. Colonel and Mrs. Creecy, known as a devoted couple, recently returned on leave from Haiti, where he was a high ranking officer of the constabulary organized by the marines.

Physicians fixed the time of the tragedy at between 2 and 3 o'clock this morning. When members of the hotel staff were called to the room by maids, they found on the door a printed "Don't Disturb" sign, on which had been written, apparently by Colonel Creecy: "Call J. L. Reifsnider at Westminster, Md."

This referred to Mrs. Creecy's brother, who, with other relatives, hastened to her side at the hospital. They said that the couple had been married for twenty years. Arriving from Haiti, they had registered at the hotel on Sept. 23 and had paid a visit to Mr. Reifsnider at Westminster.

Visited Parents Just Before Act.

It was learned that Colonel and Mrs. Creecy visited his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward W. Creecy, at the Gordon Hotel last night, leaving them only a few hours before the tragedy. Mr. and Mrs. Creecy said that their son and his wife were in good spirits and that nothing in the Colonel's words or bearing suggested other than a normal state of mind. Mr. and Mrs. Creecy, besides their hotel residence here, also have a home in Laurel, Md.

Mr. Creecy, whose family came from Louisiana, was appointed to the Naval Academy by President Lincoln in 1863. He presented a letter of recommendation that had been signed by Jefferson Davis. Mr. Lincoln smiled and said the navy needed more men from that part of the country.

General Fuller Starts Inquiry.

Major Gen. Ben M. Fuller, Commandant of the Marine Corps, announced tonight that he had directed Brig. Gen. Rufus Lane to investigate the tragedy and to report to a special board of inquiry to be appointed tomorrow by the Secretary of the Navy.

General Fuller said that he had known Colonel Creecy and had talked with him only a few days ago, when he appeared to be in good spirits and quite normal.

"Colonel Creecy was well thought of in the Marine Corps," General Fuller said. "He always had a good record and none of us has any idea why he did such a thing."

Colonel Creecy was born in this city on March 15, 1885, and was commissioned in the Marine Corps on July 4, 1903. He received his commission as Lieutenant Colonel in June, 1924, and was made an Assistant Adjutant and Inspector General on July 1, 1926. He was assigned to duty in Haiti last year.

Colonel Creecy's career was almost cut short in 1909 when, as a lieutenant, he lost a coin toss to Lieutenant Selfridge for the privilege of going up with Orville Wright in an airplane test at Fort Myer. Lieutenant Selfridge was killed in the subsequent crash and Selfridge Field in Michigan was named for him.

Mrs. Creecy is a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John L. Reifsnider Jr. of Westminster, Md. Her twin brother, Lieut. Commander Lawrence Reifsnider, is widely known in Washington. He served as aide to Vice Admiral Louis M. Nulton when that official was Superintendent of the Naval Academy and is now in command of the U. S. S. Groome.

MEMORIAL TOWER OPENED.

Riverside Church Sunday School Classes Held There.

The Laura Spelman Rockefeller Memorial Tower, which houses the various educational activities of the new $4,000,000 Riverside Church, Riverside Drive and West 122d Street, was opened yesterday to members of its forty Sunday classes. The first regular services in the Gothic edifice overlooking the Hudson River will be held next Sunday, with the Rev. Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick delivering the sermon.

About 400 pupils in the various classes, ranging from the tots in the kindergarten groups to the women of the Bible class, were registered. The men's Bible class, of which John D. Rockefeller Jr. is honorary president, will hold its first meeting next week. Preceding the class work, Dr. Fosdick welcomed the members of the church school.

Many visitors went through the tower yesterday, the chapel being closed to the public until the first services next week.

Pastor Marks Silver Anniversary.

The Rev. Bernard F. McQuade, for two years pastor of the Catholic Church of Our Lady of the Rosary on Lamartine Avenue, Yonkers, observed the silver anniversary of his ordination as a Catholic clergyman with special services in the church yesterday. Mgr. Michael J. Lavelle of St. Patrick's Cathedral, where Father McQuade was assistant pastor for twenty-one years, preached at the mass. Supreme Court Justice W. F. Bleakley and Frank E. Xavier, publisher of The Yonkers Herald, are arranging for a parishioners' reception to Father McQuade in the Rosary Social Centre this evening.

Plane and Gunboat Rush $25,000,000 to Cuba As Reserve in Case Bank Run Spreads Today

HAVANA, Sept. 28 (AP).—The sum of $25,000,000, rushed by airplane and fast boat from the United States, will be on hand here tomorrow morning as security against possible continuance of the run on Havana banks that followed the unexpected shutdown of two of their number yesterday morning.

Part of the money was taken to Miami, Fla., by special train from the Atlanta Federal Reserve Bank. In order to get it early into Calle Aguilar, Havana's "Wall Street," speedy forms of modern transportation were called upon.

Pan-American Airways reported tonight that the coffers brought here by airplane this morning and hurried to the local Federal Reserve branch under military guard contained $20,000,000. Other sources said the shipment was about $5,000,000.

The Cuban gunboat Cuba, carrying $11,000,000, arrived from Key West tonight. The shipment was accompanied by four officials of the Atlanta Federal Reserve Bank, five United States postal inspectors and a guard of sixty-seven marines.

The shipment was the second of three expected to total $25,000,000 with which the Atlanta Federal Reserve Bank hopes to protect members of the Havana Clearing House Association against a continuation of the runs which followed Saturday's suspension of the Banco de Comercio.

The first shipment, of $5,000,000, was sent by airplane early this afternoon and a third shipment, of $9,000,000, is en route here by secret means. This, with $20,000,000 now in the vaults of the Havana branch of the Federal Reserve, will bring the total reserve available to the eight members up to $45,000,000.

The closing of the doors of the Bank of Commerce and the Cordova Banking Company yesterday caused a mild panic in Cuban financial circles, but the run that followed was chiefly confined to banks controlled by local interests.

However, the American banks, the First National of Boston, the Chase National and the National City, although not obliged to draw on the Federal Reserve, asked for additional funds in case the run spread to them from the Cuban banks.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28 (AP).—Observers here today expressed no concern over the closing of the Bank of Commerce in Cuba and its possible effect on American banking institutions in the island.

It was stated by well-informed authorities that, even should the Havana institution fail to reopen on Monday, American banks there would not be affected because of financial facilities available through their membership in the Federal Reserve System.

WIFE TRIES SUICIDE, HUSBAND IS JAILED

TOOK HER THREAT LIGHTLY

Her Skull Fractured, He Rushes Her to Hospital, Then Reports to the Police.

Because he told his wife to "go ahead" when she threatened to jump out of the family automobile during a quarrel as they were returning home from a party early yesterday morning, William Murray, 32 years old, was arrested after she had carried out her threat. He is charged with "aiding and encouraging" another person to attempt suicide. Mrs. Murray was taken to Fordham Hospital suffering from a fractured skull and other serious injuries.

The Murrays, who live at 1,285 Brook Avenue, the Bronx, were returning from a party when Mrs. Murray accused her husband of having paid undue attention to other women at the party. He paid little attention to her, he explained, because they were on Gunhill Road approaching Grant Avenue, where driving requires care.

"I'm going to jump out of the car," Mrs. Murray threatened.

Murray said he replied indifferently, telling her to "go ahead," because he did not take her remark seriously. However, she opened the door and jumped from the car. Her body tore the door from its hinges and she was thrown about ten feet. Murray rushed her to the hospital and then told his story to the police.

After much thumbing of the pages of the penal code, Detective James R. Mahoney placed a charge of violating Section 2,305 against Murray, although it was pointed out that Murray was accused of having encouraged his wife to commit an act which, since the repeal of the law against suicide in 1919, is no longer a crime. However, Magistrate Mogilesky in West Farms Court held Murray without bail for examination tomorrow.

MAIL DELIVERY CUTS WORK NO HARDSHIPS

A month's trial of reduced mail deliveries in the business district of Manhattan has shown that the number of complaints from business houses is "negligible in comparison to the number served," according to Joseph Willon, superintendent of delivery. Mr. Willon explained yesterday that where business houses had convinced the local postoffice authorities that a hardship had been worked by the reduction of the daily deliveries from six to four, additional deliveries had been restored.

Mr. Willon explained further that the number of letter carriers had not been affected by the reduction in the number of daily deliveries. The personnel, according to Mr. Willon, has been reduced in New York City only by death, retirement and resignation.

Deliveries that have been abandoned were those by carriers who formerly went out at 10:30 A. M., returning at noon, and 1 o'clock, returning about 2:30. The deliveries and the returning time of the collectors now in force are as follows: 7:45 A. M., returning about 9 o'clock; 10 A. M., returning about noon; noon, returning about 2 o'clock, and 2 P. M., returning about 4.

LEGION MEN HONOR UNKNOWN SOLDIER

BRIEF CEREMONY IS HELD

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28.—Every section of New York State was represented in the American Legion delegation which made today its first annual "pilgrimage" to the tomb of the Unknown Soldier in the National Cemetery at Arlington and placed upon it wreaths sent by Mayor Walker, the Department of the State and many of the counties of Northern New York.

Colonel E. A. Simmons, chairman of the New York State pilgrimage committee, placed on the tomb the bronze wreath presented by Mayor Walker, and was followed by Commander Edward J. Neary, who laid beside it the New York State Legion wreath bearing the Legion emblem.

A double honor guard from Fort Myer stood at attention during the ceremony, and at the conclusion a bugler sounded taps. Fifteen sets of colors from different parts of the State were borne by the 225 Legionnaires, who marched from the Arlington gates to the tomb to join in the ceremony held at 4 o'clock this afternoon.

The pilgrimage to the tomb was preceded by a banquet at the National Press Club, to which the Legionnaires were escorted on their arrival at 12:45 this afternoon by Colonel H. Edward Bullis, national pilgrimage chairman, and a delegation from the American Legion of Washington, which met them at the station.

Sightseeing trips around the city preceded and followed the pilgrimage to the cemetery, the group going to Arlington direct from Walter Reed Hospital, where it visited every ward, extending greeting from the State to the fourteen New York veterans of the World War who are among the patients.

MAP LIPTON CUP PLANS.

Officials Expect to Complete the Arrangements by End of Week.

Plans for the presentation of the sportsmanship cup to Sir Thomas Lipton, in recognition of his five unsuccessful attempts to capture the America's cup, emblem of yachting supremacy, are expected to be announced by the end of this week. Sir Thomas, who sailed for England on the Leviathan Saturday, is scheduled to return here for the presentation, which probably will take place on the steps of the City Hall.

Several designs for the cup already have been submitted to the committee, of which Mayor Walker is chairman. Meanwhile, contributions continuing to come in to the Mayor's office, and to the office of THE NEW YORK TIMES, are expected to raise the fund to the $5,000 mark by the end of the week.

Honor Grave of Brigadier.

PEEKSKILL, N. Y., Sept. 28.—Granite gate posts on which are bronze tablets declaring that Seth Pomeroy, the first commander of the American Revolutionary army, is buried in an unknown grave in the Van Cortlandtville Cemetery near here were dedicated today in the old St. Peter's Church in the presence of a large assemblage of members of the patriotic societies of this village. The tablets and posts are the gift of Chester D. Pugsley, philanthropist and banker, who has also endowed the old church yard.

HOOVER, AS AUTHOR, BARES HUMAN SIDE

EXPLAINS LURE OF ANGLING

Volume, in De Luxe Edition, Made Up of Two Addresses—Only 990 Copies Printed.

Herbert Clark Hoover, known to the world as engineer, executive and austere statesman, appears in a different and more intimate character today in a book entitled "A Remedy for Disappearing Game Fishes," of which the President is the author.

The book, a slender, beautifully printed volume, is the first publication of the Huntington Press, 205 East Forty-second Street, a house recently organized to publish limited editions. It contains forty-one pages of text and the edition is limited to 900 copies. It sells for $7.

The contents comprise two addresses by Mr. Hoover. The first one, from which the title is derived, was Mr. Hoover's inaugural address at his second election to the presidency of the Izaak Walton League of America, when he was Secretary of Commerce. The latter address was made by the President at Madison Court House, Va., and expressed his gratification over the hospitality of the Virginians extended to him in connection with his fishing camp on the Rapidan.

As French Strother says in a foreword, the addresses "reveal another self of Mr. Hoover with which the people over whose destinies he now presides should become better acquainted."

Mr. Hoover's first address is devoted to the fisherman's problem of reducing the interval between bites, and with gentle humor the President explains why it is that "fishing is good for the soul of a man."

Fishing an "Inalienable Right."

"Man and boy, the American is a fisherman," he says. "That comprehensive list of human rights, the Declaration of Independence, is firm that all men (and boys) are endowed with certain inalienable rights, including life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness, which obviously includes the pursuit of fish. America is a well-watered country, and the inhabitants know all of the fishing holes.

"The Americans also produce millions of automobiles. These coordinate forces of inalienable right, the automobile and the call of the fishing hole, propel the man and boy to a search of all the water within a radius of 150 miles at week-ends alone. He extends it to a radius of 500 miles on his Summer holidays."

Mr. Hoover then sagely reviews the improvements in fishing tackle from the "rude but social conditions of the willow pole with a butcher string line, fixed with hooks ten for a dime, whose compelling lure is one segment of an angleworm and whose incantation is spitting on the bait."

Turning to the practical side, Mr. Hoover advocates the establishment of several hundred nurseries through the cooperation of the Department of Commerce, States, municipalities and Izaak Walton League chapters, and reasoned efforts to prevent the pollution of fishing streams.

Mr. Hoover ends the first address with an essay on the uses of our growing leisure.

Rues Neglect of Recreation Hours.

"We devote vast departments of government, the great agencies of commerce and industry, science and invention to decreasing the hours of work," he remarks, "but we devote comparatively little to improving the hours of recreation. We associate joy with leisure. We have great machinery of joy, some of it destructive, some of it synthetic, some of it mass production. We go to chain theatres and movies; we watch somebody else knock a ball over the fence or kick it over the goal post. I do that and I believe in it. I do, however, insist that no other organized joy has values comparable to the outdoor experience. We gain less from the other forms in moral stature, in renewed purpose in life, in kindness, and in all the fishing beatitudes. We gain none of the constructive rejuvenating joy that comes from return to the solemnity, the calm and inspiration of primitive nature. The joyous rush of the brook, the contemplation of the eternal flow of the stream, the stretch of forest and mountain all reduce our egotism, soothe our troubles, and shame our wickedness. And in it we make a physical effort that no sitting on cushions, benches, or side lines provides. To induce people to take its joy they need some stimulant from the hunt, the fish, or the climb. I am for fish. Fishing is not so much getting fish as it is a state of mind and a lure to the human soul into refreshment."

"But," he concludes, "it is too long between bites; we must have more fish in proportion to the water."

A Fisherman All His Life.

In the second address in the book, his address to the people of Virginia, the President is even more the calm, smiling philosopher. He comments on the fact that many Presidents have taken to fishing after their inaugurations and boasts that he has been a fisherman all his life.

"I have discovered why Presidents take to fishing—the silent sport," he says. "Apparently the only opportunity to a President for the refreshment of his soul and the clarification of his thoughts by solitude lies through fishing. * * * Next to prayer, fishing is the most personal relationship of man; and of more importance than this fact, every one concedes that the fish will not bite in the presence of the public. Fishing seems to be the sole avenue left to Presidents through which they may escape to their own thoughts, and may live in their own imaginings, and find relief from the pneumatic hammer of constant personal contacts and refreshment of mind in the babble of rippling brooks.

"Moreover, it is a constant reminder of the democracy of life, of humility and of human frailty—for all men are equal before fishes. And it is desirable that the President of the United States should be periodically reminded of this fundamental fact—that the forces of nature discriminate for no man."

SANTA MONICA, Cal., Sept. 28—A Mexico football team played for the first time Friday night on our mortgaged soil.

It's the best amateur team in the world. There's not a paid football player on it. It's practically a new university, founded just two years before Columbus discovered Porto Rico and thought it was America.

Their boys couldn't tackle as good as our boys, but every one on the team could speak English, French, Spanish and most of them German.

Said they didn't have much time to practice as at their school you had to study books. Said the only thing they had down there that compared with our universities was the Mexico City Country Club.

Yours,
WILL ROGERS.

MERCHANTS PLAN CITY PENSION STUDY

REVIEWS YEAR'S ACTIVITY

Revision of Building Code, Fight on Lighterage Fee and Safety Drive Cited as Achievements.

The Merchants' Association is considering a survey of New York City pension problems and is working out a plan for accomplishing this purpose, according to an announcement in the association's 1930 Year Book, just published and now being distributed to members. The book is in wide demand as a New York City trade directory and is being sent to many trade organizations throughout the country and to United States consular officers throughout the world.

The book, which contains a review of some of the activities of the association during the last fiscal year, says a review of the city pension systems will be an important step in connection with the expenditure of the tax dollar, a subject which the organization has been considering for several months.

In reviewing some of the work of the association for the last year Willis H. Booth, the president, says that the revision of the municipal building code, undertaken at the request of Mayor Walker, was a "gigantic task," occupying the attention of more than 100 leaders of the building, contracting, engineering and architectural professions, all of them giving their work, as a contribution to good citizenship, without pay.

"The municipal authorities," says Mr. Booth, "have already enacted legislation recommended by this group relative to the working stresses for structural steels, to the allowance for wind pressure and minimum design loads, which it is estimated will effect a saving of $12,000,000 annually to rentpayers, taxpayers and builders of the city."

Mr. Booth declares that the Merchants' Association has been among the leaders in opposing the effort of New Jersey to abolish free lighterage in the port of New York.

"This attempt seriously menaces the unity of the port," says Mr. Booth. "It threatens the business of the city with added and unwarranted costs. As a result of many years of experience with this and similar problems, the association has in its files data bearing upon this subject which it will present to the Interstate Commerce Commission when this case is before that body. The association will vigorously oppose this attack on the integrity of the port with every resource at its command."

Mr. Booth says that the city-wide safety campaign, in which he association enlisted more than 1,700 industrial plants, has proved effective. He also mentions the work of the association for the removal of the old Federal Building and its plea for the immediate removal of the Sixth Avenue elevated structure and the substitution of bus facilities.

During the year various bureaus of the association responded to more than 25,000 requests for information and service, Mr. Booth reports.

FOUR KILLED BY AUTOS IN METROPOLITAN AREA

Four persons were killed in automobile accidents in the metropolitan area yesterday.

One of the victims, Theodore Schneider, 45 years old, a switchman, was run over and killed by two automobiles at the Erie Railroad crossing at East Rutherford, N. J. The drivers, Stanley Malkowski, 19, of 237 Maple Avenue, Wallington, and Steve Swick, 19, of 237 Wallington Avenue, Wallington, were later arrested and found to be under the influence of liquor by a police physician. They were held in Hackensack jail on charges of manslaughter.

Charles Donaher, 43, a civil engineer of 349 Warburton Avenue, Yonkers, was killed and three others were injured when the automobile in which they were driving struck a hydrant on Nepperhan Avenue, Yonkers.

John Revere, 6, was playing in front of his home at 61-15 Woodbine Avenue, Ridgewood, Queens, last night when he was struck by an automobile driven by Sebastian Contessa of 164-07 O'Donnell Road, Jamaica. The child was rushed to Wyckoff Heights Hospital, but died before arriving there. The driver was questioned by the police but not held.

Miss Anna Fall, 19, of 726 Fisher Avenue, North Bergen, N. J., was killed and eight persons were slightly hurt when two autos were in collision early yesterday at Hudson Avenue and Fifth Street, North Bergen. Frank Tallis of 10 Grove Street, North Bergen, the driver of one of the cars, was held at Hudson County jail on a charge of manslaughter.

WIDE INQUIRY URGED ON CONDEMNATIONS

NEED FOR REFORMS SEEN

Sifting of Practices by Lawyers in Land-Acquisition Cases Also Advocated.

NEW APPEALS BODY ASKED

Public Confidence Can Be Regained Only if All Members Are Replaced, Mayor's Board Is Told.

The Citizens Union, in a letter sent yesterday to Mayor Walker, asked for the appointment of an investigator, with broad powers, to go into the facts behind condemnation proceedings in recent years as well as the proceedings for acquiring title to the beachfront in the Rockaways, the tentative award for which is $12,500,000. The practices of lawyers who specialize in condemnation proceedings should also come within the scope of the inquiry, the request, signed by R. E. McGahen, secretary of the Citizens Union, declared.

The letter was inspired by a statement of the Mayor at the Board of Estimate meeting on Friday that he was considering appointing a special assistant corporation counsel to go into the Rockaway Beach awards, which were condemned recently by Controller Berry as being five times too high.

Appeals Board Shake-Up Urged.

In another letter, addressed to the Mayor's Committee investigating the Board of Standards and Appeals with a view to reforming the procedure of the board, the Citizens Union declared that no reorganization of the board was likely to regain public confidence unless the Mayor replaced all the present members. William E. Walsh, chairman of the Appeals Board, resigned after being indicted by a Federal grand jury. Henry L. Connell is the present chairman.

The Citizens Union letter regarding condemnation proceedings said:

"We suggest that the special assistant corporation counsel to be appointed be a lawyer of recognized competence, standing and integrity, and that he be given an adequate staff of assistants and investigators, all of his own selection and to be exempted by the Civil Service Commission for this limited, special employment.

"We suggest that the subject matter of his study be extended to include all other condemnation proceedings within recent years that may appear to him to warrant investigation. The scope of his investigation should be broad enough to comprise the methods and practices, including the solicitation of retainers, by many of the lawyers who specialize in condemnation work. This branch of the investigation should include, also, an examination of the qualifications and methods of appointment of the appraisers employed as experts by the city in such proceedings.

Suggestions for Reform Asked.

"The investigator should be directed to report recommendations for such changes in the law and procedure applicable to condemnation cases as will assist in ending the abuses and excessive costs of the present system. For such a comprehensive inquiry, it will undoubtedly be necessary to make available the Commissioner of Accounts' power of subpoena, and we urge that that official be designated to cooperate to this end."

Suggestions regarding the Board of Standards and Appeals, besides the removal of all of the present members, included:

Assignment of permanent counsel to the board; representation before the board of the city department whose order has been appealed in addition to a representative of the City Planning Department; adoption of definite principles by the board to serve as a guide in future cases, eliminating haphazard decisions; reports to the Mayor and Corporation Counsel annually, with suggestions for changes in the law if necessary; centralization in the board of the work of testing building materials; a change in the rules of the board making all of its proceedings and rulings part of the public record; definite principles to be followed for the laying out of affected areas in zone change applications; rules requiring notation in the record of all appearances before the board, and the opportunity for persons interested to file a statement of their views if unable to be present.

PHILADELPHIA STAGES 'OUTLAW' BALL GAME

Sunday Benefit Is Held for Stricken Family—Police Look "the Other Way."

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 28.—Nearly 25,000 persons jammed into the Philadelphia baseball park today to see a Sunday game at which there was no police interference.

Held with the approval of Mayor Mackey, the game was played to provide funds for the family of Felix Stranges, a landscape gardener, who was killed in front of his home a week ago by a policeman when he attempted to prevent the arrest of his 18-year-old son for playing football in the street. The purse was provided by a collection taken up in the crowded stands and the bleachers.

In conformity with Judge Edwin O. Lewis's recent decision that Sunday baseball cannot be commercialized, no admission fee was charged.

The game, played by Charles Ziegler's Wentz-Olney nine and George Brand's Eighth Ward Club of Lancaster, was won by the latter, 9 to 5, with Howard Ehmke, hero of the 1929 world's series, starting the game for Lancaster and Chief Bender for the Wentz-Olney team. The Philadelphia Record sponsored the game.

Ruth, Pitching First Time in Ten Years, Beats the Red Sox; Season Closes

PITCHING OF RUTH BAFFLES RED SOX

GEHRIG BATTING CHAMPION

By WILLIAM E. BRANDT.
Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Sept. 28.—Though too late to be of much practical benefit to the Yankee cause this year, Babe Ruth today stepped to the pitching mound for the first time in a decade and in the season's closing game with the Boston Red Sox demonstrated to 12,000 visibly and audibly impressed fans that the mighty left arm which made him a world's series factor for the Red Sox in 1916 and 1918 still retains something of its power.

The Babe pitched the full nine innings and the Yankees won their last game of the year, 9 to 3. For seven innings Ruth did not allow an earned run, for when the Red Sox scored in the sixth the runner was advanced from first base to second by a passed ball, making it an unearned run.

But Oliver opened the eighth with a line double to centre and Scarritt sent him home with a line single to the same sector for Boston's first earned run.

Bewilders Red Sox.

Ruth has often been the whole show in the Yankee games, but always on the offense until today. His offensive activity today was limited to two singles. But on the pitching slab he dealt speed and curves in a manner which utterly bewildered the Red Sox until the arm grew tired in the eighth.

All four hits credited to the Sox in the first six innings were scratches, including one slow infield bounder and three short flies which dropped safe between infielders and outfielders. Until the sixth no Sox reached second base.

In the second inning and again in the third the Babe, with a man on first, picked up a smash hot off the bat and started a double play by a deft throw to second.

Chapman Slams Homer.

Chapman blasted a homer into the left field bleachers with one on base in the fourth. Cooke exploded a double, triple and single his first three times up and a single in the ninth.

First Baseman Rice scored Cooke from third with a perfect squeeze play bunt in the fourth inning and in the sixth, with Cooke on first, drove Dusty all the way round with a three-bagger to right.

Lou Gehrig, besides the three hits which won for him his first American League batting championship with a mark of .382, according to unofficial figures, rounded out his fifth complete season of perfect attendance in all the league games on the Yankee schedule. Al Simmons, who had led Gehrig, .381 to .380 before today's game, did not play today. Lou asked for the left field job when he heard Ruth was going to pitch today.

SENATORS' ATTACK UPSETS ATHLETICS

Six Runs Off Earnshaw in Fifth Settle the Contest, 9 to 4, at Washington.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28 (AP).—The Senators scored off three of Philadelphia's star pitchers to win their final game of the season today, 9 to 4, thereby gaining the decision over the league leaders for the season, twelve victories to ten.

Six runs off Earnshaw in the fifth inning settled the contest. Walter Johnson's team, which captured second place in the league, also scored off Walberg and Grove of the Athletics. Foxx connected for a home run in the ninth with one on base.

INDIANS AND BROWNS DIVIDE DOUBLE BILL

Cleveland Annexes Nightcap by 15 to 5 After Being on Short End in Opener, 11 to 5.

CLEVELAND, Sept. 28 (AP).—The Browns and Indians broke even in a double-header to finish the American League season today. The Browns slugged out an 11-to-5 decision in the first game and the Indians did the same in the nightcap, 15 to 5.

Stiles, a recruit, scattered fourteen Cleveland hits to garner the victory in the first game in which Goose Goslin got four of the Browns' seventeen hits, including a home run. The Indians found Gray and Kimsey for twenty hits to give young Mel Harder an easy decision in the final. Goslin also got a homer in that game.

GIANTS WIN IN 10TH ON SINGLE BY LEACH

Triumph by 7 to 6 Over Phils in Final of Season After 2 Runs Tie Count in 9th.

TERRY MISSES NEW RECORD

By JOHN DREBINGER.

Feeling slightly obligated to give a farewell gathering of 10,000 a final thrill at the Polo Grounds yesterday, the Giants concluded their championship season by wrenching a ten-inning game from the Phillies, dramatically tying the score with a two-run rally in the ninth and jamming the winning tally over the plate in the tenth on a line single to right by Fred Leach.

That blow made the final count 7 to 6, and with this victory the McGrawmen clinched their hold on third place, to finish the campaign a single game ahead of the Robins.

One expected number of the day's program, however, missed fire when Memphis Bill Terry in five attempts failed to add another hit to his total of 254 for the season. One of his times at bat he drew a pass, and his concluding effort was a sacrifice fly that drove in the Giants' tying tally in the ninth.

Leading Batsman in League.

But his other tries were merely cuts, so that Memphis Bill, though champion batsman of his league this year, will have to be satisfied with being placed a joint holder of the National League record, which Lefty O'Doul set last year.

Five of the six Philly runs were scored off Bill Walker in the first five innings, after which a veritable parade of Giant pitchers marched to the mound, all to perform quite nobly while their comrades went about the business of hacking away the Phillies' lead.

The advance began in the sixth, when Ott exploded his twenty-fifth homer of the year into the upper right-field tier as his parting shot of the campaign. Then in the seventh the McGrawmen routed Ray Benge to score three runs, and though the Phillies managed to slip a tally over on Heving in the eighth the Giants refused to let matters end there.

Score Is Deadlocked.

Three blistering singles by Critz, Leach and Lindstrom sent one run over the plate in the ninth, Terry's sacrifice fly tied it and in the tenth the McGrawmen rushed the deciding run home on a pass to Marshall, Roettger's sacrifice and Leach's third successive single of the day.

MILLER SEEKS TITLE BOUT.

Hopes to Meet Singer-Canzoneri Victor if He Beats Suarez.

A world's lightweight championship match against the winner of the Al Singer-Tony Canzoneri battle to be held Nov. 14 will be the objective of Ray Miller, Chicago ring veteran, if he conquers Justo Suarez, South American, in their ten-round bout at the seasonal opening of Madison Square Garden Friday night.

Miller, training at Stillman's Gymnasium, expects to concede eight pounds in weight to Suarez, but, nevertheless, is confident of upsetting the winning streak of Suarez in the visitor's fourth American ring engagement. The contest will be in the nature of a serious trial for Miller, who launched his current come-back effort last June and has since taken part in eight matches, winning seven of them.

RECRUIT TURNS BACK PIRATES FOR CARDS

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 28 (AP).—Young Jerome (Dizzy) Dean, late of the Western and Texas Leagues, making his first start in the National League, today pitched the Cardinals to a 3-to-1 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates in the final game of the season. Dean allowed only three hits, while his southpaw rival, Larry French, was limiting the Cardinals to five.

The recruit started nervously. In the first inning, when the Pirates scored their only run, he allowed two bases on balls and a single. Thereafter he walked only one batter and allowed only two hits. All the blows off Dean were singles. Douthit got the only extra-base blow of the game, a double.

The victory gave the Cardinals three out of four for the series. They needed only two of them, however, to clinch the National League pennant.

Charlie Stoneham's soccer team played like a team of Giants at Starlight Park yesterday to defeat the sturdy Providence eleven by 2 to 1 in an American League game which thrilled a crowd of 2,000.

The Giants took the lead after five minutes of play when Johnny Nelson picked up a great pass from Davies and tore on to beat Kennaway with a crashing shot.

Providence came back with a brisk attack, Dick hitting the crossbar and post, and the onslaught did not end until Douglas was beaten with a shot from Oswald which glanced off McMillan's leg into the net for the tying goal. Up and down play followed, but at the interval the deadlock had not been broken.

The second half was fairly even until the Giants got a fright as Wilson fouled Oswald on the penalty area, but Watson failed at the spot kick by shooting the ball yards wide. In the closing minutes the Giants rallied strongly and Davies's great goal from Nelson's pass won the game five minutes from the end.

In the preliminary the Hakoah reserves beat the Brooklyn reserves by 4 to 3 in a German-American League game.

CUBS DEFEAT REDS IN UPHILL BATTLE

Rivals Batter Bush for 9 Runs in Second Inning, but Chicago Is on Top at End, 13-11.

CHICAGO, Sept. 28 (AP).—The Cubs closed their National League campaign today by outlasting the Reds to win by 13 to 11, and complete a sweep of the four-game series.

While the revenge came too late, the Cubs finally cracked the Red jinx that had much to do with beating them out of the pennant. Today's victory was not accomplished without a great struggle. The Reds jumped on Guy Bush for nine runs in the second inning, but the Cubs pecked away at Si Johnson until they chased him in the sixth, and finally wound up on Bennie Frey for five runs and victory in the eighth.

Wildness by Johnson and Frey, who yielded ten bases on balls between them, helped the Cubs considerably. Jess Petty replaced Bush and got along well until he was removed in the seventh. Teachout finished and gained credit for the victory.

NEW YORK ELEVEN BLANKS WANDERERS

The New York club defeated the Brooklyn Wanderers in a fixture of the American Soccer League at Hawthorne Field yesterday, 4 to 0. Davie Brown scored three of the New York goals, Jim Brown getting the fourth. New York gained nine corners to Brooklyn's four.

Soon after the whistle blew, Malloy broke through and made a dash for goal, but his shot went past. After seven minutes' play, Pentland, the Wanderers' goalie, ran out to intercept the ball, leaving it free for Davie Brown to score. The first period ended with New York leading, 1 to 0.

Soon after the interval, Jim Brown crossed to Davie Brown, who just touched the ball into the net, giving New York a 2-0 lead. New York's third count came at eighteen minutes when Horn centred to Davie Brown, who quickly found the net. With eight minutes to go, another New York corner produced the fourth goal when Jim Brown headed in the kick by Horn.

ROBINS END SEASON BY BEATING BRAVES

By ROSCOE McGOWEN.

Ringing down the curtain at Ebbets Field before a farewell crowd of 10,000 yesterday, the Robins took the final game of the season from the Braves by 6 to 3, but because of the Giants' last-minute triumph over the Phillies in the tenth inning finished in fourth place—a disappointing spot after the happy days the club spent in first place for the better part of the season.

Hollis Thurston pitched nicely throughout the game, scattering eight hits and practically winning the game himself. Two tremendous clouts by the Coast slow-motion hurler, one a long double in the second off Harry Seibold and the other a home run against the right-field screen off Wee Willie Sherdel, drove in four of the Brooklyn tallies.

Del Bissonette's triple and Glenn Wright's single sent the other two Robin runs across the plate.

Wild Throw Is Costly.

The Braves scored in the first inning, mostly because of a very wild throw by Babe Herman. Johnny Neun opened with a single and stole second. Maranville slapped another single to right, which Herman fielded in close, and Neun pulled up at third, but the Babe threw the ball far over Hank DeBerry's head. Neun scored and Maranville went to third, whence he scored also on Richbourg's sacrifice fly.

There were two out in the Brooklyn half of the second when Thurston's double tied the score. Finn and DeBerry both singled, and Thurston sent a prodigious fly winging toward the left centre-field bleachers. Clark just got a hand on the ball, but couldn't make the catch, and both runners scored.

In the next inning a lucky break gave the Robins their first lead, which they retained to the end. Herman singled, and after Wright flied out Bissonette rifled the ball to centre field for what appeared to be a mere single, but the ball took a sudden hop far above Clark's head, Herman scoring and Bissonette reaching third.

Scores on Wright's Single.

Moore got a hit on his bunt in the fifth when Neun juggled Chatham's throw, and Eddie, advancing on two infield outs, scored on Wright's single.

In the eighth came Thurston's second big scoring blow again, after two were out.

ATHLETICS RETURN HOME.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 28 (AP).—Connie Mack and his two-time champion Athletics came home from Washington tonight to prepare for the opening world's series game Wednesday with the Cardinals. The Athletics were not a bit down-hearted over losing the wind-up game to the Senators.

Mack, shrewd, calculating and conservative, may be as optimistic as his players, but he isn't saying so. "I don't hold the Cardinals lightly," he said. "They are a great club and it will take a great club to beat them."

ROCHESTER BEATS LOUISVILLE AGAIN

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Sept. 28 (AP).—With their ace right-hander, Paul Derringer, pitching invincible ball, allowing only four hits, the Rochester Red Wings scored their third successive Little World Series victory over Louisville here today, winning 4 to 0. The series now stands three games to one in Rochester's favor.

Derringer, who will wear a St. Louis Cardinal uniform next season and who led the hurlers in the International League season just past, set down eight Colonels on strikes. Only five visitors reached first base and only one got as far as second.

Southpaw Phil Weinert, who accounted for Louisville's lone victory in the opening game of the series, started the game, but was relieved in the fifth by Ben Tincup in the midst of a two-run Red Wing rally. The veteran Indian held the winners to one hit and a run in the remaining innings.

CITY COLLEGE ELATED.

Sees Successful Season as Result of Victory Over L. I. U.

The sweeping 44-to-0 triumph registered by the City College football team over the Long Island University eleven on Saturday greatly elated the Lavender's followers, and as a result a highly successful season for the City College team is anticipated.

Of those who are enthusiastic over the C. C. N. Y.'s victory in its opening contest, one of the most pleased is Coach Parker. The Lavender eleven functioned smoothly in scoring in every period against the opposition, and as the game progressed seemed to improve its attack.

Five of the seven City College touchdowns came in the second half, in which the Lavender showed plenty of scoring punch. Evidence of its well-developed lateral pass attack was brought to view in the third period, when Schlesinger took a lateral from Schneer and ran 78 yards for a touchdown. The Lavender also broke up the opposition's air attack at crucial moments.

One of the game's features also came in the third period, when Gerenstein, substitute tackle, intercepted a Long Island University pass and ran 80 yards for a touchdown.

COLUMBIA CALLS ATHLETES

Fall rowing practice at Columbia gets under way today when varsity and freshman candidates report to Coach Richard J. Glendon for practice on the machines. A few days indoors and then the Lions will transfer their activities to the Harlem and the Hudson Rivers. Glendon is particularly anxious to give the freshmen as much practice as possible, so that they will be somewhat advanced by next Spring. Practice will continue until about Nov. 1.

The baseball team will inaugurate its Fall training period this afternoon on South Field. Prospects for a good team are very bright.

CARDINALS CARRY STRONGER ATTACK

Have Powerful Mass Offense, Whereas Athletics' Punch Is Centred in Three Men.

ST. LOUIS AVERAGE IS .315

This is the third of a series of articles analyzing the teams which will meet in the world's series.

By JOHN DREBINGER.

Probably nowhere does that superb balance of team-play, that even distribution of power which so strikingly features the Cardinals, manifest itself more clearly than in batting, and unless one is willing to admit that three superb batters amid a group of decidedly weaker hitters form a more formidable array than a line-up with scarcely any weak spots, it must of necessity be conceded that the St. Louisans will carry a stronger attack into the forthcoming world's series than the Athletics.

Excluding the pitchers, the Cardinals can present a mass offensive with eight regulars clouting the ball between .300 and .350 for a team average close to .315. That is a mass offensive not likely to give an opposing pitcher much opportunity for letting down to catch, as the ball players call it, a "breather."

Watkins, in fact, is even slightly above the mark, boasting an average beyond .360, though he is not ranked as one of the Cardinals' strongest hitters. He is something of a streaky clouter, hitting at a tremendous pace at times, but inclined to fall off perceptibly.

Frisch and Hafey Fine Hitters.

The real driving force of the Cardinal attack is to be found among Frisch, Hafey, Wilson, Bottomley and Douthit, whose stickwork the past season has ranged between .300 and .345. Frisch and Hafey, in particular, are rated among the game's most consistant hitters.

A curious feature of the Cards' hitting power is the fact that Bottomley, usually the team's outstanding hitter, rates at the moment as one of the club's weakest. In fact, Sunny Jim only just turned the .300 mark the past week, but this alone seems to be an indication that he is rapidly rounding to form to give the Cards an additional punch. Bottomley, in form, is a long-range hitter and the Mack pitchers may find themselves hard pressed to prevent Jim from driving the ball over the right-field barriers.

Then there are the two infielders, Adams and Gelbert, both of whom have been consistently hammering the ball slightly above the .300 mark all season. Adams is not often to be found in the .300 class, but he is the ball player's ideal player, who somehow possesses an uncanny faculty for jamming his hits through when they count most.

As for the Athletics, virtually all of their punch is centred in three men, Simmons, Cochrane and Foxx. Here admittedly are three superb hitters who repeatedly have thumped the Mackmen to victory in innumerable tight battles. Simmons has been hammering around the top of the American League's batting list all season with an average of .380, Cochrane has been hitting most of the time around .360 and Foxx some 20 points below this.

But the Athletics show a team average of only .294 for the season, and this is due to the fact that after their three eminent swatters one finds a sharp decline in the Athletics' offensive strength. Haas and Miller, the former hovering around the .300 mark, have not been so formidable this year as they were last.

Of the other regulars, Boley and Bishop are found well below the .300 line, Boley as low as .277 and Bishop down to .250. Dykes, with an average of .303, is by far the strongest of this group and a hitter something of the Adams type, who does his best work when most is required.

Cards' Reserves Dangerous.

Even more pronounced is the Cardinals' advantage in all-around hitting power to be seen when one carries the survey into the ranks of the reserve material. In fact, the tremendous power that lies in Gabby Street's second group is one of the most striking points in connection with the Cards and one of the reasons why the team, despite its many early season mishaps, contrived to keep itself close enough in the race to make its final sensational spurt worth while.

Blades, who opposes left-handed pitchers, has hit .419 in forty-two games. Then there are Orsatti, boasting a mark of .323; Fisher, with an average of .374; Mancuso, with .379, and last, but by far not the least, little Andy High, one of the most dangerous of batters in a pinch. It was the sturdy war club of the diminutive Andy that turned the tide of a number of crucial battles toward the Cardinals' favor in their spectacular drive toward the top.

Against this reserve power, the Athletics have scarcely anything to offer, as Summa, Williams and McNair have nothing to show but averages between .260 and .270.

Summed up, then, it would seem that the Cardinals, despite the power of the Mackmen's Big Three, promise to carry a far more uniformly sustained attack into the battle and this will be an advantage which superior pitching on each given day alone will be able to discount.

Opening Tests Met Successfully by Major Football Teams

MAJOR ELEVENS WON IN OPENING GAMES

NEW YORK TEAMS EXCELLED

ARMY SHOWED REAL POWER

By ROBERT F. KELLEY.

Intercollegiate football moved through the first real Saturday of its play in the most orderly fashion that a season's opener has been conducted in several years. Major teams swung into action in every section of the country and almost without exception they won. Even the mild surprise of tight scores was not much in evidence and here in the East about the nearest approach to the what will be a weekly occurrence later in the season, the upset, took place in New Jersey when Rutgers went to defeat before Providence, never able to cash in on enough of the scoring chances which presented themselves.

The same Rhode Island city, Providence, furnished the other spot in the East where the opening play was not quite as it might have been expected, this the tight game which Brown had with Rhode Island State, winning only by a score of 7 to 0. But Brown, through the game, had pretty much the better of it and Rhode Island never threatened after a march to the sixteen-yard line in the opening period.

Elsewhere through the East the larger colleges came through with quite handsome margins. Here in New York, Columbia satisfied its supporters that the new coaching régime was off on the right foot by winning over Middlebury in a clean-cut, decisive fashion; New York University, with the sophomores from whom so much is expected performing well, turned back Hobart easily, and Fordham's veteran team had an easy time of it with Baltimore.

Fordham's reserves did not do as well as they might have and this was true of several of the other winning colleges, the heat of the opening day forcing the coaches to use big squads throughout the action. But reserves are not apt to come along as fast as the first line of attack and can be expected to improve as the season progresses.

Displays New Type of Attack.

Further up the State, Army's team, with new and as yet unheralded names in the back field, started with a nice victory over Boston University, displaying a new type of attack. The new attack, as was inevitable, bogged down now and then and was handled a bit greenly, but Army showed signs of real power and speed. Cornell, which is facing the new season with more hope than is often expressed by the lugubrious Gil Dobie, ran up a big score against Clarkson Tech.

Long runs, marked by splendid open field interference, were a feature of Syracuse's start under its new coach, Vic Hanson, and the Orange piled up 55 points on R. P. I. Colgate, starting more or less of an unknown quantity, made a pretty good showing against St. Lawrence.

In New England Yale made its unusually early start with the expected rout of Maine. The game was almost solely an exhibition of attack on the part of the Elis and Mal Stevens used three full elevens during the course of play. Maine was never able to do much more than fight stubbornly on the defensive and the game left Yale still very much untested.

The impression was gained, however, that the Blue has several fine backs and that the Elis are going to gamble more with passes, both lateral and forward, than they have in some time. Incidentally, Don McLennan, through the first half when he played, strengthened the belief held in some quarters that he is near to being the best of the Blue backs.

Booth's Punting Superb.

McLennan shared starring honors with Albie Booth, who played nicely and whose punting, a feature of his game not often given the credit due it, again was superb.

In Hanover, a Dartmouth team which is to be, at least at the season's start, without any player of the stature of Al Marsters, piled up 79 points against Norwich. Holy Cross got off to a nice start under a new coach, Jack McEwan, and Boston College was impressive in its victory over Catholic University.

The members of the Little Three came off only with two victories out of three. Williams and Amherst came through their opening tests nicely, but Wesleyan lost by a touchdown to the heavy Colby team from Maine.

In Pennsylvania, Penn State and Pittsburgh both were off in the right direction. Pitt apparently not much tested by the opposition of the opening day furnished by Waynesburg, but State yielding two touchdowns to Niagara. Carnegie Tech yielded 2 points on a safety to Buffalo, but answered these very definitely with 75 points of its own.

In the nearer South, West Virginia scored over West Virginia Wesleyan, and Georgetown, under its new coach, won by a single touchdown over Mount St. Mary's in a tight game. Further down, Georgia, preparing for its visits to Yale and New York, came through nicely by 31 to 6 over Oglethorpe, a team which has been making a specialty in recent years of bothering people in its own territory. It will be remembered that Oglethorpe beat Georgia last year, which made the following defeat of Yale by the latter team all the more relished by it.

Trouble For North Carolina.

Alabama started nicely, as did Vanderbilt and Tulane, and the Tennessee team took up in its high scoring where it left off last year, piling up 54 points. North Carolina had trouble with Wake Forest, winning 13 to 7, and South Carolina won cleanly over Duke, 22 to 0.

In the Middle West, Indiana had only 14 points over Miami of Ohio, and Iowa was scored on twice by Bradley, though scoring 38 points itself. Michigan came through a double-header without trouble, and Minnesota piled up 48 points and Ohio State 59.

On the Pacific Coast, Stanford and California both won encouraging victories. Teams are further along out there, and Stanford, in beating the Olympic Club, 18 to 0, must have been going well, for the San Francisco club team includes recently graduated college stars and almost invariably is a good team. California was not tackling an easy mark in Santa Clara, and the 19-to-7 victory is worth while. Oregon, South Carolina and Washington, apparently, did not have much work on their hands.

This Saturday Harvard, Princeton, Pennsylvania, Notre Dame, Navy and every college that plays football joins in the play. Those members of the Big Ten which have not been in action yet fall into line, and, very probably, the next week-end will see several of the results which are called upsets.

Little believes that a game can be witnessed better from a higher vantage point, but as his presence on the sidelines is essential, he has installed the telephone system in order that may find out from an expert in the "tower" phases of the game that remain unnoticed to him along the sidelines.

COLUMBIA TO WORK ON THE OFFENSIVE

"For a team that was comparatively green and inexperienced three weeks ago, I think Columbia played quite a good game against Middlebury," was Coach Lou Little's comment yesterday on the performance of the Lions against Middlebury at Baker Field on Saturday.

It was apparent, in spite of the 48-0 victory, that many mistakes were made, but the Morningside eleven had been instructed by Little to be aggressive at all times, regardless of error. From the way in which Little has been drilling his charges, it is evident that aggressiveness will be the keynote of Columbia's playing this season.

The successful début of the Blue and White under its new coach was well received by Columbia alumni and undergraduates and much interest in next Saturday's contest with Union is being displayed. It is expected that another crowd of at least 20,000 will again be on hand to see what the Morningsiders have in the way of deception and trick plays.

Although Columbia gained 255 yards by rushing against Middlebury, Little believes there is plenty of room for improvement in the team's attack. The defensive phase of the game especially will come in for a rigorous overhauling starting today.

Columbia came through the Middlebury encounter with only a few minor injuries. Steve Grenda, sophomore guard, who was a tower of strength in the Blue and White forward wall in the early part of the first half, was the most serious casualty. Grenda received an injured ankle but it is expected that he will be ready for the Union game.

FOOTBALL GIANTS TRIUMPH.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Sept. 28.—The New York Giants overwhelmed the Providence Steam Roller, 27 to 7, in a National Professional Football League game before a crowd of 12,000 today.

Led by the brilliant Benny Friedman, the Giants scored once in each period. Two sustained marches, one intercepted pass and finally a successful pass from Friedman to Wilson gave the New Yorkers their four touchdowns. The Giants were superior in every department.

ROPER REMINISCES ON CAREER AS COACH

NAMES GREATEST PLAYERS

His Tiger Football Teams, in 16 Years, Have Won 88 Games, Lost 23 and Tied 15.

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, N. J., Sept. 28.—The Amherst-Princeton football game in Palmer Stadium next Saturday will be the opening engagement of William W. Roper's final season as Princeton's head coach. In 1931 Albert Wittmer Jr., head line coach since 1923, will take over the direction of Princeton teams.

During the sixteen years of his coaching régime at Princeton Roper has created a record which ranks favorably with that of any coach in the country. During that time his teams have played 126 games, eighty-eight of which they have won, twenty-three have been lost while fifteen have resulted in tie scores.

In an interview today Coach Roper reminisced on the greatest teams and greatest players he has coached and the greatest games they have played in. The 1925 eleven was the greatest team he has ever coached, he said, although it is not one of the four Roper elevens to enjoy an undefeated season. This team, however, came back from a tie with Navy and a defeat by Colgate to the championship of the Big Three by defeating Harvard, 36 to 0, and Yale, 25 to 12.

Four Games Stand Out.

Of the 126 games which Princeton teams have played under his régime, four stand out most clearly in his memory. The earliest was the Princeton-Chicago classic of 1922, which saw the Tigers overcome an 18-to-7 handicap when they entered the final quarter and snatch victory in the closing minutes by a 21-to-18 score. The 25—12 victory over Yale in 1925 comes next. This game was featured by Jake Slagle's eighty-five-yard run for a touchdown. Slagle is now a member of the Tiger coaching staff, taking up his duties as head back-field coach this year.

Princeton's 12-0 victory over Harvard in 1926 also finds a place among Roper's happiest memories. This game was the first step in a successfull conquest of the Big Three championship in that year. The last game mentioned by Roper was the 6-to-6 tie with Ohio State in 1928.

Sam White Among Stars.

Asked if he thought the game of football has improved since he first started coaching, Roper answered, "the game is better because the rules are better and permit a more varied and interesting style of play. Otherwise, I don't think there is much difference. The style and calibre of the players are about the same."

Year.	Won.	Lost.	Tied.	Pts.	Opp.

Fullback Has Bruised Shoulder and Will Not Be Used in Maryland Game.

EXPECT NO VARSITY SHIFTS

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Sept. 28.—Head Coach Mal Stevens feels that Yale faces two exacting games in the Maryland and Georgia contests scheduled for the next two week-ends. Aside from their importance as intersectional contests, the Yale coach tonight called attention to the fact that Maryland defeated Washington College, a strong Southern rival, yesterday, 60 to 6, and Georgia defeated its strong rival, Oglethorpe, 31 to 6.

Last year Oglethorpe defeated Georgia and this season's Georgia eleven is practically the same that won from Yale in 1929. Maryland will bring here on Saturday nine of the eleven veterans who played the Elis to a 13 to 13 tie here last season.

Of the thirty-three Yale players who accumulated thirty-eight points against Maine, only one, Kempton Dunn, plunging fullback, was injured. He left the field with a bruised shoulder, but examination showed that he suffered merely a bad bruise and not a dislocation. He will be kept from scrimmages this week and will not be used against Maryland, but he will likely get into signal rehearsal before the week-end.

Yale's players will get only a blackboard talk and practice in rudimentary play tomorrow. Long sessions Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday are expected in the preparations for Maryland.

Practically no changes in Yale's line-up are expected in the next two games. Coach Stevens is confronted with a wealth of backs, while the rush-line is in a formative process, with several positions unsettled. Try-outs for the line positions will continue for the present.

CANISIUS TRIUMPHS, 19-13.

DARTMOUTH STRONG DESPITE HEAVY LOSS

NORWICH PROVED STIMULUS

This is the twentieth of a series of articles on Eastern football teams and their prospects for the season.

By ALLISON DANZIG.

Special to The New York Times.

HANOVER, N. H., Sept. 28.—When a football team starts anew after bidding adieu to a player who has been its inspiring force and the keystone of its attack for two years, as Al Marsters was at Dartmouth, there is a natural bearish reaction and a disinclination to take too optimistic an outlook on the future.

When that same machine has suffered, in addition, by the loss of such other important cogs as Booma, end, and Armstrong, tackle, and most of the replacements who were counted on from the 1929 freshman team, it is likely to require a considerable stimulus to dissipate the atmosphere of doubt about the camp.

Such a stimulus was furnished on Saturday, when Jackson Cannell's eleven crushed Norwich by a heavier score than Marsters and his assisting mates ran up in the opening game a year ago. Topheavy scores against such opposition as the plucky but outclassed little band of Norwich players was able to offer are not to be taken too seriously. Nor is Dartmouth's youthful head coach unduly impressed by them.

Score Has Unusual Significance.

But the fact that the Hanoverians went into the game without the services of their first-string tackle and quarterbacks, Barber and McCall, and with orders to concentrate not upon running up a big score but on perfecting the timing and execution of fewer than a half-dozen plays, and still carried the ball over the twelve touchdowns, lends more than usual significance to their 79 points.

At the start Dartmouth's showing was none too impressive. Captain Andres was not diagnosing plays from his position as roving centre with the keenness that marked his play last year. The charge of the entire line was sluggish and the backs were not driving through hard or taking their openings properly.

The second half saw the Dartmouth line smothering Norwich's plays in their inception and the attack functioning with irresistible momentum. The most encouraging feature was the fact that little was lost in effectiveness when the second line was in and nothing when the second back field went on the field. All afternoon Cannell was sending in a stream of replacements, substituting entire teams at a time in the late stages.

Coach Prepared for Loss.

The fact is that Dartmouth, in spite of the loss of Marsters, should be a consistently stronger team than she was a year ago. Cannell had the foresight to prepare for the loss of his brilliant scoring ace and for the schedule that includes Stanford, Yale, Harvard, Cornell and Columbia.

Realizing that Dartmouth would need more man power to go through this schedule than she has required in years, he adopted the policy in 1929 of using every man of promise who would be back in 1930, and the result is that he has a stronger reserve force all along the line than he had last Fall, with the possible exception of the ends.

This year there is no delegation of responsibility to one man. The quarterback is still the key man and has a bigger assignment than any of his mates, which is natural, since Cannell is using the Warner system, but there has been a wider distribution of the work among the backs. The result is that no man is indispensable to the high gearing of the attack, as was Marsters.

Four Capable Quarterbacks.

In McCall, Morton, a beautiful kicker, Lee and Toothaker, Cannell has four quarterbacks who can well take care of the vacancy left by Marsters, even though none of them equals him in all-around brilliance. Shep Wolff, one of the longest passers in the East; Len Clark, a splendid interfering back; Frigard and Brister, who has improved markedly since last year, all look good at halfback, with Donovan and Donner, sophomores; Porter and Foley in reserve. Johnson, a powerful running and defensive fullback, has, perhaps, a trifle the edge on Sutton and Wilkins, while Haugen is next in line.

In the line outstanding men are to be found in Andres at centre, Barber and Crehan at tackle, Bromberg at guard and Yudicky at end. Hoffman, a sophomore of huge proportions, promises to fill the other guard post amply, and Goodwillies, Ferry, Phinney, Nims, Maynard, Laughton, Pyles, Giles, Robinson, Modarelli and O'Connor are other players of experience to man the openings from tackle to tackle.

Pettengill, a fast, hard-crashing end, who was held back by sickness, is in Booma's place, and Mackey, an extremely fast man for one so big, will see a lot of service on the flank if he is not used as a back.

Sullivan, Stokes, Osborne and Whitaker are among the other ends, while the 1929 freshman team has contributed Durgin and Connolly. Among the other sophomores who show promise are Kimball and Brach, centres; Xanthaky, tackle, and Smart and Rollins, quarterbacks.

The schedule:

Oct. 4, Bates; 11, Boston University; 18, Columbia; 25, Harvard at Cambridge.
Nov. 1, Yale at New Haven; 8, Allegheny; 15, Cornell at Ithaca; 29, Stanford at Palo Alto.

Indianapolis Youth Fatally Hurt in Academy Game.

SWEET WATER, Tenn., Sept. 28 (AP).—Robert Black of Indianapolis, a member of the football team of Columbia Military Academy, died in a hospital today from injuries received in a game with Tennessee Military Institute yesterday.

Black was knocked out and had to quit the game at the close of the first half. After the game ended he was taken to a hotel, where his condition became critical during the night.

FORDHAM TO STRESS RUNNING OFFENSIVE

Following its opening game of the season in which Baltimore University was beaten, 73 to 0, the Fordham football eleven will report to Coach Frank Cavanaugh, this afternoon to begin preparations for its game with Buffalo University, which will be met on Fordham Field on the coming Saturday.

Although the Maroon mentor was pleased with the running attack flashed by his charges, he does not think that it received a sufficient test against Baltimore and will again have his quarterback concentrate on line plays against Buffalo. The Maroon aerial game, which stood out so brilliantly in 1929, also will get a great deal of the Major's attention in the practice sessions this week, since Fordham will rely on passing for touchdowns in its important games.

Cavanaugh liked the way Frank Bartos substituted for Jack Fisher and will start the 175-pound signal-caller in the Buffalo game. Fisher is still incapacitated as a result of the painful sprain to one of his fingers and will not see action until the Boston College game on Oct. 13, Columbus Day, in Boston.

In the meantime Red Conway, the best of the second-string backs, is being groomed by Cavanaugh in the duties of the quarterback in order that he may take the place of Bartos in case of injury to the latter.

SOPHOMORE BACKS OF N. Y. U. PRAISED

The performance turned in by New York University's quintet of sophomore ball carriers against Hobart College last Saturday was praised yesterday by Head Coach Chick Meehan, who also expressed himself as satisfied with the progress of the squad as a whole.

Although the all-sophomore back field of Joe La Mark, Jack MacDonald, Jim Tanguay and Bill McNamara functioned smoothly behind the excellent work of the Violet forward wall and Tanguay's exhibition was especially outstanding, Meehan found much cause for elation in the surprising manner in which Bob McNamara, another sophomore, carried on as an understudy to Tanguay.

Except for two forward passes, both of which were completed for a total of a 25-yard gain, N. Y. U. played straight football and had no real occasion to call on its varied assortment of plays.

One-Second Victory Gives Tempe IV Tie With Vixen for Lead in Star Class Series

BEATS FLAPPER AT FINISH

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, Md., Sept. 28.—Before the largest array of spectator boats that has ever attended the races, Tempe IV, the 1927 international champion from Newport Harbor, California, sailed by Walter Hubbard and T. R. Dittmar, won the third contest of the international Star Class yacht championship series today at Gibson Island by the narrow margin of a single second.

It was a hair-raising finish and brought to a conclusion what amounted virtually to a match race between the Tempe IV and the Hampton Roads challenger, Flapper, sailed by J. G. and Grady Miller, which was caught by the California sloop on the last run down to the finish line. The West Coast challenger entered the home stretch twenty-five seconds behind the Flapper.

The Central Long Island Sound challenger, Okla II, sailed by J. F. Watkins and Bill McHugh, was third home.

Tempe IV Ties Vixen.

By her victory the Tempe IV sailed into a tie for the first place in the series standing with Vixen, the Barnegat Bay representative, which finished first in yesterday's race and took third in the initial contest Friday. Each has 59 points.

There also is a tie for second place, Okla II and Peggy Wee, from Western Long Island Sound, each being just one point behind the leaders.

More than 200 yachts were on hand to watch the race, their skippers ever edging in toward the triangular course over which the race was sailed and as often being set back by the patrol boats.

The course of three legs gave the sloops a reach for the first mark, a beat on the second leg and a run down to the committee boat. The second leg was designed to give the twenty-two Stars a dead beat to windward, but as it turned out they were able to lay the second mark after taking a single hitch.

Startle First Yacht Away.

Startle, the Paris challenger, was well up with the leaders at the start, being first across at the leeward end of the line, all of the craft going across on the starboard tack. Peggy Wee was just to windward of the French sloop and soon dropped the others astern.

Chico, the New Orleans challenger, sailed by G. T. Gray and D. S. Wuescher, was first to reach the first mark and was followed around by Tempe IV and Flapper.

Flapper reached the second mark in the lead. Tempe IV was just behind her, however, and was quick to take advantage when the Hampton Roads sloop rounded rather widely, gaining a few precious seconds at the turn.

Tempe IV caught Flapper before the mark at the end of the third leg of the first round was reached. Chico rounded third, followed by Majella II, the Illinois River challenger.

Millers Reach Mark First.

On the second reach out to the first mark of the course the Tempe IV hauled close, taking a short hitch across the river on the same starboard tack. The Millers came about immediately. It was a short port tack plus a long starboard tack for the mark, and the Millers reached the mark first.

This time they kept their lead on the run and increased it on the next leg. By this time the rest of the boats were almost forgotten, although some of the best action of the race occurred on the final windward leg. Okla II pulled up into third place, overhauling both Chico and Vixen.

Meanwhile, the leaders were tearing down the homestretch, Hubbard seeking to overcome the Millers' 25-second lead. The luffing match, which had marked the first run down wind, was repeated, the Tempe IV gradually caught up to the Flapper.

Just before the finish Tempe IV crossed the stern of the Flapper, heading up toward the committee boat end of the line. Instead of keeping on for the line, which was just a few yards ahead, the Millers went after her and lost the race.

Tomorrow will be an open date in the series and the yachtsmen will go on a sightseeing trip to the United States Naval Academy at Annapolis. The fourth race will be sailed Tuesday, with the final one set for Wednesday. Should a tie result there will be a sail-off Thursday.

Miss Nuthall's Title Racquet Nets $960 in Auction at Sea

ABOARD S. S. MAURETANIA, Sept. 28 (AP).—The tennis racquet with which Miss Betty Nuthall recently won the United States women's tennis championship, autographed by the British star, was auctioned off in mid-Atlantic today for $960.

Put up for charity, the racquet was first sold to an anonymous bidder for $660. The bidder immediately returned it for resale and it brought $300. While the bidding was going on, Miss Nuthall encouraged prospective bidders by demonstrating strokes with it.

AILEEN HOME FIRST IN LARCHMONT RACE

WINS BY ONLY 16 SECONDS

Special to The New York Times.

LARCHMONT, N. Y., Sept. 28.—Cornelius Shields guided his Interclub Class yacht Aileen to victory in the final race of the Bermuda Trophy series today, competing against a field of thirteen other craft.

The race was extremely close all the way over the five-mile course, which extended from Larchmont Breakwater to Parsonage Point and return.

Blue Streak was late coming up for the start, and did not get under way until more than a minute after the others.

At the Parsonage Point turn, Shields managed to get Aileen in the van, and started a stirring run for home, with Alberta, Wildcat and Susan in close pursuit. Blue Streak, meanwhile, rapidly overhauled the others, and gradually stole up on the leaders after the turn.

Just before the finish Manny brought the Blue Streak into second place. Shields sailed the course in 1 hour, 11 minutes and 57 seconds.

A special race for interclub boats, with virtually all of the craft that took part in the afternoon race competing, was held in the morning, with Wildcat, owned by Harold Lovejoy and W. H. Lynn, returning the winner.

Fifteen boats participated in this event, and Wildcat, which was sailed by Gordon Raymond, covered the same five-mile course in 1 hour 11 minutes and 17 seconds. The Aileen made a strong bid for victory in this race, but finished in second place, 45 seconds behind Wildcat.

Sports of the Times

By JOHN KIERAN.

Paying Due Tribute to the Emperor Jones.

SKIPPING lightly over his many titles and his accumulated trophies, the important point about Bob Jones is that no player at any game ever dominated his field as Jones has dominated the links since he first scaled the championship heights. He is a long brassie shot ahead of his closest pursuers and the greatest golfer the royal and ancient game ever saw.

There are old-timers who orate of the worthies of ancient day—the Sullivans and Corbetts of the prize ring, the Wagners and Lajoies of the diamond, the Tod Sloans and Snapper Garrisons of the turf. But even the old-timers in golf are bowing reverently before the Emperor Jones. When great golfers are mentioned, Robert Tyre Jones must be placed first, second and third. He is alone on the ballot; no other names need be added.

Modernists should make the most of this advantage. When the old-timers smoke up and tell their tales of the great players of the past and by what huge margins they excelled the products of a softer civilization, just mention Bob Jones. If that doesn't halt them, notify the nearest policeman.

Other Mere Moderns.

Though he stands alone in his field, Jones has some worthy contemporaries in adjacent territory. Bill Tilden is over the hill and on the down-grade now, but he was for some six or seven years not only the ruler of the court, but also the greatest tennis player in the history of the game. Tilden belongs to the modern school.

Babe Ruth belongs to the modern school. There may be some argument as to his general ranking on and off the diamond, but he certainly earned a place among the greatest players the game ever produced and few would dispute his right to the title of the champion long-distance hitter of baseball, past or present.

There's no need to go into details in track and field sports. There the records speak for themselves. The modern lads have been hanging up better records all along the line. Not every half hour or so, of course, and the improvement in equipment must be considered. But granting all that, the modern records furnish ammunition with which to demolish any arguments the old guard may start.

Back on the Links.

That's wandering off the course a little. Getting back to Jones the remarkable thing about his sweep at Merion was the way in which he lapped the field with a remarkable record at stake. The other players could shoot the works in a care-free manner. They had nothing to lose and everything to gain. Jones was trying to round out an unparalleled collection of golf trophies and titles. He was carrying an invisible burden and facing a terrific mental hazard.

Golf is a game in which luck plays a large part. Going at top speed and in his best form the lad from Atlanta knew he might still be tumbled down the slope of defeat. Any youngster in the tournament might step around the links at a blistering pace and leave him anchored in a deep trap.

These thoughts were in his mind as he teed up for the tournament at Merion. It was Jones against the field, and no one knew it better than the barrister from Atlanta. Facing these barriers, he took off and spread-eagled his field. He coasted home to lead the qualifying rounds and then went into match play.

The Slaughter at Match Play.

He defeated Ross Somerville, a fine Canadian golfer, by 5 and 4. He followed that by defeating F. D. Hoblitzel, another Canadian, by the same score, and thus erased the Canadian menace single-handed. These were eighteen-hole matches.

Taking on Fay Coleman, a youngster from the Coast, in his first thirty-six-hole match, he won by 6 and 5. Coleman was the only opponent to whom Jones was down at any time during the tournament. He was 1 down to Coleman early in the morning round. The next victim was Jess Sweetser, and Jess was bowled over by the Jones juggernaut to the tune of 9 and 8. That brought the program down to the concluding number in which Homans was swept off the links by 8 and 7.

In short, Jones led 168 players, the best amateurs in the land, in the medal test and then played 116 holes at match play in which he piled up the outstanding winning margin of thirty-three holes.

Here and Abroad.

There's another remarkable point to the Jones record this year. He has met the best golfers in the world, amateurs and professionals, here and abroad, at match and medal play, and he hasn't lost a golf match since Johnny Goodman defeated him in the first round at Pebble Beach last September.

He played in the Walker Cup matches abroad and won his singles match as well as helping to win in the foursome play. He defeated his Walker Cup companions and the British amateur forces in the British amateur championship at St. Andrews. He moved on to Hoylake and took the British professionals as well as a few of our own leading professionals into camp. He came back home and journeyed to Interlachen. Probably that was his hardest test, for the starting field included the best professionals in the world. He beat them at their own game. Then he went down to Merion and swept through the field as easily as a steamroller would ramble over a strawberry patch.

Give most golfers the opportunity and they will beat themselves. Few have to go far beyond their own club veranda to find players who will take them over the hurdles. But here is a chap who journeyed all around the map and played all the best amateurs and professionals in the world without losing a single match. The more you think of it the more remarkable the record becomes.

Purely Personal.

That's the golf part of it and it is his golfing ability that has given Bob Jones his place in the sun. But no tribute to the Atlanta lad would be complete without adding that with his rise to world-wide fame, he remains the same unassuming and friendly chap that he was when he first loomed up over the golfing horizon. Changing a phrase from Scott's Ivanhoe just a little "Upon brows more worthy could a wreath of victory never be laid."

SPECULATION RIFE ON JONES'S PLANS

BOBBY'S RECORD IS SAFE

Improbable That Any One Will Equal the Feat Climaxed by Victory Last Saturday.

By WILLIAM D. RICHARDSON.

The great Bobby Jones is now monarch of all he surveys in golf. He has won all the titles, he holds all the records. What is there left for him to do?

That question bobs up as one reflects on the past week, when Jones added the Havemeyer Cup, emblematic of the United States amateur championship, to those he previously held through his victories in the United States open, the British amateur and the British open championships earlier this year.

Tournament golf has been played in this country since 1895, and in all the years that have elapsed since then no one has been able to accomplish what he has. Since the American championships started, nearly four decades ago, only one other man has succeeded in winning both in the same year, to say nothing of winning the two British events as well. In 1916 Charles Evans Jr., more popularly known as Chick, won both the United States open and the United States amateur—a feat no one has been able to duplicate until Jones came along.

His victory over Eugene V. Homans on Saturday gave him his fifth amateur championship in the last seven years. Prior to that he and Jerry Travers stood tied in victories in the amateur event, each having four to his credit.

The significance of the record Jones rounded out Saturday doesn't dawn fully on one until one stops to consider what an important rôle luck plays in golf.

Earned Appellation Previously.

It is mere reiteration to call Bobby the greatest golfer in the world today. He earned that appellation some time ago. He is perhaps the greatest golfer the world has ever seen or ever will see, although it is just as futile to compare outstanding men of different ages as it is hazardous to predict that Jones is the last of his mold.

One thing is certain, though. No one ever will break the record Bobby has made this year. The best any one can hope for is to equal it, and, golf being what it is, even that appears improbable.

We were talking with George Low, famous old professional, between the morning and afternoon rounds on Saturday. "It's marvelous," said George. "If anybody had predicted ten years ago such a thing could happen he'd have been called daft."

Everybody feels the same way about it.

In the opinion of the writer, Jones, after winning the British amateur and the British open, passed his last barrier when he won the American open at Interlachen. After that it was almost a certainty that what actually happened at Merion would happen. There were only two possibilities of Bobby failing at Merion. One was that he might meet some experienced player like Johnny Goodman, Dr. Willing or Voigt in one of the eighteen-hole matches and find his opponent at the top of his game; the other was that he might meet a golfer like Von Elm in one of the thirty-six-hole rounds and be beaten as he was at Baltusrol.

But even those were remote possibilities. So great is his margin of superiority over any other man to be found in the amateur field that only through an upset can any of them beat him, be it at eighteen holes or thirty-six. Von Elm is the only player who has the combination of game, endurance and heart to give Jones a real match and, of course, Maurice McCarthy Jr. attended to Von Elm in that twenty-eight-hole match on Wednesday.

Awed by His Reputation.

Where Jones excels every one else is in his ability to adhere more closely to par figures. Not only is he steadier but he has more shots. Furthermore, he has acquired such a reputation that even those players who are closest to him in the matter of shot-making equipment seldom play their top form against him.

During the last half of the week the championship had all the aspects of a spectacle, but few of the aspects of a golf championship. Every one had a feeling that Bobby would win. No one had eyes for any one else in the field.

The championship has been developing along those lines ever since Jones got started on his winning career and since he has become the national idol he is. It has come to a point where the tail is wagging the dog vigorously. Whether it is best for the game itself is something that time alone can tell.

The whole world was pulling for Bobby to win at Merion. That was only natural. In the first place he is probably the most beloved champion there ever was in any sport. The honors that his clubs have brought to him have not changed him one iota. He is the same likeable, affable Bobby he always was. In the second place he was shooting at a mark that every one wanted him to hit simply because no one may ever get such an opportunity again.

Crowd Psychology With Him.

Crowd psychology—and in golf crowd psychology plays an important rôle—was with him. It has always been with him up to date. When Goodman beat him at Pebble Beach last year it was almost regarded as bad taste on the Omaha youngster's part.

Such is the hold Jones has on his galleries. But now that he has won everything there is to win, will he suffer the same fate that other outstanding men in sport have suffered? If he continues to play, will not the gallery, now become a mob, react the other way? If it does not it will be different from any of its predecessors.

These are questions that Bobby Jones probably is mulling over in his own mind, and while he has made no statement as to his future plans, the general feeling among his closest friends is that while he may continue to play in one or both of the American championships for a year or so longer, he will make no elaborate preparations for them, as he has in the past few years.

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 28 (AP).—Miss Ethel Burkhardt of San Francisco today won the women's singles championship of the Pacific Southwest tennis tournament by defeating Miss Marjorie Gladman, Santa Monica, 8—6, 6—0.

Wilmer Allison, Austin, Texas, and John Van Ryn, East Orange, N. J., defeated Berkeley Bell, Austin, and Gregory Mangin, Newark, N. J., in the men's doubles finals, 6—4, 3—6, 4—6, 6—3, 7—5.

WHITE AGAIN WINS NASSAU GOLF EVENT

SUPERIOR PUTTING DECISIVE

Special to The New York Times.

GLEN COVE, L. I., Sept. 28.—The annual invitation golf tourney of the Nassau Country Club was won for the second year in a row today by Gardiner White of the home club, metropolitan amateur champion in 1921.

White's 5 and 4 defeat of Max Kaesche of Ridgewood, one of New Jersey's best golfers, was even more decisive than his 3 and 2 victory of last year and it duplicated Kaesche's feat of two successive victories in 1927 and 1928.

It was White's complete recovery of his putting form and Kaesche's lapses on the greens that decided the issue. The latter three-putted three straight greens, starting at the fourth.

Kaesche's poor showing in the final was unexpected, as he played at about a seventy-five clip in beating Winthrop Hoyt of Cherry Valley, 4 and 3, in the morning semi-finals. White gained the final by downing Dwight Rockwell of Engineers by a similar score. He played even 4s for eleven of the holes. Had he played the bye holes in even par he would have had about a 75.

The cards:

Out—
Par	4	4	4	4	3	4	4	4	4	4—35
White	4	5	5	4	4	4	5	5	4	—40
Kaesche	5	4	4	5	4	5	5	5	5	—42
In—
Par	3	4	4	4	4	5	3	4	4	—35—70
White	4	4	4	4
Kaesche	3	5	5	5

Championship Sixteen.

Semi-Final Round—Max B. Kaesche, Ridgewood, defeated Winthrop Hoyt, Cherry Valley, 4 and 3; Gardiner W. White, Nassau, defeated Dwight Rockwell, Engineers, 4 and 3.

Semi-Final Round—C. B. McGovern, Nassau, defeated F. R. Finlayson, Nassau, 4 and 3; K. H. Sheldon, Nassau, defeated William MacCullum, London, England, 2 and 1.

Semi-Final Round—N. B. Starring Jr., Sleepy Hollow, defeated Joseph McGough, Brookville, 3 and 2; G. MacCullum, London, England, defeated Andrew Stewart, Engineers, 5 and 3.

Final Round—Starring defeated MacCullum, 2 up.

NEWS THAT JONES WON A RELIEF TO LONDON

"I Hope to Goodness Bobby Does It," Was Heard Everywhere, Darwin Writes.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Sept. 28.—Bobby Jones's achievement was read here with relief. Bernard Darwin, writing in The London Times tomorrow, will explain it by saying that for several days past non-golfing persons must have been mystified by hearing people say everywhere in trains, tubes, streets and clubs, "I hope to goodness Bobby does it."

"Now he has done it," writes Darwin. "It is as complete and unbeatable a record as that of the gentleman who lost by eighteen holes in a team match played by holes, and wrote to the newspapers explaining that he was using borrowed clubs and had just recovered from influenza. Bobby has now made of it what Mr. Peggotty called a 'merry-go-rounder,' and there is probably not one single golfer in the world not glad thereof.

"In words written of another golfer as peerless in his own way, Jones has held honor without rivalry and yet without his many amiable qualities being no less acknowledged than his golfing achievements.'"

Calling Jones the "King of Golf," The News-Chronicle editorially will say: "His personal charm and modesty in triumph are assets making him an invaluable traveling advertisement of the finer and rarer qualities of the American race."

JONES STARTS HOME, GLAD TO GET A REST

To Concentrate on Business, He Says, but Not Necessarily Give Up Competitive Golf.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 28 (AP).—With no more golfing honors left for him to win, Robert Tyre Jones Jr. left here today for his home in Atlanta to resume his law practice.

"From now on business will be my first consideration," Jones said, "but that does not necessarily mean that I am through with competitive golf. Of course, I may never again play in a major tourney, but that will very probably depend upon how business is at the time.

"As far as giving up the game entirely—well, I can't see any sense in that. I play golf because I like it, and although it's true that I'm pretty well fed up with hitting golf balls right now, I expect to be back on the links within a month or two."

Jones was accompanied south by his father, Chick Ridley, close friend, and O. B. Keeler, sports writer.

PELLEGRINA VICTOR OVER RIVAL YACHTS

HAWK SCORES IN 2D CLASS

Walrus Triumphs in Third Division at New Rochelle and Bobby in Fourth Group.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW ROCHELLE, N. Y., Sept. 28.—The annual championship races of the Long Island Sound Handicap Association were held today by the New Rochelle Yacht Club with four divisions being contested. Eleven boats took part in the various events, which were run off in a fairly heavy sea.

Pellegrina, owned by J. T. and W. W. Northrup, was the winner in the first division, scoring over Charles W. Atwater's Duckling, the only other entrant. Pellegrina started at 2:30 and sailed over the ten-mile course in 1 hour 30 minutes and 38 seconds, more than ten minutes faster than Duckling. The corrected time for Pellegrina was 1:29:44, and for Duckling 1:31:07.

The second division race was won by H. S. Sayre's Hawk in 1:41:49, corrected time. Ethel II was second. D. H. Frapwell's Walrus won in the third division, and Bobby, owned by C. F. Young, triumphed in the fourth.

BATCHELDER DEFEATS DRIGGS IN GOLF FINAL

Special to The New York Times.

PINE VALLEY, N. J., Sept. 28.—Joseph M. Batchelder of Salem, Mass., will take the George Arthur Crump Cup back to New England as a result of his 1-up victory over Eddie Driggs of Lakeville today.

For the second consecutive year the golf trophy offered in memory of the founder of the Pine Valley Club will rest far from the Philadelphia district.

The cards:

Out—
Batchelder	5	5	3	4	3	4	5	4	4	—37

2 TRACK MARKS SET BY MILLROSE GIRLS

Misses Gilliland, Cross, Jansen and McNeil Take 220-Yard Event in 0:24 4-5.

WIN 300-YARD RUN IN 0:34

Special to The New York Times.

ELIZABETH, N. J., Sept. 28.—Two new American records were established by the Millrose A. A. girls' track team in the fourth annual games of the Warinanco A. C., held at Warinanco Park today before a crowd of several thousand spectators.

With ideal weather conditions prevailing, the Millrose team, composed of the Misses Maybelle Gilliland, Jessie Cross, Carrie Jansen and Loretta McNeil, set a new standard of 24 4-5 seconds for 220 yards and, later, the same quartet won the 300-yard relay race in the record time of 34 seconds.

In the shorter test, the New York team defeated the Prudential Insurance Company A. A. girls and the South Paterson Girls' Club in a finish that cut one and three-fifths seconds from their own standard of 26 2-5 seconds made in Kearny, N. J., more than two years ago.

It was the C. V. Duffy League team of Paterson, which caused their defeat in the Jersey City meet Saturday, that forced the Millrose girls to their new mark in the longer race, in which they bettered the old standard of 35.2 seconds credited to the Pasadena Athletic and Country Club and made over four years ago.

Eddie Tolan, University of Michigan Negro star and American 100-yard champion; Vernon Morgan, English ace and South African one-mile record-holder, and Louis Gregory, national six-mile champion, were among the contestants in the men's events.

THE SUMMARIES.

100-Yard Dash, Handicap—Won by Jack Kariner, Deutscher Sport Club (7 yards); A. Chalupa, Prudential Ins. Co. A. A. (6 yards), second; Eddie Tolan, University of Michigan (scratch), third; John Choko, Pazer College (4 yards), fourth. Time—0:09 1-5.

100-Yard Dash, Handicap, Girls—Won by Miss Eleanor Egg, C. V. Duffy League (scratch); Miss Catherine Capp, Globe Indemnity A. A. (1 yard), second; Miss Lola Brancati, Warinanco A. C. (8 yards), third; Miss Anna Azar, South Paterson Girls' Club (8 yards), fourth. Time—0:11 3-5.

80-Meter Hurdles, Girls—Won by Miss Ethel Gowen, Prudential Insurance Co. A. A.; Miss Nellie Sharka, Prudential Insurance Co. A. A., second; Miss Flora Stoepper, C. V. Duffy League, third; Miss Florence Love, C. V. Duffy League, fourth. Time—0:13.

Three-Mile Run, Handicap—Won by Louis Gregory, St. Joseph's C. C. (scratch); Julius Ober, Boston A. A. (60 yards), second; Tom Kobshick, American Legion, Waterbury, Mass. (125 yards), third; Leo Holle, unattached (250 yards), fourth. Time—15:29 4-5.

220-Yard Relay, Girls—Won by Millrose A. A. (Misses Maybelle Gilliland, Jessie Cross, Carrie Jansen and Loretta McNeil); Prudential Insurance Co. A. A., second; South Paterson Girls' Club, third. Time—0:24 4-5 (new American record).

2-Mile Steeplechase—Won by Harry Werbin, Millrose A. A.; Vernon Morgan, England, second; Rolf Schilling, Deutscher Sport Club, third. Time—10:55 4-5.

Raggambi, Hungarian Sprinter, Equals World 100-Meter Mark

PARIS, Sept. 28 (AP).—The world's record of 0:10 4-10 for the 100 meters was equaled today by the Hungarian sprinter, Otto Raggambi, hitherto unknown outside of Budapest. Raggambi's mark was made in the course of a dual meet between France and Hungary, which the latter won, 79 points to 70.

The 100-meter record of 0:10 4-10 is held jointly by Charley Paddock and Eddie Tolan of the United States. Paddock set the record in 1921 and it was equaled twice last year by Tolan.

NISSEN TRIUMPHS IN HANDICAP EVENT

LEWIS FAILS TO SET MARK

By ARTHUR J. DALEY.

Vic Nissen, Harvard sprinter a year ago and now a Boston A. A. athlete, scored a smashing victory from scratch in the 220-yard handicap event, one of the features of the track and field meet at Macomb's Dam Park yesterday which celebrated the silver anniversary of the opening of the field.

Johnny McHugh, who started the first race on Sept. 30, 1905, when Lawson Robertson, Harry Hillman, Jack Eller, Martin Sheridan, John Flanagan, Jim Mitchell and other track immortals competed, sent Nissen away winging in the furlong dash yesterday. The Crimson graduate sprinted around the entire field from his back mark to snap the tape in 0:23, fair enough time for the none too fast cinders.

Frederick W. Rubien, secretary of the American Olympic Association and director of the original meet twenty-five years ago, again conducted the games, which were held under the joint auspices of the athletes development committee of the Metropolitan A. A. U. and Thomas J. Dolen, Commissioner of Parks for the Borough of the Bronx.

In another feature, John (Sunshine) Lewis of Detroit City College, the national 330-yard champion, again attempted to break Bernie Wefers's 300-yard record of 0:30.6. Lewis dipped under Wefers's figures on Saturday at the Jersey City tercentenary celebration but the track was short and his time was disallowed. He found the cinder path the regulation distance yesterday, but was not pressed by Irving Rosenberg, who was drafted to compete against him, and his time was only 0:32.2.

Harold Osborn of the Illinois A. C., the world's high jump record-holder, competed in the handicap high jump from scratch but found the allotments too great for him to overcome and dropped out after clearing 5 feet 10 inches, Everett Utterback winning at 6 feet 3 inches.

Gabby Street—Manager of Champion Cardinals

GABBY STREET.

GABBY STREET is the thirteenth manager to pilot a team into a world's series at the close of his first season as manager of a major league team, but if Gabby is inclined to attach any omen of ill to this account it is merely for the other fellow.

Not that Gabby in any way is boastful—he decidedly is not—but he has bounced and been bounced along the hard trails of baseball too long to show any concern over matters pertaining to superstition, and above all else he is a man who abounds in confidence.

Early last Spring, Gabby thought his Cardinals were the strongest team in the National League and modestly said so. When misfortunes and mishaps all but tossed his team out of the race, he said nothing, but busied himself mending his broken fences.

And when all his regulars swung back into action early in August and he found himself only a matter of twelve or so games from the top, he again confided to his friends, with the same modesty but with even more assurance, that his Cards would be right in the thick of the fighting before the September stretch had run its course. It is a matter of record he was eminently correct.

Famed as Johnson's Catcher.

Upon first gaining fame as a catcher while serving as Walter Johnson's battery mate with the Senators more than twenty years ago, a sort of legendary belief became inspired that he was the only man capable of handling Johnson's blinding fast ball and this in turn gave rise to the belief that he was the one man in all the world best fitted to catch a baseball thrown off the Washington Monument.

It was, of course, nothing more than a stunt, like jumping off a bridge or shooting Niagara Falls in a barrel, but Gabby declared that he thought it could be done and, after a couple of tries, proved it.

Oddly enough, this took a curious hold on the fancy of the times and soon many ball players were being engaged in attempts to catch baseballs tossed from various high altitudes until finally even the staid and fatherly Uncle Robbie was induced to don once more his mask chest protector and mitt and attempt a demonstration that a ball could be caught from a moving airplane.

This, however, turned out to be an unhappy venture, for the aviator, moved by a rare spirit of jest, tossed from the plane, not a baseball, but a grapefruit, which struck Robbie on the chest and spilled itself. Robbie to this day has never ordered grapefruit for breakfast.

But to return to Gabby. His biography reads like another Odyssey, for few indeed are the highways and byways in baseball which Gabby has not traversed. Born Sept. 30, 1882, in Huntsville, Ala., Charles Street—known today only as Gabby—attended South Kentucky College only long enough to acquire a lifelong taste for baseball.

Started Career in 1903.

He began modestly, catching for semi-pro teams in all parts of the South, but moved forward rapidly, making his début in organized baseball with Terre Haute in 1903, and catching for the Reds in 1904 and 1905.

But in 1906 he lost a little ground, being shipped to San Francisco, and when the earthquake dislodged the Seals, Gabby slipped back still more and finished the season with Williamsport in the Tri-State League.

However, the following year he was back in San Francisco and then came four brilliant seasons of backstopping for Walter Johnson with the Senators.

But in 1912 Gabby slipped again and finished his active playing career in the majors that season catching for the Yankees, at that time called the Highlanders. Then followed one of those precarious existences eked out by the veteran ball player as he retraces the steps he once took in his march to the top.

He caught a couple of seasons for Chattanooga, a couple more with Nashville and in 1918 enlisted in the army to serve with distinction overseas. The war settled, he returned to the laborious task of catching minor league pitchers and it was not until 1920 that he finally caught on to something better. He managed Suffolk in the Virginia League that year as well as the next, managed Joplin in the Western League for two mor and Muskogee for still two more, winning a pennant with each one.

Attracted Breadon's Attention.

From then on he seems to have moved about with even greater rapidity, for he managed Augusta in 1926, Columbia in 1927 and Knoxville in 1928, his strange wanderings finally coming to an end in 1929 when Branch Rickey, the chain-store baseball expert of Sam Breadon's interests, became deeply impressed with Street's skillful handling of players.

That Spring he was engaged as coach by the Cardinals, and though for much of last season his duties consisted of nothing more than futile attempts to keep a watchful eye on Grover Alexander, he seemed to have made sufficient impression upon Owner Breadon to gain the managership of the team toward the close of the campaign.

"Maybe it's just a hunch," said Breadon, "but somehow I feel that this is the man I've been looking for."

As the present campaign wore on this impression appeared to become more fixed and when in mid-season, Breadon noted that some of the players did not take Street quite as seriously as he thought they should, the Cardinal owner met the issue by announcing he already had re-engaged Street for 1931. It proved a masterstroke and today there isn't a player on the club who isn't willing to give his best for Gabby.

ESSEX TROOP BOWS TO FIRST DIVISION

Polo Team A of Fort Hamilton Overcomes Five-Goal Handicap to Triumph, 9-7.

Fast and aggressive riding enabled the First Division A polo team of Fort Hamilton to overcome a five-goal handicap allotted to the Essex Troop four of the 102d Cavalry of New Jersey and to register a 9-to-7 victory at Governors Island yesterday. A crowd of 3,000 saw the Brooklyn officers gain the semi-final round of the annual Second Corps Area military polo championship.

The winners showed superior team work and more dash than their rivals. However, Essex Troop's five-goal allowance greatly helped in keeping the New Jersey riders in front as late as the fifth period. The two Scotts, Lieutenant Jean D. at No. 2 and Captain Don M. at No. 3—who are not related—shared honors on the offensive with Lieutenant Jack G. Van Houten, the First Division No. 1.

Van Houten Tallies Three Goals.

Van Houten and Lieutenant Scott tallied three goals each. Captain Scott accounted for two and played a good defensive game, riding off many opponents in daring fashion. Captain Tom A. Harris, at back, scored the other First Division goal, the lone tally of the sixth and final period, on a pass from Lieutenant Scott.

A brilliant ride three-quarters of the field's length by Lieutenant Van Houten, with an Essex Troop player in hot pursuit, resulted in the former eluding his rival and scoring in the first period. A goal by Captain Scott, two in succession by Lieutenant Scott and one by Lieutenant Van Houten enabled the First Division to pull up on even terms temporarily in the second period, but a tally by Lieutenant Donald A. MacGrath, Essex Troop No. 3, just after the bell, gave his team a one-goal lead. The third was the only scoreless period and as a result Essex Troop still led at the intermission, 6 to 5.

Hodge Scores on Angle Drive.

Captain Charles Hodge, Essex Troop No. 2, tallied on a well-executed angle shot early in the fourth to increase his team's advantage to two goals, but a few moments later Captain Scott scored on a short drive to cut the opposition's lead to one. A neat backhand angle shot by Lieutenant Scott knotted the count in the fifth, and the First Division went ahead when Lieutenant Van Houten tallied just before the gong on a backhand drive. Captain Harris scored in the sixth as Essex Troop tried vainly to stage a rally.

The line-up:

1—Lt. J. G. Van Houten	1—Lt. F. A. Doetterl
2—Lt. Jean D. Scott	2—Lt. Charles Hodge

SCORE BY PERIODS.

SADDLE RIVER, N. J., Sept. 28.—The Saddle River Polo Club's first team defeated the Allenhurst Polo Club's first four, 13 to 3, today. Earle Hopper was the individual scoring star, accounting for six goals.

Romarin, 2 to 1, Home First In Feature at Longchamps

LONGCHAMPS, France, Sept. 28 (AP).—Romarin, owned by M. P. Moulines, won the Henry de la Marre Stakes for 3-year-olds at a mile and three furlongs today.

Romarin, by Clarissimus out of Ousmission, won by a length and a half from Edward Esmond's Lovelace, the favorite, with Francille third. Romarin, paying 2 to 1 in the betting, earned $5,000 by his victory.

CUE ENTRIES CLOSE TODAY.

64 Players to Be Eligible for Pocket Billiard Eliminations.

Entries for the four sectional pocket billiard tournament which will start on Monday, Oct. 20, will close tonight, Charles A. Storer, director of the players for the National Billiard Association, announces. Sixty-four players will be eligible for the eight divisional tournaments, as there are two divisionals for each sectional elimination.

The sectional plan for billiards, tried last season for the first time, was such a distinct success that the National Billiard Association doubled its activities this year. And judging from the interest displayed thus far this season, it is reasonably safe to believe that the 1931-32 billiard schedule will be twice as active as the 1930-31 season.

One of the first entries received was from Marcel Camp, the Detroit youth who won the Northern sectional at Minneapolis last Fall. In fact, just to make certain that his entry would not be lost, two entries were received for Camp, one from Marcel and the other from his father.

RICHARDS CONQUERS KOZELUH IN 3 SETS

Wins Match at Nassau Country Club, 7-5, 6-1, 8-6, to Repeat Pro Tourney Victory.

SOLVES RIVAL'S SERVICE

GLEN COVE, L. I., Sept. 28.—Vincent Richards, former American Davis Cup star, who beat Karel Kozeluh, 37-year-old Czechoslovakian, for the American pro crown recently, repeated that victory today on one of the turf courts at the Nassau Country Club. The score was 7—5, 6—1, 8—6.

Kozeluh's spinning service, usually a puzzle to his opponents, was easily solved by Richards in the twelfth game of the first set after each had won his own service since the start of the set. This break, the only one of the set, decided the issue, 7—5.

In the second chapter Richards uncorked his best play, breaking through early to take a 2—0 lead. Kozeluh then won Richards's service for his only game of the set. Richards, hitting the ball with great accuracy and pace, then ran out the set, 6—1.

Richards, by breaking service in the fifth game of the last set, gained a 3—2 lead, which was later extended to 5—3. He broke through service in the thirteenth game to lead, 7—6, and took his own delivery to clinch the match.

N. Y. A. C. TENNIS TEAM WINS INTERCLUB TITLE

Defeats Westminster Club, 8-1, in Metropolitan Play—Jones Conquers Bowman.

The New York A. C. tennis team defeated the Westminster Tennis Club of Brooklyn, 8 to 1, at Travers Island yesterday to win the Metropolitan Interclub championship for the third straight year. By the victory the New York A. C. netmen captured the trophy donated by the Eastern Lawn Tennis Association.

David N. Jones, Columbia University tennis captain, prevented the New York A. C. players from making a clean sweep, by vanquishing Herbert L. Bowman, 10—8, 7—5.

GOVERNORS ISLAND TRIUMPHS AT POLO

A ten-goal handicap proved of no avail to the First Division Class B polo team, which was held scoreless and defeated, 15 to 10, by the Governors Island Class A quartet in an exhibition match before more than 8,000 spectators at the Fort Hamilton army reservation yesterday.

The Fort Hamilton riders were outplayed in every period and were able to hold their opponents scoreless in only one period, the third.

CALVARY BAPTISTS OPEN NEW CHURCH

LINKS HOME AND WORSHIP

Pastor Says Former Was Given to Man at Garden of Eden and Latter at Pentecost.

In the opening service in the new sixteen-story Calvary Baptist Church building at 123 West Fifty-seventh Street, the Rev. Will H. Houghton, pastor, spoke yesterday morning on "The Church in the House." In addition to the church, the building also houses an apartment hotel. Dedication services will be held later.

"Is there anything queer in a home and a church being together?" the pastor asked. "How amazed our fathers would be at seeing our new church structure. But the Church was born in a house. The early Church lived in a house."

Mr. Houghton stated that the Church and the home were the two institutions given to man by God. The home was given to mankind at Eden and the Church at Pentecost, he said. An individual is born in the home and born again in the Church, he continued.

"The church is not the building," he asserted. "The building houses the church. You may have a building and still not have a church."

Worship began in the family, Mr. Houghton declared. The father in the home led the worship. Later, there were so many worshiping in the home that it was necessary to build the church building. Every age may demand a different type of church structure.

"There are some who think that a church of this kind is profane," Mr. Houghton said. "But a spirit of this kind is one of the principal faults of the modern church. There is a critical spirit abroad in the church which causes individuals to be continually breaking away. Because of their lack of unifying instincts they break away to smaller groups, and then to still smaller ones. Finally they are associated with no group at all."

The church, Mr. Houghton said, is founded on fellowship. The same is true of the home. There is no peace in the home nor in the church without it. Every Christian is a member of two families, he said. He has a family in his home and one in his church. The church and the home are related because both are for spiritual development, he concluded.

LAYS JOBLESS ILLS TO LIVING ON OTHERS

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, N. J., Sept. 28.—That the present world-wide unemployment problem is attributable to "our pernicious habit of living on other people," was the opinion voiced by Robert Russell Wicks, dean of the Princeton University Chapel, in his opening sermon of the college year this morning.

"Our commercial age has gotten us into the habit of living on other people," Dean Wicks declared. "But the prosperity we enjoy has come out of a system that leaves over 2,000,000 people in America without work when they want it. Individual cases of laziness do not explain this condition.

"We are still trying to be Christian in a society that is based on that kind of cannibalism."

Dean Wicks urged the "social-mindedness" of Christ as necessary to solve the problem. "Social-mindedness means having your mind adjusted to the fact that there is no such thing as an independent self-made man," he explained.

"In one way or another it takes most of the human race to make the kind of life one man lives today," he continued. "We can live more life because we put behind each individual the collective effort of all his fellow men."

URGES AN ADULT RELIGION.

"Belief in God is a matter of belief; there is no abstract proof," said the Rev. Dr. Francis J. McConnell, Bishop of the New York Methodist Area and president of the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America, yesterday morning in the Park Avenue Presbyterian Church, Park Avenue and Eighty-fifth Street.

"Religion is an affair of the grown-up mind," he continued. "Jesus thought and spoke in terms of the mind that has become mature. This conception runs throughout the Scriptures, and Revelation speaks of the relation between God and man in an adult manner.

"Almost all difficulties exist because of a failure to respect men as human beings. Even an employer should get out of the habit of trying to do good to his employes. He should learn simply to respect those working for him."

SCORES SUNDAY CHRISTIANS

The Rev. Dr. Stanley High, editor of The Christian Herald, discussed "An Adequate Christ" as guest preacher at the Madison Avenue Methodist Church, Madison Avenue and Sixtieth Street, in the absence of the Rev. Ralph W. Sockman, who preached the matriculation sermon at Cornell University, yesterday. Dr. High asserted most people were "Sunday Christians who feel a need for some new interest in the Church."

"Although religion is gaining more prominence as a subject of discussion, the Church is losing interest," he said. "The depression in church-going is comparable to a depression in the stock market. But at present it has hit a new low."

Father Hoey Declares Labor Is God-Given Opportunity

Toil is not a punishment laid by God upon humanity, but rather every man's opportunity to contribute his share to the progress of mankind and to approximate in his own life the life of his Saviour, Jesus Christ, declared the Rev. Peter E. Hoey, preaching yesterday at solemn mass in the Church of St. Paul the Apostle, Columbus Avenue and Fifty-ninth Street.

"Toil is a blessing sent from God to purge the dross from life and to invest our souls with some of the nobility of Christ," said Father Hoey. "Upon the attitude we assume toward labor depends our whole aspiration for eternal life. Some people think the only worthwhile work is that which demands great heroism; but God's will is made most clearly manifest in the ordinary things of life. Others believe all labor must be disagreeable if it is to be worth anything in the sight of God."

DR. BOWIE STRESSES WAR AGAINST FEAR

PLANS TO AID SUFFERERS

Personal Interviews Two Days a Week Arranged by Dr. Elwood Worcester, Who Joined Staff.

Plans for a new work in behalf of all those who need the help of religion for their physical as well as their spiritual strengthening were announced to the congregation of Grace Protestant Episcopal Church, Broadway and Tenth Street, yesterday by the Rev. Dr. W. Russell Bowie. Dr. Bowie said that Dr. Elwood Worcester of Boston would be associated this year with the staff of Grace Church and would come to the parish two days in each week for conference and personal interviews.

"Religion has a message for the whole person and for the whole life," said Dr. Bowie. "The Church of Jesus Christ, like Christ Himself, is interested in the soundness of men's bodies and minds, as well as in their souls. It wants to help strong people grow stronger and it wants to help weak, ineffective and psychologically divided people to find their full selves.

"There is no greater affliction in our modern world," continued Dr. Bowie, "than the burden of fear. In our tense modern civilization, with its conflicting forces, multitudes of people are afraid—afraid of their own life problems, afraid of failure, afraid of being afraid. A minister is always meeting men and women who are stumbling along under the weight of a discouragement which they do not understand and cannot get rid of. They are inhibited from any confident and happy activity through the paralyzing sense that circumstances are against them, and that they lack the power in themselves to overcome these circumstances."

"Our purpose in this parish is to do the utmost we know how to help people to live abundantly. The Sunday and weekday ministry must both be keyed to that. In this sort of work psychology and religion meet, and it is because he represents both that Dr. Worcester has been invited to be associated with the staff of Grace Church."

CHURCH LIBERALISM IS HAILED BY HOUCK

Common decency and good taste demand that a religious man be sympathetic and tolerant toward the cultural and religious celebrations of other cults and creeds, said the Rev. John Walter Houck yesterday in a sermon in Pilgrim Congregational Church, Grand Concourse and 175th Street, the Bronx, in welcoming the commemoration of Hebrew religious holidays in Christian churches as marking a new era of religious liberalism and international brotherhood.

"We glory in the liberalism of any movement today, but our church leaders must not lose sight of the real goal—the needs of man's soul," he said. "Churches of any creed that are open and active mean much in the life of a confused city. But open minds of the members of all these churches to what matters in life would mean much more.

"What human beings really want is some centre or compelling urge for life which could bring order and unity and harmony out of the chaos of our everyday living; what we yearn for, consciously or unconsciously, is for some leader in whose wisdom and understanding we could throw ourselves completely, and by losing ourselves, find the rich life we seek. In brief, all mankind, Protestant, Catholic, Jew, Moslem, crave a religion that really is vital and useful in our daily living."

Assails Republican Wet Stand.

Special to The New York Times.

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., Sept. 28.—The Rev. Robert A. Greenwell, pastor of St. Paul's Methodist Episcopal Church here, in his sermon today made a brief reference to the action of the Republican State convention on the wet and dry question, asserting that a new party would be formed to carry out the will of the people in support of prohibition. "When our representatives fail to represent us we have a right to select those who will," Mr. Greenwell said.

NEW PASTOR TELLS TABERNACLE IDEALS

TRIBUTE TO PREDECESSOR

Declaring that the Broadway Congregational Tabernacle will be neither a soothing syrup for tired business men nor a place of punishment where one already condemned as a willful and hypocritical sinner will be lashed with harsh words, the Rev. Allan Knight Chalmers preached his first sermon yesterday morning as pastor of the tabernacle, which is at Broadway and Fifty-sixth Street.

Mr. Chalmers, who is 33 years old and who comes from the pastorate of the First Presbyterian Church of Buffalo, paid tribute to the Rev. Dr. Charles E. Jefferson, now honorary pastor, who preached his farewell sermon in June after an active pastorate of thirty-two years. Dr. and Mrs. Jefferson left Thursday for the Pacific Coast, where the clergyman will preach and lecture in universities for several weeks. He retired from the active ministry on his seventieth birthday.

"A brilliant and beautiful ministry is at an end," said Mr. Chalmers. "I do not wonder that you hesitate to take up the trail again. But I want to remind you as I set the tone for the days ahead that we must not forget that we are walkers upon an everlasting road.

"Most organized religion is not a road for the wayfaring man. It spends its time too often on the easier tasks. It is fussily busy about the fixed, the definite. The Church has an obligation when there are unclean things in life. But it fails if it is only the watch-dog of the immoral order."

Mr. Chalmers declared that the Broadway Tabernacle had an international reputation for "fearless Christianity."

"Fearless Christianity is an everlasting road and you and I must walk on it," Mr. Chalmers continued. "When the Rev. Dr. Joseph P. Thompson, the first great pastor of the tabernacle, defined the ministry of the church, he said: 'The man who stands first in that pulpit must be the first to see, the first to feel, the first to move against all forms of moral evil in the world.' That takes some doing.

"The church, therefore, is to be a place where earnest men and women seeking new light will find an honest attempt to understand and follow the way of Christ."

CALL URGES QUEST FOR GOD IN REALITY

Argues Knowable Values, Not Revealed Religion's Postulates, Must Serve as Approach.

Orthodox Protestantism "is nothing short of pathetic in its helplessness to serve this age in a vital way," and its failure "to create the good life in a good world is a challenge to modern man to develop a constructive program to meet the issue," said the Rev. Lon Ray Call in his sermon yesterday in the West Side Unitarian Church, 110th Street, east of Broadway.

"The dilemmas which mankind faces today will not be solved until we approach them from the standpoint of the known and knowable human values, rather than from the postulates of revealed religion," he said.

"The essential difference between what the modern man calls religion and what his father called religion is the difference in the angle from which each approached life. Our fathers began with God and then built a system of theology around this supernatural idea. We are no less anxious to find the good life than they were, but a change of approach is imperative. In a scientific age it is natural that men should seek to find out things for themselves and not expect God to reveal them.

"Now, the approach has changed and men are seeking to make the study of man their first concern. From theology we are turning to anthropology and sociology. Indeed, practically all branches of human knowledge point the way to the good life. Religion with man as the centre of its interests inspires him to go on in the search for the good life here in this world.

"It does not mean the worship of humanity but rather the aspiring bent of the whole life of man toward the great goals of experience which lie ahead as a promised land. Neither does such an interpretation of religion 'politely bow God out of the universe.' It does bow out the God of Genesis, but in its questful, constructive searching for reality it may lead to conceptions of a deity as far superior to the God of Genesis as our universe is vaster than the universe which Moses believed to exist. But such a belief in God must come at the end of our thinking rather than at the beginning."

DEFENDS PASSION PLAY.

Dr. Guthrie Deplores Tendency to View It as Anti-Semitic.

The tendency to view the Oberammergau Passion Play as anti-Semitic was opposed in his sermon yesterday by the Rev. Dr. William Norman Guthrie of St. Mark's-in-the-Bouwerie Church, Tenth Street west of Second Avenue.

"It is high time this view is corrected," Dr. Guthrie said. "Criticism is most prevalent among the Jews who have seen this play, and the Jewish race inclines toward an oversensitiveness about the attitude of the rest of the world toward them. I personally am not aware of the Jews as a distinct race. When I have finished talking to an intelligent, courteous Jewish man my thought is that I have been talking to a gentleman, not that I have been talking to a Jew."

There is a need for a more complete understanding of controversial matters in general by both Jews and Gentiles, Dr. Guthrie said. He ascribed feeling against the play to an attack made upn it by Rabbi Stephen S. Wise. The opinions Dr. Wise expressed have received a general support far beyond their due, he declared, and expressed his conviction that feeling against the Passion Play could only arise from emotional reactions entirely unrestrained by intellectual discernment.

Protestant Perils Seen In False Views of God

The Protestant world as it is known today is one freed from restraint and discipline, hastening to the chaos of disintegration and doom, the Rev. Thomas H. Whelpley said in his sermon yesterday in the Chelsea Presbyterian Church, 214 West Twenty-third Street.

"Many, unable quite to dispense with God, have created for themselves a God in their own image. With others, God has become superfluous and he is no longer conceded a place in His own universe," he said.

"It is my conclusion that if Protestantism is to continue it must speak with authority. And that that one authority is the Scriptures, God's word to men."

HOLMES FORESEES UNION OF ALL FAITHS

In Single Religion of Future, He Says, There Will Be No Distinctions of Creed.

CHURCH AS SOCIAL CENTRE

It Will Also Be Clinic, School of Culture and Agency of Human Service, He Declares.

The present churches are rapidly disintegrating and are destined to disappear, said John Haynes Holmes in his sermon yesterday at the Community Church, Park Avenue and Thirty-fourth Street.

"This does not mean that there will be no churches in the future, but rather that there will be new churches to express the new and better religion of the time," he declared.

"It is not difficult to forecast the future of religion as it will be practiced by men when they have shaken off the dogmas of theology and the private interests of sects and denominations. In the future, when science has done its work and the new society has come, there will be no Baptists, or Presbyterians, or Methodists, or Unitarians—no Protestants or Catholics—no Christians, or Jews, or Buddhists, but only men united in one spirit of religion.

"There will be no religions in the future, but only religion. For religion in itself is enough, as God is enough. One religion, because one God. And one Church, because one religion.

"In every town, in the future, there will be this church, one church for all the people—in large cities, one cathedral church, with local churches or chapels, in various neighborhoods. These churches will be open every day, and all day, as clinics of healing, schools of culture, agencies of reform, with professional staffs of workers in each department trained and dedicated to human service.

"There will be no professional ministry as we have it today. Into the pulpits and before the forums of these churches will come men and women who can speak with authority—experts in science, art, literature, psychology, politics, public health and public morals.

"There will be no Sundays or holy days for these churches. In the easier conditions of labor and leisure in the new society there will occur happy intervals when men will worship as at other intervals they work or play. There will be no sacred rites of worship, no fixed rituals or prayers in these churches. A free and intelligent people will be trusted to find a free and intelligent way of expressing the thoughts and purposes of their lives.

"These churches of the future will be spiritual centres for all the people. Here the young will be married, the dead buried and children consecrated to human service. Here public occasions will be celebrated and public works dedicated. Here science will be adapted to practiced ways of healing and enlightenment. Here prophets of the truth will be heard and heeded.

"Here, at the very heart of life, will the churches of the future stand as shrines of brotherhood and peace. For in the future men will have learned at last to 'dwell together in unity,' and the Church will be the temple, as religion itself the inspiration, of their love."

DR. RUSSELL EXHORTS CITY TO SEEK CHRIST

Holds Jesus Never Has Been Portrayed Adequately, but Vision Comes to Few.

Jesus is the outstanding, the supreme figure of history, but the superlative nature of His character makes it impossible for any portrait of Him really to satisfy, said the Rev. Dr. George J. Russell in his sermon yesterday in the Second Presbyterian Church, Central Park West and Ninety-sixth Street. Great artists and great writers have endeavored to portray Jesus as they have seen Him, and the stage has done its best to make the presentation of His life and character real to its audiences, but none of these efforts has proved adequate, Dr. Russell said.

"If we are to see Jesus, we must see Him through the eye of love, even as those to whom He ministered in the days of His flesh saw Him and believed in Him," he declared.

"The vision of Christ is not only the thing of supreme importance, but it has a vital effect on life. There are some sights we behold which completely alter our viewpoint, and after seeing them the world is never the same. A new world has come to us by reason of what we beheld. So it is with Jesus. Life is never the same if we have really beheld the vision glorious."

Hold Memorial for John C. Maher.

Memorial services marking the second anniversary of the death of John C. Maher, former chairman of the composing room chapel of The World, were held yesterday in Mount Hope Cemetery, Yonkers. Eulogies were delivered by George Bentley, second vice president of the International Typographical Union, and by John Simons of The New York Times composing room chapel. The Big Six Glee Club sang. About seventy-five persons attended the services.

SAYS ATONEMENT SERVES ALL CREEDS

URGED AS A CURB TO EVIL

Justice of Man to Man Held a Basic Offering of Israel to Humanity.

Atonement Day has a universal significance for all people, and, while the holiday is essentially Hebraic in origin and development, its basic principles apply to other races and creeds, said Rabbi Louis I. Newman of Congregation Rodeph Sholom in an address over WMCA yesterday under the auspices of the American Hebrew Forum for Better Understanding.

"Atonement Day emphasizes the necessity for repentance for transgressions of the past," he said. "Judaism holds that no man is so righteous that he sinneth not, but it does not distort or exaggerate the sense of sin out of all proportion to the deed. In modern times it is well for religion to remind society that neither psychology nor sociology has the right to banish the concept of unrighteousness or guilt. Judaism believes in a humane interpretation of personal responsibility; it recognizes the weakening forces of heredity, environment and education. At the same time, however, it opposes the whittling down of the moral code; it urges that the discrimination between right and wrong, the true and the false, the ugly and the beautiful, be not blurred nor cast aside. It recalls the words of the prophet Nathan in the presence of King David, accusing him of his sin, saying: 'Thou art the man.'

"Atonement Day stresses also the message of high resolution to amend evil habits and ways. It believes in the perfectibility of human character. It summons man to gain control of his emotions and conduct so that prior errors may not be duplicated and new principles of integrity be introduced. While Judaism does not elevate the concept of redemption into the realm of a cult, it stresses that salvation comes from the individual.

"Reconciliation with humanity is the supreme concept of Atonement Day. Within it lies the basic offering of Israel to humanity. Because Judaism emphasizes the forgiveness of God, the Book of Jonah is read in the synagogues. Because also Judaism underscores the ideal of justice between man and man, the challenging words of Isaiah are read: 'Is not this the fast that I have chosen? To loose the bonds of wickedness, to undo the bands of the yoke and to let the oppressed go free? Is it not to deal thy bread to the hungry and that thou bring the poor that are cast out to thy House?' The Sages affirmed that no man could be reconciled to God who was not first reconciled to his fellows. By the same token, humanity cannot be at peace with God unless the nations be at peace with each other.

"Atonement Day sends its message forth beyond the confines of the Jewish people and bids all mankind to rend its heart, if not its garment. Judaism looks upon the nations, depressed and distracted and bids them be strong and of good cheer. It reminds them of the ancient Hebrew saying in the midst of storm and peril: 'Also this will pass.' Israel, whose mission is peace, speaks anew to a world, living under the menace of new enmities, in terms of the Prophets and seers: 'Have we not all one father; hath not one God created us all?' "

ENDS 10 YEARS AS PASTOR.

Dr. Scherer Receives Congratulations at Holy Trinity Lutheran.

The Rev. Dr. Paul Scherer, pastor of the Lutheran Church of the Holy Trinity, Central Park West and Sixty-fifth Street, received the congratulations of his congregation after the morning service yesterday, which marked the beginning of his eleventh year as pastor. During the service the Rev. Dr. Samuel G. Trexler, president of the United Lutheran Synod of New York, made a brief address of congratulation and extended to Dr. Scherer the best wishes of the Synod.

In response Dr. Scherer referred to his ten years of service as the brightest and happiest of his life. In his sermon he stressed the importance of proving our religion in one's relationship with his fellows, in the contacts of every-day life.

"What is the man in the pew like when he becomes the man in the street?" asked Dr. Scherer. "There is no accommodation in the kingdom of God for operating on a Sunday and holiday schedule only. The man in the street is you, and he is God's religion, and the way you treat him seven days a week is the proof of your religion."

STEEL INGOT OUTPUT ROSE 12% SINCE JULY

FURTHER RISE IS EXPECTED

Continuation of Increase Would Result in More Than Ordinary Improvement, It Is Said.

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 28.—Steel ingot production in 1929 was 54,850,433 tons. In the first half of this year it averaged a rate of 48,000,000 tons, in July it was at 35,500,000 tons, the low rate of the year, and in the past week it was, according to apparently authentic information, at just about 40,000,000 tons a year. There is indicated an increase of 12 to 13 per cent over July, which is considered fully as much as could be expected as a mere seasonal improvement, for certain lines of steel consumption never have seasonal improvement at this time. In automobile production the rule has been of successive monthly decreases after August. Fabricating of structural steel never has a Summer lull.

According to precedent, a seasonal increase in steel would not have spent its force by this time. There should be still heavier production next month. Decline in production would not set in until some time in November. If the reports of steel production this week are correct, and further increases follow, the total increase would be more than has been found in ordinary steel years, such as were subject only to seasonal influence and not to any influence by the state of general trade changing.

If steel is being influenced favorably by an improvement in general business conditions, the fact should be disclosed by specific lines of consumption showing improvement, it is said, and no such information is presented. For at least a month past, however, steel sellers have been reporting a better feeling among their customers, and it is held that this may have led to freer buying whereby there is a better movement of steel without an equal increase in the actual rate of ultimate consumption of steel.

Price conditions may be responsible for increased buying in some steel products, it is believed here. Sellers have been endeavoring to firm up their markets, and while in theory the stiffening should apply to prompt orders as well as to fourth-quarter contracts, it is said, in practice the sellers are likely to accept prompt orders at old prices and exhibit their courage in connection with the contracts.

After allowance for seasonal variation, automobile production has been declining continuously since June. There are no favorable predictions for the remainder of the year and seasonal variation according to precedent would call for continuous monthly declines after August. The steel industry will have very little support from the automobile trade.

In sharp contrast is the very well sustained activity of the structural fabricating trade. Highway and miscellaneous work largely make up for losses in factory, office and hotel buildings. Shipments of the structural fabricating shops in the first eight months of this year totaled 2,260,000 net tons, representing a monthly average of 282,500 tons. The smallest month was January, 15 per cent below the average, and the largest month April, 6 per cent above the average, while August was 1 per cent below the average. In the eight months bookings were only 6 per cent below the shipments.

The report that Class I railroads had capital expenditures of $468,305,000 in the first six months of this year, or a full one-third increase over the first half of last year, appears quite favorable, it is said, but freight car installations were much lighter in the first half of last year than in the second half, while total installations in the second half of this year will be light. Net railway operating income, as just reported by the Bureau of Railway Economics for seven months this year, is off just 33.1 per cent from the same period of last year, and in time railroad expenditures will reflect this fact, it is said. Already it is understood that the annual rail buying movement will amount to much less than in any of the last four years, when the movement averaged around 1,750,000 tons. The order just placed by Delaware & Hudson for 12,870 tons may be regarded as the first in this year's movement, the Van Sweringen orders for 58,600 tons late in July having been a special case. The large lines appear to have been indisposed thus far to put out inquiries.

The forthcoming unfilled tonnage statement of the Steel Corporation is expected to be favorable. It should be, it is held, according to precedent, for five of the last six years have shown a September increase, 1927 furnishing the exception.

OUR SULPHUR EXPORTS CONTROL WORLD SALES

Exports of sulphur from the United States have placed this country in virtual control of the sulphur markets of the world, according to a booklet prepared by the Freeport Texas Company. Exports last year were more than twice as large as the rest of the world's total production, according to the booklet, which says:

"Sulphur exports from the United States increased from 30,742 long tons in 1910, to 855,500 long tons last year, while total production in this country increased from 247,060 long tons to 2,362,389 long tons, an aggregate increase of 856 per cent for the twenty-year period. Prior to 1903, Sicily exercised a virtual monopoly on the world's sulphur business, but in that year the first Louisiana sulphur dome became productive and thereafter the industry expanded in this country until it now provides more than 85 per cent of the world's output.

"The world's production of sulphur more than tripled between 1910 and 1928, the most recent years for which complete figures are available, increasing from 681,741 to 2,259,321 long tons. This increase was occasioned by the many new industrial uses which have been developed for sulphur and sulphuric acid during that period and by a steady decline in the use of pyrites from which sulphur had previously been extracted in the manufacture of sulphuric acid. During the past twenty years the use of pyrites was reduced by more than 50 per cent, sulphur being gradually substituted in this process because of its increasing supply, reduced cost and cheapness in handling."

ENGLISH RUBBER STOCK IS EXPECTED TO RISE

LONDON, Sept. 27.—In the rubber market today plantation grades were quiet and slightly easier. Smoked sheet spot sold at 3 13-16d to 3⅞d a pound sellers, October 3⅞d to 3 13-16d buyers, November 3⅞d to 3 13-16d buyers, December 3 15-16d sellers, January-March 4d to 4 1-16d to 4d sellers, April-June 4⅛d to 4 3-16d sellers, July-September 4⅜d value and January-December 4⅜d sellers. Crêpe spot was 3⅝d buyers.

In the shipment market smoked sheet January-March sold at 4d c. i. f. New York. Para grades were quiet. Hard fine spot was quoted at 5⅝d sellers.

It is estimated that London stock will show a further increase of about 400 tons on Monday next and that at Liverpool an increase of about 700 tons.

In the tin market Eastern advices gave 150 tons sold at the steady rate of £136 5s c. i. f. Conditions in this market were quiet at the opening and in the absence of buyers prices gave to £132 10s. At this level sufficient support was forthcoming to keep values steady, though on balance cash was 10s and three months 7s 6d lower. Sales amounted to 400 tons. Cash sold at £131 2s 6d, September £131 2s 6d, October £131 2s 6d, November £132 and three months at £132 10s 10d to £132 15s to £132 7s 6d to £132 10s. The settlement price was £131.

In late trading October sold at £131 10s, November £131 7s 6d to £131 5s, December £131 12s 6d and three months £132 5s to £131 10s. English common tin closed quiet at £132 to £132 5s ex-Liverpool.

In the lead market trade and demand showed no improvement, and with sellers more in evidence prices eased, closing with near dates at 3s 9d and forward 1s 3d lower. Sales were 600 tons. October sold at £17 11s 3d, November £17 10s, December £17 8s 9d and January £17 7s 6d. The settlement price was £17 10s 6d. At the second session December sold at £17 7s 6d. English lead declined 5s to £19.

COMMODITY AVERAGE DECLINED LAST WEEK

Special Dispatch to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

NEW HAVEN, Sept. 27.—Professor Irving Fisher's index number of commodity prices, based on 100 as the average of 1926, is 83.1, which compares with 83.6 a week ago, 83.4 two weeks ago, 83.5 three weeks ago and 83.3 four weeks ago. The average of Jan. 24, at 93.7, was the highest of the year to date and also the highest since the last week of October, 1929; the 82.8 of Aug. 2 was the lowest. The highest average of 1929 was 99.2 on July 2, the lowest was 92.2 on Nov. 22.

Crump's index number of British commodity prices, as cabled for the past week and also based on 100 as the average for 1926, is 73.9, which compares with 74.8 a week ago, 74.9 two weeks ago, 75.2 three weeks ago and 75.5 four weeks ago. The average of Jan. 2, which was 85.7, was the highest of the year to date; this week's average is the lowest. The 94.4 of April 5 was the highest in 1929; the 88 of Dec. 27 was the lowest.

The index number of average Italian prices compiled and cabled by the Chamber of Commerce at Milan, and based on 100 as the average of 1926, is 61. This compares with 61 a week before, 61.4 two weeks before, 61.5 three weeks before and 61.8 four weeks before. The average of Jan. 3, which was 69.9, was the highest of the year to date; this week's average is the lowest. The average of March 12 and 22, which was 76.4, was the highest for 1929; the 70.1 of Dec. 27 was the lowest.

Portland Utilities' Bonds Called.

The issue of Portland Railway, Light and Power Company first lien and refunding mortgage bonds, Series B, and the Portland Electric Power Company first lien and refunding mortgage bonds, Series C, have been called for redemption on Nov. 1, 1930, at 105. The bonds must be presented on that date for payment at the principal office of the City Bank Farmers Trust Company, as successor trustee.

RESIDENT OFFICES REPORT ON TRADE

DRESS OUTPUT IS REDUCED

Sunday-Night Frocks Are Feature of Market—Novelty Coats Are Sought—Handbags Active.

With a continuance of warm weather and the two religious holidays intervening during the past week, buying by retailers was somewhat curtailed. Reorders continued to appear in a fairly liberal volume, however. In the dress market, production was reduced due to the holidays and another two-day curtailment is expected during the coming week. Sunday-night dresses in chiffons, cantons and velvets are being promoted strongly by the important houses and continue the outstanding feature of the market. Novelty coats, such as lapin and alpaca jackets, are favored over the retail counter. The popularity of knit suits is well maintained. Lightweight woolens are leading in piece goods activity. Ladies' handbags are greatly in demand for immediate shipment and manufacturers are behind in deliveries. Reorders for men's wear are fair, with young men's Fall suits attracting most interest. Boys' furnishing items are also sought.

The major style and merchandising trends, as reported by leading resident buyers, follow:

KIRBY, BLOCK & FISCHER—"Cloth coats that high-light fur tops, such as separate fur coatees and removable boleros, are new in silhouette. They are practical for moderate as well as extremely cold weather. Wrap-around and semi-fitted types receive preference in higher priced cloth coat lines, while the Russian influence continues strong in models at popular prices. Formal dresses with extreme U or V décoletage and two-piece effects strike a new note in evening attire. Sunday-night frocks have caught the interest of the public and are registering actively in supple metallic tissues, chiffons and Elizabeth crêpe. 'Occasion' turbans of silk net in black and brown are trimmed with bands of eggshell colored seed beads. Metallic mesh turbans may be had in solid gold or silver, or in gold and silver combinations. Bags of novelty fabrics, such as metallic shot silks, are attractive. Nail-head studded models of calf and antelope are interesting in design and featured at popular prices. Turquoise, jet and crystal are smartly combined with etched gold beads in new chokers and necklaces of the lariat type."

Men's Wear Buying Maintained.

AFFILIATED CLOTHIERS, INC.—"Warm weather has retarded early Fall business somewhat. Orders, nevertheless, continue to come in through the mail in fairly heavy numbers. Leather coats for men and boys have been liberal reorder items. Horsehides lead every other type of leather in demand. Corduroy trousers with a twenty-two-inch bottom and wide waistband are very active. From the South and Middle West orders are being received for young men's two-trouser tweed suits in medium and dark shades of brown and grays. Boys' leather helmets, including sheep-lined numbers, are being sought actively. A new braided belt that is very attractive is made of a combination of leather and suede. Boys' belts are being purchased on a larger scale than ever before because of the separate waistbands on long trousers, made with the wider belt loops."

McGREEVEY, WERRING & HOWELL, INC.—"One of the new items is the afternoon and dinner dance gown of metallic cloth in Persian pattern. Knit suits, dressy chiffons and embroidered tunic effects are in demand. In the lower end there is a scarcity of travel prints. Juniors costing from $6.50 to $16.50 are being sought. Black is outstanding, with brown, green and red following. Some high shades are also wanted. The fur trimmed garment is most popular. Sunday night dresses in chiffons, cantons and velvets are being developed. In children's lines velvet dresses are being strongly featured. Novelty printed piqué velveteens are being made in three-piece suits with tuck-in pongee blouses and beret to match. The most active retail items in the coat market today are novelties such as lapin jackets and alpaca jackets, coats and ensembles. Tweed sport coats with matching beret and natural tan camel's hair coats are among the leading reorder items."

JAY, FLANAGAN, MESIROW COMPANY—"Great detail is seen in current styles of daytime and evening frocks. One type of decoration sponsored is tucking, and we note all-over effects, as well as the scattered tucking in the skirt or blouse. This treatment is not confined to any one fabric, as it has proved attractive in the cloth, crêpe or more sheer materials. Necklines are distinctive in their square, 'U,' 'V,' and round cut, with fine lace or fur details. In the more tailored version, we find grosgrain ribbon a highly-styled feature. An attractive black jersey dress treated with bands of angora wool in white, has met with approval recently. The week has been a short one in the dress market. Production was curtailed, owing to the holidays last week. Another two-day holiday is anticipated this week and stores should allow for this development in placing orders."

Chiffon Important in New Frocks.

WILLIAM M. VAN BUREN.—"Sunday night dresses are the newest note. Chiffon is the important medium, in some combinations with lace, beads and spangles. Chiffon with metal embroidery, all metal dresses and long and short sleeve velvets are also being shown. For the daytime silk dress, black is the leading color, with brown second and dark green gaining in favor. Woolen dresses are divided into dressy and sports types. Dressier ones are trimmed with fur or lace, similar to dressy silks. On the higher-priced garments, black is very smart, trimmed with caracul, galyak, Persian and touches of ermine. For dressy sports, the color range is black, green and rust tones. The three-piece knitted suit continues in popularity. Reorders during the past week included silk crêpes and cantons, many light woolens, wool laces and jerseys."

JOHN M. BIGGINS, INC.—"Lightweight woolens by the yard, including crêpes, tweeds, nubbed and snowflake effects, are strongly in demand over the retail counter. Broadcloths and monotone coatings are being reordered. Flannels are inactive, except in ivory. Cantons continue the dominant fabric, except in silks. Satins are almost equal in importance. Plain silk flat crêpes are taking on renewed activity. Ivory is gaining in popularity in linen damask sets. Part-wool plaid blankets, size 80 by 90, of unusually heavy weight, are being featured for promotional purposes at popular prices. Ladies' handbags are very much in demand for immediate shipment. Manufacturers are behind in delivery. Tortoise shell ornaments are popular. Antelope bags trimmed with marcasite and sterling are very attractive and find favor with the buyers. Black gloves continue to lead in orders and are followed by browns."

MERCHANDISE REPORTING CO., INC.—"Black canton tunic dresses with eyelet embroidery on the tunic are popular in the $10.50 range of misses' dresses. Collars of contrasting color finished in the front with bow and rhinestone pin are shown widely. In this style the belt is of self material fastened with a novelty buckle and the skirt is set on an underbodice of contrasting color. Angora wool embroidery is used on the neckline and sleeves of other models in tunic dresses. The belt is at normal waistline and fastened with a buckle. Popular shades in these garments include black with blue, green and white, brown and tan and black and white."

BEN F. LEVIS—"In millinery close-fitting types are featured. The draped brim and the turban varieties, fashioned on both felts and soleils, are widely shown. Velvets in small shapes in the off-the-face styles are also popular. Trimming effects on felts and velvets consisting of bows, buckles and feathers are emphasized. Black is the leading shade followed by brown, cricket green, blue and wine tones. There was only a fair amount of activity in the coat market this week, due largely to the warm weather. Novelty coats usually produced by pile fabric houses are in good demand and reorders continue to come in. Badger trimmed coats are selling very well. There seems to be a scarcity at present and manufacturers have increased their prices by from $10 to $25."

JACK HARTBLAY, Inc.—"Although fewer buyers were in the market during the past week, due to the holidays, numerous orders and reorders were received for men's and boys' wear. Young men's Fall suits are being reordered with the two-button peak lapel model in solid shades of oxford, gray, brown, tan and powder blue outstanding. Boys' knickers and longies are the subject of liberal repeat business. Men's camel pile and alpaca coats are being sampled and reordered heavily. The natural, oxford and beaver shades are the most prominent colors, with the last named giving indications of being the most favored for the coming season."

FOUR WHOLESALE LINES DECLINED IN AUGUST

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28.—Reports to the Federal Reserve System by wholesale firms selling groceries, dry goods, hardware and drugs, the Reserve Board announced today, indicated that in these lines sales in August were considerably smaller than a year ago. Sales of groceries showed a decline of 10 per cent, dry goods 39 per cent, hardware 27 per cent and drugs 16 per cent as compared with August, 1929.

The percentagees of decrease in sales in August, 1930, as compared with those in August, 1929, by Federal Reserve districts were as follows:

Increased 7% in August Over July—Surplus Stocks Down.

Billings of woolen fabrics for the month of August increased 7 per cent over July, while output declined 5 per cent, according to the figures issued today by the Wool Institute. Surplus stocks were reduced 13.7 per cent. Production in linear yardage, adjusted to a 6/4 basis, was 4,802,759 yards in August, compared with 5,080,480 yards in July. Billings for last month amounted to 5,541,740 yards, as against 5,188,884 yards in the previous month. Surplus stocks totaled 6,473,892 yards in August, compared with 7,513,634 yards in July.

"The mills are in a position to continue activities on a very favorable basis," A. D. Whiteside, president of the institute, stated in the report. "The surplus stocks have been reduced to a point which many mills consider their minimum requirements to serve the trade properly. Based on current billings, the surplus stocks on hand now indicate approximately a ten times inventory turnover for the year."

NAME GINGHAM PRICES.

The Amoskeag Manufacturing Company, D. W. Jarvis, agent, will open its 1931 Spring line of ginghams and other fabrics today. Following are the new price lists: 27-inch staple gingham, for October to January delivery, 8 cents net; Dominant chambray, 10 cents net; nineteen thousand range, 12½ cents list; Imperial chambray, 18½ cents list; Braeloch, 17 cents net; Glenwoody fabric, 13¾ cents net; Amoskeag seersucker, a new fabric made particularly for hospital use and nurses' uniforms, 15½ cents net; Glen Ron zephyr, 30 cents net, and Fenwick cloth, 12½ cents net. With the exception of ginghams, deliveries on goods are for November to March. Prices, on the average, are 1 to 2½ cents lower.

The Riverside and Dan River Cotton Mills also named new prices as follows, all subject to 10 per cent discount: Security ginghams, 32-inch, 12½ cents; Dan River ginghams, 27-inch, 10½ cents, and Dimitisce, 32-inch wash fabric, 12½ cents.

TRADE IN WEST HELPED BY COLDER WEATHER

CHICAGO, Sept. 28.—The advent of colder weather late last week increased the feeling of optimism that has been slowly developing in trade circles in the West, as distributers look for a more normal demand for seasonal goods, although fair orders for merchandise have been placed of late. A spirit of conservatism is still apparent, while disappointment is expressed in some quarters over the failure of aggregate sales to reach the totals expected before Labor Day. Opening of the National Home Furnishings Style Show, conducted by 200 local stores, resulted in fairly good business, and the show and sales will continue for a week.

A rush of orders for coal resulted from the sharp drop in temperature, and retail yards were busy at the end of the week. Prices were firmer for prepared sizes, but steam sizes continued slow.

Inquiries for steel for the fourth quarter are increasing, with sales and specifications somewhat larger than in the preceding week. Inquiries are in the market for 50,000 tons of heavy structural steel. Shading of prices of steel has decreased, and buyers are finding it increasingly hard to obtain concessions.

PRICES OF LIVE STOCK FALLING AT CHICAGO

CHICAGO, Sept. 28.—Packers have ceased buying lightweight hogs in the country for direct shipment to plants, with the result that farmers who desire to sell have been forced to dispose of them in the open market and have found demand slow. As lightweights are undesirable for lard or bacon their price has skidded downward rapidly and many sales were around $1 under weighty kinds.

Hog prices were on the down grade the greater part of last week, and while the market finished on a moderate rally from the inside figure, losses were around 50 cents, compared with a week before, and 40 cents under the price in the week in 1929. Top for the week was $11, with a drop to $10.60 later and a close at $10.70. Receipts for the week of 123,800 were 16,900 above those of the previous week, and virtually the same as a year before.

A marked let-up in the liquidation of cattle from Western pastures gave a much better tone to the market, but the upturn of 50 cents for the week was forced and due more to smaller offerings than to any improvement in demand. Swings in values were wide, with the close 25 to 40 cents under the best figures reached at midweek, when yearlings sold as high as $13. Most sales were at $9.75 to $12.40. Receipts were 42,700, or 14,900 under those of the previous week, and 11,600 less than a year before.

Demoralization in the lamb market was laid to large receipts and slackened demand, and for the first time in sixteen years packers erased the $8 quotation from their cards. At the last only the best lambs sold as high as $8, while most sales were at $7.50 to $7.75, the top showing $1.65 under prices of two weeks ago and $2.75 below those of five weeks ago.

PREDICTS AUTO REVIVAL.

Cleveland Bank Declares New High Record Is Likely.

CLEVELAND, Sept. 28 (AP).—The saturation point in the automobile industry has not been reached and the industry is in condition now for a vigorous revival, the Midland Bank of Cleveland has found in a survey.

The fact that there has been a long and drastic period of curtailment and that sales of cars relative to production have been far above normal this year forshadowed a recovery on a large scale, the report, written by D. C. Elliott, economist for the bank, said. He even looks for the industry to go ahead of previous records.

The chief revivifying agencies will be export and replacement demands, the report said, adding that, roughly, 24,000,000 cars and trucks will be scrapped in the seven years from 1930 through 1936, making the average annual output for replacement 3,400,000 cars and trucks.

New Central Hanover Unit to Open.

The Lexington Avenue and Forty-third Street office of the Central Hanover Bank and Trust Company will be opened Wednesday morning. It is located in the Chrysler building and occupies three floors. The main banking and women's departments are on the main floor, the trust department on the second floor, and safe deposit vaults in the basement. Alick McD. McLean, assistant vice president, will be in charge.

Gets Orders for Large Auto Fleets.

The White Company of Cleveland announced yesterday that it had received the following three large fleet orders: Gimbel Brothers, Inc., twenty-two six-cylinder cars of various models, American Stores Company of Philadelphia twenty medium heavy duty trucks and Metropolitan News Company twelve delivery trucks.

COCOA EXCHANGE HERE LEADS WORLD TRADING

Rise of Market to Its Unrivaled Position Reviewed in Connection With 5th Anniversary.

The New York Cocoa Exchange now stands undisputed as the leading cocoa market of the world, Eugene A. Canalizo, president of the exchange, says in a review of the past five years, which marks the entire history of the exchange. He has been president of the exchange for four of the five years of its existence, and he says transactions on the exchange now total annually more than the world's total output of cocoa. His review says:

"When the New York Cocoa Exchange celebrates its fifth birthday, on Oct. 1, it will be in the undisputed position of the world's greatest cocoa market—in the brief span of five years. Within this period a sensational reversal of market conditions has occurred, with the result that New York has usurped London as the cocoa marketing centre of the world. The United States thus, although it does not grow a single cocoa bean, is the main influence in fixing the price of this commodity.

"Economists who advocate commodity exchanges as adjuncts indispensable to the orderly marketing of commodities consider the New York Cocoa Exchange an outstanding example of a properly conducted commodity exchange.

"From every quarter of the globe producers and consumers of cocoa, individually or through representative brokers, are buying and selling cocoa futures contracts on the New York Cocoa Exchange. Others engaged in the business of handling this commodity contribute to the trading volume, which annually totals more than the entire world's production. The current activity indicates that this year's total volume will be in the approximate vicinity of the trading volume last year, when the turnover amounted to about 130 per cent of the normal world production of about 500,000 tons."

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Sentiment and Psychology in a Familiar Stage of a Great Economic Reaction.

The particular phase of excitement through which the markets passed last week was one which would hardly have been predicted a week or two ago. Even when the 50 per cent crash in stocks was at its worst last November, panic-stricken markets and outside public were almost incredulous, but there was little of jumping at shadows and imagining weird causes. The hardest hit speculators were anxious chiefly to learn exactly what had happened. It was left for the public and markets of nearly twelve months later to be explaining the fall of prices by discovering conspiracies, political malice and unlimited power exerted by enemies of civilization. Yet the experience was not new.

When a major economic reaction occurs in this country, there are always three successive stages. Panic on the Stock Exchange comes first. Fall in prices of products follows, affecting in particular materials whose price had been driven up by speculations of dealers and producers. Agricultural distress comes third, taking the form of complete derangement for the trade and of such decline in grain and cotton prices as would, a very little while before, have seemed incredible. It is while this third stage of forced readjustment is in progress that the financial community loses control of itself.

After their customary fashion, markets have discussed this sequence of economic shocks in the present year as if no previous period of readjustment had ever witnessed them. So far is that from true, that precisely the same order of events has followed in the train of practically all great Wall Street panics. Rapidly falling markets for industrial products came into view soon after the Wall Street crash of 1920, but the period of extreme mental depression was not reached until wheat and cotton had gone in 1921 to pre-war prices, with farmers' organizations attacking the government in the West and "night riders" burning cotton in the South. Only an actual shortage in the wheat yield during 1908 prevented a similar incident that year. But the sequel to the panic of 1893 ran true to form; the Autumn of 1894, after vain hopes of trade recovery, was marked by a panic on the grain and cotton markets in which wheat went to 50 cents a bushel and cotton to 5½ cents a pound. The trading community listened credulously to the wildest imaginable rumors of the occult influences which must be responsible.

This bit of reminiscence means simply that we reached this month a perfectly familiar phase of a major economic readjustment. Last week's hysterical rumors of Russian conspiracy were duplicated, in some other form but with equally fantastic imaginings, by the markets at the corresponding period in every past episode of the kind. So was the profoundly pessimistic view of every current event with a bearing on the economic future. It was as characteristic of those previous occasions as of this, that incidents or tendencies which would ordinarily be construed as making for better things were brushed aside as negligible or irrelevant. Only the real or imaginary signals of distress attracted notice.

It is a curious picture of financial psychology; certainly not less so when the exactly opposite attitude prevailed a year ago, as extreme in its belief in impregnable prosperity as are the present predictions of incurable adversity. In 1929 even some serious Wall Street watchers of the markets were convinced, and said so openly, that the country could never possibly repeat the experiences of 1921. Today some of the same impulsive reasoners tell us that the future holds no hope even of another 1925.

Purely on general principles, so extraordinary a swing of judgment in so short a time, and when the larger influences underlying finance and industry are exactly what they were before, would justify the discrediting of both opinions. But the fact that neither history nor logic nor ordinary common sense gives any better basis for this Autumn's dark predictions than for the high-strung expectations of 1929, appears to make no impression on the mind. It will make its impression in due course, and Wall Street will look back at today's financial state of mind with as much astonishment as it now looks back at the hallucinations of 1929 or 1920.

Chain Store Stocks

Statistics show that Chain Store companies as a class are today in a much stronger position as to assets, sales and earnings than they were four years ago.

The present market prices of standard Chain Store stocks are not only much below the prices prevailing a year ago, but are also substantially below the prices prevailing in 1927.

We recommend the purchase of standard dividend-paying Chain Store Common Stocks for permanent investment,

A RECORD Unexcelled

Throughout its entire history extending back to 1882 the American electric light and power industry has gone forward in a march of progress unequalled by any other major business. Gross revenues and net earnings have from the very inception of the industry shown consistent increases year after year—a tribute to the public service rendered a progressive nation.

The universal demand for electricity, especially in the home and on the farm where it is now an urgent necessity, has built up a back-log of earning power which is particularly noticeable at this time.

We have prepared a bulletin on the Public Utility Industry, setting forth in detail some outstanding factors, copies of which are available on request.

MARKETS DISCUSSING SOVIET WHEAT PERIL

CHICAGO SALES RIDICULED

BERLIN, Sept. 26.—Experienced men on the German produce market admitted this week that the Soviet is exporting Russian grain at a loss, but they usually added that these sales have had no material effect on the world market prices. They point out the well-known fact that the fall in wheat at Chicago during the recent Russian selling was insignificant compared with the fall in the earlier part of the year, when Russia was not shipping wheat.

The cheapness and low prices asked on European markets for Russian agricultural products are largely ascribed to the fact that these products are unsorted and unstandard, which means that they will necessarily bring lower prices than exports from America and from the more advanced European countries.

London Uneasy Over "Dumping."

LONDON, Sept. 26.—The Russian wheat export campaign continued this week with unabated activity and with extremely disturbing consequences to the British grain market. It would be useless to deny the seriousness of this dumping on markets already overburdened with supplies, especially since further large wheat exports from Russia are generally reckoned on.

Thus far the Russian exports are not anywhere near pre-war volume; but the surrounding conditions have given them an exaggerated effect on the grain market, which is consequently prone to be influenced by the somewhat hysterical ideas set forth in certain sections of the press. The fact appears, however, to be undoubted that the amount of shipping which has been chartered to bring grain from Russia is unusually large and that there is as yet no evidence of any change of policy on the part of the Russian Government. This policy, it is generally agreed, is based on determination to secure funds abroad at any sacrifice. Anxiety in the wheat market therefore remains acute and no early improvement in prices is looked for.

Paris Talks of Protective Measures.

PARIS, Sept. 26.—French financial observers have followed with interest the discussions concerning "Russian wheat dumping." In line with the best American trade opinion, they consider that the unsecured sales of wheat at Chicago by Russian commissioners were perfectly regular and apparently not large enough to have really influenced the Chicago market, where deals ten times greater than the Russian sales are made daily.

Nevertheless, Paris expects that the Russian Government, which requires a large amount of foreign credits, will continue its dumping policy, and perhaps extend it to timber and petroleum. Means of defense against such policy are being studied here. The law of 1910 authorizes the French Government to raise to 100 per cent ad valorem the customs duty on goods consigned from countries which use unfriendly proceedings. But in order to put this ordinance into practice, it would be necessary to obtain certificates of origin from the importers, and this would be a great inconvenience to friendly importers.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

AMSTERDAM, Sept. 26.—Russia is believed here to be shipping unsold accumulations of its old crop, the new crop being admitted as 8 or 10 per cent above last year's. The sales have amounted to forced liquidation by Russia in view of the present needs of the Russian Government for liquid means; in addition to which, the wheat was probably pressed on the market owing to expectation of large Argentine and Australian crops around the new year.

Moscow's Own Explanation.

BERLIN, Sept. 26.—The Moscow financial publication, Ekonomitcheskaya Zhizn this week describes the London report that Russia can send out three million tons of grain before July, 1931, as absurd. It adds: "In the last business year we exported no grain at all and in the preceding year only 226,000 tons. No increase in our supply warranting expectations of three million tons of exports has taken place." The fortnightly report of the Soviet trade mission here declares plausibly that Russia is not "dumping" wheat for the purpose of conquering foreign markets, but exclusively to pay for foreign-made industrial equipment. It adds that "war against our exports is war against our imports."

The Riga papers insist that the real sufferers from Russian competition are the small Baltic States whose markets for flax, hemp and wood are being spoiled by Russia. Even Moscow editors assert that Russia will export 12,000,000 cubic meters of wood this business year as against 8,000,000 last year, and that the shipments will reach 15,000,000 a year from now.

MORE CHEERFUL VIEW TAKEN OF AUSTRALIA

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Sept. 26.—The arrival of the Australian Premier in London, and his confident statement regarding the ability of Australia to surmount its present financial difficulties, have provided on the markets a welcome antidote to the further hostile outbursts of Mr. Lang, leader of the New South Wales Labor party. The Australian Premier emphatically condemns as foolish talk of debt repudiation. He emphasizes the fact that Australia is perfectly solvent and needs only time, patience and a sounder future financial policy to overcome completely its present difficulties.

These difficulties are already on the way to being solved. During the week the 5 per cent loan of the Australian Commonwealth touched 83 in the London market. This was the lowest price in the history of that loan. But such quotations were considered by experienced bankers to be quite unjustified by the real facts of the situation. It is believed that very little actual buying would be needed to bring about substantial recovery.

ESTIMATE ON FRENCH BALANCE OF PAYMENTS

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Sept. 26.—The most complete estimate of the balance of foreign payments for and against France during 1929 is made up as follows: Credit balance includes loans of 3,100 million francs, tourist expenditure of 8,500 millions, receipt and payment of interest, 5,500 millions; surplus on reparation receipts for payment of war debts, 4,700 millions.

Debit balances are made up as follows: Excess of merchandise imports in foreign trade, 10,011 millions; savings sent abroad by foreign workingmen employed in France, 7,359 millions; sundries, 100 millions, and gold imports, 8,505 millions, from which should be deducted the Bank of France's sales of foreign exchange, which were 6,576 millions.

NO PROTEST TO SOVIET.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Sept. 26.—Notwithstanding the alleged dumping of Russian grain and other products, opinion here seems to agree that Germany must not identify herself with the Geneva protests, because this would mean harnessing Germany to the chariot of Poland and other Russian frontier States under French leadership. As a matter of fact, Germany is not suffering from Russian pressure on the wheat market in the same degree as other markets, because of the import duties, the legal compulsion to mill native wheat and the State system of supporting prices.

There is also the further motive that the Soviet trade mission to Berlin is already negotiating for a large delivery of German factory equipment and is borrowing technical advisers from Germany.

To be dated October 15th 1930; to mature October 15th 1949. Authorized and to be issued $1,900,000. Interest payable April 15th and October 15th. Coupon bonds in denomination of $1,000. Principal and interest payable in New York City at the office of Brown Brothers & Co., Fiscal Agents for the Loan, in United States gold coin without deduction for any Norwegian taxes present or future. Not redeemable until October 15th 1935 except for sinking fund. Redeemable at the option of the City as a whole at 100 and accrued interest upon 30 days' notice, but only on October 15th 1935 or any interest date thereafter. Irving Trust Company, New York, Authenticating Agent.

Sinking fund calculated to be sufficient to retire in each year, commencing October 15th 1931, $100,000 principal amount of these bonds through purchase in the market at not exceeding 100 and accrued interest or through call by lot upon 30 days' notice at 100 and accrued interest.

The following information has been received from Vilhelm Lie, Esq., Finance Burgomaster of Bergen; having been transmitted by cable, it is subject to correction:

The City of Bergen, founded in 1070, is the second largest city of Norway in size, wealth and commercial importance. Its total funded debt, after giving effect to this financing, will amount to approximately $21,172,000. Net earnings from properties owned by the City and other income, excepting taxes, amounted to over $2,412,000 during the fiscal year ended June 30th 1930, equivalent to more than 1¾ times the annual interest requirements on the City's funded debt to be outstanding on completion of this financing. The proceeds of the present issue are to be applied toward the retirement of the Twenty-five Year 6% Sinking Fund Gold Bonds due October 1st 1949 which are to be called for redemption on April 1st 1931. In the foregoing kroner amounts have been converted into dollars at par of exchange ($.268 to the krone).

The City has agreed to apply for the listing of these bonds on the New York Stock Exchange.

The foregoing is subject to the more complete information contained in our circular, copies of which may be obtained on request.

We offer these bonds when, as and if issued and received by us and subject to the approval of our counsel, Messrs. Sullivan & Cromwell, New York, and of counsel in Norway. It is expected that delivery of interim receipts of Brown Brothers & Co. or of temporary bonds will be made on or about October 20th 1930.

City of Bergen Twenty-five Year 6% Sinking Fund Gold Bonds due October 1st 1949, which are to be called for redemption on April 1st 1931, will be accepted in payment for these bonds on a 3½% discount basis to April 1st 1931.

4½% Sinking Fund Gold Bonds

(Non-Callable)

Principal and interest payable at the agency of The Bank of Montreal in New York, N.Y., in United States gold coin of the present standard of weight and fineness; also payable, at the holder's option, in Canadian gold coin in Canada in the cities of Montreal, Toronto and Winnipeg. Interest payable April 1 and October 1. Coupon bonds in denomination of $1,000, with provision for registration as to principal.

These bonds are to be direct obligations of the City of Winnipeg and are to be payable both as to principal and interest from direct taxes upon all rateable property within the municipality. The proceeds from the sale of these bonds are to be used, to provide funds for the hydro-electric system, local improvements, water works system, central steam heating system and schools.

Winnipeg, the capital of the Province of Manitoba and the fourth largest city in the Dominion of Canada, is an important financial, industrial and distributing center. Served by the transcontinental lines of both the Canadian National and Canadian Pacific railway systems and situated advantageously with respect to low-cost hydro-electric power and raw materials, Winnipeg is one of the leading commercial and industrial cities in Canada. The gross value of manufactured products for the year 1929 was in excess of $150,000,000.

We offer these bonds for delivery if, when and as issued and accepted by us, subject to approval of legal proceedings by E. G. Long, Esq., K. C., Toronto.

AUTUMN RECOVERY SLIGHT IN FRANCE

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Sept. 26.—The business recovery which usually occurs at this time of the year after the Summer holidays, has been much less noticeable. It is not shown clearly in all the current statistics. For instance, only 904 French workingmen are on the official record of unemployed, comparing with 422 a year ago, but the number of applications at State offices for employment have been 12,137, as against 9,343 in the same period last year. Railway receipts, as reported for the completed eight months amount to 10,275 million francs, as against 10,328 millions for the same period last year. But the railway revenue began to fall as compared with last year only in May.

On the markets, the recall of French funds invested in Germany has abated during the last few days. In order to support mark exchange against the franc, the German Reichsbank sent to Paris and sold to the Bank of France 500,000,000 francs of gold on Monday and Wednesday. Last week, when foreign capital began to leave Germany after the election news, the Reichsbank supported the market only by selling foreign exchange, particularly sterling.

But as a consequence sterling fell at Paris to the gold import point in franc values, and on Sept. 20 gold was taken for French account from the Bank of England itself. This week, through sending gold directly to Paris, the Reichsbank has relieved the pressure its further sales of sterling exchange might have exerted on the Bank of England situation.

Supplies on the money market continue extremely abundant and, as a consequence, credit requirements are smaller. The outside discount rate remains at 2 per cent, day money being freely offered at 1¾.

RISING IMPORT SURPLUS IN TRADE OF FRANCE

PARIS, Sept. 26.—August import of merchandise into France, valued at 4,068 million francs, compares with 4,119 million in July and with 4,348 in August of 1929. Exports were 3,108 million, compared with 3,530 million in July and 3,828 million a year ago. These changes left the month's excess of imports at 960 million francs, compared with 589 Million in July and 522 million in August of last year.

The increase in the import surplus is chiefly attributable to reduction of exports, both in weight and in value. Sales of manufactured goods for shipment were at less than any previous months or a year ago, proving the difficulty now confronting French industry to maintain foreign outlets for its products. In the eight completed months imports have decreased 4,500 million francs and exports only 3,500 million, so that the deficit for the eight months period of 5,737 million francs is less than the 6,756 million in the corresponding period of 1929.

RECOVERY VERY SLOW IN GERMAN BUSINESS

Iron Trade Is Much Depressed—Unemployment Not Increasing Very Rapidly.

BERLIN, Sept. 26.—The trade position changes little. Publicly supported unemployed workingmen increased in number during the first half of September 15,000. That, however, is a relatively small increase for that period of the year. The number drawing unemployment insurance pay actually decreased. The return of the labor unions as of Sept. 1 shows 22 per cent of membership unemployed, compared with 20.8 per cent on Aug. 1.

The home steel market continues dull, but export orders from Scandinavia and British India have increased. The pig iron market is badly depressed, with only 74 out of the 170 blast furnaces now being operated. On the other hand, certain branches of industry manufacturing goods for consumption—footwear and woolen goods in particular—report continuance of slow improvement. Political uncertainty has, however, reacted on the manufacturing industry, which has reduced its purchases of raw material to the minimum necessary for the work in hand.

NEW LOANS DOING BETTER.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Sept. 26.—The favorable condition of the market for gilt-edged securities is causing some revival in new capital flotations. The Government of Ceylon is now in the market for a loan of £1,750,000 in 4½ per cents at 95.

Public interest in the more speculative securities remains dormant. Yet the sentiment of the markets changes almost daily according to developments at home and abroad. Events in Wall Street continue to have marked influence here, while the political unsettlement in Germany is still an important factor.

LONDON BANK LOSES GOLD.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Sept. 27.—Gold taken in by the Bank of England during the past calendar week was £19,000. Withdrawals were £1,029,651, nearly all for France.

Next Tuesday £891,000 in bar gold is due to arrive in the open bullion market from South Africa.

BERLIN, Sept. 26.—Gold export from Germany to France since the German election a week ago has mounted to fully 100,000,000 marks, of which 35,000,000 appears in the Reichsbank return of Sept. 23. The statement further shows decline of 97,000,000 in legal cover exchange holdings, in addition to which there is estimated a loss of 120,000,000 in foreign exchange bills docketed as discounts.

The decrease in note circulation from 4,486 million marks on Sept. 6 to 4,033 millions on Sept. 23 indicates that a great part of the exchange purchased was sold against notes, making the bank's ratio of legal cover to circulating notes actually higher than a week ago. The Reichsbank is in a position to meet easily the largest possible demands for exchange.

Some bankers hold that, if the flight of capital were to become urgent and prolonged, the Reichsbank might be compelled to advance its discount rate. This, however, is not yet in sight.

REVENUE BELOW BUDGET.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Sept. 26.—The government's revenue from taxation as reported for the first five months of the financial year was 3,981 million marks, which is 300 million less than the period's proportionate share of the year's budget estimate. Receipts in the rest of the year will be supplemented by new taxes on mineral oil and mineral waters, also by supplementary income taxes.

The railroad corporations' receipts for the first eight months of the calendar year have fallen 480 million marks behind the same months in 1929.

BERLIN, Sept. 26.—The official wholesale price index as of Sept. 17 was 123, compared with 123.5 as of Sept. 10 and 125 on Aug. 20.

BANKS INVEST IN BONDS

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Sept. 26.—Conditions on the London money market continue to make for abnormal ease, with little prospect of any upward reaction in rates for some considerable time to come. Such return of firmer money, it is generally considered, must await definite trade revival, which at present appears to be as far off as ever.

Meanwhile, banking deposits are increasing and the supply of bills diminishing, indicating the great contraction of discount business which follows naturally on the slump in trade and in commodity prices. The current rate on the best three months' commercial bills is no higher than 2 per cent, with a still lower rate in prospect. It is not likely, however, that the Bank of England will reduce its official rate. Such action would not influence the situation one way or another.

Gold continues to flow out to France from the open market, owing to the low level of exchange; but this movement occasions no concern in view of the very satisfactory position of the Bank of England. The latest return shows outstanding note circulation £4,000,000 lower than a year ago, gold reserve nearly £25,000,000 above last year and a reserve ratio 25¼ per cent higher.

The influence of abundant bank deposits is clearly showing itself in the strong tendency of gilt-edged securities, particularly British Government loans. From time to time in recent weeks banks have been purchasing government stocks, which still give a substantial return to the large professional investor, and during the last few days bank purchases have again been large. There is at present a difference of approximately 2¼ per cent between a yield obtainable on government securities and the market rate for three months' bills.

This interesting and unusual situation is leading to the recasting of investment ideas and principles concerning the normal proportion between long-dated investments and short-dated securities which banks and other large users of credit should hold. There is a distinct tendency to shift in favor of the long-dated investments.

MORE GOLD MOVING INTO BANK OF FRANCE

PARIS, Sept. 26.—The Bank of France return last Thursday, covering the position of Sept. 19, showed further increase of 129,000,000 francs in the gold reserve. There will be a further increase next week, in reflection of gold shipped during the intervening period from Germany, and next Thursday's return should show an increase of about 600,000,000 in the bank's gold holdings.

The last week's increase of sight liabilities corresponds approximately to the increase of reserves. Circulation fell from 72,875,000,000 francs to 72,479,000,000, but government and private deposits increased from 17,364,000,000 to 17,389,000,000. The reserve ratio accordingly reaches a new high record of 52.75 per cent, as against 52.69 per cent in the previous week.

MONEY MARKET AT BERLIN.

BERLIN, Sept. 26.—What financial Berlin called the "confidence crisis" on the Boerse affected the money market, but chiefly by bringing almost to a halt the demand by investors for private discounts. The result was that the rate was advanced three times on successive days to 3⅜ per cent.

Otherwise the Berlin money market was little affected. On Thursday day loans went at 3 to 5 per cent and monthly loans at 5 to 6, which, in view of the approach of the end of September quarterly settlement, are relatively low rates.

BANKING SENTIMENT IS CALM AT BERLIN

BUT MARKETS ARE SHAKEN

German Financiers Comment That Other Investment Centres Are Less Disturbed Than Germany Itself.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Sept. 26.—Business circles have shown signs this week of taking a better-proportioned view of the political situation resulting from the radical victories at the elections. As against small withdrawals of short credits for French and Dutch account, offers of money were reported from America, England and Switzerland. Bankers and responsible financiers, commenting on this, remarked that foreign confidence in the German situation considerably exceeded that of the home market.

Even the financial uneasiness at home is considered exaggerated, since, in view of these financiers, the new Reichstag is not likely to be more unmanageable than the old one. Even if the Cabinet were to be dominated by Right extremists, it is commonly remarked that the new element in the Ministry would act more responsibly in office than in opposition.

Nevertheless, the financial situation during the present week seemed at times to be strained, with variations of the market incalculable in advance. Ever since the election the Berlin Stock Exchange has been alternating between violent declines and violent advances. The last exhibition of panicky sentiment seemed to have passed in the early part of the week, when both stocks and bonds had very large advances, yet on Thursday there was a new and rapid decline for which no visible cause appeared.

That losses on the stock market were not very severe was probably merely due to the fact that the market was already badly depressed. The Frankfurter Zeitung's index of Boerse prices shows a drop of only 2½ points in the week after election, as against a fall of 40 points since the beginning of 1929. Owing to the fact that the bond market had risen steadily since December, this month's fall in prices there has been relatively much more severe. Municipal and State loans at their lowest had lost as much as 10 points, and industrial bonds 5 or 6.

This selling of securities is ascribed in part to a desire to realize capital for shipment to other markets. The Paris estimate that the flight of capital from Berlin, since the election, has amounted to $20,000,000, is not considered exaggerated. Indeed, the balance sheets of the commercial banks indicate an outflow of capital considerably larger than this between the dissolution of the Reichstag in July and the new election. One indication that capital released from investment was being sent abroad appeared in the fact that, on all days of falling Stock Exchange prices, the demand for foreign exchange invariably increased.

SEE FEW INDICATIONS OF RECOVERY HERE

Suggestion That Markets May Be Supported for Effect on November Elections.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Sept. 26.—To financial London it is very difficult to discern any real progress toward recovery in American business or to take a more hopeful view of the outlook. There is some talk of the possibility that, with the approach of the November Congressional elections, concerted action will be taken to support the stock market.

Aggressive action in this direction, it has been suggested, might influence American business sentiment favorably. On the other hand, it is foreseen that Wall Street will then have before it very unfavorable reports of company earnings for the quarter now ending, and if the visible business conditions do not provide an encouraging offset there may be a further decline in stocks.

GERMAN LIQUIDATION ON THE PARIS BOURSE

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Sept. 26.—The Bourse was very weak at the beginning of the present week. Comparative firmness exhibited a week ago appears to have been chiefly due to banking intervention and support of prices, but last Monday, when these interventions ceased, heavy realization of securities occurred. In financial circles it is stated that some of this liquidation was for German account.

Although many Germans bought securities in Paris during the fortnight to guard against the risk of mark depreciation, on the other hand many German speculators who had bought on the Paris market during previous months, through credits granted by German banks, have been obliged to resell those securities because of calling-in of the loans by their banks—a consequence of withdrawal of funds by German bank depositors in the last fortnight.

FOREIGN VIEWS ON COTTON.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Sept. 26.—American cotton fell below sixpence a pound this week, which is the lowest price quoted on this market in fifteen years. That break has been the week's outstanding event in the cotton market; it encouraged rather than helped to dispel adverse views of the cotton market's future.

The government facts are that the spinning trade's demands are very limited and that there is again a marked lack of confidence regarding any early improvement in the world conditions, on which the whole future of the cotton trade depends.

New Index Number of Retail Trade Prepared at London

LONDON, Sept. 26.—A new index number of general trade, covering information not hitherto accessible in this form, has just been published for the first time by the British Board of Trade. It is compiled in cooperation with the Bank of England and with retail distributers throughout the country and aims at providing regular official averages reflecting conditions of retail trade. At present about 100 separate retail stores are furnishing returns of sales of goods and number of work people employed.

For the time being only the percentage changes from last year will be published. The first report is for last month and it shows that retail purchasing power was far lower than in August of last year. The total decrease in sales was 7.1 per cent, with the principal declines in articles usually classed as luxuries.

HITLERITE AGITATION AS VIEWED BY MARKETS

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

AMSTERDAM, Sept. 26.—Temporarily, financial nervousness here over the Hitlerite victories in Germany was so great as to cause a rapid break in German exchange at Amsterdam and a fall in prices for the Young loan to 74½ on Wednesday. Exchange recovered sharply, however, and the Young loan went back to 77½. Psychological effect of the German vote is not regarded as of a lasting character, as seemed to be proved by such repeated recoveries since selling pressure is over.

The attitude of the new Reichstag is the chief matter of debate in financial circles. General agreement is that Hitler's announced political program is such a mass of humbug that it can hardly win serious consideration. It is admitted that in one point the program probably appeals to German hearts—in the intimation that the Versailles Treaty may be overruled, along with the Dawes and Young plans. But it is held to be equally plain to all intelligent observers that any actual effort to apply Hitler's ideas in these directions would obviously mean for Germany entire economic isolation.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Sept. 26.—Views on the German situation vary in this market. The excited outbursts of Adolph Hitler have been disturbing to the more nervous class of investors, but in well-informed financial quarters confidence has never been really shaken. It is taken for granted that the security of the Dawes and Young loans has been in no way impaired by recent events, and reports concerning large withdrawal of foreign credit from Germany are considered as greatly exaggerated.

There has, however, been a certain influx of funds from Germany, evidence of which was distinctly provided by the sharp fluctuations in rates for German exchange in London, France and Holland. It is concluded here that American confidence in the German situation is unshaken, because much of the recent buying of German securities on this market is credited to America. It is also understood that American banks have offered practically unlimited credits to German banks in the event of an actual crisis.

FALL IN BRITISH STOCKS.

LONDON, Sept. 26.—The Financial News index number of prices for 30 industrial shares as of Sept. 25 is 77.1. It compares with 78.5 at the end of the preceding week and 72.6 a month ago, which was the present year's lowest, and with 100.6 a year ago this week.

The Bankers Magazine index of 365 representative securities as of Sept. 19 is 119.3. This compares with 118.1 a month before, with 127.3 a year ago and with last year's high record of 129.6 in January.

ARGENTINE BUSINESS IMPROVES IN MONTH

OUTLOOK FOR 1931 BRIGHT

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BUENOS AIRES, Sept. 28.—There has been a very pronounced improvement in the business situation in Argentina in the last half of September as a result of the confidence inspired by the provisional government, which assumed power following the revolution on Sept. 6. The new authorities immediately began paying the government's long-outstanding debts, which not only changed the pessimism of recent months into optimism, but had a direct beneficial effect on financial and credit conditions.

Many firms which were tied up with government bills again were able to operate. They have covered bank obligations and their investment of newly received funds in government bonds and cedulas of the National Mortgage Bank brought about a week of active trading on the Bolsa, which pushed up prices of all the principal securities. Other firms which had frozen credits with banks have found funds to cover them, with the result that the credit situation is easier. Payment of government bills has also increased bank deposits.

While the volume of business being done is not large, the improved credit situation, excellent crop conditions and the general feeling of relief and confidence make the outlook bright for next year. An American banker, whose observations in the last twelve months invariably have been confirmed by subsequent developments, expects a decided improvement in peso exchange over the next ninety days. While this should help import trade, it will mean further decrease in the already low prices of Argentine grains.

Wheat Prices Off 13 Per Cent.

The weakness which has prevailed in world grain markets during September has had a depressing effect on Argentine prices. The depreciated exchange value of the peso has kept grain prices as quoted in pesos higher than they would otherwise be, but this has not materially improved conditions. Wheat prices have fallen 13 per cent, with little expectation of improvement in the near future. Wheat shipments are expected to remain small until there are less offerings of North American wheat.

Corn prices have declined 10 per cent during the month, but corn at present is Argentina's most important crop, as a large part of the exportable surplus remains unshipped.

Week's Exports of Grain.

Wheat exports in the past week totaled 435,210 bushels, compared with 854,961 in the previous week. The total to date this year is 69,656,205 bushels, compared with 204,380,758 in the corresponding period of 1929.

Corn exports in the past week were 4,152,515 bushels, compared with 6,556,690 in the preceding week. The total since Jan. 1 is 110,448,450, compared with 145,274,932 in the corresponding period last year.

Exports of flaxseed in the past week were 227,095 bushels, compared with 552,147 in the preceding week. The total so far this year is 37,577,990, compared with 58,373,257 a year ago.

The wool season closes on Sept. 30. Exports to date are 320,336 bales, compared with 341,864 bales on the same date last year. The United States, which formerly was a heavy buyer of Argentine wool, has taken only 33,417 bales this season.

Stocks have been well cleaned up. There are only 331 tons, including new wools, on hand in Central Produce Market, compared with 1,479 tons on the same date last year.

The week's trading on the Bolsa was the most active in many months, the volume of dealings totaling 15,000,000 pesos. The government internal debt bonds increased 1 peso in price, closing at 98.70. The National Mortgage Bank's cedulas improved 60 centavos, closing at 98.60 for the latest issue. There was also an advance in nearly all corporation stocks.

Causes General Confidence.

While it is true that this heavy buying in government securities indicates a large volume of unemployed capital seeking temporary investment until general business picks up it also denotes confidence and activity, in sharp contrast with the recent depression.

The peso exchange was depressed during the week by heavy buying of dollars by the Bank of the Nation to cover interest payments of $1,600,000 in New York Wednesday. The gold peso closed yesterday at 123.90 per $100, compared with 122.30 a week ago. The paper peso accordingly declined from 36 American cents to 35. As yesterday's closing rate was only 5 cents higher than Friday's rate, this was taken to indicate that the government bank has covered its requirements.

Subscriptions having been received in excess of the amount of this offering, this advertisement appears as a matter of record only. A substantial amount of these bonds has been placed in Europe.

140,000,000 French Francs

Midi Railroad Company

(Compagnie des Chemins de Fer du Midi)

4% Bonds, Foreign Series

Dated December 1, 1930 Due December 1, 1960

Interest payable June 1 and December 1. Coupon Bonds in denomination of 1,000 French francs. To be redeemed at par by annual drawings by lot in accordance with the sinking fund table given on each bond, the Company, however, reserving the right to anticipate such redemption on any interest date on thirty days' notice. Principal and interest payable at the office of A. Iselin & Co., New York, without any withholding for French taxes, present or future.

Mr. Paul Tirard, President of the Board of Directors of the Midi Railroad Company, has summarized in part his letter to us dated September 25, 1930, a translation of such summary being as follows:

DESCRIPTION OF COMPANY—The Midi Railroad Company, organized in 1852, is one of the five large railway companies of France. Its concession expires on December 31, 1960. The Company owns and operates a railway system of 4,290 kilometers (2665 miles) consisting of a main line extending from Bordeaux on the Atlantic Ocean to Montpellier and Cette on the Mediterranean Sea, and a network of lines connecting the main line with the Spanish border.

The Company serves a rich agricultural, viticultural and industrial territory from which it obtains a well diversified traffic. The greater part of the principal lines of the Company is double tracked. Over 1,200 kilometers (745 miles) have been electrified and the Company is continuing its program of electrification.

UNDERTAKING OF FRENCH GOVERNMENT—These bonds are a direct obligation of the Midi Railroad Company ranking pari passu with all other outstanding bonds of the Company. Payment of all charges upon the bonds and shares of the Company is provided for by the operating receipts of the Company and, under the terms of the Convention between the French railroad companies and the French Government ratified by the law of October 29, 1921, by—

1. The Common Fund created by all the large French railway companies into which Fund the excess receipts of all systems are paid;
2. The payments which the French Public Treasury has undertaken to effect, if necessary, to make up any deficiency in the Fund.

PURPOSE OF ISSUE—The purpose of this issue is to provide part of the funds necessary to retire the outstanding American series 6% Bonds of the Company, due 1960, which are to be called for redemption on December 1, 1930.

These bonds are offered when, as and if issued and accepted by us and subject to the approval of our counsel, Messrs. Coudert Brothers, New York and Paris. Interim receipts of A. Iselin & Co. exchangeable for definitive bonds when received are to be delivered on December 1, 1930.

"TRUE" INCOME VALUE

As this company fully guarantees all payments of interest and principal on Continental First Mortgage Certificates, it is necessary that we be most conservative in our appraisals. Careful consideration is given to many factors, records, and conditions, to arrive at a "True" Income Value, so that Continental Guaranteed Certificates, in units as low as $100, offer extreme safety, and are legal for Trust Funds in New York State.

$3,600,000 OF BONDS OFFERED BY WINNIPEG

New Issue of 4½s Will Be Put on Market Today—$1,900,000 of 5s by Bergen, Norway.

Offering is being made today of a new issue of $3,600,000 city of Winnipeg, Man., 4½ per cent bonds, due $250,000 in 1937, priced at par; $400,000 in 1940, also priced at par; $700,000 in 1950, priced at 99½, to yield 4.54 per cent, and $2,250,000 due in 1960, priced at 99½, to yield 4.53 per cent. The issue will be marketed by a banking group comprising the Dominion Securities Corporation, the Bank of Montreal and A. E. Ames & Co., Ltd. Proceeds of this financing will be used for the city's hydro-electric system, local improvements, water works, central steam heating system and for school purposes.

A new issue of $1,900,000 city of Bergen (Norway) 5 per cent external sinking fund bonds, due Oct. 15, 1949, will be placed on the market today by Brown Brothers & Co. and Halsey, Stuart & Co., Inc. The bonds will be priced at 97, to yield more than 5.25 per cent. The issues will be callable after five years at par in amounts of $100,000 annually.

Proceeds of this financing will be applied toward the retirement of an issue of twenty-five-year 6s, due Oct. 1, 1949, which will be called for redemption on April 1, 1931. The 6s will be accepted in payment for the new 5 per cent bonds on a 3½ per cent discount basis to April 1, 1931. The funded debt of the city, after giving effect to this financing, will amount to approximately $21,172,000. Net earnings from city-owned property and other income, except taxes, amounted to $2,412,000 for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1930.

NEW MIDI BONDS OFFERED.

4 Per Cent Issue to Replace Old 6s of French Railroad.

The Midi Railroad Company of France has completed arrangements to replace its American Series 6 per cent bonds, due in 1960, with a new issue bearing interest at the rate of 4 per cent. A. Iselin & Co., who headed a syndicate that sold 300,000,000 francs of the 6 per cent bonds in 1920, are making formal offering of 140,000,000 francs of the new 4 per cent bonds, foreign series, due Dec. 1, 1960. The bankers announce that advance subscriptions exceed the amount of the offering and that a substantial portion of the issue has been placed in Europe.

The Midi 6 per cent bonds will be called for redemption on Dec. 1, 1930.

COTTON SLUMP LAID TO OUTSIDE FACTORS

TRADE BUYING CALLED GOOD

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 28.—The cotton market was marked by quite active trading here last week, and although the day-to-day fluctuations were not broad the net spread reached about 60 points, or $3 a bale. The price trend has been persistently downward, and new low prices for the week and the season were made on Friday.

Most of the factors influencing prices were events outside the market itself, such as the slump in wheat and the decline in stocks. While it may be argued that neither the one nor the other should exert any influence on cotton, the fact remains that they did, because traders looked upon the lower levels of commodities and stock values as symptomatic of the conditions prevailing in general trade.

Although the cotton market lost more than $2 a bale in the week, prices nevertheless were well sustained under the conditions. There was, for instance, good trade buying, mostly on scale-down orders, but with this demand under the market the decline from day to day was small.

Another sustaining influence was the call for spot cotton both for export and domestic consumption. Demand was good for desirable cotton from large spot traders, who found the price attractive and the carrying cost much cheapened by the low level of values. These same interests are credited with stopping the cotton tendered on October contracts, having been encouraged in their action by the price differences between the months.

The influence most counted on in the preceding week to force down prices—the total of ginnings prior to Sept. 16—did not prove the depressing factor expected. Although ginnings were larger than in the corresponding period last season, the total fell almost 200,000 bales under trade expectations and even more than that below some private estimates.

An important development in the week was the action of the market on the first notice day for October deliveries. As expected, the tenders were by no means so large as in May and July. The notices called for fewer than 7,000 bales here and for a little more than 31,000 bales in New York. These notices were cared for by large spot interests. The liquidation of the October delivery has been on a much larger scale, however, than indicated by the notices. Much of the October short interest was covered by switching to later months, accounting for the moderate total of notices on the first notice day.

Another development was seen in the large exports, which considerably exceeded those of the corresponding week last year. Exports so far this season have gone far above not only those of last season but those of the season before last.

Lower prices rather than the rapid movement of the crop to markets have been responsible for the large exports, it is held here. Foreign spinners evidently have been disposed to take advantage of the low cost of cotton in the South to replenish depleted stocks, it is said.

Activity in the domestic cotton goods market increased last week. Not only was demand better, but it is even held here that trade was larger than in months. Here again the lower prices for raw cotton are believed to have exerted a dominating influence in stimulating demand, buyers of goods having reasoned that prices are more likely to advance than to recede.

NOTICE

TO THE DEPOSITORS OF BONDS OF THE LITTLE RIVER DRAINAGE DISTRICT, DEPOSITED WITH THE BONDHOLDERS' PROTECTIVE COMMITTEE WHICH WAS CONSTITUTED BY AN AGREEMENT DATED OCTOBER 1, 1929, IN THE MATTER OF CERTAIN BONDS OF SAID DISTRICT:

Take notice that your Committee has amended the aforesaid agreement through the adoption of the following resolution:

RESOLUTION

BE IT RESOLVED that the Bondholders' Protective Agreement under which this Committee was organized, be and the same is hereby amended by adding an additional paragraph at the end of Section 6 of said agreement as follows:

"The Committee shall also have power in its discretion to purchase from time to time the interest of depositing bondholders in this trust and certificates representing such interest, and/or undeposited bonds, at such price or prices as the Committee may from time to time determine. Such price or prices, however, to be less than the par value of such undeposited bonds, and/or deposited bonds, the deposit of which is evidenced by such certificates. The Committee may make reasonable regulations governing the manner of such purchases.

"The Committee shall also have power whenever they deem it to the best interests of the depositors, to turn over to the District for cancellation, bonds so purchased, and/or bonds to the amount represented by the certificates so purchased, as the case may be.

"This amendment shall be deemed to confer additional powers upon the Committee, and shall not be construed to limit any powers already conferred by the aforesaid agreement."

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that the Committee hereby determines that said amendment herein made materially affects the rights of the bondholders, and that notice be given in the manner provided by Section 11 of said agreement.

and further take notice that a copy of said amendment has been filed with The Boatmen's National Bank of St. Louis, Missouri, Depository.

This notice is given you both by mailing written notice, and by publication in the New York Times in the City of New York; in the Chicago Daily News in the City of Chicago, and in the St. Louis Globe-Democrat in the City of St. Louis, once a week for four consecutive weeks (four insertions), the first insertion in each of said papers being on the 22nd day of September, 1930.

You will further take notice that under the terms of Section 11 of the aforesaid agreement, if you object to said amendment you may file written objection with The Boatmen's National Bank of St. Louis, Missouri, Depository, within thirty (30) days from the 22nd of September, 1930, the date aforesaid. If such objections be filed within said period by a majority in interest of the depositors, the amendment will not be effective; otherwise, it will become effective from and after the expiration of said thirty (30) days, and will become and be a part of the aforesaid agreement as fully as if the same had been originally incorporated therein.

If the amendment aforesaid shall become effective any depositor having objected thereto in the time and manner above prescribed may within thirty (30) days after such amendment shall have become effective withdraw from the above agreement as provided in the said agreement, and upon payment of his pro rata share of the expenses of the Committee.

Very truly yours,

WHEAT PRICE LEVELS LOWEST SINCE 1906

RUSSIAN REPORTS DISTURB

CHICAGO, Sept. 27.—Liquidation, with all ideas of relative value lost sight of, temporarily at least, has carried wheat prices in the United States down to the lowest figures at any time since 1906 and sent the September 1⅛ cents below the inside figure which prevailed during the business depression in 1907. Farmers in all countries have suffered, those in Canada, Argentina and Australia more severely than those in this country, as Winnipeg October closed at 70 cents on Saturday, or 4⅝ cents under Chicago September.

It is generally admitted that there is overproduction of wheat throughout the world this season, but all statistics point to a total available supply somewhat smaller than in 1928-29, when the average price of parcels in Liverpool was $1.28 a bushel. In contrast with this figure, Liverpool October closed Saturday at equal to 86¾ cents, a drop of 41¼ cents, or 31 per cent, despite the more favorable statistical position as compared with 1928-29. Kansas City September at the present time is 42 cents a bushel lower than the average of No. 2 hard Winter in 1928-29, and 50 cents a bushel below the average for 1929-30, a drop of nearly 60 per cent.

While it is felt that the price of American wheat during a good part of 1929-30 was above a world's parity, there were exports of around 150,000,000 bushels of domestic wheat, due in part to an abnormal premium prevailing for Manitobas. This season the situation is reversed and Winnipeg is at a substantial discount under Chicago, and at that seems to be having some difficulty in disposing of its grain. The trouble seems to be not so much with the price or the statistical position as the destruction of confidence on the part of buyers.

Under normal conditions the recent sales of wheat futures in Chicago by the Russian Government would hardly have had any effect, but the sensational reports which have been in evidence for more than a week following official confirmation of the sales have disrupted the markets to an extent that seemed impossible to a majority of the trade.

The grain trade is not blind to the fact that Russia, as an exporter, is a factor in the world's situation that cannot be ignored, and a few weeks ago the Secretary of Agriculture and Chairman A. A. Legge of the Federal Farm Board were stumping the West in an effort to have farmers cut down their Winter wheat acreage, holding up the spectre of Russian competition. In the 1909-13 period Russia was credited with having harvested an average crop of 758,000,000 bushels, or approximately the same amount as is said to have been obtained this year, and in 1910-14 exported an average of 165,000,000 bushels. Such a quantity is equal to about 25 per cent of importers' requirements for 1930-31, and with Russia, Canada, Argentina and Australia steadily expanding their acreage, increasing competition between Russia and other countries may be very severe.

Milling demand for cash wheat has improved, as the country movement is small, and also large sales of flour have been made to the domestic trade. Primary receipts for the week aggregated 10,972,000 bushels, compared with 12,824,000 bushels the previous week and 11,185,000 bushels last year. Shipments were 8,075,000 bushels, against 8,925,000 bushels the preceding week and 7,357,000 bushels in 1929.

As a result of the extremely heavy liquidation which took place during the past week the finish on Saturday showed net losses of 6⅜ to 7 cents from the previous week. September was 74½ to 74¾ cents, December 78 to 78¼ cents and May 84⅝ to 84⅞ cents at the last.

Action of the corn, oats and rye markets was largely a reflection of that of wheat, the liquidation which started in the latter quickly spreading to other grains. While the corn market has many friends and is regarded as being in about the strongest statistical position imaginable, owing to the extremely small crop, futures closed 6¾ to 7¼ cents lower for the week, with general selling on the way down, and many of the local longs went out of their holdings on the break. September was 82¼ to 82⅛ cents; December 78¼ to 78⅞ cents and May 81⅝ to 81⅞ cents at the close on Saturday, with the December off over 21 cents from the high point in August.

Primary receipts of corn for the week of 3,140,000 bushels, compared with 3,343,000 bushels the previous week and 5,206,000 bushels last year, while shipments were 1,696,000 bushels, against 1,962,000 bushels the preceding week and 2,051,000 bushels last year.

The action of the oats market was largely a reflection of that of corn, closing 3 to 3⅛ cents lower than the previous week, with scattered liquidation under way and all deliveries sold at a new low on the crop. September finished Saturday at 35 cents, December 36¾ to 36⅞ and May 40⅛ cents. A heavy shipping demand for the cash grain is anticipated by the trade before long as stocks in the drought area are regarded as becoming small.

Rye lost 7¼ to 9 cents for the week in sympathy with wheat, and on the much lower prices prevailing in Canada, which preclude the possibility of export business regardless of the level of domestic values. September closed Saturday at 43¾ cents, December 47⅛ cents and May 53⅛ cents.

The make of lard continues light and the cash demand fairly good, but the pessimism which prevailed in the grain markets finally spread to provisions, with the result that lard closed 80 to 90 cents and bellies 20 to 60 cents lower than the previous week. September lard was $10.80 and January $10.22 at the last, with September bellies nominally $14.

Late Corn Crop Improved.

CHICAGO, Sept. 28.—Some improvement is noted in the late corn crop, as the result of recent favorable weather, and the trade now expects that the private reports which will be given to the trade on Oct. 1 will suggest a yield of close to 2,000,000,000 bushels, which will compare with the government's figure of 1,983,000,000 bushels on Sept. 1 and with 2,614,000,000 bushels harvested last year. Owing to dry weather, the crop has advanced toward maturity at a rapid rate and within a week the bulk of the commercial crop of the country will be out of danger of frost.

CONTRACTORS PLAN TO 'CERTIFY' WORK

BUILDING LOANS WITHHELD

Incompetence among heating and piping contractors is being counteracted by a "certified heating" program, brought about by the reluctance of lenders to supply funds for building, Allan E. Beals says in the current Dow Service Daily Building Reports.

One of the reasons why smaller construction has not enjoyed the recent activity of larger building projects, Mr. Beals declares, is the belief of many lenders that considerable housecleaning is needed among general and subcontractors. The main desire, he says, is to eliminate the inadequately equipped firm or individual bidding for contracts on a price basis solely, with no consideration of their subnormal experience in meeting architects' specifications. This condition of inferior training has grown to be a serious aggravation in the heating and piping end of building operations, Mr. Beals asserts.

A recent census showed that, of the 4,000 individuals and firms set up to attempt a heating and piping installation on large and small buildings in the metropolitan area of New York, a woefully large part, according to Mr. Beals, had undertaken such work on a guesswork or rule-of-thumb basis that made the finished building on which loans had been made untenantable after the first Winter. The position of lending institutions in general for almost a year has been that, until heating and piping could be put on a bank-loan basis, bank loans would be withheld, Mr. Beals points out, adding:

"What seems like a complete solution of the problem was worked out about a month ago and is now being made operative. Under this plan the backing of city, State and national heating and piping contractors' associations would be given to the entire qualifying heating and piping fraternity, so that any one building a home, office building, factory or any other kind of a building within thirty miles of the New York City Hall could be reliably assured that at least his heating equipment would be exactly what the size and character of his building call for."

Harry Schwimmer has sold this lease to Nilebrook Apartments, Inc.

The Mele Holding Company, Inc., Alter Levin, president, leased the building at 49-51 West Sixty-sixth Street for eight years and eight months from Dec. 28, 1929, at $6,000 a year rental until Aug. 14, 1934, and $9,000 a year thereafter, in addition to all taxes and assessments. The lessees, Samuel Luger and three others, assigned this lease to the Wilbudd Garage, Inc.

The General Outdoor Advertising Company, Inc., leased to the Rhinelander Commercial Car Renting Corporation, Arthur Weisel, president, the premises at the north side of Twenty-third Street, 406 feet 5 inches east of First Avenue, fronting 74 feet 11 inches on Twenty-third Street and running through 197 feet 6 inches to the south side of Twenty-fourth Street for a frontage of 74 feet 11 inches. The lease runs from Oct. 1, 1929, to April 30, 1941, at $5,100 annual rental, in addition to all taxes and assessments. It has been assigned to Weisel Brothers for the rest of the term.

The four-story building at 329 East Seventeenth Street was leased by Frances Karger to the 329 East Seventeenth Street Corporation for five years from Oct. 1, 1930, at $5,700 a year rental. The ground floor and parlor floor were leased by the corporation to Joseph Kargen, to be used as a physician's office and residence, from Oct. 1, 1930, to Sept. 30, 1935, at $3,600 a year rental.

Helen Adele Weissman leased to the Greenmal Holding Corporation, David Malzman, president, the premises at 108 Wall Street for twenty-one years from May 1, 1929, at $6,000 a year rental, in addition to all taxes and assessments, with three twenty-one-year renewal options.

German Consul Rents in St. Moritz.

Dr. Paul Schwarz, German Consul in this city, and Mrs. Schwarz have taken a suite in the new St. Moritz Hotel, Central Park South and Sixth Avenue, which will open officially on Oct. 15 with the arrival from St. Moritz, Switzerland, of a delegation headed by Lord Mayor Carl Nater.

Will Build in Valley Stream.

The Jacksid Realty Corporation has bought from the Valley Stream Development Corporation a plot of 9,500 square feet adjoining the railroad station in Valley Stream, Nassau County, for improvement with a public garage. F. B. MacNaughton sold seven lots in Brooklyn Avenue, East Floral Park, through the Brunswick-Praver Company.

WEST SIDE PARCELS SOLD.

After an ownership of twenty-five years, the John E. Van Nostrand estate has sold the four-story dwelling at 139 West Eighty-fifth Street, between Columbus and Amsterdam Avenues. Mrs. Clara Frank, the buyer, intends to occupy. O. O. Offenberg & Co., Jacob M. Zinaman and Gaines, Van Nostrand & Morrison arranged the sale.

The Pomeranz Brothers, builders, bought a vacant plot 25 by 100 feet on the west side of Park Terrace West, about 75 feet south of West 217th Street, for improvement with a dwelling for a customer. Charles J. O'Callaghan sold the property through Joseph T. Riordan.

Sales Help Wanted—Male.

SALESMAN. REAL ESTATE.

Every man out of a job wants an opportunity to make money, and make it quick. He doesn't want to fool away his time listening to long-drawn-out talks, attending a school or reading books.

The average man has enough education to do what I want him to do, the minute he signs up with us. But you must be a real salesman with a proved record and competent to follow fresh, live, qualified newspaper leads.

This is the firm that has broken all records in the Real Estate Field this Summer. Being a salesman myself, I know exactly what you must have—top commission, good property, properly priced, easy terms, special trains, mass selling, all backed up by full and double pages of advertising in the daily newspapers almost every day. I am opening up a new development and need you immediately. Top commissions, recently increased 25 per cent, with immediate money on every sale. You will receive fullest of co-operation and assistance of competent managers. Such men as Stacey Leach and George Barton will close your sales. If you really want to make money come in and see me personally, at once.

HARRY LEVEY,
1,457 Broadway. Room 1004.

Hoover Committee to Study Proposed Transfer of U. S. Vessels to Private Interests.

DOCKENDORFF TO TESTIFY

The shipping advisory committee recently appointed by President Hoover to study the proposed sale of government ship lines to private interests and later empowered to study the entire shipping situation will have its first meeting at 10:30 A. M. today at the Shipping Board Building, 45 Broadway.

The return Friday on the Aquitania of J. E. Dockendorff, president of the Black Diamond Steamship Corporation, from a trip to Europe cleared the way for the committee, which originally planned to start work several weeks ago. The committee wanted Mr. Dockendorff as the first witness, but he had planned his European trip before the date of the committee's meeting was announced and a postponement was granted at his request. He will testify today.

Mr. Dockendorff heads the company which operates the ships of the American Diamond Line for the government and which submitted a bid for the ships when they were placed on the market. The United States Lines, also a bidder, submitted a figure double that of the operating company. The ships of the American France Line, operated for the government by the Cosmopolitan Shipping Company, also were offered for sale at the time, and the United States Lines again offered twice the price submitted by the operating company.

The Shipping Board postponed action on all bids because of the divergence of opinion as to policy among its members. One group held that the companies operating the ships should be favored though their bids were low, and every opportunity given to them to meet the bids of competitors, while the other group maintained that the high bid should be accepted in every case when the bidder is known to be responsible.

The advisory committee which will meet today is headed by Ira A. Campbell, widely known in marine legal circles. He said yesterday that the committee is prepared to go into every phase of shipping conditions that arises in the course of its investigation. Agreement on a policy regarding operators' bids for the American France and American Diamond Lines is the first problem, he said. Shipping men believe that the sale of several other government-owned lines will be governed largely on the decision of the committee in these cases.

The committee plans to continue its sessions indefinitely.

GETS SHIP TRAFFIC EXPERT.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 28.—J. A. Lombard has been appointed special representative here for the General Steamship Corporation to handle questions arising out of traffic in coffee, tea, cocoa and spices moving over the various lines of the company.

"We are handling increasing quantities of these commodities over the lines we represent between Brazil, Central America and the West Indies," Harry S. Scott, president of the company, said.

"As these are all commodities of high value warranting special attention, we feel that the addition of Mr. Lombard to our staff will be fully appreciated by the trade."

The General Steamship Corporation is reported to be the first steamship concern in the United States to engage the exclusive services of a technical expert to supervise the handling of commodities of this character.

BOY, 4, FINDS PISTOL AND KILLS CHILD

Pellegrini Raia, 8 years old, of 317 East Sixtieth Street, was shot through the head yesterday in the candy store of Dominick Caruso at 319 East Sixtieth Street by Caruso's 4-year-old son, Tony, and died early this morning in Flower Hospital.

Pelligrini, with his brother, Benedict, 10, was on his way home from the Church of Our Lady of Peace on East Sixty-second Street. His father, Dominick Raia, had given him a penny to put in the collection plate, but the boy apparently had decided to use it otherwise.

Josephine Caruso, the mother of Tony, was reaching for a piece of candy at the dictation of Pellegrini. Suddenly, as she described the scene through an interpretor, there was a noise, and, coming from behind the case, she saw Pellegrini on the floor and her son holding a revolver with both hands grasping the handle.

Mrs. Caruso at first told the police that the boy had been shot in the street and had staggered into the store. Detectives searched the store and found two pistols on a low shelf under the candy case. She changed her version of the shooting after her husband's arrest.

Detectives said there was nothing that could be done with the Caruso boy because he apparently had no knowledge of what he was doing.

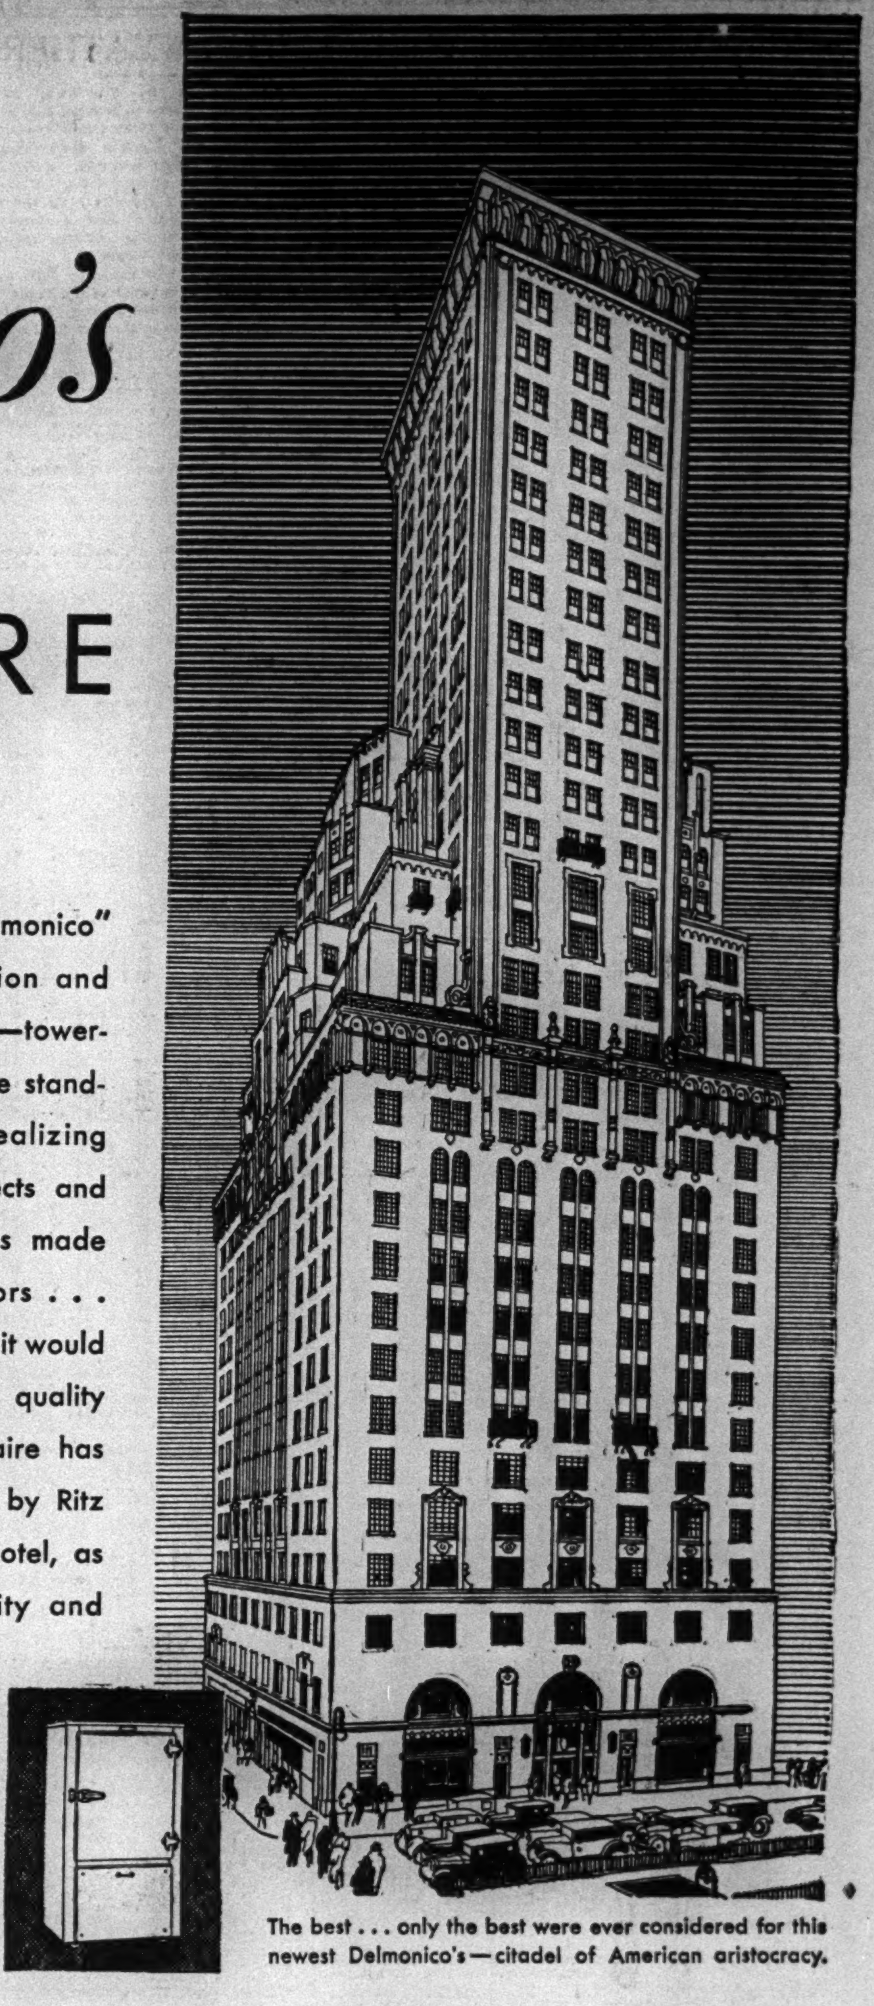
For nearly a century "highest quality" and "Delmonico" were synonymous. In the plans, construction and appointments of this glorious new Delmonico—towering many stories above Park Avenue—only one standard was considered . . . the best. ● ● ● Realizing the responsibility imposed upon them, architects and builders before making their recommendations made exhaustive tests of all automatic refrigerators . . . Frigidaire was selected because they believed it would best meet the exacting demands of this high quality service. ● ● ● When you consider that Frigidaire has been chosen not only by Delmonico, but also by Ritz Towers, the Sherry Netherland, The Barclay Hotel, as well as by hundreds of others where quality and beauty are sole factors . . . and when you further consider that this electric refrigerator costs no more, and in fact usually far less than other refrigerating systems . . . for you, too, there can be but one choice . . . Frigidaire.



The best . . . only the best were ever considered for this newest Delmonico's—citadel of American aristocracy.

Buy no desk until you have seen Skyscraper, the new desk by Shaw-Walker. You'll marvel at the downright cleverness of it. You'll revel in the rich beauty of it. You'll be amazed at the organized features of it. And you'll gladly pay the moderate price asked for it. Your people, too, will thank you for an easier and better day's work.

Every desk-interested person who saw it, whether officeworker, executive, official, or professional man, admired the way in which it solves old-time desk problems.

It has a new kind of top—smooth and glove-like. No other desk can have it.

Each drawer is organized for the worker's special convenience. One drawer is your "waste basket." Another takes a flat-type interdepartmental telephone. Others hold trays for "In," "Out" and "Pending" mail. Others, special card files, visible indexes, pencils, pads, accessories, etc.

Come see it, or send your man to our show rooms. Or mail coupon for complete information.
